Senate Resolution No. 10

Creating the Senate Legislative Process Committee and defining its powers and duties

WHEREAS, Many of the legislative proposals involve problems within the jurisdiction of more than one standing committee of the Senate, and the adequate consideration of such measures requires the cooperation of such several committees in order to avoid duplicating the work of one such committee by another, and much delay in the legislative process could be avoided if it were possible to eliminate such duplication of effort and provide a means for expediting the consideration of such measures; and

WHEREAS, There is need of a committee equipped to ascertain facts and secure facts and secure information upon assigned topics from time to time during the session, a committee acting in aid of and in collaboration with the several standing committees of the Senate; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, As follows:

1. A special committee designated the "Senate Legislative Process Committee" is hereby created and authorized and directed to take such steps as may be necessary to coordinate the work of the various standing committees of this session in considering questions before such session in order that there be no duplication of work or effort, and to make such studies as may be necessary, ascertain such facts and information, and secure such statistics for the use of the members and committees of the Senate as may be of aid to them in considering and acting upon legislative proposals at this session.

2. The committee shall consist of the same Members of the Senate as the Senate Committee on Rules, and shall have the same chairman.

3. The committee is authorized to act during this session of the Legislature, including any recess, but not after final adjournment.

4. The committee and its members shall have and exercise all of the rights, duties and powers conferred upon investigating committees and their members by the provisions of the Joint Rules of the Senate and Assembly and of the Standing Rules of the Senate as they are adopted and amended from time to time, which provisions are incorporated herein and made applicable to this committee and its members except that the members of the committee shall serve without compensation and shall not be allowed mileage.

Until the adoption of Joint Rules at this session, the Joint Rules of the last preceding regular session are incorporated herein and made applicable to this committee and its members.

5. The committee has the following additional powers and duties:

(a) To select a vice chairman from its membership.

(b) To contract with such other agencies, public or private, as it deems necessary for the rendition and affording of such services, facilities, studies and reports to the committee as will best assist it to carry out the purposes for which it is created.

(c) To cooperate with and secure the cooperation of county, city, city and county, and other local law enforcement agencies in investigating any matter within the scope of this resolution and to direct the sheriff of any county to serve subpoenas, orders and other process issued by the committee.

(d) To report its findings and recommendations to the Senate from time to time and at any time.

(e) To do any and all other things necessary or convenient to enable it fully and adequately to exercise its powers, perform its duties and accomplish the objects and purposes of this resolution.

6. The sum of one hundred thirty thousand dollars ($130,000) or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby made available from the Contingent Fund of the Senate for the expenses of the committee and its members and for any charges, expenses or claims it may incur under this resolution, to be paid from said contingent fund and disbursed, after certification by the chairman of the committee, upon warrants drawn by the State Controller upon the State Treasurer.

Resolution read.

The roll was called, and the resolution adopted by the following vote:

AYES—Senators Abshire, Berry, Breed, Brown, Byrne, Cobey, Collier, Coombs, Cunningham, Dilworth, Erhart, Gibson, Grunsky, Hulse, Ed. C. Johnson, Harold T. Johnson, Kraft, John F. McCarthy, Miller, Montgomery, Murdy, Regan, Richards, Short, Sutton, Teale, Ward, Way, Dale C. Williams, and J. Howard Williams—31.

NOES—None.

BEFORE THE STATE SENATE OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA

DONALD J. BRUCE, Contestant,

VS.

ROBERT I. MCCARTHY, also known as
ROBERT IGNATIUS MCCARTHY, Contestee.

In the matter of the election of the Senator from the Fourteenth Senatorial District of the State of California at the general election held in the City and County of San Francisco, State of California, on November 2, 1954, contestant Donald J. Bruce contests the eligibility of the said contestee to be seated as a State Senator from the said Fourteenth Senatorial District and for grounds of contesting alleges:

I.

That Donald J. Bruce, contestant herein, during all of the times herein mentioned was and still is a duly qualified elector of the City and County of San Francisco, State of California, and of the Fourteenth Senatorial District.

II.

That the name of the person whose right to the office hereafter mentioned is contested, is Robert I. McCarthy, also known as Robert Ignatius McCarthy.

III.

That the office the right to hold and fill which is hereby contested is the office of State Senator from the Fourteenth Senatorial District, City and County of San Francisco, State of California.

IV.

That the election which is involved in this contest was held on the second day of November, 1954.

V.

That the grounds and reasons for contesting the right of the said Robert I. McCarthy, also known as Robert Ignatius McCarthy, to hold the said office is set forth in Article 4, Section 4 of the Constitution of the State of California, in that the said contestee has not been a resident of the City and County of San Francisco or of the said Fourteenth Senatorial District for more than one year next preceding the said election held on November 2, 1954, and in fact the said contestee was not a resident of the said Fourteenth Senatorial District or of the said City and County of San Francisco at the time of said election, but was in fact a resident of the City of San Mateo, County of San Mateo, State of California.

VI.

This action is brought under Article 4, Section 7 of the Constitution of the State of California which gives the right to the said State Senate to judge of the qualifications, elections and returns of the members of the said Senate.

WHEREFORE, The contestant prays that it be decreed that the contestee, Robert I. McCarthy, also known as Robert Ignatius McCarthy, has no right to the said office and that the contestant, Donald J. Bruce herein, be elected to and entitled to hold said office for the term commencing on January 3, 1955, and for a period of four years thereafter.

BEFORE THE SENATE OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA
1955 REGULAR SESSION

Statement of Contest and Petition For Recount

To the honorable members of the California Senate, 1955 Regular Session, and to J. A. Beek, Secretary of the Senate of the State of California:

VERNE W. HOFFMAN, a resident of San Joaquin County, California, respectfully represents as follows:

That he was a candidate for the Republican nomination for member of the California State Senate from the Twentieth Senatorial District, San Joaquin County, California, and was duly and regularly elected as such Republican nominee at the direct primary held in June of 1954.

That ALAN SHORT was the duly elected Democratic nominee for said office, likewise elected and nominated at the said June primary of 1954.

That in the general election held November 2, 1954, according to the official canvass of votes, the said ALAN SHORT received 31,399 votes and your petitioner herein received 31,201, and the said ALAN SHORT has been certified by the County Clerk of San Joaquin County and by the Secretary of State of the State of California to have been elected to the office of State Senator from the said Twentieth Senatorial District.

That your petitioner contests the said election and respectfully requests the Senate to conduct or order to be conducted a recount of the ballots cast for the office of Senator from the Twentieth Senatorial District on the following grounds and for the following reasons:

1. That your petitioner has been the duly elected and qualified Senator from the said Twentieth Senatorial District since January 1, 1951, and, as stated above, was a candidate for re-election, and verily believes that due to irregularities in the counting of ballots, oversized precincts established contrary to the provisions of Section 571 of the Elections Code of the State of California, fatigue of members of the election board due to the large number of candidates and ballot propositions upon the ballot, all as more particularly set forth hereinafter, caused errors to be committed in the counting of the ballots for the said office of Senator from the said Twentieth Senatorial District, and that a recount of the ballots would show that your petitioner is the duly elected Senator from the said senatorial district and entitled to hold the said office for the term commencing January 1, 1955.

2. That your petitioner is informed and believes, and therefore alleges that in the County of San Joaquin it was fairly common practice for the election boards in the respective precincts to constitute themselves into separate squads and conducted more than one count of the ballots at the same time, and in particular, petitioner is informed that in connection with precincts 3-93, 3-94, 3-95, 3-97, 3-98, 3-99, 3-100, and 3-100A, two of the election boards for the said precincts established themselves in squads and had only one person reading the ballot and one person tallying; and in some of the precincts in Supervisory District 4 that when the tally so made was completed, the other tallies were added together to constitute the total vote of the said precinct. That in reference to precincts 2-62, 2-63, 2-65, 2-69, and 2-70, at least half of the board of the said precincts constituted themselves in squads and counted the ballots in separate teams, as above alleged.

3. That Section 571 of the Elections Code provides that: "Whenever any county is divided into election precincts or whenever the boundaries of established precincts are changed or new precincts created, the precinct boundaries shall be fixed in such manner that the number of voters polled in each precinct does not exceed 200, as nearly as can be estimated." That in the year 1954 36 election precincts in the County of San Joaquin, a list of which is attached hereto marked Exhibit "A" and incorporated herein, were so constituted that the number of voters polled exceeded 200, ranging from 201 to 306, and that by reason of the length of the ballot and the large number of votes cast in the said precincts, and by reason of the fact that some of the precinct boards divided themselves into squads and conducted more than one count of ballots at the same time, the likelihood of error having been made is great, and petitioner believes that errors were made which would change the result of the official vote cast in said election.

4. That in the said election held on November 2, 1954, there were a total of 65,846 votes cast in San Joaquin County; that upon the ballot required to be counted by the election boards were candidates for the offices of Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Attorney General, Secretary of State, State Treasurer, State Controller, Superintendent of Public Instruction, United States Senator, United States Representative for the Eleventh District, State Senator, State Assemblymen, Member of the Board of Equalization Second District, two Associate Justices of the Supreme Court of the State of California, Presiding Justice and one Associate Justice of the Third District Court of Appeal, and in addition thereto there were 20 ballot propositions upon which votes were cast.

That by reason of the large number of votes cast in numerous precincts, the length of ballot and number of offices and ballot propositions upon which votes were cast, many of the election boards were required to work far into the night and early morning hours of November 3d and suffered great fatigue which lowered their efficiency and made them liable to make error, and petitioner is informed and believes that errors were actually made in the count of the votes for Senator in the Twentieth Senatorial District. That in at least one of the said election precincts, to wit, T-14, wherein 267 votes were cast, the election board did not complete the tally until approximately 10.30 a.m. on the morning of November 3d, and your petitioner has been informed by one of the precinct board members that she was so fatigued that she could not hear the name of the candidate called by the person reading the ballots, and frequently was necessary that the name of the candidate be called by an observer and the position of the tally of said vote indicated on the tally sheet, and in all probability errors were made in the tally of the votes cast for the office of Senator from the Twentieth Senatorial District. That in truth and in fact, in the said precinct there was a total vote of 267, and the official canvass shows that your petitioner received 127 votes and ALAN SHORT 141 votes, or a total of 268.

5. That in precinct 3-10b, there was a total vote of 162 cast, and the official tally shows that your petitioner received 54 votes, ALAN SHORT 109 votes, or a total of 163. That in precinct L-24, the total vote cast was 157, and the official canvass showed that your petitioner received 140 votes, ALAN SHORT 23 votes, or a total of 163. That in the official canvass of the ballots, the said errors were not observed and in these three precincts the total tallied vote exceeded the total vote cast by 8 in number, conclusive proof that error was made.

6. That in 1954 41 new precincts were established in the County of San Joaquin, and in many of said precincts the election boards were totally inexperienced in the conduct of elections and counting of ballots, and in others there were only one or two of the board who had had previous experience, and due to the inexperience of the said election boards your petitioner believes that errors may have been made in the counting and tallying of the vote cast for Senator in the Twentieth Senatorial District.

7. That Section 7014 of the Elections Code provides: "No election officers shall make any tally of votes in any other manner than is provided in this article, nor in any other place than the tally lists provided for that purpose," and as shown above, where the election boards divided themselves into squads, the tally was not conducted in accordance with the provisions of the said Elections Code.

That Section 7016 of the Elections Code provides: "One election officer shall read from the ballots. As the ballots are read, at least one other election officer shall sit beside him and keep watch of each vote thereon, to help keep a check on any possible illegal vote or on any error or omission on the part of the officer reading or calling the ballot," and your petitioner is informed that in many of the precincts in San Joaquin County the provisions of this section were not followed by the election boards.

8. That your petitioner verily believes that by reason of the illegal procedures alleged herein, the errors demonstrated to have been made in at least three of the precincts, the large number of ballots cast and the large number of officers and ballot measures for which votes had to be counted, and the likelihood of error resulting therefrom, a recount of the ballots should be had and that such recount would demonstrate and prove that your petitioner was duly elected as the Senator from the said Twentieth Senatorial District.

9. That your petitioner makes no accusation against ALAN SHORT and desires to make it perfectly clear that he does not think or believe that the said ALAN SHORT was connected with or responsible in anywise for the errors which were made and tallied, but that the said errors resulted from the inexperience of election boards, the large number of votes to be counted, and the resulting fatigue of the election board members, the illegal manner of counting as above alleged. Your petitioner further wants it fully understood that he is making no accusation against the Registrar of Voters of said San Joaquin County or the official canvass board, or the County Clerk, and believes that they endeavored to and did conduct the election to the best of their abilities, and that the errors in the counting which occurred were due to the procedures and factors alleged above.

WHEREFORE, Your petitioner prays the honorable Senate of the State of California for the 1955 Regular Session that it order a recount of the ballots cast for the office of Senator in the Twentieth Senatorial District, County of San Joaquin, State of California, and that if such recount shows that your petitioner received more votes than his opponent, your petitioner be declared elected to the office of Senator from the Twentieth Senatorial District and that your petitioner be treated as a member of the California Senate from said district, and that this petition be referred to a duly and regularly constituted committee of the Senate of the State of California.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, }
COUNTY OF SACRAMENTO } ss.

VERNE W. HOFFMAN, Petitioner

VERNE W. HOFFMAN, being first duly sworn, deposes and says:

That he is the petitioner in the above-entitled matter; that he has read the foregoing Statement of Contest and Petition for Recount and knows the contents thereof; that the same is true of his own knowledge except as to the matters therein stated on his information or belief, and as to those matters that he believes it to be true.

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolution was offered:

By Senators Miller, J. Howard Williams, Harold T. Johnson, Collier, and John F. McCarthy:

Senate Resolution No. 11

Relative to the Creation of the Senate Special Committee on Governmental Administration

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, As follows:

1. The Senate Special Committee on Governmental Administration is hereby created and authorized and directed to ascertain, study and analyze all facts relating to any department or agency of state or local government in California, including (but not limited to) its organization, functions, personnel, and administration; the evaluation of all phases of its program and the relations of such agencies or departments to newspapers, radio, and television in carrying out such program; the status of cities, counties, and public districts as owners and operators of facilities and properties used by them in the service of their inhabitants and the civil rights, duties, privileges, and responsibilities of such cities, counties and districts toward their inhabitants and toward other persons and public agencies, growing out of, or in any way related to, their acquisition, ownership, operation or management of such facilities and properties wherever situate; and (including but not limited to) the operation, effect, and administration, enforcement and needed revision of any and all laws in any way bearing upon or relating to the subject of this resolution, and to report thereon to the Senate, including in the reports its recommendations for appropriate legislation.

2. The committee shall consist of five Members of the Senate appointed by the Committee on Rules thereof. Vacancies occurring in the membership of the committee shall be filled by the appointing power.

3. The committee is authorized to act during this session of the Legislature, including any recess, and after final adjournment until the commencement of the 1957 Regular Session, with authority to file its final report not later than the tenth legislative day after the constitutional recess of that session.

4. The committee and its members shall have and exercise all of the rights, duties and powers conferred upon investigating committees and their members by the provisions of the Joint Rules of the Senate and Assembly and of the Standing Rules of the Senate as they are adopted and amended from time to time at this session, which provisions are incorporated herein and made applicable to this committee and its members.

5. The committee has the following additional powers and duties:

(a) To select a chairman and a vice chairman from its membership.
(b) To contract with such other agencies, public or private, as it deems necessary for the rendition and affording of such services, facilities, studies and reports to the committee as will best assist it to carry out the purposes for which it is created.

(c) To cooperate with and secure the cooperation of county, city, city and county, and other local law enforcement agencies in investigating any matter within the scope of this resolution and to direct the sheriff of any county to serve subpoenas, orders and other process issued by the committee.

(d) To report its findings and recommendations to the Legislature and to the people from time to time and at any time, not later than herein provided.

(e) To do any and all other things necessary or convenient to enable it fully and adequately to exercise its powers, perform its duties, and accomplish the objects and purposes of this resolution.

(f) The committee and each subcommittee thereof is authorized to leave the State of California in the performance of its duties.

6. The sum of thirty-five thousand dollars ($35,000) or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby made available from the Contingent Fund of the Senate for expenses of the committee and its members and for any charges, expenses or claims it may incur under this resolution, to be paid from the said contingent fund and disbursed, after certification by the chairman of the committee, upon warrants drawn by the State Controller upon the State Treasurer.

Resolution read, and referred to Committee on Rules.

MESSAGES FROM THE ASSEMBLY

At 1.35 p.m., the following Assemblymen, Messrs. McGee, Dahl, and Levering, appeared at the bar of the Senate and invited the Senators to attend the Joint Meeting in the Assembly Chambers.

RECESS

At 1.36 p.m., on motion of Senator Ward, the Senate recessed to meet with the Assembly in joint session.

IN JOINT CONVENTION

ASSEMBLY CHAMBER, SACRAMENTO

Monday, January 3, 1955

At 1.40 p.m. the Senate and the Assembly met in Joint Convention. Hon. L. H. Lincoln, Speaker of the Assembly, presiding.

Arthur A. Ohnimus, Chief Clerk, at the desk.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Speaker L. H. Lincoln announced the presence in the Assembly Chamber of the Honorable Clarence C. Ward, President pro Tempore of the Senate, and invited him to the rostrum.

SENATE ROLL CALL

Senator Clarence C. Ward, President pro Tempore of the Senate, directed the Secretary of the Senate to call the roll of Senators.

The roll was called and the following answered to their names:

Senators Abshire, Berry, Breed, Brown, Burns, Busch, Byrne, Cobey, Collier, Coombs, Cunningham, Desmond, Dilworth, Donnelly, Dorsey, Erhart, Gibson, Grunsky, Hulse, Ed. C. Johnson, Harold T. Johnson, Kraft, McBride, John F. McCarthy, Robert I. McCarthy, Miller, Montgomery, Murdy, Parkman, Regan, Richards, Short, Sutton, Teale, Thompson, Ward, Way, Dale C. Williams, and J. Howard Williams—39.

The President pro Tempore declared a quorum of the Senate present.

ASSEMBLY ROLL CALL

Hon. L. H. Lincoln, Speaker of the Assembly, directed the Chief Clerk to call the roll of Assemblymen.

The roll was called, and the following answered to their names:

Allen, Backstrand, Beaver, Bee, Belotti, Bonelli, Bradley, Brady, Brown, Burke, Caldecott, Casey, Chapel, Clarke, Collier, Conrad, Coolidge, Cunningham, Dahl, Davis, Dickey, Dills, Dolwig, Donahoe, Donald D. Doyle, Thomas J. Doyle, Elliott, Erwin, Fleury, Gaffney, Ernest R. Geddes, Samuel R. Geddes, Grant, Hansen, Hawkins, Hegland, Henderson, Hobbie, Holmes, Johnson, Kelly, Kilpatrick, Klocksiem, Lanterman, Levering, Lincoln, Lindsay, Lowrey, Luckel, Lyon, Maloney, Marsh, Masterson, McCollister, McFall, McGee, McMillan, Meyers, Miller, Morris, Munnell, Nielsen, Nisbet, O'Connell, Pattee, Patterson, Porter, Rees, Rumford, Sankary, Schrade, Shell, Smith, Stanley, Stewart, Thomas, Unruh, Weinberger, and Wilson—79.

The Speaker declared a quorum of the Assembly present.

APPOINTMENT OF COMMITTEES ON ESCORT

Hon. Clarence C. Ward, President pro Tempore of the Senate, announced the appointment of Senators Hulse, Parkman, and Gibson as the Special Committee to escort Hon. Harold J. Powers, Lieutenant Governor-elect of the State of California, to the bar of the Assembly.

Hon. L. H. Lincoln, Speaker of the Assembly, announced the appointment of Messrs. Chapel, Donald D. Doyle, Dills, Munnell, and Pattee as the Special Committee to escort His Excellency, Hon. Goodwin J. Knight, Governor-elect of the State of California to the bar of the Assembly.

INVOCATION

Invocation was offered by Rev. William C. Pearson, Chaplain of the Assembly.

REPORT OF COMMITTEES ON ESCORT

The Committees on Escort, appointed to wait upon the Governor-elect and the Lieutenant Governor-elect and escort them to the Joint Convention, appeared at the bar of the Assembly, and announced the presence of His Excellency, Hon. Goodwin J. Knight, Governor-elect of the State of California and Hon. Harold J. Powers, Lieutenant Governor-elect of the State of California.

OATH OF OFFICE ADMINISTERED TO GOVERNOR

Upon arriving at the bar of the Assembly, Governor-elect Hon. Goodwin J. Knight took and subscribed to the constitutional oath of office as set forth in Article XX, Section 3 of the Constitution of the State of California, administered by the Honorable Phil S. Gibson, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court.

OATH OF OFFICE ADMINISTERED TO LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR

Lieutenant Governor-elect Harold J. Powers then took and subscribed to the constitutional oath of office as set forth in Article XX, Section 3 of the Constitution of the State of California, administered by the Honorable Jesse W. Carter, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court.

PRESENTATION OF THE GOVERNOR

Hon. Clarence C. Ward, President pro Tempore of the Senate, then presented Governor Knight to the Joint Convention.

ADDRESS BY THE GOVERNOR

Mr. Speaker, Lieutenant-Governor Powers, Mr. President pro Tempore, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore, Mr. Chief Justice, Members of the Legislature, and my fellow Californians:

I bid you all a warm welcome to our Capitol City for the 1955 Session of the Legislature, and I extend the season's greetings to all of you. In accordance with the Constitution of the State of California, I report to you on the condition of our State. California has completed a prosperous year and the outlook for the forthcoming year is an even more encouraging one than it was 12 months ago.

As I begin my duties for the four-year term of office to which I have recently been elected, I also feel it is appropriate for me to re-state some of the general policies which will govern my administration.

We will be confronted at this session of the Legislature with many problems of vital concern to the people of California. I solicit your cooperation and assistance in their solution and I pledge that you shall have mine. I believe that my nearly eight years of experience with the legislative branch of our State Government has given me a comprehensive understanding of the responsibilities, traditions, and procedure of the Legislature. This background will be helpful to me in performing my duties as the Chief Administrator of the State of California. With your help I will be able to administer the State's affairs so that California may keep apace with the constantly growing requirements of our State.

I propose to deal directly and vigorously with the task which confronts us.

I stand firm on the premise that economy in our State Government is an essential ingredient in the conduct of its affairs. Costs of operation should be restricted as far as is consistent with the public welfare. But economy, solely for economy's sake, should not be practiced at the sacrifice of important services required by the public, provided our purse can afford them without undue economic burdens being imposed on selected segments of our citizens.

I am a staunch proponent of the fundamental American principle of "private enterprise." This system has made the United States the greatest Nation on earth. It has brought our people more of the finer things in life than are enjoyed by any other people in the world. Through it, we have been able, time and time again, to defeat enemies who have sought to overpower and to enslave us. There is no conflict between the principle of "private enterprise," and the theory of government that people, working together through their state, can best serve their proper collective purposes. They go hand-in-hand in our American way of life. One supports, encourages, and enhances the other.

I believe in maintaining our State Government at the highest possible point of efficiency. I am committed to the elimination of useless duplication of effort and unnecessary expense wherever they may be found. This policy has been carefully and closely followed thus far during my tenure as your Governor, and improved efficiency has been effected in many areas under my jurisdiction. I shall continue to review administrative and procedural policies with the object of achieving even greater efficiency, economy, and stability. Every effort will be made by the State's administrative officers to simplify procedures in carrying out their respective responsibilities.

Governmental procedures tend to become more complex and more burdensome if allowed to develop unguided. Constant review is essential in keeping them simple and in preventing the development of unnecessary routine and resultant rising costs.

Several of the larger departments of our State Government, by careful review of their methods, by eliminating unnecessary functions and particularly by changes in procedure permitting higher efficiency, have effected savings of hundreds of thousands of dollars.

I shall encourage the other departments to accomplish comparable increases in efficiency and proficiency, by similar means, and without reducing the quality or quantity of their appointed services to the people.

GENERAL PROGRESS

The soundness of California's broad-based economy is attested by the manner in which this State has adapted itself to successive business readjustments. The grand total income of our people was higher last year than it has been in any year in our history. From wages and salaries, interest, dividends and other sources, the people of California received well over 25 billion dollars during 1953.

The continuing rapid growth of our State is additional evidence of our economic and social health. Not only have we attracted several hundred thousand new residents each year but we are raising larger families, healthier families, and, I hope, happier, more contented families. Indeed, it is in this tremendously rich resource that we find one of our most pressing problems. We face a great need for the services of government in all fields. With a larger school enrollment, the requirements for school support are rising sharply. Growth is increasingly important in our planning for educational facilities, institutions and all of the other physical requirements of government. I shall deal with these matters explicitly and submit specific recommendations to you in my Budget Message. In passing, however, I emphasize that our financial problems arise not from deterioration and decline, but from vigorous growth and sound development.

AGRICULTURE

It is consistently our purpose to exert every effort to aid our agricultural industry in achieving its soundest possible position through research, educational, regulatory and service activities. No other state has such a well-rounded program for agricultural assistance as California offers through its state agencies.

Our population increase has resulted in greater consumer demand for our many and varied crops and other agricultural products. Consumption here at home increases as our population grows, reducing costly marketing charges in moving our farm surplus to more distant outlets in other states.

During the past year two serious insect pest situations have developed, one involving the Khapra beetle, a serious pest of stored grain and certain other products, and the other involving the Mexican fruit fly, which threatens our citrus and deciduous fruit industries.

The Khapra beetle has been found in nine counties of California and the Mexican fruit fly has been found along the Mexican border. The California Department of Agriculture, in cooperation with the counties, the Federal government, and other State agencies, is taking prompt preventive action.

Both of these pests will require extensive control programs, and it will undoubtedly become necessary to provide funds for such campaigns. A more detailed presentation of these and related problems will be made later.

STATE BUILDING CONSTRUCTION PROGRAM

In my budget message last year I discussed the need for sound, long-term planning in our efforts to provide the facilities required by the inescapable expansion of our state colleges and university, mental hospitals, correctional institutions, and other activities of government. Too long we have relied on the hope that once we had caught up with our needs, we could keep abreast without strenuous effort. Our continued growth makes this easy solution impossible. We must now plan not only for next year, but for many years ahead.

Last May I appointed, in accordance with a resolution of the Senate, a seven-member committee of key state officials and charged them with responsibility for preparing a balanced long range building program. In the course of its study, this committee and its technical advisors made estimates of our capital outlay needs for the next 10 years. The committee has prepared a comprehensive construction program covering the period 1955-60. I have drawn up recommendations for the projects to be undertaken immediately, and also a major financing program which will not impose undue burden or hardship upon our taxpayers. These recommendations will be contained in my forthcoming budget message. One of the main features of this study, basic in its conception, is the principle that the users of state buildings and equipment during their lifetime should share in the capital cost, as well as the taxpayers of this day and this period in California life.

EDUCATION

One of our most important and pressing tasks lies in the field of education. The heavy increase in birth rate, which began about 20 years ago, along with our general growth in population, has resulted in a phenomenal rise in the number of children in our public schools and will cause greatly expanded annual enrollments in our university and state colleges. The rate of increase in our college population will be more than three times that of the total population. The future welfare of our State is concerned with adequate planning to meet the educational needs of these young people. We must train more teachers to staff our schools and colleges, we must expand our college and university facilities, and we must have continuing comprehensive examination of the entire educational program to see that it keeps pace with the dynamic developments of the day.

In my budget, provision will be made for anticipated enrollment increases, and for a program of construction to provide more classrooms and other facilities needed for even still greater enrollments.

Los Angeles County faces an acute situation because college facilities have not kept pace with population growth, and immediate steps are being taken to meet this problem. The Public Works Board has recently selected two sites for new state college campuses in Los Angeles, and we are proceeding with plans for construction of these two campuses.

A committee of recognized authorities in the field, under the joint supervision of the Regents of the University of California and the State Board of Education, is making a comprehensive study of the needs of higher education in this State. This committee will, I am sure, give further guidance toward improvements in our educational system, and recommend means by which we can meet the needs of the growing number of young people seeking advanced learning.

AIR POLLUTION

Air pollution in California is a perplexing health and economic problem of vast magnitude.

The once sunny skies of some of our more heavily populated sections are often obscured by a recurring aerial scum which not only distresses people but represents a potentially serious health hazard. Our State's continued industrial development, as well as its attractiveness for living, may well depend upon our finding a solution to this situation—an effective and rapid solution. Jobs for a great many of our people, and the health of a large segment of our population, may be at stake.

Last October, when Los Angeles suffered one of the greatest smog attacks in its history, I immediately set wheels in motion to assist in developing answers to this community crisis. I then allocated $100,000 from the State's Emergency Fund to the Department of Public Health for an investigation into the health aspects of air pollution. I also allocated $50,000 from the Emergency Fund to the University of California to finance several special projects on the causes and effects of smog.

The Department of Public Health is engaged in a six-point study of the nature, sources and the extent of air pollution, and its effects on health and environment. This study is state-wide in scope and I recommend to you that it be continued. The study includes air pollution's cumulative effect over a long period of exposure, as well as its immediate effects. Measurement activities are being conducted in sections of the State that have not received this attention heretofore, principally the San Diego and San Francisco Bay areas. Our Public Health Department is working closely with the University of California, the California Institute of Technology, the Stanford Research Institute, the Los Angeles County Air Pollution Control District, and other public and private agencies engaged in working out solutions to the vexing smog situation.

The Department of Engineering of the University of California has begun intensive development work on automobile muffler design, incinerator design, microwave surveillance and internal space air conditioning. Equipment such as wave guide tubes, crystal mounts, klystrons, frequency flanges, microwave tubes, meters and thermo precipitators have been assembled for evaluating microwave methods as a means of determining the composition, the formation and the location of smog. Facilities are being developed for accumulating and analyzing automotive exhaust to evaluate systems for removing atmospheric pollutants from internal combustion engines. Glass incinerators are being fabricated for use in a basic study of trash burning with the object of increasing the effectiveness of the combustion process. Experts in the field of atmospheric diffusion processes are planning a series of model tests to determine the amount of energy required to penetrate an atmospheric inversion.

The university is scheduled to make its initial report on February 1, the Department of Public Health will report on March 1, and the information contained in these reports will be available for legislative consideration.

We shall do everything humanly possible to meet this challenge to our ingenuity and I am convinced we will be successful so long as we recognize that it is a problem to be solved by engineering and scientific endeavors and not by political sound and fury.

WATER PROBLEMS

The careful conservation and development of our water resources is of paramount importance to the people of our State.

We can anticipate the construction in the near future of two mammoth projects which will insure extensive additional supplies of water and power for our expanding population. These are the Feather River Project and the Trinity River Project. The Feather River Project is a major unit of our long-range California water plan and will be financed, constructed, and operated by the State of California. The State Engineer will present a report to this session of the Legislature which will contain a step-by-step construction program for the project, a schedule of deliveries from the project, an estimate of the funds which will be required for construction, and suggested means of financing. When this report is presented to the Legislature, we will have ended the era of planning on the Feather River Project and we will have entered the era of financing and construction. There is immediate need for the project. I urgently recommend that the Legislature take immediate steps to determine the proper and most effective means of raising the funds necessary for construction—for without affirmative action, the project will remain only a grandiose dream. I am hopeful that you will act expeditiously so that right-of-way acquisition can begin without delay and that initial phases of construction may be under way by this time a year hence.

The Trinity River Project is now being planned by the Federal Government. California has informed the Secretary of the Interior that the project is feasible from an economic and an engineering standpoint and should be constructed at the earliest possible date. I recommend that this session of the Legislature approve a joint resolution urging the Congress to begin consideration of this construction project, including all of its power facilities, at the earliest possible date.

Studies have been made by both state and federal agencies on the San Luis Project on the west side of the San Joaquin Valley. This project could utilize surplus waters obtained from either the Trinity River or Feather River Projects. There are conflicting views on whether the San Luis Project should be a part of one or the other. My view is that we should endeavor to include the San Luis development in whichever project will be finished first.

I oppose the state purchase of the Central Valley Project at this time. The United States Government has indicated that it has no interest in selling the project. We have greater and more immediate needs for construction of the Feather River Project, the Trinity River Project and other necessary state water and power developments on which we can use the several hundred million dollars which the Central Valley Project would undoubtedly cost.

COORDINATING WATER RESOURCES AGENCIES

Many efforts have been made to create a single, coordinated water resources department in our State Government. Conflicting interests have delayed approval of the creation of a department of this type. A dozen departments, commissions, boards and other agencies are now engaged in one or more phases of our water resources activities, and an equal number are indirectly involved. The functions of the various agencies lack effective over-all continuity of policy. If the Legislature acts affirmatively on the creation of a single water resources department, in which conflicting interests have been satisfactorily resolved, I will support and approve that legislation.

We must be certain, however, that essential safeguards of existing law are included in any legislation establishing a new water resources department.

HIGHWAY FINANCING

On June 30, 1955, unless affirmative action is taken by the Legislature, the tax on motor vehicle fuel will drop from six cents per gallon to 5½ cents per gallon. Other highway user taxes will drop approximately one-third. I am firmly of the opinion that urgency legislation should be enacted continuing highway user taxes at the present level in order that we may continue maximum highway construction in the interests of the motoring public and in providing maximum safety features for our people.

Because of the widespread support which exists for such a policy, I have asked that the budget of the Division of Highways for the 1955-56 Fiscal Year be prepared on the assumption that the present tax rates will continue after June 30, 1955. In the event that the Legislature does not provide for continuance of highway user taxes at the present rates, it will be necessary to eliminate approximately $25,000,000 in projects now included in the 1955-56 highway program.

MENTAL HYGIENE AND HEALTH

In recent years we have become increasingly aware of the fact that mental illness among our people, while serious, is not hopeless. Gradually through education and actual experience the public is losing much of its former prejudicial and superstitious attitudes and is becoming interested in learning more about the causes of mental and emotional illnesses and mental handicaps.

California has devoted a generous share of its resources toward the care and treatment of the mentally ill and the mentally handicapped and will continue to take advantage of new and accepted treatments and techniques, so that the mentally ill and mentally handicapped will return to their homes at the earliest possible time. However, we know that mere application of the knowledge we have already attained is not sufficient. Building new buildings—as necessary as they may be—cannot be accepted as the final answer. We must intensify our research, education and training programs. In order to combat this ever-increasing danger successfully we must learn more about the causes of the illnesses and handicaps and how to prevent their occurrence.

OUR CORRECTIONAL PROGRAM

Our phenomenal increase in population and a still more rapid increase in crime rates place an unprecedented burden upon our correctional facilities. Herein lies a tremendous challenge to our vision and ability to meet this test with wisdom, humanity, and efficiency. California points with justifiable pride to the fact that this State has not experienced the disastrous prison riots and disturbances which have plagued many of our sister states during the past few years. I do not believe that the absence of such disturbances in California is a mere accident. It is the result of careful planning, good personnel, and sound leadership.

Excessive overcrowding in penal and correctional institutions has been accepted for many years as one of the unfortunate conditions which may cause prisons to contribute to criminal behavior, rather than to cure and prevent it. By building adequate prisons, by providing effective rehabilitation programs, we shall seek in every scientific and sensible way to improve our correctional system standards. We believe in restoring human beings, not in exacting futile revenge for society.

NARCOTICS

During the special session held in March of 1954, the Legislature approved increased penalties for those who traffic illegally in narcotics.

Punitive measures are a step in the right direction, but it is the certainty of punishment more than the degree of punishment, that aids in curbing antisocial practices.

NARCOTICS

Since meeting last with you, I have endeavored to strike at this social evil and its operations in one of our tender spots. This is the peddling of narcotics on our high school, junior college, and university grounds, and among our young men and women wherever they gather. The prospect of increased use of drugs or narcotics by young people is frightening to contemplate. During the past few months I have held two conferences with youth leaders of the San Francisco Bay area and Northern California. The hundreds of youngsters who attended these conferences have undertaken the civic responsibility of educating their fellow students on the dangers of experimenting with drugs and narcotics. Additional conferences of this nature will be held in the near future in Central and Southern California.

I ask the close cooperation of all agencies in our State Government in the effort to control this threatening social problem.

HIGHWAY SAFETY

The California Highway Patrol, guardian of our vast network of traffic lanes, needs additional manpower without delay. Beat coverage, fixed post duty, traffic control, scale operation, and other duties, along with our vast highway mileage, our increasing population, our mounting vehicle registration, and other factors, impel me to urge the Legislature to increase the personnel of this Department so that it may meet its responsibilities in a more adequate manner.

Economic and humanitarian aspects of the situation also must be considered. Stricter traffic control through greater enforcement activities results in a proportionate reduction in deaths, personal injuries, and property losses. Providing a substantial number of additional traffic officers will assist materially in reducing the tragic carnage on the highways of the State of California.

FISH AND GAME

The number of licensed hunters and fishermen in California is increasing at a faster rate than our population. Today the fish and game program is producing more fish for the streams and more wild life for the field than at any time in our history, but the mounting human pressures on these resources pose serious problems which demand immediate relief. We need more wardens and patrol captains to protect fish and game against the poacher and law violator.

I recommend the allocation of $2,500,000 on a continuing basis from the state revenue from pari-mutuel horse racing funds for this program. This proposal is consistent with previous legislative actions which made $12,000,000 available from these funds for fish and game purposes during the past six years. I am opposed to any increase in fishing or hunting fees at this time.

Another problem is the fact that many of our best fish and game areas, including much ocean beach frontage, are not available to our 1,800,000 licensed sportsmen, because they are not accessible to the public. I urge the construction of a suitable number of access roads and trails which will open up vast new areas for hunting and fishing in California. These roads and trails would provide unlimited new opportunities for outdoor sportsmen and for family recreation, and at the same time permit wise use of the fish and wild life which are not being harvested efficiently at this time.

The continuing decline of our ocean fisheries is also of keen concern to all informed persons. In 1953, the landings of commercial fish in California slumped to the lowest ebb in 22 years. Common sense and our financial interests dictate that an ocean fisheries management program should be established with special emphasis on study and management of sardines, mackerel and anchovies. The existing condition of this commercial fishing crop demands decisive action on our part without further delay.

With more intensive use of the State's water resources for an increasing variety of purposes, the danger of pollution of our streams becomes a highly important matter, and one worthy of your close attention.

CREATION OF AN ADVISORY COUNCIL ON AGING

We are now facing a social question of rapidly increasing importance in the steadily growing number of older people in our population. In California each year we have a net increase of almost 40,000 in the number of people 65 years of age and over. This is due, in the main, to the efforts and achievements of science which is gradually extending the human life span, and pushing back the barriers of age.

We are already aware of the cost of maintaining our senior citizens in some degree of economic security. However, there are other costs which are not generally recognized. Because of involuntary idleness and the lack of activity programs for them, the state and local governments are paying out large sums of money each year for mental and physical care for older persons.

I urge the Legislature to establish a Citizens Advisory Council on Aging, the members to be appointed by the Governor. Such a council should serve in an advisory capacity to the Legislature, to the Governor, and to our existing Interdepartmental Coordinating Committee on Aging. It would be in a position to encourage the development of programs to meet the needs of our senior citizens in every community in California. It would be the one state-wide body to which the communities could turn for advice and guidance. It would ensure California's place of leadership among the states in their concern for the needs of their citizens.

LABOR-MANAGEMENT

The history of the free world in our times has made it clear that stable labor-management relations are essential to the well-being of our society. Here in California our State Government has long sought to approach this critical area in a mature and scientific manner. I believe that California has long since passed from that primitive day when differences between labor and management frequently worked to the grave detriment of our State and the general public not directly connected with either labor or management.

I believe that State Government here has an obligation to encourage harmony and to discourage controversy. Through our various divisions in the State Department of Industrial Relations we do make an enlightened approach to the many economic and social aspects pertinent to this critical relationship. The very existence of that department attests to our recognition of the necessity for labor-management cooperation.

Essentially, of course, labor and management must themselves determine their own functional destiny. Government may assist this process but it must never dominate; it must never impose dictatorial controls.

Thus, as your Chief Administrator, I believe I have the duty to discourage any form of punitive legislation which shackles labor or management and pits one against the other in economic and social welfare, often at considerable expense and inconvenience to the general public.

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE

Unemployment insurance is one of the proudest historical achievements of our times. We have come a long way since the days of the Elizabethan Poor Law and, in our own times, since the days of the soup-kitchen philosophy of depression and despair.

Unemployment insurance is a vital part of our economy. It touches the life of almost every Californian. Last year you complied with my request that benefits be increased from $25 to $30 per week to make them more in line with present living costs.

But if this system is to make its proper contribution to the economic vitality of a growing California, the abuses to which it is being subjected by fraudulent claimants should have your grave attention.

I strongly recommend changes in the Unemployment Insurance Code to provide more realistic and enforceable penalties for claimants who commit fraud. There should also be more realistic and enforceable penalties for employers who fail to provide the Department of Employment with the necessary and timely information it must possess in order to pay claims promptly and properly.

During the past year, the department has vigorously attacked the problem of fraud with administrative weapons, and by a complete overhaul of its organization and its policies. Now we need—we must have—measures to strengthen the program further and strike at the root of our difficulties.

We must, however, see to it that there is no curtailment of the right of the honest worker, who is a legitimate part of our labor force, to obtain unemployment benefits during periods when he is unable to find work.

I will be the first to advocate increased unemployment benefits with any funds saved through more effective enforcement measures.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION AND DEATH BENEFITS

The present law provides a maximum benefit of $35 weekly for workmen temporarily disabled in industrial accidents and $30 weekly for those permanently disabled. California's wage-loss standard for reimbursement of injured workers is approximately 62 percent of their actual earnings. Benefits have lagged far behind this standard. The current rate of reimbursement is another example of a well-intentioned compensation law losing its efficiency when it ceases to reflect prevailing economic conditions. I do not believe it is necessary for me to expand on the moral need for providing adequate compensation for working men and women who suffer the loss of limb, as well as earning power, through industrial accidents. I recommend that the Legislature increase these disability allowances at least $5 per week.

California is far down the list of states in the amount of benefits paid to survivors of working men who suffer fatal industrial accidents. Twenty-two other states provide more liberal death benefits. In the event of the death of a California workingman in an industrial accident, his widow now receives $7,000, with burial allowance up to $400. If the widow has children, she receives up to a maximum of $9,100, including burial allowance.

It is my recommendation that the Legislature revise the present law, and provide that when a workingman dies as the result of an industrial accident, his widow shall receive $12,000 in death benefits, plus $1,000 for each child up to a maximum of $5,000. This would provide a maximum of $17,000 in death benefits for a widow with a large family. These added benefits can be financed with a very small increase in insurance premium rates.

The reasons for increasing maximum unemployment disability benefits are logical. The cost of this type of insurance is borne entirely by the worker himself. When a worker is deprived of his income through disability, he suffers a wage loss, and is compelled in most instances to meet medical bills and other extraordinary expenses involved in his nonoccupational disability. I urge the Legislature to examine all the ramifications of the present disability law in an effort to revise it in a manner that will be equitable to the worker, and to the carriers.

LIQUOR CONTROL

I wish to compliment the Legislature for its bold and progressive action at the special session last March in approving a proposition for the November election calling for a radical change in our method of liquor control. The voters of the State gave the proposal their overwhelming approval.

We must now implement your action, and their approval, by effective and efficient enforcement under the new laws.

The evils which exist in liquor control have grown over the years. Time and hard, devoted work will be required to destroy them. But the determination to destroy these evils is a basic part of my administration's program. Some time naturally will elapse until our new enforcement procedures are perfected.

To aid our new liquor program, I recommend that the Legislature create a Liquor Control Advisory Council, the members of which are to be appointed by the Governor from all sections of the State and to be representative of interested groups of citizens throughout California. This council should possess advisory powers only and should report to the Director of Alcoholic Beverage Control.

I ask that all concerned give the new control program close cooperation and that would-be critics confine themselves to judicious and constructive comment until the new system has had an opportunity to establish and to prove itself.

Later in the session I may offer some suggestions on new and additional legislation which may be required to correct any shortcomings which are found to exist in present law.

YOUTH PROBLEMS

We are undergoing a serious increase in the rate of crime committed by young people. Every day reveals another shocking story of juvenile violence. As a result of my personal concern, I requested my Advisory Committee on Children and Youth to call a state-wide conference of interested citizens to study this problem. A total of 25 local conferences have been held during the past year, and California is taking positive steps to combat juvenile crime. It is well recognized that delinquency prevention must begin in the local community and there is evidence that counties and cities are assuming more of this responsibility. The courts, the probation departments, the law enforcement agencies, and the schools have responded to our call for greater use of local resources.

In my judgment, the expansion of our preventive program is imperative if we are to hold the line against further increase in delinquency. Prevention of delinquency is necessarily a slow process of parent education and constant vigilance on the part of our citizens. In the meantime, the State is faced with responsibility for the rehabilitation of those serious delinquents who cannot be cared for in their home communities.

I am happy to be able to say that for the first time in the history of the State, it is no longer necessary for youngsters to spend long periods in county jails and juvenile halls awaiting delivery of Youth Authority institutions. But as the youth population increases, we shall have to expand our institutions for the treatment and retraining of these youngsters.

In order to round out the State's training program, there is immediate need for the previously authorized Youth Training School to provide vocational training for young adults. Members of this group—between 18 and 21 years of age—are being committed to the State in increasing numbers. They have, in fact, increased from 20 percent to 35 percent of the total commitments to the Youth Authority this past year. This new vocational training institution will make it possible to segregate those needing only minimum security and maximum training from the more dangerous group, which requires maximum security.

FAIR CAMPAIGN PRACTICES ACT

California needs a substantial revision of its existing Code of Election Laws with reference to the control of campaign funds. The present statutes are outmoded. The requirements are unrealistic and ineffective and do not give proper information to the people on the actual facts concerning the financing of campaigns.

I recommend that the Legislature enact an effective Fair Campaign Practices Act covering the solicitation, collection, disbursement and reporting of campaign contributions. Such an act should contain penalties for violations broad enough, and punitive enough, to command the respect of all individuals and groups concerned with any election campaign.

SUBVERSIVES

One of the greatest burdens borne by our taxpayers here in California, and throughout the Nation, is the enormous cost of our national defense measures. These measures are vital to our own protection because of the constant threat of thermonuclear warfare. Enemy agents, both foreign and domestic, still ply their nefarious trade within our borders. These enemies, and all who help them, must be curbed, controlled, exposed and punished. I urge that the Legislature, operating within constitutional limits, maintain constant vigilance so that subversive individuals or elements shall not have an opportunity to plot the destruction of the cherished institutions of our free government.

In closing, I wish to stress that California is a rapidly growing State with problems magnified because of our phenomenal growth. Such problems are inherent in a State with constantly expanding population, industry, agriculture, and all other normal activities of a rich and successful commonwealth. This Legislature is well equipped to meet the challenges that confront it. I wish you all every success in your endeavors. I am confident that, when you have completed your deliberations, you will have helped to move California well along on its obvious pathway toward becoming the greatest of all of the states of the Union.

INTRODUCTION OF LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR

Hon. L. H. Lincoln, Speaker of the Assembly, then presented Lieutenant Governor Harold J. Powers to the Joint Convention.

ADDRESS BY LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR

Governor Knight, Mr. Speaker, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore, Senator Ward, President pro Tempore of the Senate, Chief Justice Gibson, Justice Carter, Members of the Legislature, ladies and gentlemen:

Twenty years ago, the late State Senator George J. Hatfield was inaugurated as Lieutenant Governor. I recall his speaking at that time of the problems confronting California during the reconstruction period following the great economic depression of the 30's.

In 1947 when Governor Knight was inaugurated as Lieutenant Governor, he spoke of the problems of the great world war just ended, and the postwar readjustment period.

In common with the other states of the Nation, California has had many such experiences. It has recognized its problems and has faced up to them. In each case, as emergencies and crises have arisen, they have been met with courage, with determination and with unity of purpose.

California today is unique among the states of the Union. Despite the uncertainties and the uneasiness caused by the cold war with the Communist imperialists, most of the Country is enjoying a period of peace and relative economic normalcy.

This is not true of California. Our population growth, and the problems attendant thereto, has been so vast, so unprecedented and so ungovernable that we find ourselves confronted with a continuing series of crises and emergencies.

The governmental problems attendant to this great growth show no signs of abating. In fact, there are many indications that they will become even more complex. There are no ready-made answers to the problems that lie ahead of us. There is no easy way to get the job done.

Even more than in the past, the task will require patience, determination, courage, wisdom and the ultimate in cooperation.

If we are to fulfill our moral and legal obligations to all the people of California, we must lay aside political, sectional and personal differences. The job ahead is challenging enough without permitting any such considerations to make it more difficult.

California has a great and colorful history. It has an even greater destiny. Within a very short space of time, California will be the number one state in the Nation in every respect.

We must be ready for our destiny, and time is fleeting. The time for far-sighted, intelligent preparation is now. I have complete confidence in the ability of Governor Knight and his new state administration, and in this new Legislature, to leave behind a distinguished record of accomplishment.

We must continue the rapid pace of our highway and freeway construction. We must face and solve the insidious problem of smog before its menace expands beyond its present boundaries.

We must solve the intricate problem of water rights and press ahead with a state and federal construction program to assure adequate long-term supplies in areas of present abundance. And we must make preparation for supplemental supplies to those areas of deficiency, at least one of which now is forced to import its drinking water in tank cars.

We find ourselves in an increasing crisis in the field of public education. Our elementary and high school system must not be allowed to deteriorate. We must solve the problem of our overcrowded state colleges.

We must provide our congested metropolitan areas with the essentials for mass transportation systems to ease the strain on their highway and parking facilities. We must make adequate provision for our correctional and mental hospital systems, and we must assist the California Highway Patrol in reducing the tragic losses from vehicle accidents.

These are but a few of the problems demanding immediate or early solution. There is one other matter which we must not overlook, or relegate to a secondary position in our efforts to cope with these pressing affairs.

That is a sound program for conserving and perpetuating our priceless natural resources. We must not permit the encroachment of our expanding civilization or the necessities of the moment to impair our vision in this field.

Our great redwood groves and forests must be preserved and wisely utilized. Our beaches must be made to provide the greatest recreational benefit for the public. Our fish and wild life resources must be soundly managed and sustained.

We must recognize that an emergency actually exists in this field today since, once they are dissipated, these resources will be lost to us forever. In this respect, we must take a lesson from the experience of the past.

To accomplish these vital objectives, we must have unity of purpose and individual and group harmony.

To Governor Knight, to all Members of the Legislature and to all Californians, I pledge my personal efforts and those of my office to such a united effort. I thank you.

BENEDICTION

Benediction was offered by Rev. William C. Pearson, Chaplain of the Assembly.

ADJOURNMENT OF JOINT CONVENTION

At 3.10 p.m., there being no further business, the Speaker of the Assembly declared the Joint Convention adjourned sine die.

REASSEMBLED

At 3.15 p.m., the Senate reconvened.

Hon. Harold J. Powers, President of the Senate, presiding.
Secretary J. A. Beek at the desk.

ADJOURNMENT

At 3.19 p.m., on motion of Senator Ward, the President declared the Senate adjourned until 11 a.m., Tuesday, January 4, 1955, out of respect to the memory of the late Clyde A. Watson.

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolutions were offered:

By Senator John F. McCarthy:

Senate Resolution No. 12

Relative to the creation of a Fact-finding Committee on Rapid Transit in the San Francisco Bay area

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, As follows:

1. The Senate Interim Committee on Rapid Transit in the San Francisco Bay area is hereby created and authorized and directed to ascertain, study, and analyze all facts relating to or in any manner affecting rapid transit in the San Francisco Bay area, and any and all matters incidental or pertaining thereto and in all their several phases, including but not limited to the operation, effect, administration, enforcement, and needed revision of any and all laws in any way bearing upon or relating to the subject of this resolution and to report thereon to the Senate, including in the reports its recommendations for appropriate legislation.

2. The committee shall consist of five Members of the Senate appointed by the Committee on Rules. Vacancies occurring or existing in the membership of the committee shall be filled by the appointing power.

3. The committee is authorized to act during this session of the Legislature, including any recess, and after final adjournment until the commencement of the 1957 Regular Session, with authority to file its final report not later than the fifteenth day after the end of the constitutional recess.

4. The committee and its members shall have and exercise all of the rights, duties and powers conferred upon investigating committees and their members by the provisions of the Joint Rules of the Senate and Assembly and of the Standing Rules of the Senate as they are adopted and amended from time to time, which provisions are incorporated herein and made applicable to this committee and its members.

5. The committee has the following additional powers and duties:

(a) To select a chairman and a vice chairman from its membership.

(b) To contract with such other agencies, public or private, as it deems necessary for the rendition and affording of such services, facilities, studies and reports to the committee as will best assist it to carry out the purposes for which it is created.

(c) To cooperate with and secure the cooperation of county, city, city and county, and other local law enforcement agencies in investigating any matter within the scope of this resolution and to direct the sheriff of any county to serve subpoenas, orders and other process issued by the committee.

(d) To report its findings and recommendations to the Legislature and to the people from time to time and at any time, not later than herein provided.

(e) To do any and all other things necessary or convenient to enable it fully and adequately to exercise its powers, perform its duties and accomplish the objects and purposes of this resolution.

6. The sum of ----- dollars ($-----) or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby made available from the Contingent Fund of the Senate for the expenses of the committee and its members and for any charges, expenses or claims it may incur under this resolution, to be paid from the said Contingent Fund and disbursed, after certification by the chairman of the committee, upon warrants drawn by the State Controller upon the State Treasurer.

Resolution read, and referred to Committee on Rules.

By Senator Brown:

Senate Resolution No. 13

Relating to the continuance of the Senate Interim Committee on California Indian Affairs

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, As follows:

1. The Senate Interim Committee on California Indian Affairs, created by Senate Resolution No. 115 of the 1953 Session is continued as a Senate committee at this session, with the membership and with all the rights, powers and duties possessed by the committee and its members immediately prior to the commencement of this session. Vacancies occurring or existing in the membership of the committee shall be filled by the appointing power.

2. The committee is authorized to act during this session of the Legislature including any recess, but not after final adjournment, with authority to file its final report not later than the date of adjournment.

3. The provisions of the Joint Rules of the Senate and Assembly and of the Standing Rules of the Senate, as soon as such rules are adopted at this session or amended from time to time, become applicable to this committee and its members.

Until the adoption of Joint Rules at this session, the Joint Rules of the last preceding general session are incorporated herein and made applicable to this committee and its members.

4. The unexpended balance of the money heretofore made available to the committee continued by this resolution shall continue to be available for the expenses of the committee and its members and for any charges, expenses, or claims it may incur under Senate Resolution No. 115, 1953 Session, and this resolution, to be disbursed in the manner heretofore provided.

Resolution read, and referred to Committee on Rules.

Senator Grunsky Presiding

At 11.20 a.m., Senator Donald L. Grunsky, of the 23d District, presiding.

COMMUNICATIONS

The following communication was received, read and ordered printed in the Journal:

LEAGUE OF CALIFORNIA CITIES
SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, January 3, 1955

Mr. J. A. Beek
Secretary of the Senate
State Capitol
Sacramento, California

DEAR MR. BEEK: The following civil defense resolution, adopted by the General Assembly of the League of California Cities at its 1954 Annual Conference, urges the Congress of the United States and the Legislature of California to assume their full share of the joint civil defense responsibility that appropriately belongs to federal, state, and local governments.

Municipal governments in California will continue to urge and to support an adequate civil defense program. However, without the full cooperation of the federal and state governments and without the Federal Government assuming its primary responsibility in the field of civil defense as it relates to national security, a strong local civil defense program will be seriously hampered and in some places made impossible.

The resolution reads as follows:

WHEREAS, The most important function of local government is to protect the lives and property of its people and

WHEREAS, The development of the atomic and hydrogen bombs, and the ever-present threat of natural disaster necessitate the strongest possible civil defense organization in California; and

WHEREAS, The metropolitan cities of California have been designated as target areas by the Federal Government, and cities of California outside the target areas are also vitally concerned respecting their responsibilities in the event of enemy attack; and

WHEREAS, The cities of California, both individually and collectively, will continue to assume their share of the responsibility for civil defense and disaster preparedness and

WHEREAS, An effective civil defense organization can be developed only through the closest cooperation of federal, state, and local agencies and participation by a fully informed public; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, By the General Assembly of the League of California Cities, assembled in Annual Conference at Los Angeles, October 20, 1954

1. That the League of California Cities reaffirms the position heretofore taken and pledges its fullest and continued cooperation, in order that California can have the strongest civil defense organization that can be perfected.

2. That because of the development of the hydrogen and atomic bombs, there is need for a continuing reappraisal of state and regional civil defense organization and plans, and need for an understanding by the representatives of cities and counties of the plan and operation and the line of command.

3. That there is need for a re-evaluation of existing state laws to ascertain whether amendments should be made to assure public participation in civil defense training exercises, together with provision of full liability coverage for such participants, and to consideration of other necessary amendments to strengthen civil defense.

4. That to fully protect the lives and property of the citizens, it is essential that there be continuing financial assistance from both the federal and state governments to the cities of California, in order that an adequate and effective civil defense organization may be devised.

5. That the League of California Cities pledges its continued cooperation to the State Director of Civil Defense and all the members of his staff.

Be it further resolved, That copies of this resolution be forwarded to the President of the United States, the Governor of the State of California, the Federal Civil Defense Administrator, the State Director of Civil Defense, to Members of Congress representing California, to Members of the State Legislature, to the Civil Defense Committee of the American Municipal Association, to the County Supervisors Association of California, and to such other state and civil defense representatives as will be appropriate.

Very sincerely,

RICHARD CARPENTER
Executive Director and General Counsel

Senate Resolution No. 18

Relative to the continuance of the Senate Interim Committee on Vehicles and Aircraft

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, As follows:

1. The Senate Interim Committee on Vehicles and Aircraft, created by Senate Resolution No. 121 of the 1953 Session is continued as a Senate committee at this session, with the membership and with all the rights, powers and duties possessed by the committee and its members immediately prior to the commencement of this session. Vacancies occurring or existing in the membership of the committee shall be filled by the appointing power.

2. The committee is authorized to act during this session of the Legislature including any recess, but not after final adjournment, with authority to file its final report not later than the date of adjournment.

3. The provisions of the Joint Rules of the Senate and Assembly and of the Standing Rules of the Senate, as soon as such rules are adopted at this session or amended from time to time, become applicable to this committee and its members.

Until the adoption of Joint Rules at this session, the Joint Rules of the last preceding general session are incorporated herein and made applicable to this committee and its members.

4. The unexpended balance of the money heretofore made available to the committee continued by this resolution shall continue to be available for the expenses of the committee and its members and for any charges, expenses, or claims it may incur under Senate Resolution No. 121, 1953 Session, and this resolution, to be disbursed in the manner heretofore provided.

Resolution read, and referred to Committee on Rules.

By Senator Ed. C. Johnson :

Senate Resolution No. 19

Relative to the creation of the Senate Interim Committee on Fish and Game

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, As follows:

1. The Senate Interim Committee on Fish and Game is hereby created and authorized and directed to ascertain, study, and analyze all facts relating to fish and game, the conservation and protection thereof, and all matters dealing with, relating to, or otherwise pertaining to fish and game including but not limited to the operation, effect, administration, enforcement and needed revision of any and all laws in any way bearing upon or relating to the subject of this resolution, and to report thereon to the Senate, including in the reports its recommendations for appropriate legislation.

2. The committee shall consist of five Members of the Senate appointed by the Committee on Rules thereof. Vacancies occurring in the membership of the committee shall be filled by the appointing power.

3. The committee is authorized to act during this session of the Legislature, including any recess, and after final adjournment until the commencement of the 1957 Regular Session, with authority to file its final report not later than the fifteenth day after the constitutional recess.

4. The committee and its members shall have and exercise all of the rights, duties and powers conferred upon investigating committees and their members by the provisions of the Joint Rules of the Senate and Assembly and of the Standing Rules of the Senate as they are adopted and amended from time to time at this session, which provisions are incorporated herein and made applicable to this committee and its members.

5. The committee has the following additional powers and duties:

(a) To select a chairman and vice chairman from its membership.

(b) To contract with such other agencies, public or private, as it deems necessary for the rendition and affording of such services, facilities, studies, and reports to the committee as will best assist it to carry out the purposes for which it is created.

(c) To cooperate with and secure the cooperation of county, city, city and county, and other local law enforcement agencies in investigating any matter within the scope of this resolution and to direct the sheriff of any county to serve subpoenas, orders and other process issued by the committee.

(d) To report its findings and recommendations to the Legislature and to the people from time to time and at any time, not later than herein provided.

(e) To do any and all other things necessary or convenient to enable it fully and adequately to exercise its powers, perform its duties, and accomplish the objects and purposes of this resolution.

(f) To meet and act, and to authorize its subcommittees and employees to meet and act, both within and without the State of California in the performance of its duties.

6. The sum of twenty thousand dollars ($20,000) or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby made available from the Contingent Fund of the Senate for the expenses of the committee and its members and for any charges, expenses or claims it may incur under this resolution, to be paid from the said contingent fund and disbursed, after certification by the chairman of the committee, upon warrants drawn by the State Controller upon the State Treasurer.

Resolution read, and referred to Committee on Rules.

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolutions were offered:

By Senator Way:

Senate Resolution No. 20

Relative to a cost analysis of plans for highway construction

WHEREAS, The construction or reconstruction of certain portions of State Highway Routes 1 and 56 in Humboldt and Mendocino Counties is contemplated; and

WHEREAS, Facts with respect to the estimated cost of the several projects contemplated are necessary in order that the appropriate state agencies may make the decisions required; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, That the Department of Public Works is hereby requested to submit to the Senate the estimated cost per mile for each of the following projects:

(a) Route 56 between Leggett Valley and a point near Hale's Grove and a point near Thorn and thence to Ferndale and Fernbridge.

(b) Rerouting of Route 1 (U. S. 101) around state parks in Humboldt County.

(c) Retaining the existing route of Route 1 (U. S. 101) and straightening said highway and enlarging it to four lanes outside and between state park boundaries, and construction of sidings or turn outs and parking areas within state park boundaries; and be it further

Resolved, That the Department of Public Works is requested to submit a report containing the above cost estimates by not later than May 1, 1955; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate be directed to transmit a copy of this resolution to Mr. Frank B. Durkee, Director of Public Works.

Resolution read, and referred to Committee on Rules.

Senate Resolution No. 21

Relative to the creation of the Senate Interim Committee on Beach Erosion

WHEREAS, The beaches along the coast line of this State are of major importance to the citizens of this State, both for recreational and economic reasons; and

WHEREAS, The erosion of our beaches continues to be a major threat to such beaches in many parts of the State; and

WHEREAS, It may be necessary to accelerate or expand the state program to control the erosion of our beaches; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, As follows:

1. The Senate Interim Committee on Beach Erosion is hereby created and authorized and directed to ascertain, study and analyze all facts relating to the erosion of the beaches along the coast line of this State in order that the beaches may be maintained and developed for the use of the citizens of this State, including, but not limited to the operation, effect, administration, enforcement and needed revision of any and all laws in any way bearing upon or relating to the subject of this resolution, and to report thereon to the Senate, including in the reports its recommendations for appropriate legislation.

2. The committee shall consist of three Members of the Senate appointed by the Committee on Rules thereof. Vacancies occurring in the membership of the committee shall be filled by the appointing power.

3. The committee is authorized to act during this session of the Legislature, including any recess, and after final adjournment until the commencement of the 1957 Regular Session, with authority to file its final report not later than the fifteenth legislative day of that session.

4. The committee and its members shall have and exercise all of the rights, duties and powers conferred upon investigating committees and their members by the provisions of the Joint Rules of the Senate and Assembly and of the Standing Rules of the Senate as they are adopted and amended from time to time at this session, which provisions are incorporated herein and made applicable to this committee and its members.

5. The committee has the following additional powers and duties:

(a) To select a chairman and a vice chairman from its membership.

(b) To contract with such other agencies, public or private, as it deems necessary for the rendition and affording of such services, facilities, studies and reports to the committee as will best assist it to carry out the purposes for which it is created.

(c) To cooperate with and secure the cooperation of county, city, city and county, and other local law enforcement agencies in investigating any matter within the scope of this resolution and to direct the sheriff or any county to serve subpoenas, orders and other process issued by the committee.

(d) To report its findings and recommendations to the Legislature and to the people from time to time and at any time, not later than herein provided.

(e) To do any and all other things necessary or convenient to enable it fully and adequately to exercise its powers, perform its duties, and accomplish the objects and purposes of this resolution.

6. The sum of five thousand dollars ($5,000) or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby made available from the Contingent Fund of the Senate for the expenses of the committee and its members and for any charges, expenses or claims it may incur under this resolution, to be paid from the said contingent fund and disbursed, after certification by the chairman of the committee, upon warrants drawn by the State Controller upon the State Treasurer.

Resolution read, and referred to Committee on Rules.

By Senator Ed. C. Johnson:

Senate Resolution No. 22

Relative to the continuance of the Senate Interim Committee on Fish and Game

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, As follows:

1. The Senate Interim Committee on Fish and Game, created by Senate Resolution No. 15 of the 1953 Session is continued as a Senate committee at this session, with the membership and with all the rights, powers, and duties possessed by the committee and its members immediately prior to the commencement of this session. Vacancies occurring or existing in the membership of the committee shall be filled by the appointing power.

2. The committee is authorized to act during this session of the Legislature including any recess, but not after final adjournment, with authority to file its final report not later than the date of adjournment.

3. The provisions of the Joint Rules of the Senate and Assembly and of the Standing Rules of the Senate, as soon as such rules are adopted at this session or amended from time to time, become applicable to this committee and its members.

Until the adoption of Joint Rules at this session, the Joint Rules of the last preceding general session are incorporated herein and made applicable to this committee and its members.

4. The unexpended balance of the money heretofore made available to the committee continued by this resolution shall continue to be available for the expenses of the committee and its members and for any charges, expenses, or claims it may incur under Senate Resolution No. 15, 1953 Session, and this resolution, to be disbursed in the manner heretofore provided.

Resolution read, and referred to Committee on Rules.

MOTION TO PRINT OPINION

Senator Regan moved that the opinion of the Attorney General regarding the scope and effect of Water Code sections be printed in the Journal.

Motion carried.

OPINION OF ATTORNEY GENERAL OFFICE OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL State of California

EDMUND G. BROWN

Attorney General

EDMUND G. BROWN, Attorney General
Wallace Howland, Assistant Attorney General and Adolphus Moskovitz, Deputy Attorney General

No. 53/298
January 5, 1955

The HONORABLE EDWIN J. REGAN, SENATOR from the Fifth Senatorial District, has asked for our complete analysis of the scope and effect of Water Code Sections 10505, 11460, and 11463, including particularly our opinion on the following questions:

(1) Are these code sections constitutional under Article XIV, Section 3, of the California Constitution?

(2) Under these code sections, would water appropriated for use in areas outside the county where the water originates, or the watershed where the water originates and areas immediately adjacent thereto, be made available later for use in such local areas, if the water became necessary for their development at some time in the future?

(3) Are Water Code Sections 11460 and 11463 applicable to the United States in the construction and operation of the Central Valley Project?

(4) Can the State Engineer, in the proper exercise of his power to condition appropriations of water in the public interest under Water Code Section 1253, effectuate the protection contemplated by Water Code Sections 11460 and 11463?

The conclusions may be summarized as follows:

(1) Water Code Sections 10505, 11460, and 11463, properly construed and applied, do not violate Article XIV, Section 3, of the California Constitution.

(2) In the circumstances specified in the statute, Water Code Sections 10505 and 11460 would require that water which had been put to use in the operation of the Central Valley Project in areas outside the county of origin, or the watershed of origin and areas immediately adjacent thereto, be withdrawn from such outside areas and made available for use in the specified areas of origin.

(3) Water Code Sections 11460 and 11463 are applicable to the United States in its operation of the Central Valley Project insofar as the law of California is concerned, but compliance therewith is dependent upon the fact that the United States has affirmatively elected to comply with state law in this respect.

(4) The State Engineer is empowered to insert conditions in appropriation permits issued on applications assigned by the Department of Finance under Section 10504 which are consistent and coextensive with conditions stipulated by the Department of Finance under Sections 10504 and 10505. Further, the State Engineer is empowered to insert in permits issued to any state or federal agency engaged in the construction or operation of the Central Valley Project, as conditions of such permits, the limitations upon the powers of such agencies set forth in Water Code Sections 11460 and 11463; however, such limitations are imposed upon such agencies by virtue of the statute, regardless of their inclusion or omission from any such permit granted and issued by the State Engineer.

Analysis

I. General Discussion of Water Code Sections 10505, 11460 and 11463

Water Code Section 10505 is commonly referred to as the "county of origin" statute. Water Code Sections 11460 and 11463 are the principal operative provisions of what is commonly known as the "watershed protection" statute. These two statutes were enacted at different times and appear in different parts of the Water Code.<sup>1</sup> However, they have a common purpose, i.e., to reserve for the areas where water originates some sort of right to such water for future needs which is preferential or paramount to the right of outside areas, even though the outside areas may be the areas of greatest need or the areas where the water is first put to use as the result of operations of the Central Valley Project.

None of these sections have been involved in litigation to date. Consequently, they have not been interpreted or construed by any court. While the general legislative intent seems clear, legal minds may differ as to the effect of the statutory enactments when applied to a specific set of facts. Inasmuch as we have been requested to give a "complete analysis of the scope and effect" of these provisions, we have endeavored to depict them in actual operation. However, it must be recognized that contrary arguments may be made to contravene some of the views expressed herein and that the conclusions reached may be considered only as reflecting our best judgment as to the effect of statutes the phraseology of which is not beyond dispute.

The breadth of the inquiry here made makes it desirable to preface our analysis with a few general observations. The development of a coordinated state-wide water plan and the embodiment of its initial phases in the Central Valley Project has not been without controversy. Fundamentally the controversy is an economic one, arising from the fact that water has always been in short supply throughout the history of the State. Our water law had its inception in the law of property. The very term "water right" implies a permanent, vested property right to be owned and enjoyed by one owner to the exclusion of all others. Some of the bitterest and most protracted litigation has been over the conflicting interests in water.

Beginning in the 1920's, however, increased engineering knowledge and technological development gave promise of transforming an economy of water scarcity to one of sufficiency for all. Initially the problem was one of capturing and distributing the surplus waters of the north to the arid but fertile regions of the San Joaquin Valley. More recently another factor has been arising from the extremely rapid growth in population of the southern part of the State. In any event, it was conceived as early as the mid-1920's that the capturing, storing, distributing and putting the waters of the State to beneficial use, in their aggregate quantity, was a task so enormous that it was beyond the capability of privately financed enterprise and must, therefore, necessarily devolve upon the public agencies of the State for its financing and execution. This injection of the State into the ownership and operation of large project works obviously required changes in existing water law. Distribution of the aggregate water resources of the State by a public agency acting in the public interest could not, and cannot be effected wholly within the framework of a water law whose "first in time" and "appropriation to beneficial use" concepts are adequate and equitable in the settlement of controversies between the limited interests of plaintiff and defendant in private litigation.

Legislatively, the die was cast in 1927 with the enactment of the Feigenbaum Act, Chapter 286 of the Statutes of 1927. The act is discussed in more detail later herein. Suffice it here to say that its effect was:

(a) To authorize the State itself to file on any and all of the unappropriated waters of the State which might be needed in the execution of a general or coordinated plan for the development and use of the water resources of the State as a whole;

(b) To subordinate to such state filings any further assertion of private rights to such unappropriated water; and

(c) To limit state action in releasing the priority of its filings or the assignment thereof to instances where such action would result in water development not in conflict with the general or coordinated plan.

This enactment was made on the recommendation of a joint Senate-Assembly interim committee that:

" * * * the State of California should at once take the necessary steps, either through its proper officials or by legislation, to file on, or withdraw from filing by private parties, the water rights to be utilized and required for the consummation of the coordinated plan." (i.e., the plan for the development of the water resources of California then being formulated by the State Engineer.) (Senate Journal, Forty-seventh Session, 1927, p. 446.)

Prior to 1927 the law for many years had contained a provision substantially as now codified in Section 102, viz:

"All water within the State is the property of the people of the State, but the right to the use of water may be acquired by appropriation in the manner provided by law."

Taken literally, this section would apply to all water in the State, including that already privately owned at the time of its enactment. However, as the Supreme Court has pointed out, "It should not require discussion or authority to demonstrate that the State cannot in this manner take private property for public use" (San Bernardino v. Riverside (1921), 186 Cal. 7, 29-30). Consequently, the statute has been restricted in its application to exclude water rights which vested prior to its passage. Thus, it applies only to unappropriated water (Palmer etc. v. Railroad Commission (1914), 167 Cal. 163, 175).

The effect of the 1927 legislation was to withdraw the then unappropriated waters of the State filed on by the Department of Finance from any further appropriation by private parties. And, if any further implementation of prior law was needed, the 1927 act established a procedure whereby, within the concepts applicable to privately owned water rights, the State in its role as trustee for the people could fairly be said to perfect its own "right" to water needed for the general or coordinated plan to the exclusion of all other persons or parties.

II. The Origins of the "County of Origin" Preference

In the interpretation and evaluation of present preferences to counties of origin, it is important to bear in mind the scope and size of the coordinated water plan envisaged at the time of its passage. Southern California was then directing its efforts almost exclusively towards the procurement of Colorado River water and distribution of the waters of Northern California was conceived of only in terms of the San Joaquin Valley.

Almost without exception, the reports and documents relating to the general or coordinated plan speak of taking only the "surplus" or "excess" waters of the Sacramento River to areas of deficient supply in the San Joaquin Valley. In a 1925 report to the Legislature, the Department of Public Works stated:

"Further, while the 1921-23 studies demonstrated that there is more than enough water in the Sacramento Valley for its own use, they also show that the surplus of easily developed water is not so great but that its residents would be gravely concerned that the cost of their own water development might not be increased by exportations. * * * In fact, the whole discussion of the diversion of surplus waters from the Sacramento River into the San Joaquin Valley, must be predicated from the institution of a coordinated development in both valleys that gives full protection against present or future loss to the owners of vested rights and to present users of water as well as to those potential users whose lands lie tributary to streams from which exportations of water are proposed." (Bull. No. 9, Div. of Engineering and Irrigation, Dept. of Public Works (1925) p. 18.)

Commencing with the 1925 Session of the Legislature, a series of bills was introduced to protect the counties of origin against exportation of water which might be needed by them in their own future development. Obviously any such legislation would be a departure from existing water law which required actual reduction to beneficial use as a prerequisite to the establishment of a water right by appropriation. Little wonder, then, that the proponents of such legislation ran into difficulty in drafting an acceptable formula whereby uncertain future rights might be presently acquired. The problem is, in fact, still with us today.

The 1925 Legislature passed Assembly Bill No. 607 which would have reserved for use in the county of origin 15 percent of all water appropriated for export. The measure was pocket vetoed by the Governor, presumably in the light of a letter to him from the Director of Public Works and State Engineer dated May 13, 1925, in which it was stated:

"This Department is in sympathy with the object proposed to be obtained by the language of Assembly Bill No. 607, but the procedure is so involved and the outcome so questionable, that we doubt the propriety of the measure becoming a law."

Another proposal, Assembly Bill No. 1079, provided that all diversions outside a watershed of origin would be subject to a reservation of all water necessary to supply uses within the watershed. It was reported without recommendation by the committee and no further action was taken.

At the beginning of the 1927 Session the Legislature received a report from the Department of Public Works concerning the coordinated plan. It contained several statements to the effect that only "surplus" waters would be exported from one area to another. Under the heading of recommendations it was stated that:

"The new supplies for the deficient areas would be taken from regions of surplus after providing for their complete development." (Bull. No. 12, Div.

of Engrg. & Irrig., Dept. of Public Works (1927) p. 48; see also pp. 26, 36.)

As already stated, the 1927 Legislature passed the Feigenbaum Act permitting the State to assert a priority, as against subsequent private appropriators, to such of the then unappropriated waters of the State as might be needed for the general or coordinated plan. It also passed another so-called "15 percent" bill, similar to Assembly Bill No. 607 of the 1925 Session, only to have it again pocket vetoed by the Governor.

The 1929 Session of the Legislature had before it a report of a Joint Committee of the Senate and Assembly Dealing with the Water Problems of the State. With regard to the protection of the interests of the counties of origin, this report stated:

"In supplying areas of deficiency of water from areas of surplus only such water as is not needed to serve vested or other property rights, or necessary for supplying the uses and purposes hereinbefore mentioned should be considered and no water should be diverted from the area of origin which is now or which may ever be required for any beneficial use within such area of origin." (Report of Joint Committee, January 18, 1929, p. 19.)

In a supplemental report, the joint committee recommended the following policy:

"4. It shall be the policy of the state to extend to the areas of surplus water, from which, under the coordination policy or the development thereof, areas of deficient water may obtain a supply, definite and valid assurance that such areas of surplus from which water is or may be taken shall have a right to ample water for their ultimate needs, superior and prior to that of the areas of deficiency to make use of such surplus * * *." (Supplemental Report of Joint Committee, April 9, 1929, p. 5.)

During the 1929 Session, the Assembly passed another "15 percent" bill (Assembly Bill No. 1150) which died in the Senate committee to which it was referred.

The 1931 Legislature received from the Division of Water Resources a "Report to the Legislature of 1931 on State Water Plan." This report again emphasized that the state plan contemplated only the transfer from one area to another of water which was surplus. It stated:

"Under this plan, the basins favored with water in excess of their needs would be furnished a regulated supply in accordance with the requirements of their ultimate development. Waters in excess of their needs would be conveyed to areas of deficiency * * *." (Bull. No. 25, Div. of Water Resources, Dept. of Public Works, January 1, 1931, p. 35.)

Another and more detailed report issued the same year reiterated that:

"* * * There is and will be a deficiency of supplies" (in the San Joaquin River basin). "In the Sacramento River Basin, on the other hand, the water supply if adequately regulated and conserved, is larger than will be required for ultimate development of that basin. * * *." (Bull. No. 26, Div. of Water Resources, Dept. of Public Works, 1931, p. 30; see also p. 45)

On March 31, 1931 the Legislature received the "Report of the Joint Committee of the Senate and Assembly Dealing with the Water Problems of the State". Therein (p. 29) the committee repeated its previous recommendation that no water should be diverted from the area of origin "which is now or which may ever be required for any beneficial use within such area of origin."

At the Regular Session of the 1931 Legislature, Assembly Bill No. 540 proposed a new formula for the protection of the future interests of the areas of origin. It was opposed because of its vague phraseology, and its doubtful efficacy, but not because of its intent to protect the rights of areas of origin. (See letter from State Engineer to Secretary, Irrigation Districts Association of California, March 21, 1931). The bill died in committee.

However, another solution to the problem was found more acceptable. In 1931, the Legislature was called upon to amend the Feigenbaum Act of 1927 by extending the date to which state filings would be exempted from requirements of diligence. Senate Bill No. 141 was introduced for this purpose and in its original form was limited to that object. However, it was amended before final passage to provide a further restriction on the authority of the Department of Finance to release from priority or to assign any of the State's filings. In assaying the importance of this amendment, it should be noted that by this time the State had already filed some 25 applications on many of the major streams flowing into the Central Valley. As thus amended and passed, Senate Bill No. 141 (Calif. Stats. 1931, Ch. 720, p. 1514) provided that:

"* * * no such priority shall be released, or assignment made of any such appropriation that will, in the judgment of the State Department of Finance, deprive the county in which such appropriated water originates, of any such water necessary for the development of such county."

This proviso is now codified as Section 10505 of the Water Code. In the light of its legislative background the following conclusions may be drawn:

(1) The engineering plans developed by the State were predicated upon the reservation to "areas of origin" of water sufficient to meet their ultimate needs, and upon findings that there was a sufficient "surplus" over and above such ultimate requirements to make feasible the transportation of such surplus to areas of deficient water supply and, specifically, to the San Joaquin Valley.

(2) The Joint Committee of the Legislature repeatedly advocated a policy for enactment into law with such clarity that it is reiterated here:

"4. It shall be the policy of the state to extend to the areas of surplus water * * * definite and valid assurance that such areas of surplus from which water is or may be taken shall have a right to ample water for their ultimate needs, superior and prior to that of the areas of deficiency to make use of such surplus."

(3) In the three sessions of the Legislature prior to 1931, attempts had been made to enact a law which would protect the future interests of areas of origin.

(4) In 1927, in order to make possible a coordinated development of the water resources of several major watersheds by public agencies of the State, the State was authorized to and promptly initiated action to perfect its own "right" to the then unappropriated waters needed for such purpose.

(5) With the "water rights" to the unappropriated waters filed upon by the State itself, and all persons declared subject to the priority of the State's filings, it was conceived that the desired protection for the future interests of the counties of origin could be obtained by placing restrictions upon the authority of state officials to alienate or dispose of the priorities thus vested in the State. This, then, must be taken to be the intent and effect of what is now Section 10505 of the Water Code.

(6) Difficulties with the granting of a preference to vague and undefined "mountain regions" (Assembly Bill No. 540, 1931 Session) were eliminated by granting the preference, in effect, to the "counties of origin," a term readily definable for the purposes of the Feigenbaum Act with sufficient exactitude to satisfy constitutional requirements.

III. Analysis of Section 10505

In order that Section 10505 may properly be viewed in its context, the entire text of Part 2 of Division 6 of the Water Code, excepting Section 10506 which is not relevant to this discussion, is here set forth:

10500. "The Department of Finance shall make and file applications for any water which in its judgment is or may be required in the development and completion of the whole or any part of a general or coordinated plan looking toward the development, utilization, or conservation of the water resources of the State.

"Any application filed pursuant to this part shall be made and filed pursuant to Part 2 of Division 2 of this code and the rules and regulations of the State Engineer relating to the appropriation of water insofar as applicable thereto.

"Applications filed pursuant to this part shall have priority, as of the date of filing, over any application made and filed subsequent thereto. Until October 1, 1955, or such later date as may be prescribed by further legislative enactment, the statutory requirements of said Part 2 of Division 2 relating to diligence shall not apply to applications filed under this part, except as otherwise provided in Section 10504."

10504. "The Department of Finance may release from priority or assign any portion of any appropriation filed by it under this part when the release or assignment is for the purpose of development not in conflict with such general or coordinated plan. The assignee of any such application, whether heretofore or hereafter assigned, is subject to all the requirements of diligence as provided in Part 2 of Division 2 of this code. 'Assignee' as used herein includes, but is not limited to, state agencies, commissions and departments, and the United States of America or any of its departments or agencies."

10505. "No priority under this part shall be released nor assignment made of any appropriation that will, in the judgment of the Department of Finance, deprive the county in which the appropriated water originates of any such water necessary for the development of the county."

Section 10505 is limited in its application to water filed on by the Department of Finance under Section 10500. However, Section 10500 continues to authorize the filing of applications on unappropriated water which, in the judgment of the Department of Finance, "is or may be required" for "the whole or any part of a general or coordinated plan." In the light of the background and the date of enactment of this section, it is not confined in its application to any particular "plan," as, for example, the specific "State Water Plan" defined in Section 10000 and adopted and approved by Section 10002. Neither is it limited to the water requirements of any particular project, such as the Central Valley Project which is the subject matter of Part 3 of Division 6 of the Water Code.

The applications filed to date under Section 10500 number more than 40. They may well cover substantially all of the water not previously appropriated or otherwise vested in private ownership within the watersheds involved.

It will be noted that Section 10504 authorizes assignment of state applications without limitation as to the identity of the assignee. From this it seems obvious that the Legislature contemplated that assignments would be made to two different classes of assignees, viz:

(a) To the agency or agencies to be eventually authorized to effectuate the general or coordinated plan by constructing and operating project works. Such assignments would, of course, be for the purpose of development not in conflict with the plan, and could be made by the Department of Finance as a routine matter.

(b) To private persons, corporations, municipalities, districts and others, but only in the event that the development and use of the water proposed by the assignee was found to be not in conflict with the general or coordinated plan.

When Section 10505 was enacted in 1931, the general or coordinated plan had not yet evolved to the point where it has legislative sanction. There was still no agency of the State authorized to do anything towards effectuating the plan still in its formulative stage. Section 10505 is cast in such language as to make its provisions applicable to all assignments made by the Department of Finance, regardless of the identity of the assignee. "No priority shall be released nor assignment made" which, in the judgment of the Department of Finance, would deprive the county of origin of water needed in its future development. Both the legislative intent and the effect of this provision seem clear: that the priority granted to counties of origin should be applicable to all water covered by state filings under Section 10505, regardless of whether such filings are assigned to an agency of the State to effectuate the general or coordinated plan, or to some other assignee for development not in conflict with such plan.

Section 10505 has one feature in common with all legislation which confers discretionary authority upon a state agency or official—the protection which it offers is not absolute. Under Section 10505, a preferential right is preserved for the counties of origin from the assignment or release of priority of state filings only to the extent that the Department of Finance may have reserved such a right.

Whether an assignment or release shall be made is left to "the judgment of the Department of Finance". The department is not required to hold a hearing before making its judgment. Thus, the section is satisfied if, before making an assignment or release, the department determines in good faith on the basis of information then available to it that the water covered by the application is not necessary for the development of the county of origin, or that the conditions inserted in the assignment or release will adequately preserve for those in the county a preferential right to use the water when they need it.<sup>2</sup> A mere error in judgment by the department in making its determination would not invalidate its action. The action of an administrative body involving the exercise of discretion may be successfully challenged in the courts only if it is arbitrary, capricious, or entirely lacking in evidentiary support. Tulare Water Co. v. State Water Commission, (1921) 187 Cal. 533, 538, 202 Pac. 874, 877; Mann v. Tracy (1921) 185 Cal. 272, 274, 196 Pac. 484, 485; Brock v. Superior Court, (1952) 109 Cal. App. 2d 594, 605, 241 P. 2d 283, 290; Roussey v. City of Burlingame, (1950) 100 Cal. App. 2d 321, 326, 223 P. 2d 517, 520.

Section 10505 requires that "the county in which the appropriated water originates" be protected from deprivation of any such water necessary for the development of the county. The common sense meaning of the word "originates" in this context would seem to be "falls in the form of precipitation". The protection afforded by the section to each county relates only to the water which falls as precipitation within that county's boundaries. But the need to be considered is that of the entire county, regardless of whether the place of need is in a different watershed from the place where the water originates. That is, each county is to be regarded as a unit, and all water originating therein which is covered by Department of Finance applications is, to the extent that such water may be needed anywhere therein, subject to the protection of the statute. Hence, the place of use of the water is the sole standard by which the preference is established, and the extent of the preference is limited to the aggregate amount of water which falls in the form of precipitation upon the county in question.

A person desiring water for use in a county of origin for development not in conflict with the general or coordinated plan must first apply to the Department of Finance for an unconditional assignment of so much of the State's application filed under Section 10500 as may be necessary to satisfy his needs. Such action is necessary since any application which such person might otherwise initiate and file would be subject to the priority of the State's application.

It is the function of the Department of Finance to determine whether such an application for an unconditional assignment satisfies the conditions laid down in Sections 10504 and 10505. The granting of such an unconditional assignment establishes the preferential or priority status of the application so assigned as against an earlier assignee of the department who has been exporting water out of the county of preference subject to a reservation in his assignment which protects the county of origin preference.

Upon the granting by the Department of Finance of such an unconditional assignment, the application so assigned must then be pursued to permit before the State Engineer under Sections 1200-1800. Determination of all of the questions involved in the processing of an application to permit are still for the State Engineer in the exercise of his normal functions concerning the granting of appropriate permits.

IV. Analysis of Sections 11460 and 11463

Sections 11460 through 11463 are codifications of Section 11 of the Central Valley Project Act of 1933 (Chapter 1042 of the Statutes of 1933). They provide as follows:

11460. "In the construction and operation by the authority of any project under the provisions of this part a watershed or area wherein water originates, or an area immediately adjacent thereto which can conveniently be supplied with water therefrom, shall not be deprived by the authority directly or indirectly of the prior right to all of the water reasonably required to adequately supply the beneficial needs of the watershed, area, or any of the inhabitants or property owners therein."

11461. "In no other way than by purchase or otherwise as provided in this part shall water rights of a watershed, area, or the inhabitants be impaired or curtailed by the authority, but the provisions of this article shall be strictly limited to the acts and proceedings of the authority, as such, and shall not apply to any persons or state agencies."

11462. "The provisions of this article shall not be so construed as to create any new property rights other than against the authority as provided in this part or to require the authority to furnish to any person without adequate compensation therefor any water made available by the construction of any works by the authority."

At the outset, it should be noted that these provisions apply only to any project described in Part 3 of Division 6.

By Section 11460 the Water Project Authority is prohibited from depriving certain described areas directly or indirectly of the prior right to certain water. Some comment seems desirable concerning the descriptions of the areas of preference. The areas to be protected are (1) "a watershed or area wherein water originates", and (2) "an area immediately adjacent thereto which can conveniently be supplied with water therefrom."

In the first category, the term "watershed" must be taken as synonymous with the term "area wherein water originates." Otherwise, the latter term would be completely indefinite. It is obvious that an "area wherein water originates", without further qualification, could be as large or as small as one desired to make it. For example, the entire State of California is an area wherein water originates. On the other hand, a "watershed" is capable of fairly accurate delineation. It is defined as "The whole region or area contributing to the supply of a river or lake; drainage area; catchment area or basin" (Webster's New International Dictionary, 2d ed., unabridged, 1941, p. 2886). A reasonable and practicable construction of a statute which avoids fatal uncertainty is, of course, to be preferred (Drummeyer v. State Board of Funeral Directors, (1939) 13 Cal. 2d 75, 80, 87 P.2d 848, 851). Thus, the first type of area to receive protection is a watershed, i.e., the region or area which contributes to the supply of the stream in question.

The second category of areas described extends the protection of the statute beyond the confines of the particular watershed to any immediately adjacent area which can conveniently be served with water from that watershed. The word "adjacent" means "lying near or close at hand" (Funk & Wagnall's New Standard Dictionary). "Objects are adjacent when they lie close to each other, but not necessarily in actual contact" (Webster's New International Dictionary, 2d ed. unabridged, 1941, p. 32). But the word "immediately" qualifying the word "adjacent" indicates that the area must adjoin the watershed.

The extent of the area immediately adjacent to the watershed which is subject to protection is ascertainable from the remainder of the description. It is that adjoining territory which "can conveniently be supplied with water" from the watershed. The requirement of convenience in supplying the water implies the necessity that there be no difficult problems in effecting such supply and that delivery be clearly feasible, from both a financial and an engineering point of view.

Although the question is not entirely free from doubt, in our opinion this description is stated with sufficient certainty of language and exactitude to constitute a valid enactment.

A civil statute cannot be held void for uncertainty if any reasonable and practical construction can be given to its language. Mere difficulty in ascertaining its meaning or the fact that it is susceptible of different interpretations will not render it nugatory (Clark v. City of Pasadena (1951), 102 Cal. App. 2d 198, 205, 227 P. 22d 306). Proof of what is "convenient" is no more difficult than what is "reasonable" and falls within the category of "problems which in their nature are not subject to precise definition, but which tribunals exercising judicial functions must determine" (Gin S. Chow v. City of Santa Barbara (1933), 217 Cal. 673, 706). However, if litigation and the need for judicial construction is to be minimized, in all candor it must be stated that the certainty of this description leaves something to be desired.

The quantity of water as to which the prior right for use in the described areas is to be preserved is—

" * * * all of the water reasonably required to adequately supply the beneficial needs of the watershed, area, or any of the inhabitants or property owners therein."

The words "the water" mean the water which originates, i.e., falls as precipitation in the particular watershed. This is borne out by reference to the original enactment from which Section 11460 is derived, which contains the more precise words, "said water" (Calif. Stats. 1933, Ch. 1042, Sec. 11, p. 2650). How much water is reasonably required to supply the beneficial needs of the watershed, the adjacent area and the inhabitants and property owners therein is a question of fact depending upon the circumstances in a particular case at any given time.

The scheme of things intended by Sections 11460-11463 seems clear:

(1) Section 11460 has the effect of reserving to the entire body of inhabitants and property owners in watersheds of origin, a priority as against the Water Project Authority, in establishing their own water rights in the usual manner as their needs increase from time to time, up to the maximum of either their ultimate needs, or the yield of the particular watershed.

(2) The establishment of this priority does not create or vest in any individual person a presently definable "water right" in the conventional sense of the term. This is the unmistakable meaning of the limitation in Section 11462.

"The provisions of this article shall not be so construed as to create any new property rights other than against the authority * * *"

This means simply what it says: No inhabitant of a watershed of origin<sup>3</sup> becomes possessed of any presently vested title or right to any specific quantity of water as a result of this statute. As the need of such an inhabitant develops he must comply with the general water law of the State, both substantially and procedurally, to apply for and perfect a water right for water which he then needs and can then put to beneficial use (Sees. 1200-1800). However, when he makes such an application, as a member of the class of persons protected by the statute, his application is not to be gainsaid, denied or limited by reason of any activity on the part of the Water Project Authority. Specifically, this means that if, prior to the development of the applicant's increased needs, the authority had been exporting from the watershed in question water required to supply the applicant's increased needs, such use by the authority would not justify denial of the application. Assuming the application to be otherwise meritorious, the State Engineer would grant a permit in the usual form, and the authority would thereafter be compelled to honor the water right thus created and vested.

(3) The priority thus reserved to inhabitants of watersheds of origin by Section 11460 may not in any way be defeated by any action or proceeding by the authority. In interpreting Sections 11460-11463, it must be constantly borne in mind that the priority is a reservation granted to an entire class of citizens in the aggregate. The class is ascertainable at any given time with constitutional exactitude, but the individual inhabitants and property owners comprising it will change and vary over the years. No definable property right is created or presently vested in any particular individual. As to any particular individual the grant of the statute is wholly inchoate. Its potential maximum is the individual's ultimate need for water which can be beneficially used up to the capability of the watershed. It can only be defined momentarily, from time to time, as the needs of the individual develop and, by actually putting more water to beneficial use, he is able to establish a "water right" in himself in the usual form and manner. This is not to say that the grant of the statute is unconstitutional for vagueness, but it does mean that the reserved priority is not susceptible of being presently purchased, condemned or otherwise acquired by the authority.

Such being the case, the authority is precluded from any action which would have the effect of presently defeating or destroying the priority. Our view in this respect is predicated upon the following reasons:

(a) Section 11460 is contained in Article 4, under the heading "Limitation of Powers" of the authority. It expressly prohibits the authority from depriving the watershed of origin or its inhabitants "directly or indirectly of the prior right" to water needed in the future. The word "prior" as used in this section means paramount, preferred or superior. Section 11462 establishes beyond doubt that this priority in right exists as against the authority.

(b) The legislative background of the priority makes it difficult to conceive that the Legislature intended that the authority could destroy the priority by condemnation. Since the priority exists only as against the authority, such a construction would completely destroy the effect of Section 11460 and make its enactment an idle gesture. We must reject such an interpretation. Hence, we conclude that Section 11460 not only creates the priority in inhabitants of a watershed of origin but constitutes a limitation on the legal powers of the authority granted by other provisions of the Water Code.

It must be borne in mind that Section 11575 empowers the authority to acquire water rights and other property for the purpose of constructing, maintaining and operating the Central Valley Project "by gift, exchange, purchase or eminent domain proceedings." Section 11580 expressly confers upon the authority the power of condemnation when other means of acquisition fail.

Section 11461 provides in part that:

"In no other way than by purchase or otherwise as provided in this part shall water rights of a watershed, area, or the inhabitants be impaired or curtailed by the authority * * *."

In the original statute from which these sections were derived, Section 11461 immediately follows the provisions of Section 11460 as the next sentence of the same paragraph (Calif. Stats. 1933, Ch. 1042, Sec. 11, p. 2650). Consequently, it must be taken in that context. We deem the intent and effect of Section 11461 to be as follows:

(a) It is a qualification on the scope of Section 11460, in that it authorizes the curtailment and impairment of the "water rights of a watershed, area or its inhabitants," if that be the result of acquisition of such water rights by the authority by purchase, gift, exchange or condemnation.

(b) It is a reaffirmation of the powers granted the authority under Section 11575 to acquire "water rights," and indicates a legislative intent that these powers as applied to a watershed of origin are not wholly nullified by Section 11460. We thus have a grant of the power of eminent domain by Section 11575, a limitation on the power in Section 11460, and a qualification of that limitation in Section 11461. What can this mean? Needless to say every effort must be made to save the statute from ambiguity and to give it effect. In our view, the sections taken together mean that

(1) The inchoate priority of inhabitants of a watershed of origin granted by Section 11460 may not presently be defeated or destroyed by acquisition or any other action on the part of the authority;

(2) When the priority is asserted by such an inhabitant and with its aid he acquires and becomes vested with a water right in accordance with Sections 1200-1800, such water right may be purchased or condemned by the authority if necessary for purposes of the project.

Any other interpretation would have either of the following results: On the one hand, if the priority be considered subject to immediate condemnation under Sections 11461 and 11575, the result is a complete frustration of Section 11460. On the other hand, if Section 11460 be deemed to create a permanent "water right" which, even after it has been perfected and vested, may not be acquired or condemned by the authority when essential for project purposes, then Section 11461 becomes meaningless and of no consequence. If either of these results was, in fact, within the legislative contemplation, then it must be concluded that the sections referred to are mutually inconsistent and conflicting.

The question may well be asked whether, under our interpretation, the priority is of little real consequence since, although the priority may not be presently condemned or otherwise defeated by the authority, any vested water right which may eventuate from it can be condemned. We do not believe this necessarily follows. On the contrary, we believe that the statute effectuates the legislative intent and confers extremely valuable rights upon watersheds of origin. Its very effectiveness depends upon the distinction made between (a) the power of the authority to condemn a "water right" after it has come into being in accordance with the provisions of the law of appropriative rights and become vested in a particular individual, and (b) the total lack of power on the part of the authority to in any way defeat the operation of the preference in its inchoate form and prior to its ripening into an individually owned "water right." It was by this means that the Legislature was able to create and preserve the intended preference for the watershed of origin as a whole, without having to presently define and resolve the present property rights of countless individuals. It was by this means that the Legislature was able to achieve its objective with a minimum of confusion and with no substantial departure from well-established water law, both procedural and substantive, concerning the assertion and protection of water rights as between individual citizens of the state. Finally, it preserves the effectiveness of the authority in carrying out its intended functions.

In resolving the questions presented, it is significant that Sections 11460-11463 are cast in terms of a legislative directive to an agency of the State concerning the manner in which it is to deal with the unappropriated waters of the State withdrawn from private appropriation as the result of State applications made under Section 10500. Our entire discussion here concerns the future right of inhabitants of a watershed of origin to satisfy their future needs. By definition, then, we are not concerned with water which was in private ownership prior to state filings under 10500. Water which has been put to use since the state applications were filed and which is covered by such applications is subject to the priority thereof; and water not yet presently in use but which will be needed at a later date has not yet been applied for; and it is with these two cases, i.e., unappropriated waters covered by the state's filings under Section 10500—that we are concerned.

Section 11462 is important in two respects. It provides that:

"The provisions of this article (Secs. 11460-11465) shall not be so construed as to create any new property rights other than against the authority as provided in this part * * *"

It is this provision which effectively prevents any attempt to construe the priority granted in Sections 11460 and 11463 as a "water right" in the conventional sense of the term which, if it existed, would be susceptible of individual ownership as against any and all persons and entities. Section 11462 further provides that the provisions of Sections 11460-11465 shall not be construed:

"* * * to require the authority to furnish to any person without adequate compensation therefor any water made available by the construction of any works by the authority."

This provision has important financial results. It is obvious that certain of the project works are so situated in a watershed of origin that their storage and stream regulation capabilities augment the natural flow of the stream within the watershed of origin. It is most probable, and each case would present a question of fact for determination, that there are instances where the ultimate needs of the inhabitants of the watershed of origin can only be fully met by some degree of augmentation and regulation of the natural flow of the stream. Section 11460 assures such inhabitants of the prior right to water sufficient for their ultimate needs. However, this does not mean that they are entitled to water "made available by the construction of any works by the authority" without paying adequate compensation for the benefits actually received from the existence and operation of the project works. Having to pay for benefits received does not detract anything from the benefit or effect of the priority granted. It is simple equity to the taxpayers of the State as a whole. It is the purpose and effect of this provision of Section 11462 to make it crystal clear that no person entitled to the priority reserved by Section 11460 is thereby entitled to receive free of charge water which is made available by the construction of any project works by the authority. Charges appropriate to such cases may be fixed and established by the authority pursuant to Section 11455.

There remains for consideration the effect of Section 11463. Like Section 11460, this section applies in the construction and operation by the authority of any project under the provisions of Part 3 of Division 6. It is a limitation on the power of the Water Project Authority to supply the needs of a watershed of origin from which water is being exported by means of the importation of water from another watershed. No such exchange may be made by the authority:

"* * * unless the water requirements of the watershed or area in which the exchange is made are first and at all times met and satisfied to the extent that the requirements would have been met were the exchange not made, and no right to the use of water shall be gained or lost by reason of any such exchange."

In practical operation, this provision has the effect of making the priority granted to watersheds of origin by Section 10460 effective as against both agreements and operational practices of the authority which result in the exchange of water between watersheds, as well as the outright exportation of water from the watershed of origin.

Section 11463 does not create any new or additional priority or preference. However, it prohibits the exportation of water under an exchange arrangement which would impair the fulfillment of the water requirements of the watershed from which such exportation is being made "to the extent that the requirements would have been met were the exchange not made." This qualification makes this section consistent with Section 11460 since the preference granted by the latter section is limited to the amount of water which originates in the watershed in question. In the event that a particular watershed cannot fulfill the needs of its inhabitants, the proviso in Section 11463 quoted above would become effective to prevent any part of the requirements of such watershed from being filled by water being imported into that watershed under the exchange arrangement to replace water being exported. That such is the intent of the proviso is made doubly clear by the clause which immediately follows: "* * * and no right to the use of water shall be gained or lost by reason of any such exchange."

Subject to the foregoing, the "requirements" of the watershed protected by Section 11463 are those which it may have at any time in the future. This is the meaning of the condition that "unless the water requirements of the watershed * * * are first and at all times met" no exchange may be made by the authority. In this connection, it will be noted that the prohibition is not merely against the execution of an exchange contract or any other form of specific agreement. Instead the prohibition is against a particular type of operating practice, i.e., the exchange of water from one watershed for that of another, regardless of whether the basis of such practice is a contract, agreement, or unilateral policy or practice.

The uncertainties which would otherwise arise by reason of this section are mitigated, from a practical viewpoint, by the over-all power of the authority to purchase or condemn any and all "water rights" needed for operation of the project when and as such "water rights" come fully into being and are vested in a particular individual under the applicable general law.

V. Constitutionality of Sections 10505, 11460-11463

As interpreted and construed herein, Sections 10505 and 11460-11463 are in our opinion constitutional.

The Legislature has ample authority to control the disposition of unappropriated water in the State. "These excess waters constitute the public waters of the State to be used, regulated, and controlled by the State or under its direction." (Meridian, Ltd. v. San Francisco (1939), 13 Cal. 2d 424, 445, 90 P. 2d 537, 547.)

The specific question has been asked whether, in reserving water for future use in areas of origin as provided in Sections 10505, 11460, and 11463, the Legislature has exercised this authority in violation of Article XIV, Section 3 of the California Constitution which provides:

"It is hereby declared that because of the conditions prevailing in this State the general welfare requires that the water resources of the State be put to beneficial use to the fullest extent of which they are capable, and that the waste or unreasonable use or unreasonable method of use of water be prevented, and that the conservation of such water is to be exercised with a view to the reasonable and beneficial use thereof in the interest of the people and for the public welfare. The right to water or to the use or flow of water in or from any natural stream or water course in this State is and shall be limited to such water as shall be reasonably required for the beneficial use to be served, and such right does not and shall not extend to the waste or unreasonable use or unreasonable method of diversion of water. Riparian rights in a stream or water course attach to, but to no more than so much of the flow thereof as may be required or used consistently with this section, for the purposes for which such lands are, or may be made adaptable, in view of such reasonable and beneficial uses; provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall be construed as depriving any riparian owner of the reasonable use of water of the stream to which his land is riparian under reasonable methods of diversion and use, or of depriving any appropriator of water to which he is lawfully entitled. This section shall be self-executing, and the Legislature may also enact laws in the furtherance of the policy in this section contained."

The immediate occasion for the passage of this amendment in 1928 was the widespread dissatisfaction with the judicial rule upholding the right of a riparian landowner to enjoin any use by appropriators of water from the stream to which his land is riparian which would reduce the natural flow of the stream past his land, even if enforcement of this right might result in a waste of water. (Herminghaus v. Southern California Edison Co. (1926), 200 Cal. 81, 252 Pac. 607; Luz v. Haggin (1886), 69 Cal. 255, 390, 10 Pac. 674, 753.) The effect of the amendment is to deny a riparian landowner the remedy of injunction to prevent the use by others of water which he himself cannot use reasonably and beneficially. (Peabody v. City of Vallejo (1935), 2 Cal. 2d 351, 368, 40 P. 2d 486, 492.)

The amendment does not forbid the maintenance of preferences for prospective uses, so long as the water is made available for interim use by others who have a present need for it. Thus, the preservation of a preferential right to the use in the future of water not presently needed, despite the present need and use of such water by others, was expressly held constitutional under Article XIV, Section 3, both in the case of riparian rights (Tulare Irr. Dist. v. Lindsay-Strathmore Irr. Dist. (1935), 3 Cal. 2d 489, 525, 45 P. 2d 972, 986, 1014); and in the case of pueblo rights (City of Los Angeles v. City of Glendale (1943), 23 Cal. 2d 68, 75, 142 P. 2d 289, 293).

There are other examples of paramount or preferential rights which may be exercised in the future so as to supersede rights already being exercised. The California Supreme Court has approved a condition, in a permit to appropriate water for power generating purposes, making the right subordinate to future domestic use of the water (East Bay M. U. Dist. v. Department of Public Works (1934), 1 Cal. 2d 476, 35 P. 2d 1027). This condition was inserted for the purpose of carrying out the legislative policy expressed in Section 106. Sections 106.5, 1203, and 1460 to 1464, which grant a preference to applications for future municipal use, and Section 10500, which gives a preference to the applications filed by the Department of Finance, are as yet untested in the courts.

Neither Section 10505 nor Sections 1460 and 1463 prohibit interim use by others of water which may be reserved in the manner provided and as interpreted herein. To be constitutional, the section must be construed to permit such interim use, and that is how we construe them.

VI. Reversion of Water to Areas of Preference When Needed

From what has already been said, it follows that the interim use of water reserved for counties of origin under Section 10505, or for watersheds of origin under Sections 1460 and 1463 is subject to termination whenever such water become necessary for development of such areas of preference and proper applications to appropriate the water for use therein are filed and granted. In such case there would be no right of reimbursement for the project works which had been used for the interim use of the water exported.

Until recently, however, this consideration has been academic in view of the fact that the Central Valley Project to date has been of such scope that all of the legislation considered herein is predicated upon a project conception and engineering data indicating that a surplus or excess of water exists over and above the ultimate needs of the counties and other areas of origin for which the reserved priorities have been granted (supra, II).

Today we have under consideration the addition of large units to the existing Central Valley Project. More important, perhaps, is the proposed expansion of the areas of deficiency to be served with project water to include territory lying south of the Tehachapis. The Division of Water Resources is engaged in an up-to-date survey of the needs of the areas of origin, and upon its findings much will depend.

As the next phase of the State's coordinated plan for water development evolves, it may be that the effect of the reserved priorities now granted will impair the financial feasibility of certain project works required to transport present surpluses the great distance to Southern California. Future sound water development may therefore make it desirable that the Legislature provide a definite, quantitative ceiling on the preferential rights of areas of origin to the future use of water. One basis of limitation might be the ultimate needs of a given watershed but not to exceed the flow of the stream in its natural state. The logic underlying this suggestion is that any increase over the natural flow of the stream is directly attributable to the storage and stream regulation resulting from project works financed by the people of the entire State and that inhabitants of the watershed of origin would in all fairness be entitled only to their pro rata share of any such augmentation of the natural flow.

VII. Application of Sections 11460 and 11463 to the United States in the Construction and Operation of the Central Valley Project

The prohibitions contained in Sections 11460-11463 are limited by their terms to the Water Project Authority. Therefore, these sections standing alone would not apply to the United States.

Purely of its own force, state law could not control the United States in its construction and operation of the Central Valley Project. The project was authorized by the Act of Congress of August 26, 1937 (50 U.S. Stat. 850) and is, therefore, free from state regulation except to the extent that Congress may have affirmatively elected to comply with state law (United States v. Gerlach Live Stock Co. (1950), 339 U.S. 725, 739; Mayo v. United States (1943), 319 U.S. 441, 445, 448; Kauffman v. Kauffman (1949), 93 Cal. App. 2d 808, 811, 210 P. 2d 29, 32. The law thus firmly established is not altered by the adoption of the amendment to Article XIV, Section 4, of the California Constitution at the 1954 general election.

However, an affirmative election by Congress to comply with certain aspects of state law is contained in Section 8 of the Federal Reclamation Act of 1902 which provides that:

"* * * Nothing in this act shall be construed as affecting nor intended to affect or is in any way to interfere with the laws of any state or territory relating to the control, appropriation, use or distribution or water used in irrigation, or any vested right acquired thereunder, and the Secretary of the Interior, in carrying out the provisions of this act, shall proceed in conformity with such laws * * *" (32 U.S. Stat. 390, 43 U.S.C. Sec. 383).

This provision was made applicable to the Central Valley Project by the federal statute which "reauthorized" the project (Sec. 2, Act of August 26, 1937, 50 U.S. Stat. 850). In our opinion, Sections 11460 and 11463 are so inseparably concerned with irrigation in their application to the Central Valley Project as to fall within the purview of Section 8 of the Federal Reclamation Act, supra. The significant thing is that Sections 11460 and 11463 state the law of California concerning the use and distribution of water involved in the construction and operation of the Central Valley Project. It is true that these sections are specifically addressed to the Water Project Authority and are stated in terms of limitations on its powers. However, this fact is predicated upon the further fact that, so far as state law is concerned, the Water Project Authority is the one and only agency of the State authorized to construct, maintain and operate the project. Consequently, from the viewpoint of the Secretary of the Interior, seeking to ascertain the law of California concerning the distribution and use of Central Valley Project water in order that he may obey the mandate of Section 8 of the Reclamation Act that he "shall proceed in conformity with such laws," the law of California is to be found in Sections 11460 and 11463. And, insofar as the United States appropriates water for the purposes of the project and seeks to avail itself of the priorities established by the state applications filed under Section 10500, it is bound to comply with the county of origin preferences established as a condition of any assignment of such applications by virtue of Section 10505.

It must be recognized, however, that the general election to conform to state law contained in Section 8 of the Federal Reclamation Act is not controlling upon the United States to the extent that state law may be inconsistent with other and more specific provisions of federal law. That is, a specific federal provision, if it existed, would govern the general. However, no federal statute of which we are aware prohibits or prevents federal compliance with the declaration of state law contained in Sections 11460 and 11463.

This conclusion is apparently shared by the United States Department of the Interior. Over a period of years, federal officials have consistently taken the position that the United States is bound to observe the provisions of Sections 11460 and 11463 in its operation of the project. A number of their official utterances are collected in a letter to Congressman Clair Engle from the Regional Director, United States Bureau of Reclamation, dated November 15, 1948 (printed in Cong. Rec. Feb. 21, 1949, Eighty-first Cong., vol. 95, p. A-961). Likewise, the "Comprehensive Departmental Report on the Development of the Water and Related Resources of the Central Valley Basin," submitted to Congress by the Department of the Interior (Aug. 1949, Senate Doc. 113, Eighty-first Cong., 1st Sess., pp. 39, 64-65, 104, 121-122, 125), makes numerous references to protection of counties and watersheds of origin. Conformity with state law in this regard was further assured in an official statement of federal policy set forth in the report to the Legislature by the Joint Committee on Rivers and Flood Control, entitled "proposed Klamath and Trinity River Diversions and Other Projects of the Central Valley" (May, 1945, pp. 49-51; printed in Senate Journal June 4, 1945, p. 3393).

In 1951 the Legislature added Section 11128 to the Water Code, providing that:

"The limitations prescribed in Section 11460 and 11463 shall also apply to any agency of the State or Federal Government which shall undertake the construction or operation of the project, or any unit thereof, including, besides those specifically described, additional units which are consistent with and which may be constructed, maintained, and operated as a part of the project and in furtherance of the single object contemplated by this part." (Calif. Stats. 1951, Ch. 1325, p. 3216).

It seems obvious that the intent of this section was to make it clear that the interpretation of federal officials was consistent with the purpose of the Legislature in 1933 in enacting Sections 11460 and 11463. It removes any doubt but that, so far as state law is concerned, these sections do declare the law of the State for purposes of federal compliance therewith pursuant to Section 8 of the Reclamation Act.

In concluding on this subject, it should be pointed out that nothing contained in state law restricts the power of the United States to acquire by exercise of its power of eminent domain either water rights already vested in individual ownership or the unappropriated waters of the State. The reason is that the same federal statute which reauthorized the Central Valley Project and made Section 8 of the Federal Reclamation Act applicable thereto also expressly empowered the Secretary of the Interior to acquire all property, including water rights, necessary for the authorized purposes of the project by proceedings in eminent domain or otherwise (50 U. S. Stat. 850).

VIII. Power of State Engineer to Impose in Appropriation Permits Conditions to effectuate the Protection Contemplated by Sections 10505, 11460 and 11463
Section 1253 provides:

"The department [acting through the State Engineer, Sec. 10505] shall allow the appropriation for beneficial purposes of unappropriated water under such terms and conditions as in its judgment will best develop, conserve, and utilize in the public interest the water sought to be appropriated."

We have been asked whether, in the proper exercise of his power under this section, the State Engineer may effectuate the protection of areas of origin provided for in Sections 10505, 11460 and 11463.

Section 1253 is a codification of part of Section 15 of the Water Commission Act (Calif. Stats. 1913, Ch. 586, p. 1021) as amended in 1921 (Calif. Stats. 1921, Ch. 329, p. 443). Sections 1254 and 1255 are codifications of the remainder of Section 15 of the act. They provide as follows:

1254. "In acting upon applications to appropriate water the department shall be guided by the policy that domestic use is the highest use and irrigation is the next highest use of water."

1255. "The department shall reject an application when in its judgment the proposed appropriation would not best conserve the public interest."

The exercise of the authority to grant permits under Section 15 of the Water Commission Act has been held to be an administrative, not a judicial, function. (East Bay M. U. Dist. v. Department of Public Works (1934), 1 Cal. 2d 476, 35 P. 2d 1027; Tulare Water Co. v. State Water Commission, supra; Mojave River Irr. Dist. v. Superior Court (1927), 202 Cal. 717, 721-722, 262 Pac. 724, 725). The delegation of discretion by the Legislature to administrative agencies and officers is permissible and is not an unconstitutional delegation of legislative power, if the delegating statute establishes "an ascertainable standard to guide the administrative body." (State Board v. Thrift-D-Lux Cleaners, (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 436, 448, 254 P. 2d 29, 36).

Section 1253 is a statute generally applicable to the granting of water appropriations. In conjunction with Section 1255 it contemplates that the State Engineer act on permit applications in the light of what is, in his judgment, the public interest. In the delegation of legislative authority, the standard prescribed for the guidance of the agency or official in whom discretionary power is vested is inseparable from the particular agency or official in whom such trust is reposed. Conversely, where separate trusts are reposed in two agencies or officials, one may not presume to exercise the discretion vested in the other.

Section 10505 has a specific, as compared to a general, applicability to the appropriation of water. Strictly speaking, it is not concerned with the granting of permits to appropriate water at all. It deals solely with the terms and conditions upon which applications already filed by the Department of Finance on behalf of the State itself shall be assigned or the priority thereof released to others. The determination of these terms and conditions the Legislature has specifically entrusted to the Department of Finance. The question is whether "in the judgment of the Department of Finance" the requested release or assignment will deprive the county of origin of water needed for its development. Only the Department of Finance can exercise such judgment.

In a letter dated September 21, 1939, to the Director of Finance, the Attorney General ruled that in view of Section 10505 the Department of Finance must either (a) make a bona fide finding of fact that the assignment in question will not deprive the county of origin of water for future development or (b) include a reservation for adequate supplies of water for the future development of the county. In either case, the granting of an assignment by the Department of Finance is, in effect, a certification by the responsible head of that department that the purpose underlying Section 10505 has been served and that the full measure of protection has been granted to the county of origin. When the assignee seeks to process the assigned application to permit before the State Engineer, the question of the need for and the extent of protection to the county of origin has already been determined by the one agency expressly authorized and directed by the Legislature to make this determination. Nothing in Section 1253, or any other provision of applicable law, authorizes or even permits the State Engineer to re-evaluate and redetermine the issue already resolved by the Department of Finance. Needless to say, the State Engineer may, and probably should, incorporate into any permit issued such provisions and reservations as may have been stipulated by the Department of Finance as a condition of assigning the application underlying the permit. However, this is quite a different thing from the exercise by the State Engineer of his own judgment concerning the need for protecting the county of origin; for the latter there is no warrant.

A different situation exists with respect to Sections 11460 and 11463. These sections, unlike 10505, do not require the exercise of discretion by an administrative official in order to make them operative. Instead, they express a limitation on the power of the public agencies, state and federal, to which they are directed. The law of the State so established is a matter of which the State Engineer is bound to take cognizance in passing on applications for water permits.

Such action by the State Engineer may involve the issuing of permits to (1) an inhabitant of a watershed of origin, seeking to obtain additional water to meet his increased needs, or (2) an assignee of an application filed by the State under Section 10500.

As to the first category, in passing upon the application of a person qualifying for the priority granted by Section 11460, the State Engineer is to be guided by the provisions of Sections 11460-11463 in addition to the other standards provided by law for his guidance in issuing water permits (Sections 1200-1800). That is to say that an application, otherwise meritorious, made by a person who qualifies for the preference granted by these sections, is not to be denied or modified or conditioned as the result of any agreement, policy or practice on the part of the public agency constructing or operating the Central Valley Project which would deprive the applicant of any water from the watershed in question to which he would otherwise be lawfully entitled. In these circumstances the action of the State Engineer would be limited to the granting of the permit in proper form, but such action on his part would be a necessary prerequisite to the judicial enforcement of the mandates of Sections 11460-11463.

As to any assignee under Section 10504 of an application filed by the State, reference has already been made to the exclusive functions of the Department of Finance with respect thereto pursuant to Section 10505. As noted, the State Engineer may incorporate into his permit all pertinent terms and reservations which were made a condition of the assignment by the Department of Finance.

If the assignee is an agency of the State engaged in the construction or operation of the Central Valley Project it is firmly bound, as a matter of law, by the provisions of Sections 11460-11463 taken in conjunction with Section 11128. And if the assignee is an agency of the Federal Government similarly engaged, it also is bound to comply with Sections 11460 and 11463, not by operation of California law alone, however, but as a result of the operation of Section 8 of the Federal Reclamation Act considered in conjunction with the law of California (see discussion, supra, VII). Therefore, as to either state or federal agencies engaged in construction and operation of the Central Valley Project, the State Engineer may incorporate into his permit as conditions thereof the limitations on the powers of such assignees established by Sections 11460 and 11463. However, it should be noted that the statute imposes the limitations in any event, regardless of their inclusion or omission from the permit.

INTRODUCTION, FIRST READING, AND REFERENCE OF SENATE BILLS (RESUMED)

The following bills were introduced, and read the first time:

Senate Bill No. 127: By Senators Breed, Richards, Thompson, and Murdy—An act to add Article 9 to Chapter 2, Part 1, Division 1 of the Health and Safety Code, relating to air sanitation.

Referred to Committee on Public Health and Safety.

Senate Bill No. 128: By Senator Gibson—An act to amend Section 69891 of the Government Code, relating to compensation of court stenographers or secretaries.

Referred to Committee on Governmental Efficiency.

Senate Bill No. 129: By Senator Gibson—An act to amend Section 69688 of the Government Code, relating to compensation of judges of the Superior Court of Solano County.

Referred to Committee on Governmental Efficiency.

Senate Bill No. 130: By Senator Teale—An act to amend Section 28154 of the Government Code, relating to compensation for public service in counties of the fifty-fourth class.

Referred to Committee on Governmental Efficiency.

Senate Bill No. 131: By Senator Teale—An act to amend Section 28150 of the Government Code, relating to compensation for public service in counties of the fiftieth class.

Referred to Committee on Governmental Efficiency.

Senate Bill No. 132: By Senator Teale—An act to amend Section 28146 of the Government Code, relating to compensation for public services in counties of the forty-sixth class.

Referred to Committee on Governmental Efficiency.

Senate Bill No. 133: By Senator Teale—An act to amend Sections 10112 and 10200 of the Health and Safety Code, relating to vital statistics and birth certificates.

Referred to Committee on Public Health and Safety.

Senate Bill No. 134: By Senator Busch—An act to amend Section 487 of the Penal Code, relating to grand theft.

Referred to Committee on Judiciary.

Senate Bill No. 135: By Senator Collier—An act to add Chapter 5.5, comprising Sections 218.01 to 218.22, inclusive, to Division 3 of the Vehicle Code, relating to interstate highway user fee apportionment.

Referred to Committee on Transportation.

Senate Bill No. 136: By Senator Collier—An act to amend Sections 422 and 423 of the Probate Code, relating to administration of estates.

Referred to Committee on Judiciary.

Senate Bill No. 137: By Senator Collier—An act to amend Section 69687 of the Government Code, relating to the Superior Court of the County of Siskiyou.

Referred to Committee on Governmental Efficiency.

Senate Bill No. 138: By Senator Collier—An act to amend Section 69648 of the Government Code, relating to the Superior Court of the County of Del Norte.

Referred to Committee on Governmental Efficiency.

Senate Bill No. 139: By Senator Way—An act to add Section 1233 to the Fish and Game Code, relating to bears.

Referred to Committee on Fish and Game.

Senate Bill No. 140: By Senator Sutton—An act to amend Section 25632 of the Business and Professions Code, relating to alcoholic beverages.

Referred to Committee on Governmental Efficiency.

Senate Bill No. 141: By Senator Sutton—An act to repeal Sections 23038 and 23039 of the Business and Professions Code, relating to alcoholic beverages.

Referred to Committee on Governmental Efficiency.

Senate Bill No. 142: By Senator Dorsey—An act to add Section 70045.6 to the Government Code, relating to court reporters.

Referred to Committee on Governmental Efficiency.

Senate Bill No. 143: By Senators Dorsey, Thompson, Way, Teale, and Sutton—An act to amend Section 592 of the Vehicle Code, relating to parked vehicles.

Referred to Committee on Transportation.

Senate Bill No. 144: By Senator Brown—An act to repeal Sections 215, 216, and 217 of, amend Sections 210 and 214, and to add Division 2B and Sections 62.2, 215, and 217 to, the Vehicle Code, relating to reciprocity, and declaring the urgency hereof.

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolutions were offered:

By Senators Robert I. McCarthy, Abshire, Berry, Breed, Brown, Burns, Busch, Byrne, Cobey, Collier, Coombs, Cunningham, Desmond, Dilworth, Donnelly, Dorsey, Erhart, Gibson, Grunsky, Hulse, Ed. C. Johnson, Harold T. Johnson, Kraft, McBride, John F. McCarthy, Miller, Montgomery, Murdy, Parkman, Regan, Richards, Short, Sutton, Teale, Thompson, Ward, Way, Weybret, Dale C. Williams, and J. Howard Williams:

Senate Resolution No. 23

Relative to the Honorable Gerald J. O'Gara

WHEREAS, The Honorable Gerald J. O'Gara, having served with distinction for eight consecutive years, from 1946 through 1954, as the representative of the people of the Fourteenth Senatorial District in the Senate of the State of California, chose not to seek re-election; and

WHEREAS, The exemplary record of faithful service compiled by Senator O'Gara during his term of office clearly shows that he did not fail the trust imposed in him by the people of San Francisco, and

WHEREAS, Senator O'Gara was noted for his forthright honesty, for his personal integrity, and for his wisdom and sagacity on legislative matters; and

WHEREAS, Constantly he strove to support, by his actions, the best interests of not only his own constituents but of all of the people of the State; and

WHEREAS, He has, by his able and devoted service to the people of the State, well earned the right to rest upon hard won laurels of success; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, That this body does hereby commend the Honorable Gerald J. O'Gara for his distinguished service as a Member of the Senate and does hereby extend to him best wishes for outstanding success in the practice of law; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate is hereby directed to prepare and transmit a suitable copy of this resolution to the Honorable Gerald J. O'Gara.

Resolution read, and, on motion Senator Robert I. McCarthy, unanimously adopted.

By Senator Ward:

Senate Resolution No. 24

Relative to contests as to the qualifications, elections, and returns of Members of the Senate

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, As follows:

1. Whenever a statement of contest, petition or other communication relating to the qualifications, election, or returns of any Member of the Senate is received by the Senate, the Committee on Rules may retain such statement, or return it to the Senate for reference to a standing or special committee of the Senate. If the committee before which the contest is pending determines that the facts alleged therein are sufficient to merit investigation, it shall hold such hearings and conduct such investigation of the facts as it deems necessary. In so doing, the committee shall be governed by the rules and shall be vested with and exercise the powers contained in this resolution.

2. Notwithstanding the filing of the statement of contest, the contestee may take his oath as Member of the Senate, upon presentation of a certificate of election valid and regular upon its face.

The swearing in of the contestee shall be without prejudice to the rights of the contestant.

3. The committee and its members shall have and exercise all of the rights, duties and powers conferred upon investigating committees and their members by the provisions of the Joint Rules of the Senate and Assembly and of the Standing Rules of the Senate as they are adopted and amended from time to time at this session, which provisions are incorporated herein and made applicable to this committee and its members.

Until the adoption of Joint Rules at this session, the Joint Rules of the last preceding general session are incorporated herein and made applicable to this committee and its members.

4. In addition to the foregoing powers, the committee is authorized to appoint one or more persons as commissioners to conduct investigations on its behalf, including the examination, counting and canvassing of election ballots pursuant to Section 7236 of the Elections Code, and to certify under oath to the committee, or to a subcommittee, the facts so ascertained by the commissioner.

5. The committee is authorized to act during this session of the Legislature, including any recess, but not after final adjournment.

6. The committee and its commissioner or commissioners, except as in these rules otherwise provided, shall be governed as to procedure and the introduction of evidence by the law applicable to the trial of civil actions in superior courts. The contestant is the plaintiff, the contestee, the defendant.

7. In addition to facts certified by a commissioner as provided in paragraph 4, the committee may take such other evidence as it deems material.

8. In addition to witnesses that are called or subpoenaed on behalf of the committee, the chairman shall issue subpoenas to compel the attendance of witnesses or the production of evidence, or both upon the request of either party if the chairman deems that the evidence so proposed to be obtained is relevant and necessary to determine the contest.

9. At the trial of the contest, both parties may appear in propria persona, or by counsel, or both.

10. Each witness shall be examined in the following order:

- (a) By the party calling him.
- (b) By the opposite party on cross-examination.
- (c) By the party calling him on redirect examination.

(d) By the opposite party on recross-examination.

(e) By the chairman of the committee.

(f) By any member of the committee.

(g) By either party as directed by the chairman of the committee.

11. All motions or objections to evidence made by the parties or their counsel, shall be addressed to the chairman, and shall be decided by him. Any decision of the chairman may be overruled by a majority of the other members of the committee.

12. Before any witness gives his testimony the chairman shall administer to him the same oath as that administered to witnesses at hearings by legislative investigating committees.

13. No witness may refuse to testify as to which party to the contest he voted for if his testimony is material and it has been shown to the satisfaction of the committee that such witness voted having no legal right to do so.

14. The chairman of the committee is authorized to provide for a stenographic report of the proceedings.

15. All witnesses for either party subpoenaed and actually in attendance at the trial of such contest, and all other witnesses, the attendance of which by certificate of the chairman of the committee, appeared necessary in the judgment of the parties requesting their attendance, shall be entitled to receive for each day so in attendance and while en route to attend, the sum of five dollars ($5) per day, together with actual railroad fare of the witness from his place of residence to the place where the hearing is held and return, and Pullman fare when required. In the event any such witness travels other than by railroad, such witness shall be entitled to receive as mileage the equivalent of the railroad fare and Pullman fare when required.

16. At the conclusion of the testimony, the parties may submit the case on oral argument, or written briefs, or both, as determined by the chairman of the committee.

17. The committee shall report in writing its findings and conclusions to the Senate. If the committee is not unanimous, a minority report may be submitted with the report of the majority.

18. Upon submission of the report or reports provided for in paragraph 17, at the first meeting of the Senate at which a quorum is present, such report or reports shall be accepted or rejected by a majority vote of all the Members of the Senate entitled to vote thereon.

19. Neither the contestee nor contestant, shall vote or be counted in determining the presence of a quorum, in the adoption or rejection of the report or reports of the committee.

20. When the contest involves a recount, the contestant is, in the first instance, liable for the expense of the recount. He shall pay or advance each day to the committee, subcommittee, or commissioner conducting the recount such sums as the committee, subcommittee or commissioner finds necessary to pay all expenses as will have accrued by the end of the day. Such sums shall be part of the costs. From such sums the clerical assistants necessary for the recount shall be paid.

Otherwise, each party is primarily liable for the payment of costs created by himself to the witnesses or other persons entitled thereto.

21. The successful party to the contest shall be repaid from the Contingent Fund of the Senate any amount legally expended by him as the expenses of such contest, including his costs, and the committee shall file such claims as may be necessary to secure the payment of such expenses.

Resolution read, and, upon request of Senator Ward ordered printed in the Journal.

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT

Senator Ward asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent to have the Opinion of the Legislative Counsel regarding the rules relative to election contests printed in the Journal.

OPINION OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL
SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, January 6, 1955

Hon. Clarence C. Ward
Senate Chamber

Rules Relative to Election Contests—No. 4464

DEAR SENATOR WARD: We are enclosing the proposed rules for adoption by the Senate to govern the proceedings in election contests. We believe there are two points which should be called to your attention in connection with these.

First, the rules as drafted provide for the recovery of expenses by the successful contestant. No provision is made for the payment of the expenses of the member whose seat is contested.

Second, there may be some doubt as to the validity of a provision for payment of expenses of the contestant. In the case of Wessling v. Nye (1909), 156 Cal. 472, the plaintiff was a duly elected Member of the Assembly whose seat had been contested. He filed a claim with the Controller for the payment of his expenses from the Contingent Fund of the Assembly. The court held that in the absence of a statute or other provision of law authorizing the payment of such expenses the payment thereof would constitute a gift of public moneys and was prohibited by Section 31 of Article IV of the Constitution.

The case may not be controlling in the present instance as there was, in fact, no proceeding before the Assembly on the contest. The expenses were those preliminary to a contest. In the present instance the proposed rule deals with a situation in which the proceedings have been determined by the Senate in favor of the contest and in which there was a resolution authorizing such payment before the proceedings were had.

There is another method by which reimbursement could be made for the expenses of the member. If the houses agreed upon it, the expenses could be reimbursed by an item in the General Claim Bill.

Very truly yours,

RALPH N. KLEPS, Legislative Counsel
By CHAS. W. JOHNSON, Chief Deputy

ADJOURNMENT

MOTION TO APPROVE JOURNALS

Senator Ward moved that the Journals for Tuesday, January 4, 1955; Wednesday, January 5, 1955; and Thursday, January 6, 1955, be approved as corrected by the Minute Clerk and the Journal Clerk.

Motion carried.

MOTION TO PRINT STATEMENT OF SENATOR RICHARDS

Senator Richards moved that the following statement regarding the Opinion of the Attorney General on the scope and effect of Water Code sections, be printed in the Journal.

Motion carried.

Statement by Senator Richards

The Opinion of the Attorney General dated January 5, 1955, issued in response to the request of Senator Regan, interpreting certain Water Code sections and involving potentially a great portion of the entire water problem in California, is an opinion which cannot be lightly received. It points up the water crisis already facing large and important areas of our State—its effect portends future crises of even greater magnitude—with disastrous consequences particularly to Southern California, unless broad corrective actions be rapidly undertaken.

This opinion, the portent of which will not be tranquilly accepted by Los Angeles County, serves to emphasize the vividly apparent need for immediate and continuing high-level conferences looking to a composing of existing differences, in area interests and in legal theories—a broader understanding of the conflicting points of view firmly held by the residents and representatives of each of the many vitally concerned areas within our State—conferences which would recognize the undeniable rights and needs of the areas of water origin, and at the same time recognize the growing necessities of the areas of increased water requirement and use—conferences which would thus undertake to provide now, before it becomes too late, the equitable and realistic solutions which are required—achieved through laws which we must enact, and physical undertakings we must provide.

The needs of our centers of population must be heeded—and at the same time the rights of the areas involved must be preserved. That this is no easy assignment, is emphasized by the connotations of the Attorney General's Opinion. Unilateral legislation, unfair to any group involved, could, if attempted (or even if enacted) only lead to endless wrangles and result in hardship upon all of the people of this State.

Proper solutions should be sought by our working together—on the broad, to the exclusion of the narrow, aspects of this whole problem—silhouetted by the recent Attorney General's Opinion.

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolutions were offered:

By Senator Weybret:

Senate Resolution No. 25

Relative to the continuance of the Senate Interim Committee on Social Welfare

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, As follows:

1. The Senate Interim Committee on Social Welfare created by Senate Resolution No. 142, as amended, of the 1953 Session is continued as a Senate committee at this session, with the membership and with all the rights, powers and duties possessed by the committee and its members immediately prior to the commencement of this session. Vacancies occurring or existing in the membership of the committee shall be filled by the appointing power.

2. The committee is authorized to act during this session of the Legislature including any recess, but not after final adjournment. The committee shall file the final report of the studies made by it prior to the adoption of this resolution by the date specified for such final report in Senate Resolution No. 142, as amended, of the 1953 Session, but may file supplemental reports of studies made pursuant to this resolution at any time until the date of adjournment.

3. The provisions of the Joint Rules of the Senate and Assembly and of the Standing Rules of the Senate, as soon as such rules are adopted at this session or amended from time to time, become applicable to this committee and its members. Until the adoption of Joint Rules at this session, the Joint Rules of the last preceding general session are incorporated herein and made applicable to this committee and its members.

4. The unexpended balance of the money heretofore made available to the committee continued by this resolution, together with the sum of ----- dollars ($ -----) from the Contingent Fund of the Senate, is hereby made available for the expenses of the committee and its members and for any charges, expenses, or claims it may incur under this resolution, to be disbursed in the manner heretofore provided.

Resolution read, and referred to Committee on Rules.

By Senator Abshire:

Senate Resolution No. 26

Relating to Reports of Standing Committees of the 1953 Session constituted as investigating committees under Senate Rule 12.1

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, As follows:

1. All standing committees of the Senate of the 1953 Session, constituted as investigating committees by Senate Rule 12.1 and authorized to exercise the powers conferred by that rule in the manner provided therein, may file their final reports no later than March 15, 1955.

Resolution read, and referred to Committee on Rules.

By Senator Regan:

Senate Resolution No. 27

Relative to the continuance of the Senate Interim Committee on Public Lands

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, As follows:

1. The Senate Interim Committee on Public Lands, created by Senate Resolution No. 166 of the 1953 session, is continued as a Senate committee at this session, with the membership and with all the rights, powers and duties possessed by the committee and its members immediately prior to the commencement of this session. Vacancies occurring or existing in the membership of the committee shall be filled by the appointing power.

2. The committee is authorized to act during this session of the Legislature including any recess, but not after final adjournment, with authority to file its final report not later than the date of adjournment.

3. The provisions of the Joint Rules of the Senate and Assembly and of the Standing Rules of the Senate, as soon as such rules are adopted at this session or amended from time to time, become applicable to this committee and its members.

Until the adoption of Joint Rules at this session, the Joint Rules of the last preceding general session are incorporated herein and made applicable to this committee and its members.

4. The unexpended balance of the money heretofore made available to the committee continued by this resolution shall continue to be available for the expenses of the committee and its members and for any charges, expenses, or claims it may incur under Senate Resolution No. 166, 1953 session, and this resolution, to be disbursed in the manner heretofore provided.

Resolution read, and referred to Committee on Rules.

CONSIDERATION OF SENATE RESOLUTION NO. 24 (AS AMENDED)

Senate Resolution No. 24

Relative to contests as to the qualifications, elections, and returns of Members of the Senate

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, As follows:

1. Whenever a statement of contest, petition or other communication relating to the qualifications, election, or returns of any Member of the Senate is received by the Senate, the Committee on Rules may retain such statement, or return it to the Senate for reference to a standing or special committee of the Senate. If the committee before which the contest is pending determines that the facts alleged therein are sufficient to merit investigation, it shall hold such hearings and conduct such investigation of the facts as it deems necessary. In so doing, the committee shall be governed by the rules and shall be vested with and exercise the powers contained in this resolution.

2. Notwithstanding the filing of the statement of contest, the contestee may take his oath as Member of the Senate, upon presentation of a certificate of election valid and regular upon its face.

The swearing in of the contestee shall be without prejudice to the rights of the contestant.

3. The committee and its members shall have and exercise all of the rights, duties and powers conferred upon investigating committees and their members by the provisions of the Joint Rules of the Senate and Assembly and of the Standing Rules of the Senate as they are adopted and amended from time to time at this session, which provisions are incorporated herein and made applicable to this committee and its members.

Until the adoption of Joint Rules at this session, the Joint Rules of the last preceding general session are incorporated herein and made applicable to this committee and its members.

4. In addition to the foregoing powers, the committee is authorized to appoint one or more persons as commissioners to conduct investigations on its behalf, including the examination, counting and canvassing of election ballots pursuant to Section 7236 of the Elections Code, and to certify under oath to the committee, or to a subcommittee, the facts so ascertained by the commissioner.

5. The committee is authorized to act during this session of the Legislature, including any recess, but not after final adjournment.

6. The committee and its commissioner or commissioners, except as in these rules otherwise provided, shall be governed as to procedure and the introduction of evidence by the law applicable to the trial of civil actions in superior courts. The contestant is the plaintiff, the contestee, the defendant.

7. In addition to facts certified by a commissioner as provided in paragraph 4, the committee may take such other evidence as it deems material.

8. In addition to witnesses that are called or subpoenaed on behalf of the committee, the chairman shall issue subpoenas to compel the attendance of witnesses or the production of evidence, or both upon the request of either party if the chairman deems that the evidence so proposed to be obtained is relevant and necessary to determine the contest.

9. At the trial of the contest, both parties may appear in propria persona, or by counsel, or both.

10. Each witness shall be examined in the following order :

(a) By the party calling him.

(b) By the opposite party on cross-examination.

(c) By the party calling him on redirect examination.

(d) By the opposite party on recross-examination.

(e) By the chairman of the committee.

(f) By any member of the committee.

(g) By either party as directed by the chairman of the committee.

11. All motions or objections to evidence made by the parties or their counsel, shall be addressed to the chairman, and shall be decided by him. Any decision of the chairman may be overruled by a majority of the other members of the committee.

12. Before any witness gives his testimony the chairman shall administer to him the same oath as that administered to witnesses at hearings by legislative investigating committees.

13. No witness may refuse to testify as to which party to the contest he voted for if his testimony is material and it has been shown to the satisfaction of the committee that such witness voted having no legal right to do so.

14. The chairman of the committee is authorized to provide for a stenographic report of the proceedings.

15. All witnesses for either party subpoenaed and actually in attendance at the trial of such contest, and all other witnesses, the attendance of which by certificate of the chairman of the committee, appeared necessary in the judgment of the parties requesting their attendance, shall be entitled to receive for each day so in attendance and while en route to attend, the sum of five dollars ($5) per day, together with actual railroad fare of the witness from his place of residence to the place where the hearing is held and return, and Pullman fare when required. In the event any such witness travels other than by railroad, such witness shall be entitled to receive as mileage the equivalent of the railroad fare and Pullman fare when required.

16. At the conclusion of the testimony, the parties may submit the case on oral argument, or written briefs, or both, as determined by the chairman of the committee.

17. The committee shall report in writing its findings and conclusions to the Senate. If the committee is not unanimous, a minority report may be submitted with the report of the majority.

18. Upon submission of the report or reports provided for in paragraph 17, at the first meeting of the Senate at which a quorum is present, such report or reports shall be accepted or rejected by a majority vote of all the Members of the Senate entitled to vote thereon.

19. Neither the contestee nor contestant, shall vote or be counted in determining the presence of a quorum, in the adoption or rejection of the report or reports of the committee.

20. When the contest involves a recount, the contestant is, in the first instance, liable for the expense of the recount. He shall pay or advance each day to the committee, subcommittee, or commissioner conducting the recount such sums as the committee, subcommittee or commissioner finds necessary to pay all expenses as will have accrued by the end of the day. Such sums shall be part of the costs. From such sums the clerical assistants necessary for the recount shall be paid. Otherwise, each party is primarily liable for the payment of costs created by himself to the witnesses or other persons entitled thereto.

21. The successful party to the contest shall be repaid from the Contingent Fund of the Senate any amount legally expended by him as the expenses of such contest, including his costs. The committee shall determine whether the amount claimed is reasonable, and shall file such claims as may be necessary to secure the payment of the amount so determined.

Resolution read, as amended.

The roll was called, and the resolution adopted by the following vote:

AYES—Senators Abshire, Berry, Breed, Brown, Busch, Byrne, Cobey, Collier, Coombs, Cunningham, Desmond, Dilworth, Donnelly, Dorsey, Erhart, Gibson, Grunsky, Hulse, Ed. C. Johnson, Harold T. By PAUL F. CRUM, Assistant Clerk

FIRST READING AND REFERENCE OF ASSEMBLY BILLS

The following resolution was read the first time:

Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 11—Relative to the display of the California State Flag.

Resolution read, and referred to Committee on Rules.

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolution was offered :

By Senator Ward :

Senate Resolution No. 32

Resolved, by the Senate of the State of California, That the following be, and the same are, hereby adopted as the Permanent Rules of the Senate for the 1955 Regular Session.

STANDING RULES OF THE SENATE*Convening and Sessions*Hour of Meeting

1. The Senate shall meet at 11 a.m., daily, except Sundays, unless otherwise ordered by the Senate.

Calling to Order

2. The President, President pro Tempore, or senior member present shall call the Senate to order at the hour stated, and if a quorum be present shall proceed with the order of business.

Attendance of Members

3. No Senator shall absent himself from attendance upon the Senate without leave first obtained. A less number than a quorum of the Senate is hereby authorized to send the Sergeant-at-Arms, or any other person, for any and all absent Senators at the expense of such absent Senators, respectively, unless such excuse for nonattendance as shall be made to the Senate when a quorum is convened, shall be judged sufficient, and in that case the expense shall be paid out of the Contingent Fund of the Senate. The President or Acting President of the Senate, or less than a quorum present, shall have the power to issue process directly to the Sergeant-at-Arms, or to any other person, to compel the attendance of Senators absent without leave. Any Senator who shall refuse to obey such process unless sick or unable to attend, shall be deemed guilty of contempt of the Senate, and the Sergeant-at-Arms, or any other person, to whom such process may be directed, shall have power to use such force as may be necessary to compel the attendance of such absent Senator, and for this purpose he may command the force of the county, or of any county in the State.

Order of Business

4. The order of business shall be as follows :

1. Roll Call.
2. Prayer by the Chaplain.
3. Leaves of Absence.
4. Privileges of the Floor.
5. Communications and Petitions.
6. Messages from the Governor.
7. Messages from the Assembly.
8. Reports of Committees.
9. Motions, Resolutions and Notices.
10. Introduction and First Reading of Bills.
11. Special Orders.
12. Unfinished Business.
13. Consideration of Daily File.
14. Announcement of Committee Meetings.
15. Adjournment.

Executive Sessions

5. When a motion is adopted to close the doors of the Senate, on the discussion of any business which may, in the opinion of the Senate, require an executive session, the President shall require all persons, except the Senators, President of the Senate, Secretary, Minute Clerk, and Sergeant-at-Arms, to withdraw, and during the discussion of said business the doors shall remain closed. Every Senator and officer present shall keep secret all matters and proceedings concerning which secrecy shall be enjoined by order of the Senate.

Officers of the Senate*The President

6. The Lieutenant Governor shall be the President of the Senate. He shall have a casting vote when the vote is equally divided and his vote will decide the issue.

The president shall maintain order in the Senate Chamber and in case of a disturbance or disorderly conduct in the lobbies, the President (or Chairman of the Committee of the Whole) shall have the power to order the same cleared.

The President pro Tempore

7. The President pro Tempore shall, in the absence of the President, take the chair and call the Senate to order, at the hour of the meetings of the Senate, and shall have the same powers as the President.

It shall be the particular responsibility of the President pro Tempore to secure the prompt and businesslike disposition of bills and other business before the Senate.

The Vice Chairman of the Committee on Rules shall, in the absence of the President pro Tempore, perform the duties, and have all powers and authority of the President pro Tempore.

Presiding by Senators

8. The President pro Tempore of the Senate may name any Senator to perform the duties of the Chair in the absence of the President. The Senator so named shall be vested, during such time, with all the powers of the President.

Secretary of the Senate

9. It shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Senate to attend every session, call the roll, read all bills, amendments, resolutions, and all papers ordered read by the Senate or the presiding officer.

He shall superintend all printing and clerical work to be done for the Senate and shall have supervision over all attaches and employees of the Senate. He shall assign, reassign or transfer all attaches or employees to their respective duties.

He shall certify to and transmit to the Assembly all bills, joint and concurrent resolutions, constitutional amendments and papers requiring the concurrence of the Assembly, immediately after their passage or adoption by the Senate.

He shall also keep a correct Journal of the proceedings of the Senate, and shall notify the Assembly of the action by the Senate on all matters originating in the Assembly, and requiring action on the part of the Senate.

The Secretary of the Senate shall have custody of all bills, documents, papers and records of the Senate and shall not permit any such bills, records or papers to be taken from the desk or out of his custody by any person, except in the regular course of the business of the Senate.

All employees on the pay roll of the Senate are employees of the Senate and not of individual members and they are under the direct control of the Secretary of the Senate. Any insubordination or inefficiency on the part of any employee shall be reported by the Secretary to the Committee on Rules or if a Committee on Attaches be appointed, then to that committee.

Expenditures of Secretary

9.5. All proposed expenditures by the Secretary of the Senate shall be subject to approval by the Senate Committee on Rules or its authorized representative pursuant to Standing Rule No. 13.1, including expenses for telephone service, telegraph service, supplies, rental of typewriters, illuminating resolutions, traveling expenses and any other incidental expenses in connection with conducting the business of the Senate and performing any duties imposed by law or by the rules or the resolutions of the Senate. Claims for any such expenses and claims for incidental expenses of the Senate heretofore incurred but for which payment has not been provided by any other resolution shall be submitted by the Secretary of the Senate to the Senate Committee on Rules or its authorized representative and such claims, if approved, shall be transmitted to the Controller for payment pursuant to this resolution.

9.7. Pursuant to subdivision (d) of Section 9900 of the Government Code, the Legislative Auditor is hereby designated as the person embraced by the definition of "Secretary" set forth in that section.

Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate

10. The Sergeant-at-Arms shall attend the Senate during all of its sittings, execute the commands of the Senate from time to time, together with all such process issued by authority thereof, as shall be directed to him by the President. The Sergeant-at-Arms is authorized to arrest for contempt all persons outside the bar, or in the gallery, found in loud conversation, or otherwise making a noise to the disturbance of the Senate. The actual expenses of the Sergeant-at-Arms for every arrest, for each day's custody and releasement, and the traveling expenses for himself and special messenger going and returning shall be paid out of the Contingent Fund, and no other fees shall be paid him beyond his per diem. It shall also be the duty of the Sergeant-at-Arms to keep the accounts for pay and mileage of Senators.

The Sergeant-at-Arms shall place copies of all bills, joint and concurrent resolutions, constitutional amendments, and Journals, Histories and Files, when printed, on the desks of Senators, at least one hour previous to the opening of session.

Additional Duties

10.5. The Sergeant-at-Arms is authorized to procure such boxes, packing and other materials as are necessary to ship to the Members of the Senate at their various places of residence their bill files, books, stationery and other printed matter at the close of each session. All proposed expenditures by the Sergeant-at-Arms incurred pursuant to this rule or in performing any duties imposed by law or by the rules or resolutions of the Senate shall be subject to approval by the Senate Committee on Rules or its authorized representative pursuant to Standing Rule No. 13.1. All claims incurred by the Sergeant-at-Arms shall be submitted to said committee or its authorized representative and, if approved, shall be transmitted to the Controller for payment pursuant to this resolution.

10.6. The Controller is hereby authorized and directed to draw his warrants in favor of the Secretary of the Senate, the Sergeant-at-Arms, and other officers and employees who render services to the Senate as certified weekly by the Senate Committee on Rules or by its authorized representative, from the fund set aside for the pay of officers and employees of the Senate at the rate of compensation certified by the committee or its representative, and the Treasurer is hereby directed to pay the same.

The Secretary of the Senate and the Sergeant-at-Arms shall approve and transmit to the Committee on Rules the claims for their compensation and for the compensation of their respective employees.

10.7. After final adjournment expenditures by the Secretary of the Senate or the Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate for postage, express, freight charges, or other purposes for which cash payments are necessary, shall be paid from funds allocated to the Senate Committee on Rules for such purpose, subject to approval by the Senate Committee on Rules or its authorized representative. The Controller shall draw warrants on the Contingent Fund of the Senate in favor of the Secretary of the Senate or the Sergeant-at-Arms for such expenditures only in the amount authorized by the Senate Committee on Rules or its authorized representative.

The Secretary of the Senate and the Sergeant-at-Arms shall file with the Committee on Rules or its authorized representative receipts or vouchers covering all expenditures made for such purposes, which shall be transmitted to the Controller by the committee or its authorized representative.

Committees of the Senate

Appointment of Committees

11. The Committee on Rules shall consist of the President pro Tempore of the Senate, who shall be the chairman of the committee, and four other Members of the Senate to be elected by the Senate.

The Committee on Rules shall appoint all other committees of the Senate unless otherwise directed by the Senate and shall designate a chairman of each committee so appointed and a vice chairman of each standing committee.

In making committee appointments, the Committee on Rules shall give consideration to seniority, preference, and experience; provided, however, that in making committee appointments, the Rules Committee shall, so far as practical, give equal representation to all parts of the State.

The Senate Committee on Finance shall consist of four Senate Members of the Legislative Budget Committee and seven additional Members of the Senate appointed by the Committee on Rules.

Ten days before the commencement of any regular session of the Legislature, the Secretary of the Senate shall mail to each member a blank, in a form approved by the Rules Committee, on which the member may indicate his committee preferences and with such blank shall be mailed a stamped envelope addressed to the Rules Committee, care of the Secretary, for the convenience of the member in returning such form with his preferences thereon. All such communications shall be retained by the Secretary unopened and shall be delivered to the Rules Committee immediately upon the organization of the Senate.

11.1. Until the Budget Bill is finally enacted no standing committee shall report any appropriation bill to the Senate for passage except bills making appropriations for the salaries, mileage, and expenses of the Senate and Assembly, and emergency bills recommended by the Governor, whose letter of recommendation shall be produced before the committee before action is taken by the committee.

The standing committees of any general session shall be the standing committees of succeeding budget, special or extraordinary sessions unless otherwise ordered by the Senate.

12.5. Each standing committee of the Senate created at a general session is hereby authorized to study and analyze all facts relating to the subjects which would fall within its jurisdiction as indicated by Rule 12 of the Standing Rules of the Senate, including, but not limited to, a needed revision of the laws relating to that subject, and for such purpose shall constitute an investigating committee with power to act during the sessions of the Legislature, including any recess, and after final adjournment, and until the commencement of the next regular general session, with authority to file its report not later than the thirtieth day of said general session.

Each such committee shall have all of the powers conferred upon investigating committees by the Joint Rules of the Senate and Assembly, the provisions of which are incorporated herein and made a part hereof.

No such committee shall exercise the authority herein conferred except when, and to the extent, it is authorized so to do in writing by the Committee on Rules. The Committee on Rules may allocate any money made available to said committee for expenditures on behalf of the committees herein created, and the members thereof, in such manner as the Committee on Rules shall prescribe.

Committee on Rules

13. The Committee on Rules is charged with the general responsibility for the administrative functioning of the Senate. The committee shall have general charge of the books, documents and other papers and property of the Senate and shall see that the same are properly kept, cared for, filed, or otherwise disposed of in accordance with law and the rules applicable thereto. The committee shall also have the duty of making studies and recommendations designed to promote, improve, and expedite the business and procedure of the Senate and of the committees thereof, including investigating committees consisting wholly or in part of Members of the Senate, and of proposing any amendments to the rules deemed necessary to accomplish such purposes.

The Committee on Rules shall continue in existence during any recess of the Legislature and after final adjournment and until the convening of the next regular general session and shall have the same powers and duties as while the Senate is in session. The committee shall have authority to fill vacancies in any Senate committee or in the Senate membership of any joint committee.

In dealing with any matter within its jurisdiction the committee and its members shall have and exercise all of the rights, duties, and powers conferred upon investigating committees and their members by the Joint Rules of the Senate and Assembly as they are adopted and amended from time to time, which provisions are incorporated herein and made applicable to the Committee on Rules and its members.

The committee may make available to any Senate or joint committee or any Member of the Senate such assistance in connection with the duties of the committee or other legislative matters as the personnel under the direction of the committee or its other facilities permit.

The committee shall make available to and shall furnish to the Senate investigating committees created at this regular session and to each of the members thereof such secretarial and stenographic help as may be reasonably necessary for such committees and each of the members thereof to make and carry on the studies and investigations required by or of them by the resolutions creating such committees, and for such purpose, in addition to any other power or authority, the Committee on Rules may employ such additional stenographic and secretarial assistants as may be necessary, assign and reassign such assistants, prescribe the amounts, times and methods of payment of their compensation, and provide for the auditing of any and all records and accounts in respect thereto.

The Committee on Rules shall constitute the Committee on Introduction of Bills and shall have charge of engrossment and enrollment of bills, contingent expenses of the Senate and legislative printing except insofar as these functions are delegated to the Secretary of the Senate. The Senate Committee on Rules shall have charge of the attaches unless a Committee on Attaches is appointed.

The rooms, passages, and buildings set apart for the use of the Senate shall be under the direction of the Committee on Rules and the committee may assign the press desks in the Senate Chamber to accredited newspaper representatives.

Executive communication of nominations sent by the Governor to the Senate for confirmation shall be referred to the Committee on Rules, unless otherwise ordered by the Senate, without debate.

13.1. All claims for expenses incurred by interim investigating committees of the Senate shall be approved by the Committee on Rules, or its authorized representative, before such claims are presented to the Controller.

All proposed expenditures, other than expenditures of the funds of an interim investigating committee, shall be approved by the Committee on Rules or its authorized representatives before such expenses are incurred, unless such expenditure is specifically exempted from the provisions of this Rule by the resolution authorizing it.

No warrant shall be drawn in payment of any claim for expenses until the approval of the Committee on Rules, or its authorized representative, has been obtained in accordance with the provisions of this Rule.

The Committee on Rules may adopt rules and regulations limiting the amount, time, and place of expenses and allowances to be paid to employees of Senate interim investigating committees and regulating the terms and conditions of employment of such employees. Copies of all rules and regulations adopted pursuant to this Rule shall be distributed to the chairman of every such investigating committee.

13.2. Pursuant to the powers vested in the Senate Committee on Rules, and during such time as the Senate is not in session, the committee is authorized and directed to incur and pay such expenses of the Senate not otherwise provided for as the committee determines are reasonably necessary, including the repair, alteration, improvement and equipping of the Senate Chamber and the offices provided for the Senate in the State Capitol.

In order to avoid unanticipated reversions of appropriations for contingent expenses, the Senate Committee on Rules may designate the appropriation from which payment shall be made pursuant to allocations to interim committees or for other purposes. If there should be insufficient money available in any such appropriation to pay all claims pursuant to allocations charged against it, the committee shall designate another appropriation from which such allocations shall be paid.

13.3. The Senate Committee on Rules is responsible for the safekeeping of Senate property after adjournment of each session until the Senate shall reconvene again. The Chief of the Bureau of Buildings and Grounds is directed to leave the Senate Chamber and all the committee rooms and other rooms used by the Senators and officers of the Senate in such condition that they will be available for use of the Senate at any time; and it is further directed that no persons other than the Members, officers, and attaches of the Senate be permitted to occupy or use the offices, committee rooms and other rooms now occupied by the Senate without permission as hereinafter provided, and that the desks, furniture, and other equipment of the Senate be at the disposal of the Senate Committee on Rules upon adjournment of each session and until the Senate shall reconvene, and that no person except Members of the Senate be permitted to occupy any of the Senate's offices or make use of Senate equipment without permission of the committee or its authorized representative.

13.4. The Senate Committee on Rules is authorized and directed through its authorized representative, to make and maintain a complete inventory of all property of the Senate, including all such property in the possession or control of any Senate interim committee. The Committee on Rules shall have custody and control of all such property of the Senate and shall adopt such rules or orders as it may determine are necessary relating to the purchase, care, custody and use or disposal thereof.

No furniture, equipment, or other property, other than supplies, shall be purchased by any Senate interim committee unless prior approval is obtained from the Senate Committee on Rules or its authorized representative.

Status of Standing Rules for Preceding General Session

13.5. The adoption of the Standing Rules for any budget session or special session shall not be construed as modifying or rescinding the Standing Rules of the Senate for the preceding general session, nor as affecting in any way the status or powers of the interim committees created by those rules.

Schedule of Committee Meetings

14. The Committee on Rules shall propose to the Senate such schedules for regular meetings of the standing committees as will permit a full attendance of their members without conflict of committee engagements.

The committee may also propose such special committee meetings or special schedules of committee meetings as will facilitate the business of the Senate. Such schedules may provide a special schedule of committee meetings or upon certain days of the week or to meet any special condition which may arise.

Quorum of Standing Committees—Vote

15. Each standing committee shall determine (a) its own quorum, and (b) the number of votes necessary to take any action upon any bill, resolution, or other matter referred to it, but at least a majority of all members constituting such committee shall be required to report a bill out of committee.

The vote by the number of ayes and noes on each bill reported back on all committee reports shall be noted in such reports and recorded in the Journal.

Powers of Standing Committees

16. Each standing committee of the Senate to which a proposed law or bill is assigned shall have full power and authority during the session of the Legislature or any recess thereof, to make such investigation and study of and concerning any such proposed law or bill as such committee shall determine necessary to enable it to properly enact thereon.

In the exercise of the power granted by this Rule, each committee may appoint a secretary and adopt such rules as may appear necessary and proper to carry out the powers granted and duties imposed under this Rule. It may employ such clerical, legal and technical assistants as may appear necessary when money has been made available therefor by the Senate.

Each standing committee is authorized and empowered to summon the subpoena witnesses, require the production of papers, books, accounts, reports, documents, records and papers of every kind and description, to issue subpoenas and to take all necessary means to compel the attendance of witnesses and to procure testimony, oral and documentary.

The members of such committees are, and each of them is, authorized and empowered to administer oaths, and all of the provisions of Chapter 4 of Part 1, Division 2, Title 2 of the Government Code, relating to the attendance and examination of witnesses before the Legislature and the committees thereof, shall apply to such committees.

The Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate, or other person designated by the Sergeant-at-Arms or by the committee, shall serve any and all subpoenas, orders and other process that may be issued by the committee, when directed to do so upon a vote of the majority of the membership of the committee.

All officers of this State, including the heads of each department, agency and subdivision thereof, and all employees of such departments, agencies and subdivisions, the Legislative Counsel, and all other persons whether connected with the State Government or not, shall give and furnish to these committees upon request such information, records and documents as the committees deem necessary or proper for the achievement of the purposes for which each standing committee was created.

Each standing committee may meet at the State Capitol and do any and all things necessary or convenient to enable it to exercise the powers and perform the duties herein granted to it and may expend such money as may be made available by the Senate for such purpose; but no committee shall incur any indebtedness unless money shall have first made available therefor.

Special Investigating Committees

17. Except as provided by these rules, no committee for the investigation of any special subject shall be appointed except pursuant to a resolution which shall be entered in the Journal and referred to the Committee on Rules, and which shall be approved by a vote of a majority of the members elected to the Senate. The subject and purpose of the investigation shall be expressed in the title of the resolution and the scope of the investigations shall be consistent with the subject and purposes so expressed. No such committee shall have authority to extend its investigations to subjects not so expressed, nor beyond the scope indicated in the resolution. Unless otherwise directed by the resolution any committee so authorized shall be appointed within 20 days after the adoption of the resolution.

Funerals

17.5. The chairman or vice chairman of the Senate Committee on Rules may designate any one or more of the Members of the Senate as a Senate interim committee to attend funerals in appropriate circumstances. The members so designated shall receive their actual and necessary expenses incurred in the performance of their duties or in lieu of such expenses the same allowances for accommodations and meals, and mileage as is provided by the Joint Rules for members of investigating committees.

The chairman or vice chairman of said Committee on Rules or any Member of the Senate designated by either of said officers may incur such expense as may be necessary for the purchase on behalf of the Senate of suitable floral pieces for any such funeral.

All expenses incurred pursuant to this resolution are hereby ordered to be paid out of the money allocated from the Contingent Fund of the Senate to the said Senate Committee on Rules and disbursed, after certification by the chairman or vice chairman of the committee, or by the committee's disbursing officer appointed and designated therefor by the committee, upon warrants drawn by the State Controller upon the State Treasurer.

No Committee Expenditures Permitted

18. No member of any committee shall be permitted to incur any expense chargeable to the Senate unless authorized by resolution of the Senate.

Procedure and Rules

Joint and Concurrent Resolutions and Constitutional Amendments

19. Joint and concurrent resolutions and constitutional amendments shall be treated the same as bills; except, that they shall have but one official reading, which reading shall occur after they have been reported by committee.

Parliamentary Rules

20. In all cases not provided for by the Constitution, these Rules, or by the Joint Rules of Senate and Assembly the authority shall be Mason's Manual.

Suspension or Amendment of Rules

21. No standing rule of the Senate may be repealed or amended except upon an affirmative vote of a majority of the Members of the Senate, one day's notice being given, but any rule not requiring more than a majority vote may be temporarily suspended by a vote of a majority of the Members of the Senate. A rule requiring a two-thirds vote on any question may be amended only by a two-thirds vote on one day's notice, and a rule requiring a two-thirds vote may be temporarily suspended only by a two-thirds vote.

All proposed amendments to these rules shall, upon presentation, be referred to the Committee on Rules without debate.

Introduction and Reference of Bills

Introduction, First Reading, and Reference of Bills

22. Any Senator desiring to introduce a bill shall send it to the Senate desk.

The Committee on Rules shall check all Senate bills prior to introduction and all Assembly bills before reference to committee and shall designate the committees to which they shall be referred. The provisions of Rule 12 referring to the assignment of bills are intended as a guide to the committee but are not binding upon the committee.

Under the order of Introduction of Bills, the Secretary shall assign a number to each Senate bill, shall read it the first time, shall read the name of the committee to which the bill has been assigned by the Committee on Rules, and unless otherwise ordered by the Senate without debate the assignment of the bill shall then be complete and after printing the Secretary shall deliver the bills to the committee so designated.

Under the order of Messages from the Assembly the Secretary shall read each Assembly bill the first time, shall read the name of the committee to which the bill has been assigned by the Committee on Rules, and unless otherwise ordered by the Senate without debate the assignment of the bill shall then be complete and the Secretary shall deliver the bill to the committee so designated.

Introduction of Bills by a Committee

23. Any committee may introduce a bill germane to any subject within the proper consideration of such committee in the same manner as any member.

Introduction of Bills at Special Sessions

24. Whenever at any special session a bill is received at the desk, under the order of Introduction of Bills, it shall be referred to the Committee on Rules which shall decide whether or not such bill can properly be considered at the session. If in the judgment of the Committee on Rules such bill can be considered it shall report it back and designate the committee to which it shall be assigned. Thereafter it shall be assigned a number by the Secretary, be read first time, and referred to the committee recommended by the Committee on Rules unless otherwise referred on motion without debate.

Senate Resolutions

25. All Senate resolutions upon being presented shall be given a number by the Secretary. Such resolutions shall be printed in the Journal and indexed in the History and Journal.

Bills in Committee

Committee Hearings

26. During the constitutional recess or as soon thereafter as practicable the chairman of each committee shall prepare a schedule of hearings concerning bills referred to the committee. The schedule shall be arranged according to subjects insofar as may be convenient.

The schedules and any changes therein shall be delivered to the Senate as soon as convenient in order that due notice may be given to persons interested in the legislation.

Substitute Committee Bills

27. A committee may amend into one bill related provisions germane to the subject and embraced within the title; and with the consent of the author the committee may constitute such bill a committee bill by striking out of the heading of the bill the line "Introduced by" and the name of the author and substituting therefor "Substitute committee bill of the Committee on" and the name of the committee.

Recalling a Bill From Committee

28. The Senate may at any time by 21 votes recall a bill from committee.

Consideration of Bills

Order of Making Files

29. When bills are reported from committee they shall be placed upon the General File, to be kept by the Secretary as follows: All bills when reported to the Senate by the committee shall be placed at the foot of the second reading Senate or Assembly file, in the order in which the reports are made, and after the second reading they shall be placed at the foot of the Senate or Assembly third reading file, in the order of reading. Unless otherwise ordered by the Senate the File shall be taken up in the following order: Senate second reading file, Assembly second reading file and Senate third reading file, Assembly third reading file. The bills upon third reading shall be considered in the order in which they appear upon the File, unless otherwise ordered by the Senate.

An inactive file shall be kept to which bills may be transferred at the request of the author, or on motion, and they shall be so transferred when they have been passed on third reading file without action three successive times. Bills may be carried on the inactive file by author and bill number without setting forth the title.

Bills may be transferred from the inactive file to the second reading file on motion, and after being read the second time such bills will take their place regularly on third reading file and be available for consideration and passage.

Notices of committee hearings shall be published in the File whenever presented by chairman of committees to the Secretary for that purpose. For such purpose bills will be identified by subject or by number.

Special Order

30. Any measure or subject may, by vote of a majority of those voting, be made a special order, and when the time fixed for its consideration arrives, the presiding officer shall lay it before the Senate.

Messages From the Governor or Assembly

31. Messages from the Governor or from the Assembly may be introduced at any stage of business except while a question is being put, while the ayes and noes are being called, or while a Senator is addressing the Senate.

Messages from the Governor or from the Assembly may be considered when indicated in the order of business or at any other time by unanimous consent or upon motion.

Engrossing Bills

32. All Senate bills, constitutional amendments and joint or concurrent resolutions shall be engrossed before final action is taken on them in the Senate. Engrossment shall consist of comparing the printed engrossed bill with the original bill introduced and any amendments adopted to ascertain that it is correct. When a bill is reported correctly engrossed it shall be substituted on the File for the original bill.

Enrolling Bills

33. All Senate bill shall be enrolled immediately following their final passage and receipt from the Assembly. An enrolled copy of every such bill, amendment or resolution shall be printed and examined to ascertain that it is a true and accurate copy of the measure as it was passed. It shall then be authenticated by the signatures of the President or President pro Tempore of the Senate and the Secretary or an Assistant Secretary of the Senate and by the corresponding officers of the Assembly and transmitted without delay to the Governor.

Debate*Statement of Motion

34. No motion shall be debated until the same be distinctly announced by the President; and it shall be reduced to writing if desired by the President or any Senator, and read by the Secretary, before the same shall be debated.

Regulations as to Speaking

35. 1. When a Senator desires to address the Senate, he shall rise in his place, address the President, and when recognized he shall proceed to speak through the public address system.

2. No Senator shall speak more than twice in any one debate on the same day, and at the same stage of the bill, without leave; and Senators who have once spoken shall not again be entitled to the floor (except for explanation) so long as any Senator who has not spoken desires to speak.

3. When two or more Senators arise at the same time to address the Senate, the presiding officer shall designate the Senator who is entitled to the floor.

4. No Senator shall be interrupted when speaking, and no question shall be asked him except through the presiding officer.

5. The author of a bill, motion, or resolution shall have the privilege of closing the debate.

Order in Debate

36. When a Senator shall be called to order he shall sit down until the President shall have determined whether he is in order or not; and every question of order shall be decided by the President, subject to an appeal to the Senate by any Senator. If a Senator be called to order for words spoken, the objectionable language shall immediately be taken down in writing by the Secretary of the Senate.

Right to Address the Senate

37. No person other than a Member of the Senate or the President thereof, shall address the Senate while it is in session but the Senate may resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole and while sitting as such committee may be addressed by persons other than members.

Questions and Motions*Amendments to Bills

38. When amendments to a bill are reported by a committee or offered from the floor, such amendments shall be submitted in quadruplicate.

Adoption of amendments to any bill in the Senate prior to third reading, other than by roll call, shall not preclude subsequent consideration in committee or on the third reading of the bill, of such amendments or any part thereof, by the Senate.

Motion to Lay on the Table

39. When an amendment proposed to any pending measure shall be laid on the table, it shall not carry with it or prejudice such measure.

Division of a Question

40. If a question in debate contains more than one distinct proposition, any Senator may have the same divided.

The Previous Question

41. The previous question shall be put in the following form: "Shall the question be now put?" It shall require a majority vote of the Senators present; and its effect shall be to put an end to all debate except that the author of the bill or the amendment shall have the right to close, and the question under discussion shall thereupon be immediately put to a vote.

Call of the Senate

42. Upon a motion being carried for a call of the Senate, the President shall immediately order the doors to be closed, and shall direct the Secretary to call the names of the absentees as disclosed by the last previous roll call. Thereupon, no members shall be permitted to leave the Senate Chamber except by written permission of the President pro Tempore or in his absence of the presiding officer. Those members who are found to be absent and for whom no excuse or insufficient excuses are made, may, by order of those present, be taken into custody, as they appear, or may be sent for and then taken into custody by the Sergeant-at-Arms wherever found, or by special messenger to be appointed for that purpose. In the absence of a quorum, a majority of the members present may order a roll call of the Senate and compel the attendance of absentees in the manner above provided.

A call of the Senate may be ordered after the roll has been called and prior to the announcement of the vote.

No recess can be taken during a call of the Senate. During a call, the Senate may consider and transact any matter or business that the Senators then present shall unanimously decide to consider, but no call of the Senate shall be had during a call of the Senate, except that during a call which was ordered for the purpose of procuring sufficient attendance for the conduct of business of the Senate in general and not for any other purpose, such call may be made to apply also to not more than one item of business by motion made and adopted by a majority vote of the members present after the roll has been called and prior to the announcement of the vote on such item of business. Under such circumstances, when the call of the Senate is dispensed with as to the item of business to which it is so applied it shall be deemed dispensed with as to the purpose for which it was originally made. When a call of the Senate is ordered, pending the announcement of the vote upon the completion of a roll call, the pending roll call shall become unfinished business, the consideration of which shall be continued until further proceedings under the call of the Senate are dispensed with, when it will forthwith become the order of business before the Senate.

Reconsideration

43. On the day on which a vote has been taken on any question a motion to reconsider the vote may be made by any member.

The motion may be considered on the day made or on the succeeding legislative day but may not be further postponed without the concurrence of 27 members.

No vote on a Senate bill may be reconsidered on or after the last day fixed for the consideration of Senate bills prior to adjournment and no vote may be reconsidered on the last day of the session.

When reconsideration of the vote by which any bill was passed has been demanded the Secretary shall not transmit it to the Assembly until the demand has been disposed of or the time for reconsideration has expired, but if the bill has already been transmitted to the Assembly the demand for reconsideration shall be preceded by a motion to request the Assembly to return the bill. This motion shall be put to a vote immediately without debate and if not adopted shall preclude a demand for reconsideration.

A demand to reconsider the vote on any debatable question opens the main question to debate and the vote on the reconsideration shall be on the merits of such main question.

Voting by Senate

43.5. No action whereby a bill has been passed or defeated may be rescinded without the concurrence of 27 members.

Voting on Roll Call

44. Whenever a roll call is required by the Constitution or Rules, or is ordered by the Senate or demanded by three members, every member within the Senate shall without debate answer "Aye" or "No" when his name is called.

The names of members shall be called alphabetically.

No Senator shall be permitted to vote or change his vote after the announcement of the vote by the presiding officer.

Excused From Voting

45. When a Senator declines or fails to vote on call of his name he may, after completion of the roll call, and before the announcement of the vote be required to assign his reasons therefor, and having assigned them, the presiding officer shall submit the question to the Senate: "Shall the Senator, for the reasons assigned by him, be excused from voting?" which question shall be decided without debate. Unless the Senator is excused from voting he shall be required to vote.

Voting by Presiding Senator

46. When the President pro Tempore or any other Member of the Senate is presiding over the Senate he shall vote on roll call the same as though he were not presiding.

Vote Required

47. Unless otherwise required by the Constitution, the Joint Rules of the Senate and Assembly or by these Rules, any action which can be taken by the Senate requires only a majority vote of the Senate, a quorum being present.

The following actions require 30 votes:

1. To introduce bills after the constitutional recess—(Constitution, Art. IV, Sec. 2).

The following actions require 27 votes:

2. To pass urgency measures—(Constitution, Art. IV, Sec. 1).
3. To suspend constitutional provisions requiring reading bills on three several days—(Constitution, Art. IV, Sec. 15).
4. To pass bills over the Governor's veto—(Constitution, Art. IV, Sec. 16).
5. To increase or diminish the number of superior court judges or to remove judges—(Constitution, Art. VI, Secs. 9, 10).
6. To propose constitutional amendments or revision of the Constitution—(Constitution, Art. XVIII, Secs. 1, 2).
7. To change rate of taxation for state purposes—(Constitution, Art. XIII, Secs. 14, 16).
8. To authorize deposit of public money in banks—(Constitution, Art. XI, Sec. 16½).
9. To remove a member of the Public Utilities Commission—(Constitution, Art. XII, Sec. 22).
10. To change rates or conditions under the State Employees' Retirement System—(Constitution, Art. IV, Sec. 22a).
11. To propose change in location of state capital—(Constitution, Art. XX, Sec. 1).
12. To reconsider the vote by which a concurrent resolution proposing a constitutional amendment is defeated.
13. To rescind the action whereby a bill has been passed or defeated.
14. To suspend the Rule against lobbying in the Senate Chamber.
15. To concur in Assembly amendments to or to adopt a report of a Committee on Conference concerning constitutional amendments or bills which require 27 votes for passage.
16. To concur in any Assembly amendments to, or any conference report affecting, any Senate bill which contains an item or items of appropriation subject to reduction or elimination under the provisions of Section 34A of Article IV of the Constitution.

The following actions require 21 votes:

17. To amend or suspend the Rules.
18. To pass bills, unless under some other Rule a larger vote is required—(Constitution, Art. IV, Sec. 15).
19. To adopt a concurrent resolution approving a county or city charter or amendment thereto—(Constitution, Art. XI, Secs. 7½ and 8).
20. To adopt joint and concurrent resolutions.
21. To reconsider bills, joint and concurrent resolutions.
22. To confirm appointments by the Governor or to reconsider the same.
23. To recall a bill from committee.
24. To concur in Assembly amendments to or to adopt a report of a Committee on Conference concerning concurrent or joint resolutions or bills which require 21 votes for passage.

Actions requiring 14 votes:

25. To reconsider a vote by which a concurrent resolution proposing a constitutional amendment was adopted.

Vote Required for Amendments

48. A constitutional amendment or bill requiring a vote of two-thirds of the members elected to the Senate for final adoption or passage may be amended by a majority of those voting.

Contents of Senate Journal

Proceedings to Be Printed

49. The proceedings of the Senate, when not acting as a Committee of the Whole, shall be entered in the Journal as concisely as possible, care being taken to record a true and accurate account of the proceedings.

The Journal shall state the name of the Senator presenting each Assembly bill, concurrent or joint resolution or constitutional amendment to the Senate for final action.

Every vote of the Senate shall be recorded in the Journal. The committee vote on each bill reported back by a committee, and if a bill is signed out that fact also shall be recorded in the Journal.

Titles of Bills to Be Printed

50. The titles of all bills, joint and concurrent resolutions, and constitutional amendments when introduced and when acted upon by the Senate, and a brief statement of the contents of each petition, memorial or paper presented to the Senate shall be printed in the Journal.

Other Matter to Be Printed

51. Messages from the Governor (other than biennial messages and inaugural addresses) shall be printed in the Journal, unless otherwise ordered by the Senate.

Letters of transmittal presenting reports of interim committees and reports of such state departments and agencies as shall be made to the Senate pursuant to law or resolutions adopted by the Senate, shall be printed in the Journal, but the reports shall be printed in the Appendix to Journals unless otherwise directed by the Senate.

Legislative Printing*Duty of Secretary to Order Printing

52. It shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Senate and he is hereby directed during and between sessions of the Legislature to order for the Senate the necessary printing including stationery for the members, and to audit and approve all bills for printing to be charged to the Senate. The Secretary shall order from the State Printer such number of copies of bills, Journals, Histories, Files, forms and other printing as shall be necessary.

It shall further be the duty of the Secretary to order bills and other legislative publications for which there is a demand printed before the supply of same shall become exhausted.

Printing Only on Written Orders; Rush Orders

53. The State Printer shall not charge any printing or other work to the Senate except as required by law unless he has a written order from the Secretary of the Senate prior to the beginning of the printing or other work. All printing ordered by the Secretary shall be delivered as directed by him. The Secretary may, when necessity requires it, order from the State Printer such printing as he deems necessary to be printed in advance of the regular order of business, under specially prepared written order, to be known as a "Rush Order."

Form of Printing Amendments

54. When any bill of either house is amended it shall be immediately reprinted; new matter shall be printed in italics in the printed bill; and matter to be omitted shall be printed in type bearing a single horizontal line through the center and commonly known as "strikeout" type. When a bill is enrolled, all such italics and "strikeout" type shall be omitted and the bill shall be printed in the usual roman type.

The Senate Chamber*Admission Within Bar to Senate

55. It shall be the duty of the Sergeant-at-Arms to prevent all persons except Senators, ex-Senators, Members of the Assembly, state officers, officers of the two houses, and such accredited newspaper representatives as have seats assigned to them from coming within the bar of the Senate unless upon the invitation of the President or a Senator. No visitor shall be allowed upon the floor while the Senate is in session.

56. No person engaged in presenting to the Senate or any of its committees any business, claim, or legislation, shall be permitted to engage in such business in the Senate Chamber or be permitted on the floor of the Senate at any time while the Senate is in session. Any person transgressing this rule shall be removed from the floor of the Senate and shall be debarred from the privilege of the floor during the remainder of the entire session. The President and President pro Tempore are charged with the enforcement of this rule, and this rule cannot be suspended except by a two-thirds vote of the entire Senate.

This rule shall not apply to members of either house of the Legislature, officers of the State or other public agencies.

57. In addition to any other committee provided for by these rules, there shall be a committee to be known as and called the Special Senate Committee on Legislative Representation, which is hereby declared to be a continuing body authorized to act both during and between sessions of the Legislature.

The committee shall have the rights, powers and duties prescribed in Section 9909 of the Government Code, specifically including but not limited to the authority to grant certificates of registration as legislative advocates, and all the rights and powers of legislative investigating committees as provided by the Joint Rules of the Senate and Assembly.

The committees shall study and analyze all facts relating to legislative representation and the regulation thereof, and shall report thereon to the Legislature at each general session and from time to time as the committee deems necessary, including in the reports its recommendations for appropriate legislation.

The committee shall consist of five Members of the Senate to be selected by majority vote of the Senate at each general session of the Legislature. No more than three members of the committee shall be from any one political party. The committee shall select its own chairman.

Any vacancy occurring between general sessions shall be filled by the Committee on Rules, and the Senators appointed shall hold over until their successors are regularly selected.

Resolution read.

The roll was called, and the resolution adopted by the following vote:

PRAYER

Infinite God: We stand in awe beneath the majestic dome of this Capitol, surrounded by myriad historic associations, and hear many voices addressing us.

Here are the sacred mementos of pioneers which ever arouse our reverence, and here are the battle-worn Flags of many bloody conflicts.

Upon the stately walls and corridors are the resplendent figures of many noble servants of the people.

We remember that this chamber was once graced by famous men, and that this chamber echoed with their patriot voices.

Let the venerable past ever stir our sentiments of devotion.

Let the great dome that soars above us add a loftiness to our minds and a spacious vista to our outlook on public affairs—AMEN.

COMMUNICATIONS

The following communication was received and read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE, CIVIL AERONAUTICS ADMINISTRATION
LOS ANGELES 45, CALIFORNIA, January 11, 1955

Mr. J. A. Beck
Secretary of the Senate
State of California
Sacramento, California

DEAR MR. BECK: We wish to acknowledge receipt of your telegram of January 5 transmitting to us a joint resolution of the State Legislature concerning a Department of Defense proposed Restricted Area in the Owens, Antelope, and Death Valleys. We are enclosing for your information a press release which we have just issued on the subject. If there should be any further questions please let us know.

Sincerely yours,

J. S. MARRIOTT, Regional Administrator

Enclosure

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE, CIVIL AERONAUTICS ADMINISTRATION
LOS ANGELES 45, CALIFORNIA, January 11, 1955

On January 6, 1955, the Los Angeles Regional Airspace Subcommittee amicably resolved conflicting civil and military aviation interests which were involved in a Department of Defense proposal to establish a Restricted Area Complex in the Owens, Antelope, and Death Valley areas of California. Under the Defense Department proposal which first came before the subcommittee on November 18, 1954, all civil flights in this area would have been prohibited unless specific prior military approval were obtained. However, the Defense Department's spokesman indicated at the time of the original submission that the military would be willing to make arrangements for ingress and egress in some parts of the area for civil aviation. The matter was deferred until January 6th with the interim period being set aside for working out a satisfactory solution for the use of this airspace.

In more specific geographical terms the proposed Restricted Area Complex would be bounded (1) on the north by an east-west line at a point about 11 miles south of Bishop, and extending from Death Valley to the crest of the Sierra Nevadas; (2) on the south, by a line extending roughly from the Tehachapis to Daggett to Silver Lake; (3) on the east, by a line roughly paralleling the eastern slope of Death Valley; and (4) on the west by the crest of the Sierra Nevadas. This area extends 165 miles north-south and 127 miles east-west at its widest points, and contains within it the following "Danger" Areas which are presently established:

D-276	Camp Irwin-----	Air Force—Army
D-277	Trona-----	Navy
D-278	China Lake-----	Navy
D-279	Muroc Lake-----	Air Force
D-306	Mojave-----	Marine Corps
D-447	Cuddeback Dry Lake-----	Air Force

A companion proposal and an integral part of the Complex provided for the establishment of a new "Danger" Area (Saline Valley—Navy), to be situated north of the China Lake Danger Area.

The Los Angeles Regional Airspace Subcommittee at its January 6th meeting heard testimony from 16 persons who represented civil aviation interests. All stressed the need for civil flights in the area for such purposes as the following: Power line patrols, water resource evaluation, rapid business transportation to Los Angeles, San Joaquin, and Bay area points, especially in the winter season. An extremely interesting use of airspace brought out at the meeting was meteorological research of the world-renowned Sierra Wave, part of which was being conducted by glider flights reaching altitudes upwards of 40,000 feet in the northwest portions of the Restricted Area Complex. After hearing testimony, the subcommittee undertook to reconcile civil needs with urgent military requirement for adequate airspace for flight testing research aircraft and missiles flying at extremely high speeds.

The solution worked out by the subcommittee allows civil flights up to an altitude of 20,000 feet mean sea level except within the boundaries of the existing and proposed "Danger" Areas within the Restricted Area Complex. As a result, civilian flights will be permitted, as at present, along the following approximate routes:

North-South

1. Bishop, California, to Los Angeles—via the Owens Valley to Mojave to Palmdale to Los Angeles.
2. Death Valley.

East-West

1. Fresno, California, to Las Vegas, Nevada—via Darwin, California.
2. Bakersfield to Death Valley—via Tehachapi Pass to Johannesburg to Trona to Furnace Creek.
3. Bakersfield to Daggett—via Tehachapi Pass to Mojave to Palmdale to Daggett.

Special arrangements will be worked out with appropriate military agencies to continue the glider operation during the soaring season.

The solution worked out by the Los Angeles Regional Airspace Subcommittee will soon be transmitted to the parent Washington Airspace Subcommittee for approval prior to implementation. The Regional Airspace Subcommittee consists of representatives of the Departments of the Air Force, Army, Navy, Commerce, the Civil Aeronautics Board, and the Federal Communications Commission. Associate but non-voting membership on the subcommittee represents the National Association of State Aviation Officials (NASAO), Air Transport Association (ATA), and the Air Line Pilots Association (ALPA). Chairman of the subcommittee is the Commerce member who is also the Regional Administrator for Region IV of the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

This case demonstrates the excellent cooperation between the civil and military agencies of government and civil aviation industry groups in solving a complex problem for the general welfare of all concerned.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE
SACRAMENTO 14, January 12, 1955

Mr. J. A. Beek
Secretary of the Senate
State Capitol
Sacramento, California

DEAR MR. BEEK: Transmitted herewith is a joint report on the Hospital Survey and Construction Program prepared by the Department of Public Health and the Department of Finance pursuant to Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 21, 1954 First Extraordinary Session.

A copy of this report is also being transmitted to Mr. Arthur Ohnimus, Chief Clerk of the Assembly.

Sincerely,

JOHN M. PEIRCE, Director of Finance

Report on Hospital Survey and Construction Program

Submitted Jointly by Departments of Public Health and Finance Pursuant to Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 21 of April 1, 1954

Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 21 of April 1, 1954, requests the Assembly Interim Committee on Public Health, State Department of Finance, and State Department of Public Health to make recommendations to the Legislature on two important questions relating to the California Hospital Survey and Construction Program. These are:

- (1) Should California participate in the 1954 expansion of this activity authorized by the Federal Government in Public Law 482 of the Eighty-third Congress?
- (2) Should state funds be provided for nonprofit hospitals which qualify for grants of federal funds?

The State Department of Public Health has administered the Hospital Survey and Construction Program since 1946. The program originally authorized for five years has been extended twice and currently is authorized to June 30, 1957. The federal program originated from recommendations of a national Commission on Hospital Care. Californians on this commission were Herbert Hoover, Rt. Rev. Monsignor Thomas J. O'Dwyer, and Wilton L. Halverson, M.D. The federal program since 1946 has provided federal funds to the states to assist in planning for necessary hospital expansion and for grants to assist in constructing individual hospitals. Each state has had the responsibility of planning for necessary hospital expansion and for making grants within the limits of available funds to assist in the construction of needed hospital facilities.

In the federal program established in 1946 the types of facilities for which planning was authorized and for which construction funds were authorized included general hospitals, tuberculosis hospitals, chronic disease hospitals, mental hospitals, and public health centers. At the President's request, Congress in 1954 amended the program by including diagnostic and treatment centers, rehabilitation centers, and nursing homes.

The chief purpose of the 1954 program expansion authorized by the Federal Government is to emphasize the development of facilities to provide rehabilitation and care for patients having chronic diseases. The 1954 federal amendments now authorize specific funds for facilities of this type in addition to the general funds available for the categories authorized in the original program.

The Hospital Survey and Construction Program in California has made a significant contribution to the total hospital expansion throughout the State. Ninety projects have been approved, involving 17 public health centers and 73 hospitals accommodating 4,737 beds. Grants have involved $23,279,000 in federal, and $13,076,916 in state funds. The program has assisted in approximately one-fourth of all hospital projects in California built since 1946, excluding federal and state hospital construction.

Rapid population growth in California has largely offset the very rapid hospital expansion which has occurred since 1946 and it appears likely this situation will continue. Because of the substantial increase in life expectancy it is anticipated in the future there will be increasing need for facilities to treat patients requiring long-time care and rehabilitation.

The Department of Public Health furnished to the Assembly Interim Committee on Public Health detailed information on hospital needs in California and data on the Hospital Survey and Construction Program. Assembly Bill No. 146 has been introduced to permit participation in the amended federal program, and its enactment is recommended.

This report, however, does not constitute a recommendation for additional funds. The Budget for 1955-56 does not include state funds to assist projects which become eligible in the amended federal program.

Enactment of Assembly Bill No. 146 will require legislative consideration of whether:

- (1) Present policy of state assistance be extended to the new categories. This policy would require an increase in the 1955-56 Budget.
- (2) State policy be established to exclude state assistance to these new categories.

Sections 435 to 435.7, inclusive, of the California Health and Safety Code establish the circumstances under which state funds are allocated to assist projects. Section 435.1 defines nonprofit corporations as "public agencies," and Section 435.3 requires that the Department of Public Health shall provide assistance, pursuant to this article, to public agencies. Until the Fiscal Year 1953-54 the State Constitution prohibited the allocation of state funds to nonprofit corporations; consequently in administering the program the Department of Public Health allocated both state and federal funds to cities, counties, and hospital districts, but only federal funds to nonprofit corporations. In November, 1952, the State Constitution was amended to permit the allocation of state funds to nonprofit corporations. Budgets for 1953-54 and 1954-55, however, contained the following:

"* * * The amount proposed is limited to the estimated matching requirements for construction of publicly owned hospitals and health center facilities."

In legislative consideration of future state policy, it is believed that the need for rapid and substantial expansion of hospital and health facilities to serve the State's rapidly increasing population should be recognized, including expansion of both nonprofit and governmental hospitals. Available data does not prove conclusively, however, that past policy of withholding state funds from nonprofit hospitals has retarded their development throughout the State.

In view of the existing statutes, it is suggested that the Legislature reconsider Section 7. Hospital Survey and Construction Act, and other applicable sections and determine whether the policy so expressed should be continued or modified. Courses of possible legislative action include:

1. If the State desires to continue the policy now in effect the state act should be amended so that allocation of state funds is limited to hospital and health facilities sponsored by units of government.
2. If the State desires to make allocations to nonprofit hospitals on the same basis of one-third in state funds, as is authorized for the hospitals sponsored by units of government, sufficient funds for this purpose should be budgeted.

3. If the State desires to establish some other percentage basis for state assistance the state law should be amended to establish some percentage other than 33 $\frac{1}{3}$  for all projects, for those sponsored by nonprofit corporations, or for certain categories of hospitals which are eligible for consideration in the program.

Respectfully submitted,

MALCOLM H. MERRILL, M.D., Director of Public Health
JOHN M. PEIRCE, Director of Finance

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolutions were offered:

By Senator Cunningham:

Senate Resolution No. 39

Relative to commending James Alan Guthrie for his outstanding accomplishments

WHEREAS, The list of names of the men who have made California great would be incomplete if the name of James Alan Guthrie of San Bernardino County were not included therein; and

WHEREAS, James Alan Guthrie is now observing his Fiftieth anniversary as a member of the staff and now editor and president of the San Bernardino Sun-Telegram, having begun his career with that newspaper as its high school correspondent in the year 1905 while he was a student at San Bernardino High School; and

WHEREAS, James Alan Guthrie on January 3, 1913, married Grace Kelley, which marriage was blessed by the arrival of a son, James K. Guthrie, and a daughter, Mrs. Kathleen Louergan, both of whom are associated with him in the conduct of the Sun-Telegram; and

WHEREAS, James Alan Guthrie has been a leader in the development of San Bernardino County, being a director of the Acme Colorprint Company, Pioneer Title Insurance & Trust Company; advisory board of Bank of America; chairman of the public information committee of the San Bernardino County and City Defense Councils; has been a leader of many civic campaigns; former director of the National Orange Show; member of the California Highway Commission; recipient of several awards for community service; Laymen's Citation Award, University of Redlands; member of the advisory board of the Automobile Club of Southern California; former member of the board of directors and in 1946 president of the San Bernardino Chamber of Commerce; member of the American Society of Newspaper Editors; Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalistic fraternity; member of the Native Sons of the Golden West and of the Presbyterian Church; and

WHEREAS, James Alan Guthrie has served as a friend and adviser to numerous young people embarking on business or professional careers and has been one to whom citizens in great numbers have resorted for sage counsel or advice; and

WHEREAS, In addition to all the foregoing, James Alan Guthrie is known far and wide as a man of generosity, conviviality and good will; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, By the Senate of the State of California, that it commends James Alan Guthrie for his outstanding accomplishments and congratulates him upon the success of his undertakings; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate be and he is hereby directed to have suitably prepared copies of this resolution forwarded to James Alan Guthrie and to members of his family.

Resolution read, and, on motion of Senator Cunningham, unanimously adopted.

By Senator Ward:

Senate Resolution No. 40

Relating to the continuance of Senate interim committees

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, As follows:

1. Each interim committee previously created by the Senate of the State of California and in existence on January 2, 1955, is continued as a Senate committee at this session with the membership and with all the rights, powers and duties possessed by the committee and its members immediately prior to the commencement of this session. Vacancies occurring or existing in the membership of each committee shall be filled by the appointing power.

2. Each such committee is authorized to act during this session of the Legislature, including any recess, but not after final adjournment, and is directed to file a report not later than March 15, 1955, and is authorized to file supplemental reports thereafter and prior to final adjournment.

3. The provisions of the Joint Rules of the Senate and Assembly and of the Temporary and Standing Rules of the Senate, as soon as such rules are adopted at this session or amended from time to time, become applicable to each committee and its members.

Until the adoption of Joint Rules at this session, the Joint Rules of the last preceding general session are incorporated herein and made applicable to each such committee and the members thereof.

4. The unexpended balance of the money heretofore made available to each such committee continued by this resolution shall continue to be available for the expenses of the committee to which it was heretofore available and the members thereof and for any charges, expenses, or claims each such committee<sup>a</sup> may incur under the resolution by which it was created or this resolution, to be disbursed in the manner heretofore provided.

Resolution read, and referred to Committee on Rules.

By Senator Donnelly:

Senate Resolution No. 41

Relative to the continuance of the Senate Interim Committee on Governmental Organization

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, As follows:

1. The Senate Interim Committee on Governmental Organization created by Senate Resolution No. 131 of the 1953 Session is continued as a Senate committee at this session, with the membership and with all the rights, powers and duties possessed by the committee and its members immediately prior to the commencement of this session. Vacancies occurring or existing in the membership of the committee shall be filled by the appointing power.

2. The committee is authorized to act during this session of the Legislature including any recess, but not after final adjournment, with authority to file its final report not later than the date of adjournment.

3. The provisions of the Joint Rules of the Senate and Assembly and of the Standing Rules of the Senate, as soon as such rules are adopted at this session or amended from time to time, become applicable to this committee and its members.

Until the adoption of Joint Rules at this session the Joint Rules of the last preceding general session are incorporated herein and made applicable to this committee and its members.

4. The unexpended balance of the money heretofore made available to the committee continued by this resolution shall continue to be available for the expenses of the committee and its members and for any charges, expenses, or claims it may incur under Senate Resolution No. 131, 1953 Session, and this resolution, to be disbursed in the manner heretofore provided.

Resolution read, and referred to Committee on Rules.

CONSIDERATION OF SENATE RESOLUTION NO. 34, AS AMENDED Senate Resolution No. 34

Relative to the creation of the Special Senate Committee on Election Contests

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, As follows:

1. The Special Senate Committee on Election Contests is hereby created and authorized and directed to ascertain, study and analyze all facts relating to the contest filed by Verne W. Hoffman relative to the election of Alan Short to the office of Senator from the Twentieth Senatorial District and to report thereon to the Senate, including in the reports its recommendations for appropriate action.

2. The committee shall consist of five members of the Senate appointed by the Committee on Rules thereof. Vacancies occurring in the membership of the committee shall be filled by the appointing power.

3. The committee is authorized to act during this session of the Legislature, including any recess, but not after final adjournment, with authority to file a final report not later than March 30, 1955.

4. The committee and its members shall have and exercise all of the rights, duties and powers conferred upon investigating committees and their members by the provisions of the Joint Rules of the Senate and Assembly and of the Standing Rules of the Senate as they are adopted and amended from time to time at this session, which provisions are incorporated herein and made applicable to this committee and its members.

5. The committee has the following additional powers and duties:

(a) To select a chairman and a vice chairman from its membership.

(b) To contract with such other agencies, public or private, as it deems necessary for the rendition and affording of such services, facilities, studies and reports to the committee as will best assist it to carry out the purposes for which it is created.

(c) To cooperate with and secure the cooperation of county, city, city and county, and other local law enforcement agencies in investigating any matter within the scope of this resolution and to direct the sheriff of any county to serve subpoenas, orders and other process issued by the committee.

(d) To report its findings to the Senate from time to time and at any time, not later than herein provided.

(e) To do any and all other things necessary or convenient to enable it fully and adequately to exercise its powers, perform its duties, and accomplish the objects and purposes of this resolution.

6. The sum of two thousand five hundred dollars ($2,500) or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby made available from the Contingent Fund of the Senate for the expenses of the committee and its members and for any charges, expenses or claims it may incur under this resolution, to be paid from the said contingent fund and disbursed, after certification by the chairman of the committee, upon warrants drawn by the State Controller upon the State Treasurer.

7. Until the adoption of Joint Rules at this session, the Joint Rules of the 1953 Regular Session are incorporated herein and made applicable to the committee and its members.

8. The Attorney General is hereby requested to provide a deputy to represent the contestee in the contest which is the subject matter of this resolution. If the Attorney General refuses to accede to said request then, notwithstanding any previous action by the Senate by rule or resolution, the committee may pay from the funds heretofore made available to it the fee, or so much thereof as it determines to be reasonable, of an attorney selected by said contestee.

REPORT OF THE SUBCOMMITTEE OF THE JOINT LEGISLATIVE BUDGET COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO RECOMMEND AS TO THE PRINTING OR OTHER DISTRIBUTION OF THE REPORTS OF THE LEGISLATIVE AUDITOR

January 3, 1955

To HONORABLE BEN HULSE, Chairman

This subcommittee was appointed to determine the distribution of the Legislative Auditor's reports made to the Joint Legislative Budget Committee and recommend for printing annually in the Journals those reports considered to be of general interest and not otherwise distributed to the Legislature.

An annotated list of reports prepared for the Budget Committee by the Legislative Auditor in 1954 is attached. It is recommended that this list of reports prepared in 1954 be printed in the Senate and Assembly Journals of the 1955 Session.

Not contained in the lists submitted herewith are various reports which have been prepared by the Legislative Auditor for individual Members of the Legislature or at the request of other interim committees. The distribution of these reports is a determination to be made by such member or committee.

The following reports, by action of the full committee or the chairman, have already been distributed to all Members of the Legislature:

Report of the Subcommittee of the Joint Legislative Budget Committee

Appointed to Recommend as to the Printing or Other Distribution of the Reports of the Legislative Auditor. (January 29, 1954) 88 pp.

Analysis of the Budget Bill of the State of California for the Fiscal Year July 1, 1954, to June 30, 1955. (March 1, 1954) 636 pp.

Special Censuses for Distribution of Highway and Motor Vehicle License Fee Funds to Cities. (January 21, 1954) Printed in Assembly Journal, March 2, 1954, and in Senate Journal, March 3, 1954. 18 pp.

Chronological List of California Legislative Interim Committees and Their Reports, 1954 Supplement. (July 1, 1954) 11 pp.

Survey of Retirement Systems, State of California, Part I. (October, 1954) 160 pp., tables.

Accounting and Auditing for the State of California. Survey for the Joint Legislative Budget Committee, by Price Waterhouse & Co. (November 30, 1954) 240 pp., tables, variously pagged.

Survey of Retirement Systems, State of California, Part II, Integration with Old Age and Survivors' Insurance. (December, 1954) 54 pp. (processed)

In addition, it is recommended that the following reports be printed in the Senate and Assembly Journals:

Report on Modernization of Certain Procedures in the Office of the State Treasurer. (January 29, 1954) 4 pp.

Summary Statement of Legislative Auditor to Accompany Budget Analysis for 1954-55. (February 8, 1954) 3 pp.

- County Service Officer Program. (February 15, 1954) 4 pp.
- Analysis of Effect on School Building Costs in the Use of Movable Standard Units and Other Uniform Procedures by the Los Angeles City School District. (February 17, 1954) 20 pp.
- Comparison of Horse Racing Taxation Among the States. (March, 1954) 12 pp., tables.
- Estimated Annual Cost of State Maintenance of the California Highway Patrol Radio System with Expanded Service and Facilities. (March 8, 1954) 5 pp.
- Extent of Junior College Courses Above the Fourteenth Grade. (March 11, 1954) 4 pp.
- Preliminary Analysis of Legislative Action on the 1954-55 Budget. (April 2, 1954) 8 pp., tables.
- Summary of Effect of Final Legislative and Executive Action on the State's Expenditure Program for the 1954-55 Fiscal Year. (May 7, 1954) 8 pp.
- State Subventions to Local Governments in California, Revised. (July 10, 1954) 56 pp., tables.
- Study of Costs of Cooperative Personnel Services of the State Personnel Board. (September 10, 1954) 11 pp.
- State of California Real Property Operations. (September 10, 1954) 35 pp.
- Analysis of Effect of Proposed Ballot Propositions Upon State's Finances. (September, 1954) 18 pp.
- Partial Report on a Study of the California Department of Motor Vehicles. (September 10, 1954) 97 pp., charts.
- Financial Condition of the State, With Particular Reference to the General Fund. (September, 1954) 8pp., tables.
- Interim Report on Study of Space Utilization and Costs in State-Owned and Leased Office Space. (September 10, 1954) 23 pp., tables.
- Survey of Status of Research and Programs Concerned with Alcoholism. (September, 1954) 58 pp.
- Use of Stock Plans and Portable Units by Selected School Districts, State of California. (October 20, 1954) 7 pp.
- Institutional Licensing Program of the Department of Social Welfare. (October 21, 1954) 13 pp.
- The Investment of State Funds in Office Buildings. (October 29, 1954) 16 pp.
- State Financial Statistics. (December 3, 1954) 6 pp., tables.
- Status of Plans for Organization and Budget of New Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control. (December 3, 1954) 15 pp., tables.
- Partial Report on a Study of the California Department of Motor Vehicles, Part II. (December 3, 1954) 36 pp., charts.

Reports not recommended for printing in the Journals are, for the most part, simply supplementary to previous reports, preliminary reports, or deal with subjects which are no longer current. Copies of these reports are available in the Office of the Legislative Auditor.

Respectfully submitted,

A. H. BREED, JR., Chairman
JOHN L. E. COLLIER, Member
T. W. CALDECOTT, Member

Report on Modernization of Certain Procedures in the Office of the Office of the State Treasurer

Prepared by the Legislative Auditor
January 29, 1954

A partial survey of the functions of the Office of the State Treasurer made by members of the staff of the Legislative Auditor during the latter part of October, 1953, disclosed that certain procedural changes in the trust and bond accounting operations would be of considerable benefit for purposes of proper control and for audit purposes. Furthermore, it appeared that modernization of procedures in these operations would result in future reductions of expenditures.

The findings of this survey were discussed verbally with the Deputy State Treasurer and, at the same time, a number of suggestions for changes in procedure were made. There has been complete cooperation on the part of the Office of the State Treasurer, and as a result of the survey, International Business Machines Corporation was requested to study the suggestions and prepare a specific proposal outlining the procedures, necessary personnel and equipment to put them into effect.

The proposal submitted by the International Business Machines Corporation was reviewed by the staffs of the State Treasurer and the Legislative Auditor and both offices were in agreement as to the feasibility of the proposal. A budget request for the necessary equipment and other changes was prepared by the Treasurer and submitted to the Department of Finance for approval. The Management Analysis Section of the Division of Budgets and Accounts reviewed the International Business Machines Corporation proposal and the budget request and substantially concurred in the findings and recommendations.

Because these changes will represent economies to the State and because they will reflect changes in the Budget for 1954-55, an explanation of the findings and suggestions and the reasons therefor are contained in the following statements.

TRUST ACCOUNTING OPERATION

Explanation

A trust fund consists of resources received by the State as trustee to be expended or invested in accordance with the condition of the trust or the provisions of law.

Agency funds usually arise through deposits, the use and disposition of which are restricted by the terms of the agency agreement, the State acting as an agent in receiving assets and holding them for a relatively short period.

Chapter 1534, Statutes of 1949, placed on the Controller the responsibility for maintaining the segregated accounts of moneys of state agencies deposited in trust with the Treasurer.

The function of the Controller to maintain these accounts is to post all deposits and withdrawals to individual ledger cards and furnish a statement at the end of each month to each agency. The Controller is performing for the several state agencies a function similar to that which a bank performs when maintaining a customer's checking account.

Findings

1. All warrants of the State of California must be drawn on the State Treasurer. At present there are two forms of warrants: (a) check form prescribed by the Controller (for trust accounts disbursements) and (b) I. B. M. punched card form (all other disbursements).

2. All warrants must be presented to the Treasurer after payments have been made by the banks. Totals claimed by banks must be reconciled against corresponding warrants before the Treasury makes payments to banks. Due to the fact that trust account warrants are not on the punched card form but are commingled with warrants of that type, it is necessary to process all warrants through bank proof machines to reconcile. Listing production of these bank proof machines is approximately 900 per hour per machine.

3. After the processing is completed in the Treasury, the trust account warrants are forwarded to the accounting office of the Controller where, by bookkeeping machine method, deposits and warrants are posted to individual ledger cards for each agency. Statements showing these transactions and balances are furnished at the end of each month to the agencies.

4. Four people are required for this operation in the Controller's office. The number of agency trust warrants processed yearly is approximately 480,000, excluding Department of Public Works, and all others average 2,020,000, a total of 2,500,000 per year.

Suggestions

1. Have trust account warrants prepared on I. B. M. card form to standardize all warrants.
2. Reconcile all warrants to claims from banks on I. B. M. electric accounting machines.
3. Make ledger postings and prepare statements for agencies on I. B. M. electric accounting machines in the Disbursements Division of the Controller.
4. Eliminate bank proof machines in Treasurer's office and bookkeeping machines in the Controller's office and reduce personnel accordingly.

Reasons for Suggestions

1. Considerable savings in time will result in the reconciliation in the Treasurer's office from processing approximately 2,500,000 warrants per year on the I. B. M. electric accounts machines at a rate of 5,850 per hour as compared to 900 per hour on the bank proof machines now in use.
2. Trust account warrants on I. B. M. card forms can be processed on I. B. M. electric accounting machines in the Controller's office at an increased speed to perform the functions now being done on slower speed bookkeeping machines in the Controller's office.
3. Errors due to human element using present key driven equipment should be eliminated.
4. Standardizes procedure.

BOND ACCOUNTING OPERATION*Findings

1. All bond accounting transactions are manually recorded.
2. Present system does not provide for a daily total proof of transactions against ledger accountability. Proof is made only once each month.
3. For audit of bond inventory under existing procedure a manually prepared listing of all securities is necessary. This is time consuming and costly.

Suggestions

1. That bond inventory be placed on punched cards.
2. That all recording of bond transactions be done mechanically by the punched card method.

Reasons for Suggestions

1. Savings of $6,500 annually, after conversion and one-time costs are absorbed, are estimated to result from new mechanized procedure. We believe this estimate is conservative and further savings may be obtained in the future.
2. Eliminates detail manual posting of transactions by higher salaried people than those required to record transactions by mechanical methods.
3. Provides accurate daily mechanical proving of total transactions to ledger accountability. Proving operation is now done monthly.
4. Mechanization will make it possible to provide listings of securities easily and quickly for audit by the Department of Finance. This has not been possible under the present manual system and should save the Audits Division of the Department of Finance considerable time.
5. Mechanization of the bond and warrant operations centralizes these functions and provides closer relationship with the accounting department and permits closer relationship of all operations.

Summary Statement of Legislative Auditor to Accompany Budget Analysis for 1954-55 Fiscal Year

February 8, 1954

Our analysis of the budget for 1954-55 is based upon the proposition that the expenditure program authorized should be adjusted sufficiently to permit the State to reasonably anticipate a balanced budget without taxes in 1955-56. With existing reserves, it can be expected that the budget for next year will be balanced. The real problem will be faced in the following years.

In order to prepare our analysis in advance of receiving the budget, it was necessary for us to establish reasonable assumptions as to what the final General Fund expenditure program of the State might be for 1954-55. Our tentative figures were:

State operations .....	266.9 million dollars
Local assistance .....	596.5 million dollars
Capital outlay .....	20.0 million dollars

Based on an assumed income of 804 million dollars to the General Fund, the same as was estimated in the budget for 1953-54, the State would end the budget year with a deficit of approximately 50 million dollars. Continuing on into the next fiscal year, if substantially the same levels of expenditure are projected forward and if revenues maintain the same level, this will produce an operating deficit of 112 million dollars which will need to be financed by a combination of any reserves remaining after action at the present legislative session.

The Governor's Budget figure for General Fund state operations is $268,859,000 compared with our assumed figure of approximately $267,000,000. Our recommended reductions in the state operations budget, as contained in the printed Analysis of the Budget Bill, total 7.5 million dollars, of which over 6.25 million dollars are from the General Fund. If the Legislature concurs in any significant number of instances with our recommendations, the authorized state operations budget will be less than that set up in our original estimates. This being the case, we believe that the over-all current deficit figures which we have used are reasonably accurate to present the nature of the financial problem which the State faces. The sum of these two deficits is 162 million dollars. Without any expansions in programs and some economies which might be effected both in this session and the 1955-56 General Session, it will be possible to balance this budget and that for the following year by drawing upon approximately 160 million dollars of General Fund money which has been set aside by the Legislature in special reserves. In fact, by taking all of our recommendations, including some proposed changes with respect to horseracing revenues and changes in statutory costs, a substantial start can be made toward balancing the 1956-57 Fiscal Year Budget without imposing major tax increases. Economies effected in the budget which is now before the Assembly Ways and Means Committee will have a cumulative effect which will bear very significantly upon the ability of the Legislature to finance the budget two years hence.

In the budget analysis which we have prepared this year, we have had occasion to call to the attention of the Legislature a number of matters which affect the over-all budget or which will affect a large number of departments. Some of these matters are as follows:

1. Pooling of State-owned Passenger Vehicles. At several places in the analysis and in a general section which follows the analysis of individual items, we have presented data designed to show the economies which would result from the operation of a central automobile pool, at least in the Sacramento area. Since the operation of a central pool would affect the budgets of a large number of departments and would require transfers between certain funds, this is a matter which the Ways and Means Committee might want to assign for study and report by a special subcommittee.

2. Fair and Exposition Fund. Contained as a special section in the analysis is also the recommendation that the financing of state operations can be made easier in future years if a part of the funds which now go to the support of county and district fairs is made available for General Fund purposes. Money used for fair construction might well be applied to the financing of needed construction at state institutions. Such a transfer can be made at a budget session without the necessity of special legislation, and this is, therefore, a major matter of policy to which the Ways and Means Committee might want to direct its special attention.

3. Further Studies Needed. Again, this year, our analysis of the budget contains recommendations as to areas in which further study and reporting would be desirable for presentation to the 1955 Legislative Session as an aid to the Legislature in acting upon certain agency budgets at that time. Major illustrations are in connection with Industrial Relations and studies of space utilization and requirements of departments.

4. Reorganizations. The analysis this year also contains a number of instances where, in our opinion, it would be desirable for the Legislature to consider either major or minor reorganizational changes. Many of these would require legislation, but we have brought these matters to the attention of the Legislature at this time in order that they may be given interim study for possible action at the next general session. A major illustration is in connection with water agencies.

County Service Officer Program

Prepared by the Legislative Auditor
February 15, 1954

The county service officer program was first established by Chapter 429, Statutes of 1939, which added Section 970 to the Military and Veterans Code. This section permitted the board of supervisors of any county to appoint, prescribe the qualifications of and fix the compensation of an officer to be termed a "county service officer." Chapter 207, Statutes of 1951, amended this section by specifying that such an appointee shall be a veteran.

Chapter 1493, Statutes of 1945, added Section 972 to the Military and Veterans Code, which permitted the Veterans' Welfare Board, out of any state moneys available therefor, to contribute towards the compensation and expenses of any county service officer established by any county. Contributions by the Veterans' Welfare Board towards the payment of the salary of the county service officer are restricted to a maximum of $75 per month. All legislation concerning the establishment of county service officers and state contributions to the costs of these officers is on a permissive basis.

In order to determine the nature of the services performed by county service officers, a member of our staff spent a full day at each of the county service offices in Sacramento (Sacramento County), Auburn (Placer County), Fresno (Fresno County), and Martinez (Contra Costa County). The services performed by the county service officers are generally in connection with the following categories:

Federal Benefits
Allotments	Medical care	Federal educational assistance
Pensions	Federal death benefits	Decorations
Compensation	Burial allowances	Discharges
Federal insurance	Federal loans	Miscellaneous
State Benefits
Farm and home purchases	Employment	Local financial aid
State educational assistance	Record establishment	Aid in securing housing
State Veterans' Home	Legal and court assistance	Reports to local government agencies and State Department of Veterans' Affairs
	Tax exemption

We have kept a log of the actual work and contacts and interviews performed at each of the offices mentioned above. An analysis of these logs indicates that each day in these offices is more or less a repetition of calls by veterans, veterans' dependents, veterans' friends or relatives, all seeking some form of assistance such as hospitalization, food and lodging, burial allowances, employment, disability benefits, entry to a federal or state veterans' home, legal aid of one kind or another, et cetera. We found also that each county service officer prepared a monthly summary of the number of claims filed and established, the number of veterans interviewed, the number of new cases opened, and a tabulation of the monetary or the monetary equivalent recoveries made as a result of the initiation of the various claims. We believe that it is reasonable to assume that much of the actual cash recovery or equivalent value goes towards relieving what would otherwise be county welfare obligations. For instance, in the report for October of 1953 for the Contra Costa County Service Office there is listed an item, "estimated bed days and savings to county." This amounted to 500 days or $4,000 which was saved for the county as a result of this many days of hospitalization in facilities other than those supported by the county, generally federal Veterans' Administration hospitals. It would appear, then, that the county service officer, as a focal point for veteran activities, is of direct benefit, financial and otherwise, to the county by reason of securing federal and state funds or other assistance for veterans. Consequently, it would seem that since the sole beneficiary, in a governmental sense, is the county, then the county should bear the entire cost of the county service office.

Our attempts to obtain information from local posts of various veterans' organizations have been rather unsatisfactory. However, we have evidence that in many cases county service officers disseminate information to post service officers in bulletin form. In turn, apparently the county service officers receive information from the State Department of Veterans' Affairs which is then included in the post service officer's bulletin. From our conversations with members of a number of veterans' organization posts, it would appear that the post service officers' activities have declined over the years to the point where most of them are now simply referring the requests of members or nonmember veterans to the county service officer, rather than to attempt to handle the problems themselves. In this sense there appears to be very little duplication between the work done by the county service officer and the designated veterans' post service officer. In other words, the establishment of the county service officer has relieved the veterans' organizations of the necessity to perform the sort of work for which these organizations were primarily established in the first place.

In view of the foregoing, we believe the costs of the county service office should be wholly a county charge and that no contributions should be made by the State towards either the salaries or operating expenses of the personnel involved. The State is one of the levels of government which is providing the actual monetary assistance to the veteran. As such it should not also be required to help defray the costs of establishing claims against itself. The counties receive substantial economic benefits from the disability benefits, insurance payments, compensations, federal and state hospitalizations, et cetera. Consequently, we believe they should bear the cost of operating the county service offices.

Analysis of Effect on School Building Costs of the Use of Movable Standard Units and Other Uniform Procedures by the Los Angeles City School District

Prepared by the Legislative Auditor
February 17, 1954

The problems faced by most school districts of the State in providing adequate classroom facilities in the face of increasing population, population movements from area to area, and a shift in the impact of school population from the elementary to the high school level, has made it necessary for the State to provide approximately 500 million dollars in grants and loans to school districts. Most of the construction to date under these state-aided programs has been at the elementary level. It is a known certainty that the greatly increased elementary school enrollments will soon provide a major construction program in the high schools. We believe it would be prudent, therefore, to give immediate and serious consideration to determining how to design and use elementary school plants in such a way that all or a part of the plant might subsequently be used for high school purposes when the currently high elementary school enrollments begin to reach the high school level. Contributing to the problem of providing school building facilities when and where they are most needed are the factors of high costs of construction, long delays in the processes of designing, financing and constructing school buildings, and a diminishing source of state and local funds which can be applied. This, together with the fact that the Los Angeles City School District is now making extensive use of types of construction designed for maximum flexibility of requirements, has led us to make an analysis of the unit costs of these facilities and an examination of their use. It appears that the Los Angeles district has gone a long way toward anticipating and solving the problem of meeting future school building needs, and at the same time has effected economies by an experience which should be of value to the State in securing maximum efficiency of funds provided to needy school districts throughout the State.

Comparative Unit Costs

In an analysis of comparative costs of construction for school buildings an explanation and word of caution should be pointed out. The generally accepted index for construction cost comparison is the cost per square foot. This cost measurement by itself, however, can be highly deceptive and, therefore, should be used only in conjunction with at least one other index. Another such index would be the cost per student for a given school plant. The two together, when properly analyzed, will provide a reasonable basis for making comparisons between one school plant and another.

For example, we will use two recent projects in the Los Angeles City School District. The Arminta Street elementary school plant has 11 classrooms, two kindergartens, one multi-purpose room, with administration, sanitary, and the usual auxiliary facilities. The contract for this project was let on March 27, 1953, and it was designed by a firm of private architects. The plant is intended to house 485 students, contains 25,320 weighted square feet of building area, and will cost $275,072 for the buildings alone. This breaks down to a square-foot cost of $10.85, a per student cost of $567, and an area of 52.2 square feet per student. The 116th Street school plant was designed by the Building Branch of the Los Angeles City School District, went to bid on April 9, 1953, is also intended to house 485 students, has 23,113 weighted square feet of area, and will cost $268,615. This cost breaks down to $11.62 per square foot but only $555 per student and 47.6 square feet per student. These plants are essentially the same insofar as the classroom, kindergarten, administration, sanitary, and multi-purpose units are concerned. However, the plant handled by the private architects is more spread out and therefore has more covered arcades and walks. This, in turn, increased the total square footage, increased the total cost, but reduced the cost per square foot because of the comparatively low cost of arcade construction. On the other hand, the plant designed by the school district itself was more compact and had fewer total square feet. The buildings were essentially the same as in the other plant but there were fewer square feet of arcade. This, consequently, resulted in a higher square-foot cost; but, since the total cost of the project was less, then the cost per student was less and the number of square feet per student was less. Yet, if the two projects are compared on a square-foot cost basis alone, then the one designed by the private architect appears to be cheaper, the result of a deceptive basis for comparison.

This report is concerned primarily with the procedures and construction cost data of the Los Angeles City School District during a two-year period from 1952 to 1953, with comments as to applicability of methods and ideas used by the Los Angeles city system to other school districts in the State. These are covered under four main headings, as follows:

1. Procedures and Controls
2. Design
  - a. Temporary or Portable Types of Construction
  - b. Permanent Construction
3. Construction Cost and Space Comparisons
4. Summary and Recommendations

Procedures and Controls

It should be borne in mind that the Los Angeles City School District is geographically the largest single district in the State, encompassing not only the City of Los Angeles, which actually comprises only half of the total district, but also county area and areas of other incorporated cities. In school population it is the largest district in the State, and from a density standpoint it is probably one of the most crowded school districts in the State, being surpassed possibly by the cities of San Francisco and Oakland. In community character it ranges widely from areas which are very poor to extremely high value residential areas. As to climate, there are no great variations, except that the San Fernando Valley area may be considered as being hot and dry, whereas the areas south towards Wilmington and San Pedro are generally cooler and more moist. Topographically, its school sites run from the almost dead level lowland areas to the steep ruggedness of the Hollywood Hills, although by and large most school sites are in comparatively favorable terrain.

The great size of this district makes possible the use of certain procedures, methods and concepts which might not be practical or possible for the comparatively small rural or suburban school districts, although many of the ideas could be employed by the larger rural, suburban, and city districts, and perhaps, in a modified form, by all other school districts. For instance, the size of the district is such that it is possible for it to employ a full time staff of designers, engineers, draftsmen, et cetera, headed by a competent architect who is also the business manager of the district and, as such, has the opportunity to fully acquaint himself with the economic problems involved in the construction and operation of a large school district.

The trend toward the establishment of suburban residential communities with their attendant population shifts, which has been pronounced in the past decade, is clearly illustrated in the Los Angeles city school system. In the downtown and central areas, particularly in older school plants of two-story construction, there is now a surplus of approximately 1,000 classrooms which cannot be filled but are simply kept closed, although structurally the buildings are still adequate. This results in unnecessary maintenance, insurance and other costs. However, there is no way to make use of these classrooms for any other purpose, nor can they be moved to other sites. The trend toward "bed-room communities" has been, in some of the Los Angeles school district areas, almost explosive, resulting in very sudden and very great pressures of need for classrooms in these areas. These experiences have led to the idea of the so-called temporary or portable classroom units which can be built rapidly to relieve immediate pressures, to be subsequently replaced by permanent facilities with the temporaries being moved to other areas as other pressures develop.

The Building Branch of the Los Angeles City School District is in complete control of all construction, design and space allocation. Since its own district funds are used, it is not required to submit its plans to the Division of School Planning of the State Department of Education but is required to submit its plans to the State Division of Architecture for structural checking under the terms of the Field Act. This has made it possible to devise plans which are considered to be adequate for local needs, although they might not meet with the approval of the State Department of Education. The building branch determines which projects it will handle with its own staff through the entire process of design and working drawings and which projects will be submitted to private architects. It maintains a rigid control over the work performed by the private architects and determines when the fee to the private architect will be reduced because of the re-use of existing tracings. The building branch has established standards as to equipment, construction details, interior finishes and site development and in doing so has used new ideas, new methods, or new materials which will either help to reduce initial construction costs or help to reduce subsequent maintenance costs.

The work done by the building branch is obviously such that it would not be practical for the average small school district to emulate. A small rural or suburban school district could not afford to employ permanently a full time consultant or adviser whose interest would lie wholly with the economic considerations of the school district.

The need for similar advise and consultation to school districts to secure construction and program economies is apparent in the state-aided construction program. The present organization and policies of the State do not provide a sufficient degree of emphasis to this type of advisory service, with the result that full economies have not been secured.

Design—Temporary or Portable Types of Construction

This type of construction, as used by the Los Angeles City School District, is somewhat of a misnomer in the use of the term "temporary," since actually the only feature of the buildings that can be considered temporary is the lack of permanent foundations. The buildings are placed on so-called mud sills directly on the ground with very little ground preparation needed. They are of 2" x 6" wood frame construction, with diagonal wood sheated exteriors covered with cement stucco in the standard manner. Roofs are single slope, shed type, with a comparatively shallow pitch, containing thermal-insulation and covered by a so-called 20-year roofing. Eaves overhangs have open soffits with the exposed wood merely painted.

The interiors of the rooms are faced with three-eighths inch structural grade plywood applied directly on the studs. Ceilings are faced with acoustical tile. Floors are wood, covered with a low-cost durable flooring material available only in dark colors. Artificial lighting is provided by the use of the so-called "concentric ring" incandescent lighting fixture, which is considerably cheaper than fluorescent fixtures.

There are no built-in features other than shelving and storage space along some of the walls and an independent mill work cabinet about seven feet high which is used to form an alcove in one corner of the room which serves as an area in which pupils may hang wraps. No sinks are provided in any classroom buildings, hence no plumbing of any kind is necessary in these buildings and all plumbing is therefore concentrated in the sanitary building and in the administration building. Heating is by individual, gas fired, blower operated wall panel units which project about 10 inches. Windows are placed in a continuous strip in one long wall of each classroom or administration building, with window height being approximately seven feet. The opposite long wall is solid with a continuous strip of clerestory windows set high in the wall just below the ceiling and about 18 inches in height. Main windows are furnished with insect screens and venetian blinds. Clerestory windows use the so-called "cool-ray" aluminum screening which provides simultaneous insect screening and sunlight control. Expensive fixed louvers for light control are never used. No covered arcades are provided with the temporary units. However, in a temporary group of buildings, a covered shelter in the yard area is provided for lunch-time use. A complete school plant of so-called temporary buildings contains no cafeteria or multi-purpose facilities.

The temporary buildings have been "unitized" to the extent that classroom buildings consist of two rooms each, all classroom buildings being identical. Administration buildings are essentially similar to classroom buildings in outward appearance but have more internal partitions in order to provide a sufficient number of offices, work and rest rooms. Sanitary facilities for the pupils are provided by means of a single centrally located building approximately the size of one-half of a classroom building and containing an area at each end, one for boys and one for girls, separated by a storage room. Toilet rooms use the same floor covering as the classrooms, no tile wainscoting except in the boys' area surrounding the urinals with a small area of tile flooring under the urinals. The balance of the walls in the toilet rooms are plywood as in all other buildings. Ceilings are covered with acoustical tile. Outwardly, all units whether classroom, administration or sanitary look identical and all are capable of being unbolted from the mud sills and moved to a new location with a minimum of effort. Structurally, the units meet the requirements of the Field Act in every respect and are, for all practical purposes, identical with the so-called permanent types of construction now being used by this district.

In a complete temporary plant, the buildings are generally placed in rows about 20 feet apart with the buildings spaced end to end about 10 feet apart. This makes a very compact plant requiring very little site development. Walks between the buildings are black topped with redwood retainer strips. Play areas are not paved but are simply surfaced with decomposed granite. No money is expended for lawn or landscaping of any kind. Each of the three types of building units is usable in high school plants as well as in the elementary school plants. In fact, interchange does take place from time to time and, because of the accounting setup of this district, the transfer of buildings is made in the form of a sale from one subdistrict to another. Ironically, this requires the Los Angeles City School District to pay sales tax to the State on the transaction.

These temporary units were designed by the building branch of the district, and any installation of them on any site is handled entirely by the building branch without the use of outside architects. The most important feature of these buildings is the fact that they are always identical—in other words, they follow a standard plan for each of the three types of buildings: classrooms, administration and sanitary. This makes possible a very rapid establishment of facilities on a new site. Since the structural plan of the units is always identical, the plans for each new piece of construction pass quickly through the State Division of Architecture which checks the plans under the Field Act. Also, because they are identical, contractors are thoroughly familiar with them and are able to almost mass-produce them instead of the custom building approach that is usually necessary with a completely new design. The fact that the classrooms have no plumbing means that very little site and utilities preparation is required. Since the sanitary building and the administration building, which do have plumbing, are built above the ground level on mud sills, it is possible for the contractor to complete the building inside and out while leaving the flooring open so that plumbing can be inspected by the city and county building departments at the inspector's leisure without tying up the contractors, as would be the case in buildings which are built on concrete slabs on grade which cannot be poured until all plumbing contained therein has been inspected. It is not always possible to get building inspectors to inspect at the contractor's convenience.

A typical temporary school plant for kindergarten through the sixth grade is the Dolores Street School for which the construction contract was signed on November 17, 1952. The plant is to house 900 students and consists of 20 classrooms or 10 classroom building units, four kindergartens or two classroom units, one administration building, and one sanitary building. Total building area is 26,490 square feet, or a unit area of 29.4 square feet per student. The total cost of building construction alone was $207,500, or $7.85 per square foot. This represents $230 per student. The cost of ground improvement, which included the installation of utility lines to the sanitary and administration buildings, grading and the minimum walks mentioned previously, was $3,745. The average for a series of 12 such plants was $8 per square foot and $250 per pupil. The average cost for a series of 392 classroom units alone, which were added to existing plants, was $7.52 per square foot and $211.53 per pupil. It should be clearly understood that the costs mentioned above did not include the architectural services of the Building Branch, inspection services, testing, et cetera. The costs mentioned represent only the contract construction costs. Area per pupil is based on occupancies of 35 students per classroom and 50 students per kindergarten. It is interesting to note that in other similar plants for only 450 students the area per pupil was slightly higher, being 31 square feet instead of 29.4. This is brought about by the fact that although a plant for 900 students might have classroom capacity twice as great as a plant for 450 students, the administrative and sanitary space do not necessarily double. It should be clearly understood that such a plant does not include a multipurpose room, library, covered arcades, storage space for outdoor recreational material, et cetera. Consequently, the number of square feet per pupil is considerably below the 55 square feet established as standard under the state aid program.

A wholly temporary plant has generally been superseded by a permanent plant within a year or two. The permanent plant is usually established directly adjacent to the temporary buildings and, in some cases, some of the temporary buildings are relocated and are made into permanent buildings for the new plant. This change in status is accomplished simply by pouring a slab on the new location which contains all the necessary utilities, including a sink for each classroom, and then moving the building over to the slab and bolting it in place. The only other change that occurs to make what was a temporary building into a permanent building is the addition of a covered corridor along the wall containing the clerestory windows. Since only two walls of each classroom contain some form of window, it is comparatively simple to orient the classroom unit to take advantage either of north lighting or to minimize sun glare from the west. It should also be pointed out that while costs have been saved in the initial temporary plant by not providing a cafeteria or multipurpose unit, similar costs are often hidden in many of the plants by virtue of the fact that children are fed by means of a mobile unit operating from a central kitchen. In some of the temporary plants this is not done, and the students must bring their own lunch, which is eaten out in the open or in the shelter mentioned, in good weather, but during inclement weather is eaten right in the classroom. The classroom units are designed with a connecting door between the two classrooms, which makes it possible for one teacher to supervise two rooms during the lunch period while the other teacher goes to lunch, or attends to some other necessary duty. A number of the teachers expressed the feeling that this connecting door was a very excellent idea, and that they were sorry to see it eliminated in many of the permanent classrooms.

The concept of the use of temporary classrooms, such as has been described above, works very well in a district as huge as the Los Angeles City School District, where population shifts have a more marked effect than would be the case in a comparatively small rural or suburban school district. However, there appears to be no reason why the small districts could still not make use of the basic concept of this type of structure with the idea that the buildings could subsequently either be made into permanent structures by changing the foundation, or could be sold to other adjacent or nearby school districts where rapid pressures might develop and where it was desired to relieve these pressures as quickly as possible. This would be a very workable form of standardization. Furthermore, it should also be pointed out that possibly a significant number of such temporary buildings used by elementary school districts could eventually be moved by transfer or sale to high school districts as the enrollment "hump" moves from the elementary level to the high school level. From a technical, structural standpoint, we can see no great difficulties in the employment of this idea and from the standpoint of flexibility in a near emergency situation in the public schools, we believe that it merits serious consideration by the State.

Permanent Construction Types

The permanent types of school plants now being constructed by the Los Angeles City School District, in most cases as a substitution for already existing temporary plants, are generally handled by outside architects. However, these architects are given strict directions as to design. Actually, 10 of the permanent plants which were examined by staff of the Budget Committee are essentially the same. The concept of "unitizing" is carried out in the same way as in the temporary buildings. The classroom units consist of two classrooms each and are outwardly identical with those built as temporary buildings, with the exception that they are on concrete slabs and they have a covered arcade. Inside, they may have lath and plaster walls, instead of plywood, and fluorescent lighting fixtures. The administration units are also similar, and the so-called multipurpose unit is the same in every one of the permanent plants.

Actually, the only services performed by the private architect are:

1. Planning the development of the site.
2. Designing the individual foundations required for each unit.
3. Designing the orientation and interrelationship of the individual units.
4. A certain minimum amount of connective work between buildings which might, in some instances, take the form of a simple wall or a louver arrangement or a wrought-iron fence arrangement. This represents actually the only latitude which is allowed the private architect, and is probably a reason why many of the architects do not care to take this work.

The multipurpose buildings which, as has been pointed out, are identical in each plant, consist of an auditorium having fixed theater type seating in the rear, which has a sloped floor, the seating being of all plywood construction, and a flat floor area immediately in front of the platform or stage which can be used for folk dancing or other group activities. The floors are concrete with asphalt tile covering. The stage or platform is comparatively simple, although a regular proscenium opening is provided, but no smoke tower and no elaborate lighting is provided. Ceiling and upper walls have acoustical tile treatment, and heating is by forced air from a central heater unit through the suspended ceiling. Behind the platform area is a teachers' eating, work, and rest room area and, adjacent to that is a kitchen wing. The kitchen wing forms an L with the long wall of the auditorium, and the space embraced by this L is paved and covered over with a simple roofing similar to the arcade construction, with open sides. This area contains table and bench units for student use, and the wall of the kitchen wing facing this area contains doors for access to the serving area, and a pass-through opening for the children to return dishes, et cetera. No interior eating facilities are provided. During inclement weather it is, of course, possible to permit the students to use the auditorium as an eating place; however, this would be comparatively infrequent, in view of the climate in this area.

In the over-all, the permanent installations include very little, if any, planting, landscaping, or grass area, and these are generally at the front of the plant adjacent to the administration building. The balance of the open area is black-top paved, with the only concrete used being in the walks of the covered arcades and in the outdoor eating area mentioned above. This, of course, minimizes maintenance, since extensive lawn and planting areas require irrigation and upkeep. The general construction features are very similar to the temporary buildings, with the exception that the interiors of the buildings are now being finished in wire lath and plaster, rather than plywood. Originally the district went to the use of plywood on the interiors because of the fact that the cost of plastering was determined to be excessively high. Recently the cost of plaster work has come down considerably as a result of increased productivity. Nevertheless, the use of plaster is still more costly than the use of plywood and requires more maintenance and upkeep over the years. Plaster is more readily damaged than plywood, and cannot be repaired by the simple replacement of a panel, as is the case with plywood. There is a slightly increased fire rating with plaster but, in view of the fact that all buildings are one story and all classrooms have two exits, it may be questionable that the additional cost for the plaster can be justified in terms of increased fire safety. Actually, the increased fire safety is to the buildings themselves, rather than to the children, because these rooms can be emptied so rapidly that the danger to children in a plywood finished room is actually no greater than in a plaster finished room.

In order to compare space per pupil in the Los Angeles City School District with other areas certain characteristics of the plant should be considered. The average complete permanent plant now being constructed by the Los Angeles City School District system, for grades from kindergarten to six, provides from 45 to 55 square feet per pupil. The space per pupil varies as the total number of students varies. For instance, the smaller plants housing 485 pupils may run as high as 54 or 55 square feet, whereas the larger plants, housing 835 pupils may drop down to 45 square feet. This variation is a result of the fact that while all of the essential units are identical in all plants, the variation results from the difference in placement and relationship of the buildings to each other in each plant as visualized by different architects. The differences in placement result in more or less covered arcade. For instance, the 156th Street School for 555 students has a gross building area of 25,503 square feet, providing 46 square feet per pupil. The Newcastle Avenue School for the same number of pupils has a gross building area of 27,083 square feet, providing almost 49 square feet per pupil. The former cost $11.93 per square foot, and $548 per pupil, and the latter is $11.05 per square foot and $540 per pupil.

The similarity of plants holds true generally on the easy or flat sites. However, occasionally a difficult site, such as the one for the Valley View School, which is perched on the west side of Cahuenga Canyon overlooking the freeway, requires an entirely different approach in the design. In this particular case, the school was designed by a private architect for 345 pupils, has a gross area of 18,375 square feet, or almost 54 square feet per pupil, and cost $14.85 per square foot for building alone, or $790 per pupil. This higher cost is largely occasioned by the fact that the steep site required caisson foundations in order to support the buildings and prevent the bench from crumbling away into the canyon. Because the site was limited in size, the unit idea could not be used and instead the plant consists of one major unit containing the classrooms, the administrative offices, and the multipurpose room, and a separate unit containing two kindergartens. Nevertheless, while the architect was permitted to consolidate these units into one building, from the inside each classroom, each office, and the multipurpose room look exactly the same as those in the unit types of construction. To have attempted unit type of construction on this site would have been even more costly per square foot than the amount just quoted, assuming there were sufficient areas in which to do so. The consolidation of the units did, in itself, somewhat reduce the cost.

Site development costs for the permanent plants run considerably higher than the amount mentioned for one of the temporary plants. For instance, in the 116th Street School, the ground improvements cost $23,885, and in the Newcastle Avenue School, the cost was $45,554. In the case of the Valley View School, because of the difficult site, the cost for this smaller plant was $31,514. Nevertheless, because site development and ground improvements are kept to the barest essential minimums, the Los Angeles City School District appears to spend no more for this purpose than the average school district in other parts of the State and, in the long run, spends less for maintenance and upkeep of its grounds.

It should be noted that the permanent units also can be unbolted from the slabs and moved elsewhere with the only loss being in the slabs and plumbing therein.

Construction Cost and Space Comparisons

An analysis and interpretation of the construction cost and space allocation data of the Los Angeles City School District appears to indicate the following facts and comparisons:

1. It is rather difficult to make cost and space comparisons with other school districts adjacent to the Los Angeles City School District, since we could find no complete plants for grades from kindergarten to six which went to bid in the last half of 1953. However, it is possible to make comparisons on the basis of the maximum allowable costs under the current regulations of the State Allocation Board. In the Los Angeles area, a typical plant to house 694 pupils in grades from kindergarten through six would consist of approximately 37,300 square feet of weighted area. This would provide 18 standard classrooms, two kindergartens, a multiuse room, an administration unit, sanitary facilities, et cetera. Under the regulations, maximum estimates allowed would be $13.50 per square foot for standard classroom space, $15 per square foot for kindergarten space, $18 per square foot for multipurpose room, $22 per square foot for kitchen area, $14.50 per square foot for administration area, $5.50 per square foot for all open corridors or $11 per square foot for one-half of the corridor space, and approximately $17 per square foot for all miscellaneous space, including toilet areas. The average for the total plant would be approximately $14 per square foot and approximately $760 per pupil. Site development and grounds improvement would amount to approximately 10 percent of the cost of building construction. For the typical plant which has been outlined, this would probably be about $50,000.

2. Comparative costs for temporary construction of classrooms, kindergartens, administration units and sanitary units were approximately 20 percent less per square foot than for the same types of buildings in permanent construction, and approximately 40 percent less per student. However, it should be pointed out that from the available data, the comparison had to be made on temporary construction started in 1952, as compared with permanent construction started in 1953. Since costs were somewhat higher in 1952 than in 1953, it follows that if it were possible to make the comparisons on precisely the same time periods, the temporary construction would be even more favorable in cost than indicated above.
3. That, as a general trend, the cost per square foot goes down as the size of the plant goes up. This is generally true in all types of construction, whether schools, office buildings, hospitals, et cetera.
4. The cost for multipurpose units alone, as compared with the balance of the buildings in a given plant would average 50 to 60 percent higher per square foot. Here, too chronological distortions make direct comparisons difficult. However, the implications are reasonably clear that there is a considerable disparity in cost between multipurpose facilities and standard classrooms, kindergartens, and administration space.
5. The data indicate that complete plants of temporary construction average between 29 and 31 square feet per pupil. Complete plants of permanent construction, including covered arcades and multipurpose buildings, average over 50 square feet per pupil.
6. For three complete junior high school plants of permanent construction which are now actually under construction and will not be occupied for some months, the average was approximately 95 square feet per pupil.
7. The cost of complete permanent construction of junior high school plants averaged approximately $12 per square foot for buildings only.
8. Ground improvements costs show no standard relationship to the building cost. In the permanent plants ground improvements costs range from under 5 percent of the building cost to as high as 30 percent of the building cost. The average, however, appears to fall in the bracket between 5 and 10 percent. For temporary construction of complete plants, the cost of ground improvements ran from a low of one-half of 1 percent to a high of approximately 9 percent. However, the average was in a range of 1 or 2 percent.

Summary and Recommendations

This analysis of the Los Angeles program leads us to the following summary and conclusions:

1. The Los Angeles City School District can and does build high-quality, temporary, portable school buildings at a comparatively low cost.

2. The temporary buildings present no higher maintenance factors than do the permanent buildings, with the possible exception of the fact that in time those temporary buildings which are allowed to remain for many years on mud sills may require replacement of the sills.
3. The Los Angeles School District system builds straight-forward simple buildings with no appreciable embellishment, but with concern for adequate educational utility.
4. The Los Angeles District builds permanent buildings at a comparatively low average cost because of standardization and "unitization" according to function.
5. Architectural fees to outside architects are reduced because of the repetition of units above the foundation lines.
6. Site development and grounds improvements are kept to an essential minimum.

In our opinion the most compelling fact that stands out from this analysis is the fact that, for all practical purposes, the Los Angeles City School District is successfully building temporary and permanent school facilities by the use of standard plans. These plans are standard with regard to the units themselves, and not with regard to the relationship of one unit with another in a given school plant. It has been maintained by some that this approach will not produce satisfactory school plants. However, we see no reason to suppose that the children in the Los Angeles area are not receiving as good an education within their facilities as is being received by the children in other school districts in the State.

The designs used by the Los Angeles City system present important possibilities for use throughout the State and consequent savings in many ways. For instance, the classrooms, as has been mentioned above, contain only one piece of major cabinet work, which could become a standard mill work item that could be mass-produced anywhere in the State and installed as required. The standard plan could also be used with variations of exterior finish. For instance, instead of stucco, there might be areas in which it might be desired to use wood finish such as redwood shiplap or V-groove rustic. This could be done without changing the essential nature of the plan. An alternate roof structure could be designed having more strength to carry snow loads in areas of the State where this might occur. An alternate plan having insulation in the perimeter walls of each unit could take care of those areas where very low temperatures might be encountered without otherwise changing the standard plan.

In those areas where future increased high school populations can be anticipated because of current high elementary enrollments, temporary type buildings could be used and subsequently transferred to the high school plants as required by enrollment loads. This over-all approach would not necessarily preclude the complete re-design of a plant made necessary by a difficult site on the comparatively few occasions when this might occur. This design also could make use of the standard size and shape of rooms, as has been mentioned above in the case of the Valley View School.

Comparison of Horse Racing Taxation Among the States

Prepared by the Legislative Auditor
March, 1954

TABLE I

This table compares state revenues from horse racing with each state's pari-mutuel pool in the year 1953. Of the 25 states having pari-mutuel horse racing, the ratio of horse racing revenues to total pools was 6.6 percent. Horse racing revenues as shown in this table are composed of licenses, pari-mutuel taxes, admissions, breakage and miscellaneous. California's horse racing revenues amounted to 5.7 percent of the total pari-mutuel pool. This is almost 1 percent below the average of all states. It is also apparent from the table that California's horse racing revenues constitute a lesser part of the pari-mutuel pool than do the horse racing revenues in other states having pools exceeding $150,000,000 (Florida, 8.5 percent; Illinois, 6.9 percent; New Jersey, 7.8 percent; New York, 7.9 percent).

TABLE II

Table II shows the composition of horse racing revenues by states in 1953. For the 25 states having pari-mutuel horse racing, pari-mutuel taxes constituted 89 percent of their revenues, breakage 7.9 percent, admissions 1.8 percent, licenses 0.7 percent, and miscellaneous 0.7 percent. It should be noted that California's share of the pari-mutuel take is by law a "license fee," but in this table it is classified as a tax. As such it provided 93.1 percent of the state's horse racing revenues in 1953. This is a larger percent of return from this source than is experienced in the four other states having the largest pari-mutuel pools (Florida, 90.2 percent; Illinois, 85.7 percent; New Jersey, 83.9 percent; New York, 90.9 percent). However, it should be noted that, with the exception of New York, these other four states derive a higher percentage of their horse racing revenues from breakage. New York derives 3.5 percent of its total revenues from admissions, a source from which California receives nothing.

Ten states receive revenues from admissions and in an amount equaling 1.8 percent of the total horse racing revenues of all states. Based upon a total racing attendance of over 5,500,000 in 1953, an admission fee of 20 cents would have produced over $1,100,000 for California.

TABLE III

From the standpoint of the bettor, the pari-mutuel pool is reduced in two ways: first, by the pari-mutuel take-out (pari-mutuel tax and association percentage) and, second, by the breakage. Other state revenues—licenses, admissions and miscellaneous—generally do not derive directly from the money wagered. Table III combines the states' receipts from pari-mutuel taxes and from breakage and compares this total tax take-out with the states' pari-mutuel pools. The table shows that the total tax take-out for all states amounted to 6.3 percent of those states' pari-mutuel pools. California's total tax take-out constituted

5.6 percent of its pari-mutuel pool. This is considerably below comparable percentage figures for the four other states having the largest pari-mutuel pools (Florida, 8.2 percent; Illinois, 6.4 percent; New Jersey, 7.7 percent; New York, 7.5 percent). From this it is evident that California's horse bettors are more favored in terms of the State's tax take-out of their wagered dollars than are bettors in the comparable states.

TABLE IV

This table compares California with other states having pari-mutuel pools exceeding $150,000,000 in 1953. The basic information shown here is the same as that in Tables I and II.

TABLE V

Table V compares breakage characteristics among the states which participate in this source of revenue from horse racing. Section 19485.1 of California's Business and Professions Code provides for breakage in multiples of five cents. The racing association is allowed to retain breakage on the first $27,000,000 wagered during the license period. Breakage above that figure is payable to the State as part of the association's license fee required by Section 19485 (providing for the 4-5-6 percent).

Breakage is the result of expediency in speeding the paying of winning tickets. Rather than pay off the exact amount where odd cents are involved, payment is rounded to a nickel or dime and the bettor gives up the odd cents. Breakage, therefore, is actually an additional tax on the bettor amounting to approximately three-fourths of 1 percent of the total pari-mutuel pool with a 5-cent break and approximately  $1\frac{1}{2}$  percent of the pool with a 10-cent break. California is one of seven states with breakage in multiples of 5 cents. The remaining 18 states break at 10 cents.

In 10 of the 25 racing states all breakage goes to the racing associations (Arizona, Delaware, Kentucky, Louisiana, Nebraska, New Mexico, Oregon, South Dakota, Washington, and West Virginia). In four states—Colorado, Florida, Nevada, and New Jersey—all breakage goes to the state. The remaining 11 states share breakage with the associations generally on a 50-50 basis, California being unique in its arrangement.

That breakage is lucrative is demonstrated by the $13,165,098 return from this source to 14 states in 1953. Table V shows the significance of breakage returns to each state in terms of total wagers and pari-mutuel tax returns. In those states receiving breakage money this source amounted to 9.3 percent of the pari-mutuel tax returns and 0.6 percent of the total pari-mutuel wagers. California fell considerably short of these averages with comparable figures of 6.3 percent and 0.3 percent respectively. This can be attributed largely to (1) the breakage multiple being 5 rather than 10 cents and (2) the formula of breakage splitting between the state and racing associations in which California receives less than 50 percent (43.4 percent in 1953) compared with splits ranging from 50 percent to 100 percent in the other states shown in the table.

It appears that California's revenues from this source could be increased by (1) changing the breakage multiple from 5 to 10 cents or (2) changing the division of breakage between the State and the associations, or both.

TABLE VI

Table VI shows the disposition of California's revenues from horse racing since the installation of the pari-mutuel system. Total state revenues over the 20-year period approximate $229,000,000. Of this amount, almost $170,000,000, or 74.1 percent, has gone to the Fair and Exposition Fund, while the General Fund has received less than $36,000,000, or 15.6 percent. Other funds have received approximately as follows: State College Fund, $8,500,000; Wildlife Restoration Fund, $12,000,000; and Capital Outlay and Savings Fund, $3,000,000.

In 1954-55 it is estimated that the total horse racing revenues to the State will be allocated among funds as follows:

Fair and Exposition Fund . . . . .	$16,548,630	70.8%
State College Fund . . . . .	1,404,000	6.0
General Fund . . . . .	5,409,000	23.2
Total . . . . .	$23,361,630	100.0%

TABLE VII

Assembly Bill No. 2644 (1953 General Session) proposed to amend the formula for state sharing in pari-mutuel taxes as follows:

Existing formula		A. B. No. 2644 formula
Total pool	State share	Total pool	State share
Under $10,000,000 . . . . .	4%	Under $10,000,000 . . . . .	4%
10- 20,000,000 . . . . .	5	10- 20,000,000 . . . . .	5
Over 20,000,000 . . . . .	6	20- 40,000,000 . . . . .	6
		40- 60,000,000 . . . . .	7
		60- 80,000,000 . . . . .	8
		80-100,000,000 . . . . .	9
		Over 100,000,000 . . . . .	10

Under the proposed formula as under the existing formula, the racing association would continue to receive an amount which, added to the State's share, would not result in a pari-mutuel take-out from the pool exceeding 13 percent. For example, under the proposed formula the association would receive only 3 percent of amounts over $100,000,000 versus 7 percent on that amount under the present formula.

On the basis of 1954 and 1955 racing schedules and estimated pools, the Assembly Bill No. 2644 formula would result in an increase of $2,800,000 in state revenues as is shown in Table VII. Assembly Bill No. 2644 would have affected only the Santa Anita and Hollywood Park tracks, the meets of the remaining tracks producing total pools of under $40,000,000—the point at which Assembly Bill No. 2644 proposed to increase the State's share of the take-out.

Estimated Annual Cost of State Maintenance of the California Highway Patrol Radio System With Expanded Service and Facilities

Prepared by the Legislative Auditor
March 8, 1954

Due to the fact that the cost records of the Division of Communications, Department of Finance, are inadequate, certain assumptions were necessary to arrive at the cost figures contained in this analysis.

We have used 55 percent of the total costs of the Division of Communications, both for maintenance and engineering services, for the portion chargeable to the California Highway Patrol. This percentage is based upon the following factors:

1. The Highway Patrol operates, for the most part, 24 hours a day, seven days a week throughout the year in every county in the State.
2. The Division of Forestry operates on a 24-hour, seven-day week basis during the fire season. The fire season is approximately five or six months each year. During the balance of the year, the Division of Forestry operates on a stand-by basis. We assume that the maintenance provided to the Division of Forestry radio units during the nonfire season is considerably less than the maintenance provided for radio units in constant use.
3. The type of equipment and use made of the equipment by the California Highway Patrol demands more maintenance than equipment used by the Division of Forestry. The Division of Forestry has 453 handie talkies; the Highway Patrol has none. The Highway Patrol has motorcycles, the Division of Forestry has none. The Division of Forestry operates fire trucks, the Highway Patrol operates high speed automobiles. We are informed by a reliable source in radio maintenance work, that mobile radio units require at least twice as much maintenance when they are in service as handie talkies when in service. Handie talkies when not in service, according to this source, require no maintenance. Apart from the handie talkies, there are 147 portable units and many mobile units which operate approximately six months out of the year. We are also informed that motorcycle radios require more maintenance than do automobile mobile radios. The Highway Patrol has approximately 250 motorcycles.
4. The Division of Forestry does not have any installations in the following counties: Imperial, Los Angeles, Ventura, Santa Barbara, San Mateo, San Francisco, Alameda, Contra Costa, San Joaquin, Marin, Del Norte, Modoc, Plumas, Sierra, Alpine, Mono, Inyo, Kern, that area of Nevada County east of Donner Summit, that area of San Bernardino County east and north of Victorville, and that area of Riverside east of, and including Indio. There are some Department of Fish and Game and other minor agency installations in the above areas. However, they are not material in extent. All the cost of maintenance in the above areas, after adjustment for minor agency installations, should be charged to the Highway Patrol.

In comparing the cost of leased service with state operation, additional costs which would increase the cost to the California Highway Patrol have not been included in this report due to the unavailability of information which would enable us to make a complete appraisal of cost. Two of these factors which are not included are:

1. Inventory of parts and supplies, e.g., radio tubes, which are expendable and which, when the stock is exhausted, must be replaced at an additional cost to the State.
2. Replacement cost for automotive equipment now in use has not been shown.

We have included the cost of two technicians in every shop to permit operation for seven days a week, eight hours a day. This does not provide 24-hour service as is required by the California Highway Patrol. No amounts have been included for overtime which will probably be necessary for emergency service.

Extent of Junior College Courses Above the 14th Grade

Prepared by the Legislative Auditor
March 11, 1954

During the 1953 Session of the Legislature the Senate Finance Committee requested this office to determine the amount of junior college courses which are above the 14th grade level or comparable to upper division (15th and 16th grade) offerings of a college or university.

Since the evaluation of courses of study and specific classes is a specialized and technical process, we have relied on the advice of curriculum experts at the university, the various state colleges, and the Department of Education. These curriculum specialists have indicated that a definite classification of all courses cannot be made. To cite a few problems involved in classification of courses, a class may be considered upper division at one four-year college and lower division at another. Sometimes a lower division course will be changed to an upper division over a period of time, or a four-year college may suggest that lower division students enroll in classes which are classified in the catalog as upper division. Consequently, the opinion of the curriculum specialists is divided on many courses. Therefore, we have concluded that any quantitative evaluation of the number of junior college courses about the 14th grade level would be open to serious criticism.

The first fact that became apparent to us is that the outward appearance of the problem has been over-emphasized because junior college catalogs have been misleading. A number of junior colleges have stated in their catalogs that certain courses are parallel to University of California upper division courses. The University of California does not consider most of these courses as upper division quality or approach. This fact was discussed at a meeting of the University of California Junior College Conference Committee in October. At that meeting, we understand, a number of the junior college representatives stated that their catalogs were in error and that steps will be taken to improve the accuracy of their statements. It should also be pointed out that adult or terminal courses sometimes bear the same title as a college course when in actuality the content of the course is not the same.

However, we do find that among the curriculum experts we have consulted, there is general agreement that there are some junior college courses that are above the 14th grade level. For example, officials at the university state that on some occasions they find junior college courses which appear to be similar to those of the upper division. However, they do not give a transferring student upper division credit for such courses. The university is working to bring a better understanding between the university and the junior colleges in this area.

A number of state college officials stated that, in their judgment, junior colleges in areas surrounding particular colleges are giving courses which are similar or comparable in content to the state college upper division courses. As a general rule, such classes are not accepted as meeting upper division course requirements. They normally are accepted as lower division, or may take the place of an upper division elective under certain circumstances. It should be noted that they will accept no more than 64 junior college units and that a transfer student must meet the general education requirements of the college.

The colleges do, on occasion, recognize certain junior college courses as upper division for transfer purposes. There is no uniform policy among the colleges, the discretion often being left to the department head or division chairman. It appears that even limited recognition of junior college courses as a partial fulfillment of college upper division requirements must encourage junior colleges to expand their curricular offerings into the upper division.

While the curriculum specialists at the university, the state colleges, and in the Department of Education acknowledge the existence of some junior college courses above the 14th grade level, all are of the opinion that the number represents a very small portion of junior college course offerings.

According to the provisions of the Education Code, the State Board of Education has the legal authority to review and approve junior college courses. The Education Code (Section 10603) states that:

"No state funds shall be apportioned to any district on account of the attendance of students enrolled in junior colleges unless the courses have been approved by the State Board of Education."

The code does not authorize courses in the 15th and 16th grades. Section 8818 of the Education Code states that:

"Each junior college shall provide for the education of pupils in the 13th and 14th grades and for the education of such adults and minors as may be properly admitted but who are not classifiable by grade."

The Bureau of Secondary Education has made cursory reviews of course offerings by analyzing junior college catalogs. They have disapproved certain courses of study which have been of more than two years duration, but have not, as a matter of policy, analyzed specific courses. They have, in effect, given approval to junior college classes above the 14th grade level. While we have pointed out the difficulties in classifying courses, and we do not recommend that the bureau establish arbitrary standards for disapproving junior college courses which may be upper division, we do recommend that greater efforts should be exerted by the bureau in cooperation with the junior colleges towards the elimination of upper division courses.

In summary our findings are that:

1. Course offerings described as upper division courses in certain junior college catalogs have been misleading.
2. There are some junior college courses which are upper division in nature, but the number of such courses is relatively small.
3. It is technically impossible to make a precise evaluation of the quantity of such courses for review purposes.
4. The state colleges and the Bureau of Secondary Education have given tacit approval to the courses.
5. The Department of Education should, in cooperation with the junior colleges, exert greater efforts toward the elimination of upper division courses in the junior colleges.

Preliminary Analysis of Legislative Action on the 1954-55 Budget

Prepared by the Legislative Auditor
April 2, 1954

Although the Legislature has just adjourned and the period for the signing of bills by the Governor will not expire until May 6th, a preliminary analysis of possible effect of legislation on the Budget Bill and special measures, if enacted into law as adopted by the Legislature, is made available at this time.

A final analysis will be made at the expiration of the bill signing period.

GOVERNOR'S BUDGET AS SUBMITTED

The budget for the 1954-55 Fiscal Year, as submitted by the Governor, totaled in round numbers $1,423,345,700. Of this amount, approximately $858,753,000 was budgeted for expenditure from the General Fund. Revenues for the General Fund for the 1954-55 Fiscal Year were estimated at $801,884,650, or $56,868,350 under budgeted General Fund expenditures. This does not, however, consider budgeted transfers from the General Fund for expenditures from other funds. These amounted to $19,587,800 in major items comprising $13,573,250 for transfer to the Capital Outlay and Savings Fund for the state building program, and $3,849,500 for transfer to the Flood Control Fund of 1946 for flood control projects. Considering the total of transfers, the General Fund income was indicated as being $76,456,150 short of General Fund outgo. This was to be offset by the proposal to use $49,043,100 of carry-over General Fund surplus from the previous year, and by using $28,000,000 of the State School Bond Retirement Fund money.

This meant that the budget for the 1954-55 Fiscal Year called for using all but $9,600,000 of the General Fund surplus, and, in addition, called for the use of $28,000,000 from the State School Bond Retirement Fund in order to provide a $1,423,345,700 expenditure budget, which was $6,300,000 less than the total as estimated for expenditures in the 1953-54 Fiscal Year.

While the 1954-55 Fiscal Year Budget as submitted was $6,300,000 less than estimated expenditures for the current fiscal year, the cost of the state operations or agency support portion of the budget for 1954-55 showed an increase of about $18,716,100 over 1953-54. The cost of state grants-in-aid combined with shared revenues to local agencies showed an increase of $31,115,100 while proposed capital outlay projects including highways were budgeted to decrease by $56,101,100, offsetting the increases in the other two categories by approximately $6,300,000.

The major items of increases in the budget as submitted were due primarily to population increases, resultant increased cost of services in the state correctional institutions and hospitals of the mentally ill, and increased enrollment in state supported schools. The State's contribution toward the support of public schools alone shows an increase of approximately $28,500,000.

LEGISLATIVE ACTION ON THE BUDGET

Assembly action on the Budget Bill put the total of the budget at approximately $1,446,375,000. Action by the Senate put the budget total at $1,428,900,000. The budget as recommended by the committee on conference and adopted by the Legislature totaled approximately $1,431,800,000.

The General Fund was balanced by the use of $27,370,000 from the School Bond Retirement Fund, $1,500,000 from surplus in the Employment Contingent Fund, and $53,800,000 of General Fund Surplus. This left a surplus of approximately $4,200,000 estimated to be in the General Fund as of June 30, 1955, of which $3,600,000 is reserved as the balance of a $10,000,000 appropriation for surveys and investigations and a down payment in connection with the proposal to purchase the Central Valley Project from the Federal Government. The General Fund condition as of June 30, 1955, is shown in Table III of this analysis. This action would indicate that the budget was increased by $8,500,000 over the budget as submitted by the Governor. However, this increase is modified by several considerations. It should be pointed out that $2,000,000 of this increase is in the form of a loan from impounded tideland revenues, and is to be made available only if and when the impounded revenues are released to the State. Other considerations are: (1) that the budget as submitted contemplated greater use of university reserve funds for support of the University of California and an increase in student fees to keep General Fund expenditures down; (2) that expenditures from the university funds are not included in the budget totals; and (3) the Legislature determined not to increase student fees but to use an additional $5,200,000 of the State's reserves in support of the university. In the light of these factors, it might be said that the Legislature held to the Governor's proposed expenditure program for the 1954-55 Fiscal Year, while differing on methods of financing the program.

Other major items of change adopted by the Legislature were (1) refusal to increase student fees for the state colleges; (2) allowed an additional \$847,200 for tuberculosis subsidies to local governmental agencies; (3) allowed an additional \$150,000 for mosquito abatement districts; (4) allowed the equivalent of a  $3\frac{1}{2}$  percent increase in nursing personnel for three of the state hospitals; (5) allowed \$150,000 toward maintenance of the sea wall at Redondo Beach; and (6) reduced the proposed transfer from the General Fund for capital outlay projects by \$750,000.

SPECIAL MEASURES ADOPTED BY THE LEGISLATURE

The most significant items of special legislation were the adoption of the Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 4 and the enabling act creating a Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control; the adoption of Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 3 authorizing an additional $100,000,000 in School Building Aid Bonds; Senate Bill No. 26 providing for $175,000,000 in state bond issues to go on the ballot to provide additional funds for the financing of the Veterans' Farm and Home Purchase Plan; Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 13 providing for an increase of $200 per month for members of the Legislature; Assembly Bill No. 1 (Special Session) increasing maximum unemployment compensation benefits from $25 to $30 per week, which will cost the Unemployment Trust Fund an estimated additional amount of $17,400,000 annually.

Other measures carrying appropriations and revenue changes are shown in Tables I and II.

The significance of both revenue and expenditure measures as related to the General Fund, if adopted, would be to increase the General Fund surplus by approximately $754,000.

Summary of Effect of Final Legislative and Executive Action on the State's Expenditure Program for the 1954-55 Fiscal Year

Prepared by the Legislative Auditor
May 7, 1954

In our "Preliminary Analysis of Legislative Action on the 1954-55 Budget" issued on April 2, 1954, there was presented a summary of the effect of action by the Legislature on the Budget Bill and total expenditure program of the State for 1954-55. That report indicated that a final analysis, including executive action on the budget and other appropriation bills, would be made at the end of the bill-signing period.

At the end of the bill-signing period, on May 6, 1954, no executive action was taken either by veto or by pocket veto which changed the authorized expenditure program for 1954-55 as enacted by the Legislature. The Budget Bill and other major appropriation bills were signed by the Governor without reduction. The preliminary analysis issued on April 2d, with minor technical corrections, therefore represents a statement of final action on the expenditure program for 1954-55.

Although Assembly Bill No. 4 (1st Ex. Sess.) making certain exemptions from the sales tax and involving a minor revenue loss was pocket vetoed, this minor revenue loss was not estimated in the preliminary analysis and does not change the over-all expenditure and revenue figures presented in that report.

A summary of the expenditure program as originally submitted, as changed by the Legislature and as approved by the Governor follows.

GOVERNOR'S BUDGET AS SUBMITTED

The budget for the 1954-55 Fiscal Year, as submitted by the Governor totaled in round numbers $1,423,345,700. Of this amount, approximately $858,753,000 was budgeted for expenditure from the General Fund. Revenues for the General Fund for the 1954-55 Fiscal Year were estimated at $801,884,650, or $56,868,350 under budgeted General Fund expenditures. This does not, however, consider budgeted transfers from the General Fund for expenditures from other funds. These amounted to $19,587,800 in major items comprising $13,573,250 for transfer to the Capital Outlay and Savings Fund for the state building program, and $3,849,500 for transfer to the Flood Control Fund of 1946 for flood control projects. Considering the total of transfers, the General Fund income was indicated as being $76,456,150 short of General Fund outgo. This was to be offset by the proposal to use $49,043,100 of carry-over General Fund surplus from the previous year, and by using $28,000,000 of the State School Bond Retirement Fund money.

This meant that the budget for the 1954-55 Fiscal Year called for using all but $9,600,000 of the General Fund surplus, and, in addition, called for the use of $28,000,000 from the State School Bond Retirement Fund in order to provide a $1,423,345,700 expenditure budget, which was $6,300,000 less than the total as estimated for expenditures in the 1953-54 Fiscal Year.

While the 1954-55 Fiscal Year Budget as submitted was $6,300,000 less than estimated expenditures for the current fiscal year, the cost of the state operations or agency support portion of the budget for 1954-55 showed an increase of about $18,716,100 over 1953-54. The cost of state grants-in-aid combined with shared revenues to local agencies showed an increase of $31,115,100 while proposed capital outlay projects including highways were budgeted to decrease by $56,101,100, offsetting the increases in the other two categories by approximately $6,300,000.

The major items of increases in the budget as submitted were due primarily to population increases, resultant increased cost of services in the state correctional institutions and hospitals of the mentally ill, and increased enrollment in state supported schools. The State's contribution toward the support of public schools alone shows an increase of approximately $28,500,000.

LEGISLATIVE ACTION ON THE BUDGET

Assembly action on the Budget Bill put the total of the budget at approximately $1,446,375,000. Action by the Senate put the budget total at $1,428,900,000. The budget as recommended by the Committee on Conference and adopted by the Legislature totaled approximately $1,431,800,000.

The General Fund was balanced by the use of $27,370,000 from the School Bond Retirement Fund, $1,500,000 from the surplus in the Employment Contingent Fund, and $53,800,000 of General Fund Surplus. This left a surplus of approximately $4,200,000 estimated to be in the General Fund as of June 30, 1955, of which $3,600,000 is reserved as the balance of a $10,000,000 appropriation for surveys and investigations and a down payment in connection with the proposal to purchase the Central Valley Project from the Federal Government. The General Fund condition as of June 30, 1955, is shown in Table III of this analysis. This action would indicate that the budget was increased by $8,500,000 over the budget as submitted by the Governor. However, this increase is modified by several considerations. It should be pointed out that $2,000,000 of this increase is in the form of a loan from impounded tideland revenues, and is to be made available only if and when the impounded revenues are released to the State. Other consideration are: (1) that the budget as submitted contemplated greater use of university reserve funds for support of the University of California and an increase in student fees to keep General Fund expenditures down; (2) that expenditures from the university funds are not included in the budget totals; and (3) the Legislature determined not to increase student fees but to use an additional $5,200,000 of the State's reserves in support of the university. In the light of these factors, it might be said that the Legislature held to the Governor's proposed expenditure program for the 1954-55 Fiscal Year, while differing on methods of financing the program.

Other major items of change adopted by the Legislature were (1) refusal to increase student fees for the state colleges; (2) allowed an additional \$847,200 for tuberculosis subsidies to local governmental agencies; (3) allowed an additional \$150,000 for mosquito abatement districts; (4) allowed the equivalent of a  $3\frac{1}{2}$  percent increase in nursing personnel for three of the state hospitals; (5) allowed \$150,000 toward maintenance of the sea wall at Redondo Beach; and (6) reduced the proposed transfer from the General Fund for capital outlay projects by \$750,000.

SPECIAL MEASURES ADOPTED BY THE LEGISLATURE

The most significant items of special legislation were the adoption of the Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 4 and the enabling act creating a Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control; the adoption of Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 3 authorizing an additional $100,000,000 in School Building Aid Bonds; Senate Bill No. 26 providing for $175,000,000 in state bond issues to go on the ballot to provide additional funds for the financing of the Veterans' Farm and Home Purchase Plan; Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 13 providing for an increase of $200 per month for members of the Legislature; Assembly Bill No. 1 (Special Session) increasing maximum unemployment compensation benefits from $25 to $30 per week, which will cost the Unemployment Trust Fund an estimated additional amount of $17,400,000 annually.

Other measures carrying appropriations and revenue changes are shown in Tables I and II.

The significance of both revenue and expenditure measures as related to the General Fund, if adopted, would be to increase the General Fund surplus by approximately $754,000.

The effect of legislative action on special reserves is shown as follows:

Fund	Estimated surplus as of June 30, 1955

State Subventions to Local Governments in California

(Revised Edition)

Prepared by Legislative Auditor

June 10, 1954

1. INTRODUCTION

In addition to the text, this report includes four tables and an appendix containing 43 check sections which gives detailed information on each of the 43 classes of subventions for 1953-54 in the order in which they are listed in Table 4. The appendix covers the purpose of the subvention, legal citations, to whom made, by whom made, factors used in allocation and audit and reporting requirements.

Material in the tables was taken from the printed state budgets, local assistance section, plus those records of the Department of Finance which are the source of the tables on pages 128 and 133 in the Report of the Assembly Interim Committee on State and Local Taxation issued in January, 1947. While federal grants subject to state apportionment are included in Table 1 as a matter of information, this report is limited to a discussion of subventions involving state funds.

2. STATE SUBVENTIONS DEFINED

A subvention may be defined as an outright grant of state funds to a local jurisdiction, i.e., a county, a city or some type of district such as a school district, a mosquito abatement district, etc., for a particular purpose or purposes. The source of the state funds may be particular tax levies earmarked for the purpose such as the so-called "shared revenue" items listed in Table 1 or the general tax levies or the credit of the State.

Subventions to local governments are classified as local assistance items in the State Budget and except as noted elsewhere with respect to certain amounts included in Table 1, the tables include only the amounts so classified in the current budgets.

Not counted as subventions for the purpose of this report, since they are not so classified in the budget, are certain other intergovernmental payments which are sometimes classified as subventions. The chief of these are loans to school districts for school building purposes, the repayment of which is conditional upon local financial ability, and payments by the State of federal funds under federal and state statutes.

Subventions for education, that is, support of the public school system, exclusive of the state university and state colleges, represents by far the largest single group of items, as shown in detail in Table 1 and in total in Table 3, and accounts for half the total at present. Subventions for social welfare, including assistance payments for old age security and aid to needy children ranks second at the present time. Both of these groups of subventions are financed from the general revenue sources of the State.

Third in importance are the amounts classified as shared revenues in Table 1, and shown in Table 3 as motor vehicle "in lieu" tax and liquor license fees for general government, cities and counties, and as subventions for county roads and city streets.

3. CLASSIFICATION OF SUBVENTIONS

In addition to the classification of subventions by program as shown in Tables 1 and 3, and by size, as shown in Table 4, there are two other classifications which have some significance, by fund, and as between "fixed charges" and "controllable expenditures."

Distribution of total subventions, as between the General Fund and special funds for the last four fiscal years shown in Table 3, is set forth as follows:

Fiscal year	Distribution of Subventions (000 omitted)
	Total	Special funds and reserves	General Fund
			Amount	Percent of total
1951-52 -----	$592,600	$166,793	$425,807	71.9
1952-53 -----	649,219	165,217	484,002	74.6
1953-54 (est.) -----	754,721	195,457	559,264	74.1
1954-55 (auth.) -----	786,633	194,076	592,557	75.3

Of the total subventions of special funds for the four-year period, 92 percent represents the so-called shared revenues, or money collected by the State from a particular tax source and apportioned, either in total or in part, to local governments in accordance with a formula provided by law whereby the amount of an apportionment is dependent upon yield from the respective tax. The shared revenues, which are shown in detail in Table 1, are those derived from liquor license fees, motor vehicle registration and weight fees, motor vehicle license fees (in lieu tax), and motor vehicle fuel tax.

The major portion of the subventions, however, is made from the general revenue sources of the State, such as the sales tax, bank and corporation tax and personal income tax.

In addition to a classification by funds, the Department of Finance and State Controller classify all state expenditures, including subventions, into two groups: "fixed charges" and "controllable expenditures." The general distinction between the two is that a "fixed charge" is based upon a constitutional or a statutory provision which, in effect, appropriates money at a particular rate rather than as a total amount so that the total amount can be controlled only by amendment to the particular constitutional or statutory provision involved, whereas a "controllable expenditure" is an amount which can be controlled by the ordinary budgetary process and represents expenditures from appropriations and authorizations which are subject to legislative or executive determination, including Budget Act appropriations, special appropriations, balances available in prior year appropriations made available for more than one fiscal year, and deficiency authorizations.

Comparisons of fixed charges in ratio to total state expenditures for the Fiscal Years 1951-52 through 1954-55 are shown as follows:

1951-52 -----	67.5%
1952-53 -----	65.4
1953-54 (est.) -----	67.3
1954-55 (auth.) -----	70.0

The dollar amount of fixed charges for the four fiscal periods is distributed to the three main budgetary classifications as follows:

Fixed charges (000 omitted)

Fiscal year	Total	State operations	Capital outlay	Subventions to local government
				Amount	Percent of total
1951-52 -----	$720,567	$56,620	$116,631	$547,316	76.0%
1952-53 -----	769,780	53,953	129,940	585,887	76.1
1953-54 (est.) ---	961,872	58,163	205,987	697,722	72.5
1954-55 (auth.) -	1,002,666	60,690	214,997	726,979	72.5

It will be noted from comparisons of the foregoing amounts for local assistance with the totals in Table 3 for the respective years that over 90 percent of the total subventions to local governments represents fixed charges.

The principal subvention representing a constitutional fixed charge is that resulting from Section 6, Article IX, of the State Constitution which requires the Legislature to provide for an apportionment for public schools of not less than $180 per pupil in average daily attendance. In 1953-54 this amounted to some $366,673,224 or about 90 percent of the total shown in Table 3 for education for that year. The program for driver training added by the 1953 Legislature required an apportionment of $383,017 in addition to the Constitutional minimum.

All of the subventions classified as "shared revenues" in Table 1 are fixed charges since in effect all or a specified part of the revenue from certain tax sources is returned to local governments on various bases set forth in the law rather than as appropriations of specific amounts.

All of the items shown in Table 1 as Social Welfare—Assistance Payments are fixed charges made pursuant to various sections of the Welfare and Institutions Code, whereas the items shown under Social Welfare—Local Administration are controllable expenditures.

All items shown under public works and public health, in Table 1, represent controllable expenditures.

4. TREND OF SUBVENTIONS AS PORTION OF TOTAL EXPENDITURES

As indicated in Table 2, the total of state subventions to local governments for the 26-year period averages 52.6 percent of total state expenditures, ranging from a low of 38.5 percent in 1931-32 to a high of 65.3 percent in 1944-45, the percentages for the three most recent years averaging 54.3 percent. This table also indicates, in column 7, the relationship between subventions and expenditures for state operations, the two being approximately equal during the first four years shown whereas in 1933-34 subventions more than doubled state operations costs. This was due to increased subventions for education.

Other sharp changes in this relationship occurred in 1943-44 due to increased social welfare subventions, in 1944-45 due to increased education subventions, and in 1950-51 due to increased social welfare subventions, and in 1952-53 and 1953-54 due to effect of increased education subventions.

5. FUNCTIONAL OUTLINE OF SUBVENTIONS

Table 1 is a summary of subventions to local governments by function or program for the three Fiscal Years 1951-52, 1952-53 and 1953-54, applying the classifications used in the current printed budgets, and also including federal funds subject to state apportionment. The amounts shown are actual expenditures for 1951-52 and 1952-53, and for 1953-54 are the estimates appearing in the 1954-55 printed budget.

Included in the total expenditures for state operations in the two Fiscal Years 1948-49 and 1949-50, as shown in Table 2, and excluded from the total expenditures for subventions shown in Tables 2 and 3, are certain major items which tend to distort considerably comparisons with other years. This was due mainly to changes of law explained in the following paragraph.

Under Article XXV of the State Constitution, which pertains to the State's participation in certain social welfare programs, and which was effective for the period from January 1, 1949 to February 28, 1950, the counties were relieved of the responsibilities of administration and financial participation in the programs of assistance for "Old Age Security" and "Aid to the Needy Blind." These responsibilities and related costs became obligations of the State insofar as the counties were concerned. However, Article XXVII of the State Constitution returned the respective responsibilities to the counties as of March 1, 1950. During the period in which Article XXV was effective, as pointed out, assistance payments in amounts of $56,076,274 and $2,556,299 respectively for the two programs in 1948-49 and assistance payments in amounts of $91,531,283 and $3,836,549 respectively for the two programs in 1949-50 were charged to state operations, rather than to subventions. This was also true of administrative costs which would otherwise have been borne by the counties. Consequently, when drawing comparisons from the tables with the respective fiscal periods, these factors should be considered.

Table 3 shows in summary form state subventions to local governments by main purpose for the 26-year period starting with 1929-30 and ending with 1954-55. The groupings are similar to those in Table 1, except that the shared revenues have been grouped by tax source. Also comparatively small sums representing unclaimed refunds of tax on gasoline used for aviation, which are shared with the counties for capital outlay for airports, are included in the classification "Other Purposes." Accordingly, the corresponding totals in the two tables will differ slightly.

Table 3 is therefore an analysis of subventions shown in Table 2 in total. From this table it is possible to trace the trends in each group, not only in dollar amounts but for major items as percentages of total subventions. Education and social welfare together accounted for 72 percent of total subventions for the entire 26-year period, while sums authorized for the two programs for 1954-55 represent 72.4 percent of the total. The most striking increase has been in social welfare where the amount at the end of the period is shown to be 91 times greater than at the beginning whereas total subventions were only 17 times as great.

The amounts shown under county roads and city streets are allocations of motor vehicle fuel tax (gasoline tax) and motor vehicle registration and weight fees, while those designated "other purposes" are the amounts listed under that heading in Table 1 plus shared revenue for county airports.

6. PERCENTAGE DISTRIBUTION OF SUBVENTIONS, 1953-54

Table 4 is a percentage distribution of the state subventions for 1953-54 shown in Table 1, with the items ranked by size. Also shown for each item are "to whom made," "by whom made" and the principal allocation factor. For a more complete description of any of these it is necessary to refer to the numbered section of the appendix which corresponds with the item number shown at the extreme left in Table 4. Also included in Appendix 1 is a detailed analysis of the apportionments for public schools totaling $367,056,241 by method of allocation and by school level.

7. ALLOCATION FACTORS

As indicated in Table 4 the factors used in allocating subventions to local governments are numerous and a study of the material in the appendix will indicate that some of them, particularly those governing apportionments for public schools are very complicated.

In most instances, particularly in the case of the larger grants, a specific formula is provided in the statute based on some factor designed to measure work load such as population, vehicle registrations and miles of road in the case of allocations of motor vehicle fuel tax for county roads, or average daily attendance (a.d.a.) in the case of school funds. In no instance does the agency making the allocation have unlimited discretion as to how the allocation is to be made although in some instances, such as item 38, Storm and Flood Damage Repair, where the Director of Finance must approve both the purpose of the expenditure and the expenditure, based on a report of an investigation of the particular project made by the Department of Public Works, some discretionary power is vested in a public official or agency. A similar situation appears in Chapter 1739, Statutes of 1953, with respect to discretionary powers of the Public Utilities Commission in connection with grade crossing protection works, (Item 35).

Assessed valuation is a factor which is involved in certain subventions for social welfare and education.

Section 2164 of the Welfare and Institutions Code provides that no aid (old age security payments) shall be "paid to any person who owns real property, the assessed value of which as assessed by the county assessor, less all encumbrances thereon of record, exceeds $3,500." The assessment ratio, i.e., the ratio of assessed value to market value whether 20 percent, 30 percent, 40 percent, etc., is therefore an important factor in determining the total number of persons eligible to receive aid to the extent that any own real property, and any change in the ratio, either up or down, would change the total case load as to such individuals. Variations in assessment ratios among counties could also result in inequities as between individuals in different counties.

With respect to apportionments for public schools and the effect of local assessed valuations upon such apportionments, it is noted that the total amount of state aid to local school districts is determined by the number of pupils in average daily attendance in the public schools multiplied by the constitutional guarantee of $180 per pupil. Therefore, local property assessment levels played no part in determining the total amount of approximately $367,000,000 of state aid to the public schools during the 1953-54 Fiscal Year. However, in the distribution of this total amount of state aid, approximately $103,514,708, or 28.2 percent, is effected by the level of local property assessment. These programs are equalization aid, growth and transportation.

8. AUDIT AND ACCOUNTABILITY IN SUBVENTIONS

Under Section 13293.4 of the Government Code the Department of Finance is required to audit the records of all state agencies which, of course, includes the authority to audit all subventions or allocations of state funds to local governments from the standpoint of the state agency making the allocation.

Many of the statutes governing particular subventions specify that audits shall be made of the local agency receiving the subvention. This is true of apportionments for public schools where Section 5010 of the Education Code provides for mandatory audit of school districts by outside accountants under the general supervision of the Department of Finance. It is true of aid to county agricultural fairs and citrus fairs where Section 19621 of the Business and Professions Code specifies that money shall be appropriated from the Fair and Exposition Fund to the Department of Finance for auditing fairs receiving money from the fund, and of old age security where Section 2189 of the Welfare and Institutions Code specifies audits by the State Controller and Department of Social Welfare.

There are also general provisions in the Government Code which give the State Controller very broad powers in connection with audit of disbursement of state funds. Section 12410 requires him to audit all disbursement of state money including field audit, if necessary, while Section 12416 states, " * * * the Controller may inspect the books of any person charged with the receipt, safekeeping, or disbursement of public money." It is probable that under these two provisions the Controller has the power to audit all local agencies receiving state subventions, except school districts and county agricultural fairs where legislation specifically grants that authority to the Department of Finance.

Many of the statutes covering subventions also contain provisions covering the reporting procedure to be followed by the local agency to insure proper accounting for the state funds. In addition, under Government Code Sections 12416, 12417, 12419, 12463, 12463.1, 12464, 53890 and 53891 the Controller is in a position to require reports from any local agency charged with the "receipt, safekeeping, or disbursement of public money," and to prescribe the form and content of such reports.

It thus appears that existing law contains adequate provisions to cover both proper accountability for and proper audit of all subventions to local governments, at both the state and local government level.

Whether or not sufficient auditing has been done in the past at the local government level is open to some question. A provision requiring the Department of Finance to audit school districts was effective June 30, 1951. Prior to that time no auditing had been done of school districts for state purposes. The results since that time appear to indicate the need for further auditing to determine the propriety of use of state funds both by districts and county school service funds.

Counties are subject to grand jury audits under the Penal Code, but these are usually too restricted in scope to be of much value to the State as a check on proper use of state funds by counties. The same is also true of any audits of cities by outside accountants.

It would appear that audit of local governments from the standpoint of propriety of use of state subventions by such governments could well be made the subject of a special study.

It would also appear that the responsibility for such audit should rest with a single independent state agency, rather than being divided among a number, as at present.

9. CALIFORNIA PAYMENTS TO LOCAL GOVERNMENTS COMPARED TO OTHER STATES

Although every state provides payments to its political subdivisions to some extent, there is great variation among the states in the amount of subventions, the types of programs, and in the amount of subventions in relationship to total state expenditures. A recent study by the Governments Division of the Bureau of the Census makes possible, however, a comparative analysis of these payments in all of the states. A summary of the amounts paid as aid to local governments, amounts per capita, and as a percentage of total general government expenditures in each of the states is shown in Table 5. It will be seen from this tabulation that California pays a larger amount to local governments than any of the states and also apportions a greater amount per capita. State of California payment to local governments for the fiscal year ending in 1952 amounted to $73.67 per capita while the all-state average was $33.06. Payments to local governments amounted to 57.4 percent of total general expenditures in California. This was exceeded only by the States of Alabama and Wisconsin with 58.2 percent and 58.9 percent respectively.

Factors Used in Allocation:

These are shown in detail in the remainder of Appendix 1 for each amount involved in the 1953-54 apportionment and for each level. In general the factors are average daily attendance, need, actual or excess cost and assessed valuation, and the method is prescribed in detail in the Education Code for each type of grant. The computations on which the various allocations are based are made by the Department of Education.

Audit:

Education Code, Section 5010 effective July 1, 1953, provides that each county superintendent shall provide for an audit of the County School Service Fund, all funds under his jurisdiction and for the books of all school districts under his jurisdiction with an average daily attendance of less than 900. The governing board of each school district with an average daily attendance of more than 900 must provide for an audit of the district books. Audits must be made by a certified public accountant or a public accountant. General supervision of the audit program is assigned to the State Department of Finance and the State Department of Education.

Footnote References to Preamble Table

- 1 Article IX, Section 8 of the State Constitution and Sections 7051, 7067, 7075 of the Education Code, requires that not less than $120 per pupil in average daily attendance shall be apportioned to each school district and that the amount apportioned to each school district shall not be less than $2,400.
- 2 Basic state aid for adults is $120 per pupil in average daily attendance.
- 3 The total allowance to districts for adults in classes in state institutions, city or county jails, etc., is paid on the basis of reported excesses but shall not be less than $210 or more than $148 for each unit of average daily attendance.
- 4 Certain incentives for unification are offered districts in terms of a guarantee that newly unified districts will not lose state funds as a result of unification and an increase in the foundation programs for newly unified districts for a five-year period.
- 5 The amount of equalization aid for each district is determined by computing the amount of basic state aid plus district aid (according to a uniform computational tax) and subtracting from the foundation program. In case the total of basic aid is equal to or greater than the foundation program, no allowance for equalization aid is made to the district. The total amount set aside in the state school fund for equalization aid is equal to $180 per average daily attendance minus basic aid, growth, county school service fund and special purpose apportionments.
- 6 Section 7190 of the Education Code requires the Superintendent of Public Instruction to make adjustments for errors made during previous apportionments.
- 7 Certain small school districts receive funds over and above the regular foundation program providing they hire a specified number of teachers. If they do not hire the specified number of teachers they are then placed under the regular foundation program and the extra funds are withheld and allowed proportionately to elementary schools receiving equalization aid during the then current year.
- 8 Up to $400 per unit of average daily attendance is apportioned to districts and the county school service fund as payment for the excess cost of educating physically handicapped children.
- 9 Up to 7.5 percent of excess cost not exceeding $150 per average daily attendance, including transportation, is apportioned to districts and the county school service fund for education of mentally retarded children.
- 10 Up to $300 per average daily attendance, excluding transportation, is apportioned to districts and the county school service fund for the excess cost of educating severely mentally retarded children.
- 11 Up to $350 per unit of average daily attendance is apportioned to districts and the county school service fund for the cost of transporting physically handicapped and severely mentally retarded children.

- 12 The total amount available to apportion for pupil transportation is $3.20 times the total state average daily attendance and this amount is apportioned to districts in amounts based on the current expenses of pupil transportation and the assessed valuation of the districts.
- 13 In addition to the $180 per unit of average daily attendance there is transferred from the General Fund to the State School Fund an amount for the reimbursement of 75 percent excess cost of driver training. Instruction not to exceed $30 per pupil instructed.
- 14 An amount equal to $3.57 times the total state average daily attendance is available to county superintendents for general purposes and for partial payment, ($2,400) of county superintendents' salary. The amount to each county is distributed on the basis of budgets approved by the Superintendent of Public Instruction.
- 15 An amount equal to $0.94 times the total state average daily attendance is available to county superintendents for supervision of instruction on the basis of budgets approved by the Superintendent of Public Instruction.
- 16 Basic aid for students residing in the county and attending school in an adjoining state.
- 17 The same amounts as would be computed for district foundation programs are apportioned to the county superintendent for support of schools in juvenile halls, etc.
- 18 An amount equal to $280 for each unit of average daily attendance of physically handicapped pupils of secondary grade educated by the county superintendent is apportioned to the county superintendent of schools.
- 19 The same amount as would be computed for elementary district foundation programs is apportioned to the county superintendent for emergency schools maintained in each elementary school district of the county by the county superintendent.
- 20 The same amount as would be computed for district foundation programs is apportioned to the county superintendent for special schools or special classes for mentally retarded maintained in each elementary school district in the county by the county superintendent.
- 21 For each average daily attendance in growth a full apportionment of basic and equalization aid received per previous year's average daily attendance will be made.
- 22 See note six.
- 23 The difference between the amounts reserved according to the legal maximum for special purpose apportionments and the actual apportionments is added to the remaining balance and will be apportioned as additional equalization aid to elementary school districts.

APPENDIX 2
OLD AGE SECURITY—$100,770,600

Purpose:

Aid to needy aged and to counties in administration of program.

Citation:

State Constitution, Article XXVII (eff. 3/1/50) ; Welfare and Institutions Code, various sections.

To Whom Made:

Counties.

By Whom Made:

Department of Social Welfare.

Factors Used in Allocation:

Number of eligible applicants; maximum amount per person fixed by Sections 2025 and 2025.1, Welfare and Institutions Code. In addition counties receive reimbursement for institutional care of needy aged (Welfare and Institutions Code, 2160.7) as well as grants of federal funds for administering program. In determining eligibility of applicant amount of real property (at assessed value) and personal property owned by applicant, as well as his age, citizenship and residence are factors. In determining amount of aid per person income of applicant (including contributions of responsible relatives), as well as his need, must be considered.

Reports, etc.:

Department of Social Welfare formulates rules and regulations and specifies reports required (Welfare and Institutions Code, 2140). Welfare and Institutions Code 2189 specifies county reports as well as audits by Controller and Department of Social Welfare. Welfare and Institutions Code 2220 also covers a county report.

APPENDIX 3

MOTOR VEHICLE FUEL TAX FOR COUNTY ROADS—$60,237,440

Purpose:

County roads: administration, maintenance and construction.

Citation:

Sections 2105, 2106, 2111, 2113-2117, Streets and Highways Code.

To Whom Made:

Counties.

By Whom Made:

State Controller.

Basis of Apportionment:

Section 2105 provides that sum equal to the net revenue derived from $0.01 per gallon under the Motor Vehicle Fuel License Tax Law shall be apportioned to counties as provided in Section 2111, while Section 2106 provides an additional apportionment of $0.003/8 per gallon as provided in Sections 2113-2116. The 1 cent is apportioned as follows:

Sec. 2111a. $20,000 to each county to be used exclusively for engineering costs and administrative expense.

Sec. 2111b. $30,000 to each county.

Sec. 2111c. Remainder in same ratio as motor vehicle registrations in each county bears to state total registrations.

The three-eighths of 1 cent is apportioned as follows:

Sec. 2114. Amount by which $25 for each mile of maintained county road exceeds amounts received by county under Sections 2111b and 2111c.

Sec. 2115. One-half the remainder after apportionments made under Section 2114 on basis of registrations (same as Sec. 2111c).

Sec. 2116. Remainder in same ratio as maintained miles of county roads in each eligible county bears to total such miles in eligible counties. Counties where sum of apportionments under Sections 2104 (Motor Vehicle Registration and Weight Fees), 2111b and 2111c exceeds $50 per mile of maintained county roads are not eligible.

APPENDIX 4

MOTOR VEHICLE "IN LIEU" TAX TO COUNTIES—$36,943,830

Purpose:

For general government.

Citation:

Revenue and Taxation Code, Section 11005b.

To Whom Made:

Counties.

By Whom Made:

State Controller.

Basis of Apportionment:

One-half balance in Motor Vehicle License Fee Fund to counties on basis of population as shown by last federal census.

APPENDIX 5

MOTOR VEHICLE "IN LIEU" TAX TO CITIES—$36,943,830

Purpose:

For general government.

Citation:

Revenue and Taxation Code, Section 11005a.

To Whom Made:

Cities.

By Whom Made:

State Controller.

Basis of Apportionment:

One-half balance in Motor Vehicle License Fee Fund to cities on basis of population as shown by last federal census, except that in case of a city incorporated since last federal census or unincorporated territory added to a city population will be computed as three times the number of registered electors.

APPENDIX 6

AID TO NEEDY CHILDREN—$31,427,950

Purpose:

As stated.

Citation:

Welfare and Institutions Code, Ch. 1, Pt. 2, Div. 2 (1500-1582).

To Whom Made:

County treasurers and institutions maintaining needy children.

By Whom Made:

Department of Social Welfare.

Factors Used in Allocation:

Number of eligible applicants; maximum amount per child set by Welfare and Institutions Code 1511. In addition counties receive grants of federal funds for use in administering program. In determining eligibility of applicant amount of real property (at assessed value) and personal property owned by applicant or his parents, as well as his age (under 18), residence, and citizenship, is considered. The Welfare and Institutions Code 1500 sets forth the basic definition of a "needy child." In determining the amount of aid per child, minimum standards of adequate care (Welfare and Institutions Code 1511.5) furnish a yardstick; possible income must be considered (Welfare and Institutions Code 1508, 1511.1).

Reports, etc.:

Welfare and Institutions Code 1552.5, 1555, and 1556 require reports to the Department of Social Welfare. Welfare and Institutions Code 1561 requires a report to the Federal Social Security Board. Welfare and Institutions Code 1556 and 1559 require audits by the Controller and the Department of Social Welfare.

APPENDIX 7

MOTOR VEHICLE FUEL TAX FOR CITY STREETS—$26,897,617

Purpose:

City streets.

Citation:

Streets and Highways Code, Sections 2107 and 194.

To Whom Made:

Cities.

By Whom Made:

Division of Highways.

Basis of Apportionment:

Sum equal to $0.005/8 per gallon tax is transferred by State Controller to the State Highway Fund and is apportioned from that fund to cities by the Division of Highways on the basis of population.

APPENDIX 8

CONTRIBUTIONS TO TEACHERS RETIREMENT SYSTEM—$23,291,800

Purpose:

Teachers retirement payments.

Citation:

Education Code, Sections 14562, 14563, and Budget Act.

To Whom Made:

Beneficiaries under Teachers Retirement System plus certain payments to local agencies (county, city, or district) which maintain a local retirement system.

By Whom Made:

State Teachers Retirement System.

Factors Used in Allocation:

Retirement and death benefits specified in Education Code, Chapter 14, Division 7.

Reports, Etc.:

Disbursements made only upon claims audited by Controller, Education Code, Section 14332.

APPENDIX 9

MOTOR VEHICLE REGISTRATION AND WEIGHT FEES FOR COUNTY ROADS—$8,691,506*Purpose:*

County roads.

Citation:

Sections 2104 and 2110, Streets and Highways Code.

To Whom Made:

Counties.

By Whom Made:

State Controller.

Basis of Apportionment:

$5,400,000 increased or decreased for each fiscal year in proportion that motor vehicle registrations during preceding calendar year have changed from 1946 is total available for apportionment (Section 2104). Of this amount the first $360,000 is apportioned to certain counties for snow removal on county roads, the second $360,000 is apportioned to certain counties for repair of county roads damaged by heavy rainfall and storm. The apportionments of these two sums are made in accordance with schedules set forth in Section 2110, while the remainder goes to counties on basis of number of fee paid vehicles registered in county in ratio to number of fee paid vehicles registered in the State.

APPENDIX 10

DEBT SERVICE ON PUBLIC SCHOOL BUILDING BONDS—$7,320,983

Purpose:

As stated.

Citation:

Education Code, Sections 5103 and 7903.

To Whom Made:

Bondholders.

By Whom Made:

Controller.

Factors Used in Allocation:

Net amount required to pay principal and interest on public school building bonds which were authorized by Article XVI, Sections 15 of the Constitution and Chapter 922, 1949, and Section 16.5 of the Constitution and Chapter 28, 1952 (2d Ex. Sess.).

Reports, Etc.:

Claims audited by Controller (Education Code 5103). An analysis of the debt service on these bonds will show the gross cost for 1953-54 to be $13,009,500. However, credits to the gross cost are derived from school district repayments on loans, premium and accrued interest on bonds sold, and interest earned on investments of proceeds of bond sales which are deposited in bond funds. These credits are expected to provide offsets totaling $5,688,517, thereby leaving a net cost to State Government in amount of $7,320,983 for the 1953-54 Fiscal Year, as reflected in the 1954-55 Budget document. Bond fund transactions are not taken into the budget totals.

APPENDIX 11

LIQUOR LICENSE FEES TO CITIES—$6,925,000

Purpose:

For general government use pursuant to Section 22, Article XX, State Constitution.

Citation:

Section 25761, Business and Professions Code.

To Whom Made:

Cities and Counties.

By Whom Made:

State Board of Equalization.

Factors Used in Allocation:

All moneys collected from fees are to be paid semiannually to the counties, cities and counties, and cities of the State in the proportion that the amount of the fees collected in the particular county, city and county, or city bears to the total amount so collected throughout the State. Effective July 1, 1954, pursuant to Section 25761, as amended by Chapter 22, Statutes of 1954, (1st Ex. Sess.), liquor license fees will increase by 10 percent and the additional revenue collected due to the 10 percent increase will be distributed to the General Fund.

Reports, Etc.:

In April and October of each year the Liquor Control Division of the State Board of Equalization publishes a tabulation setting forth the allocation to cities and counties of alcoholic beverage license fees.

APPENDIX 12

FLOOD CONTROL—$6,762,965

Purpose:

For state cooperation in authorized flood control program.

Citation:

State Water Resources Act of 1945—Chapter 1514/45, Flood Control Fund Act of 1946—Chapter 142/46, 1st Ex. Session, and Budget Act.

To Whom Made:

County, city or district.

By Whom Made:

Water Resources Board.

Factors Used in Allocation:

Local agencies are reimbursed for their costs on all projects adopted and authorized by the Legislature.

Reports, Etc.:

Section 17 of the act requires reports by the Water Resources Board to the Legislature; Section 23 requires reports by the board to the Governor.

APPENDIX 13

AID TO NEEDY BLIND—$5,319,500

Purpose:

Aid to needy blind and to counties in administration of program.

Citation:

State Constitution, Article XXVII (eff. 3/1/50).

To Whom Made:

Counties.

By Whom Made:

Department of Social Welfare.

Factors Used in Allocation:

Number of eligible applicants; maximum amount per person fixed by Section 3084.1, Welfare and Institutions Code. In addition counties receive reimbursement for institutional care of needy blind (Welfare and Institutions Code 3044.1) as well as grants of federal funds for administration of program. In determining eligibility of applicant combined amount of personal and real property (at assessed value), together with other personal property owned by applicant, as well as his age (16 or over), residence, and citizenship are factors. In determining amount of aid per person the income of the applicant (including contributions of responsible relatives), as well as his need must be considered.

Reports, Etc.:

Welfare and Institutions Code 3078.5, 3085, 3087.3 require reports to the Department of Social Welfare; Welfare and Institutions Code requires the department to make reports to the Social Security Board. Welfare and Institutions Code 3087.3 specifies audits by the Controller and the Department of Social Welfare.

APPENDIX 14

ASSISTANCE TO COUNTIES FOR TUBERCULOSIS

SANATORIA—$5,266,348

Purpose:

Aid to counties for the treatment and care of persons suffering from tuberculosis.

Citation:

Health and Safety Code, Division 4, and Budget Act.

To Whom Made:

Counties.

By Whom Made:

Department of Public Health.

Factors Used in Allocation:

The allocation is computed on a patient-day basis in accordance with a scale and other provisions set forth in the Health and Safety Code, Sections 3301.5, 3301.6, and 3301.7. The department sets up regulations which must be conformed to before state aid is granted.

Reports, etc.:

Semiannual reports to the department are required under Health and Safety Code 3301.

APPENDIX 15

CHILD CARE CENTERS—$3,848,885

Purpose:

Assistance to school districts maintaining child care centers (children between 2 and 16).

Citation:

Education Code, Sections 19601-19620.

To Whom Made:

County for district.

By Whom Made:

Department of Education.

Factors Used in Allocation:

Based on hours of attendance per child, using a state-wide average state support as a maximum, with certain exceptions as set forth in Education Code, Section 19607.4. Income of parents and fees collected also considered.

Reports, etc.:

Education Code 19607.4 appears to require that the Department of Education establish "uniform budgetary and accounting procedures."

APPENDIX 16

FREE TEXTBOOKS—$3,359,585

Purpose:

Free textbooks for the elementary schools.

Citation:

Education Code, Division 6, Chapter 2, and Budget Act.

To Whom Made:

Textbooks furnished to school districts for use in elementary schools. (No cash subvention.)

By Whom Made:

State Board of Education.

Factors Used in Allocation:

Requisitions from school principals forwarded through county superintendents of schools.

Reports, etc.:

By governing board of school district; Education Code 11023.

APPENDIX 17

AID TO COUNTY AGRICULTURAL FAIRS AND CITRUS FAIRS—$3,101,924*Purpose:*

The encouragement of these fairs.

Citation:

Business and Professions Code, 19622, 19624, 19626.

To Whom Made:

County agricultural fairs and citrus fruit fairs and expositions.

By Whom Made:

Allocations made by Director of Finance except where amounts are specified in the code sections.

Factors Used in Allocation:

Statute specifies amount of allocation in many cases; Business and Professions Code 19624a specifies that $100,000 be allocated to certain citrus fruit fairs and expositions, according to the population of the counties concerned; Business and Professions Code 19624b places a limit of $65,000 on the sum for each county, district or combined county and district agricultural fair, with certain listed exceptions; fund appropriated under Business and Professions Code 19624b is allocated on the basis of the premiums paid by the fairs concerned, with the limitation just stated. Funds appropriated by Business and Professions Code 19626c are allocated by the Director of Finance, in his discretion, after approval by the State Public Works Board, for permanent improvements for fair purposes, or for the purchase of equipment or real property for fair purposes.

Reports, etc.:

The books and records of any county, citrus fruit fair or exposition receiving an appropriation or allotment may be audited by the Department of Finance, as they relate to revenues and expenditures for fair or exposition purposes. (Business and Professions Code, Sec. 19621.)

APPENDIX 18

ASSISTANCE FOR PHYSICALLY HANDICAPPED
CHILDREN—$3,000,000*Purpose:*

As stated.

Citation:

Health and Safety Code, Article 2, Chapter 2, Part 1 of Division 1, and Budget Act.

To Whom Made:

Cities and counties.

By Whom Made:

Department of Public Health.

Factors Used in Allocation:

For crippled children's services allocations are made in accordance with and subject to conditions set forth in the item of appropriation. The basic allotment provided each county or city and county would provide an amount equivalent to 35 cents per capita of population when added to the amount provided by the county pursuant to Section 270 of the Health and Safety Code. Any funds determined as excess to the county needs which are provided by this basic allocation may be reallocated by the Department of Public Health up to an amount sufficient to make available to a county an amount not exceeding 45 cents per capita. If the amount appropriated exceeds the amounts required for allocation and reallocation under the limitations set forth, such excess may be allocated to any county in an amount not to exceed twice any sum provided by the county in addition to the amount required by Section 270 of the Health and Safety Code. A minimum allocation of $20,000 is provided each county for these services.

Reports, etc.:

"Independent" counties file a quarterly report with the Department of Public Health which consists of a summary statement of expenditures for the quarter, by program. A copy of the summary is forwarded by the department in a claim to the Controller after computation of the amount of reimbursement due from the State. In the case of "dependent" counties the State operates the program and subsequently bills the county for its share of the cost.

APPENDIX 19

AID TO LOCAL HEALTH DEPARTMENTS—$2,991,695

Purpose:

To assist local health departments to meet minimum standards established by the State Board of Health.

Citation:

Health and Safety Code, Sections 1100-1157, and Budget Act.

To Whom Made:

Cities, counties, and districts.

By Whom Made:

Department of Public Health.

Factors Used in Allocation:

To qualifying local health departments a basic allotment per county of $16,000 or 60 cents per capita, per county, whichever is the lesser (divided on a population basis, if more than one department per county), and a per capita allotment (Health and Safety Code 1141a and b). In order to qualify for this assistance (1154) a local health department must appropriate, for the period to which the allocation would apply, local funds in an amount equal to at least twice the per capita allotment provided in the Health and Safety Code 1141b; also the professional and technical personnel, program, and organization must meet the minimum standards established by the State Department of Public Health. In general, federal funds distributed to local health agencies are allocated in the same manner as state funds. An alternate method for providing assistance for local public health services is contained in Section 1157 of the Health and Safety Code which reads, in part, as follows:

"In lieu of any other provisions of this chapter, upon request of the board of supervisors of any county of less than 40,000 population and upon the appropriation for public health purposes by such county of a sum of not less than fifty-five cents ($.55) per capita for the total county population, the State Department of Public Health may organize and operate a local public health service in such county."

Reports, etc.:

Health and Safety Code 1111 provides that the State Board of Health, after consultation with and approval by the California Conference of Local Health Officers, shall adopt rules and regulations necessary to the administration of this chapter (Sections 1100-1157). The State Department of Public Health shall certify to the State Controller the amounts to be paid to each local health department each quarter. Health and Safety Code 1130 provides Department of Public Health may require reports of services, finances, and expenditures of local health departments.

APPENDIX 20

ASSISTANCE TO LOCAL AGENCIES FOR HOSPITAL
CONSTRUCTION—$2,138,590*Purpose:*

As stated.

Citation:

Health and Safety Code, Sections 430-435.7, and Budget Act.

To Whom Made:

Counties, cities, districts. Federal funds also to nonprofit hospitals.

By Whom Made:

Department of Public Health.

Factors Used in Allocation:

No agency is eligible for state funds unless it qualifies for and receives assistance from the United States under Public Law 725 of the 79th Congress. However, certain nonprofit agencies may qualify for federal aid, although they are restricted from receiving state aid by terms of the Budget Act. State assistance shall equal the amount of federal funds, but in no case shall the amount of state assistance exceed one-third the cost of construction of the hospital. The Department of Public Health prescribes minimum standards for the maintenance and operation of hospitals which receive federal aid for construction under the state plan (Health and Safety Code 432.4). In establishing priority for the allocation of funds the department considers particularly three factors: (1) percent of hospital need met in area considered, (2) availability of hospital facilities in adjacent areas, and (3) population of area. These factors are weighted approximately 7:2:1 (administrative policy).

Reports, etc.:

Department of Public Health specifies reports (Health and Safety Code 431.1a). Department makes annual report to Governor and Legislature (Health and Safety Code 431.1c), and shall certify to Surgeon General regarding work performed or purchases made and that payment of installment of federal funds is due applicant (Health and Safety Code 432.8). The department shall also prescribe the time and manner of payment of state assistance, if granted (Health and Safety Code 435.7).

APPENDIX 21

POSTWAR PUBLIC WORKS PROJECTS—$2,000,000

Purpose:

Assistance to local agencies in defraying cost of preparing plans and acquiring sites for public works projects and for construction of such projects.

Citation:

Chapters 47, 1944 (4th Ex. Session), 20/45 (1st Ex. Session), 1213/47, 1321/47, 23 48, 1206/49, 1213 49, 1214 49, 292/51, 293 51, 1401 53, and 1418 53.

To Whom Made:

Cities, counties and districts.

By Whom Made:

State Allocation Board.

Factors Used in Allocation:

With respect to preparation of plans and acquisition of sites, made on a matching basis for approved projects. Cost of plan must not exceed 6 percent of total estimated cost of project without division approval. Original act provides method for computing maximum allocations to local agencies and also for assignment of allocations among local agencies.

With respect to construction projects made on a matching basis, except that a maximum of $75,000 of road and highway construction project costs, per county, need not be matched. Chapter 20 specified that $45,000,000 was to be allocated to cities, and a like amount to counties. Of the latter $45,000,000, one-third was earmarked for road construction and this amount was to be apportioned between counties in proportion to the rural population of each county and the mileage of maintained county roads in unincorporated territory in each county. Each of these factors was given equal weight. The remaining two-thirds was to be apportioned to allow $100,000 to each county, the balance being allocated in proportion to the total population of each county. The allocation to cities was suballotted in proportion to the population of the city. The act listed projects which were eligible for aid, and provided that local agencies might assign their allocations to other agencies. Chapter 1214/1949 appropriated $130,000 to be allocated to counties on a matching basis for the construction of county courthouses which had been destroyed by fire during the three years prior to January 1, 1949. The appropriation to be expended without regard to fiscal year.

Reports, etc.:

The act requires the Department of Finance to make a report on the work due and expenditures made to each house of the Legislature at the beginning of each regular session. The Board of Control is required to prescribe rules in regard to claims for reimbursement of the cost of construction of projects. The Director of the Department of Finance must approve such claims, and the Controller must make such audits as he deems necessary. Expenditures of allocations to local agencies are not subject to Government Code 13320-24, 13920, 16003 or 29000-29171; however, Government Code, Division 5, Title 1, applies to these public works or projects.

APPENDIX 22

EARTHQUAKE DAMAGE REPAIR—$1,822,965

Purpose:

As stated.

Citation:

Government Code, Part 1, Division 2, Title 5, and Chapter 1777/1952.

To Whom Made:

Local agencies.

By Whom Made:

State Allocation Board.

Factors Used in Allocation:

Loans and terms of repayment based upon need and agreements between the board and local agencies. Any money appropriated by the act for which no application is made before December 31, 1954, is to revert to the General Fund. Original appropriation was for $3,000,000 from the General Fund.

APPENDIX 23

LIQUOR LICENSE FEES TO COUNTIES—$1,778,000

See Appendix 11 which covers both cities and counties.

APPENDIX 24

SALARIES OF SUPERIOR COURT JUDGES—$1,702,677

Purpose:

Part payment of superior judges' salary.

Citation:

Government Code, Section 69640, and Budget Act.

To Whom Made:

County.

By Whom Made:

State Controller.

Factors Used in Allocation:

Number of superior court judges. Present law provides that the State pay $7,500 toward salary of each such judge.

APPENDIX 25

AID FOR INSTITUTIONAL CARE OF NEEDY AGED
AND BLIND—$1,383,360

See Appendix 2 which also covers this item.

APPENDIX 26

REIMBURSEMENT TO COUNTIES FOR ADMINISTRATION
AND CARE OF ADOPTIONS—$1,303,469

Purpose:

As stated.

Citation:

Welfare and Institutions Code, Chapter 2, Part 3, Division 2, Budget Act.

To Whom Made:
Counties.

By Whom Made:
Department of Social Welfare.

Factors Used in Allocation:

Licensed county agencies are reimbursed for all the administrative costs of the adoption program and up to $200 on the average per child for the costs of caring for the child following relinquishment and prior to placement not collected from the adopting parents. (Effective July 1, 1954, the fee increases to $300.)

Reports, etc.:

Claims for reimbursement to be filed quarterly with, and are subject to audit by, Department of Social Welfare; the department shall make such rules and regulations as are necessary, subject to approval of the Department of Finance.

APPENDIX 27

AID FOR JUVENILE HOMES AND CAMPS—$793,100

Purpose:

As stated above.

Citation:

Welfare and Institutions Code, Section 957, and Budget Act.

To Whom Made:
Counties.

By Whom Made:
Youth Authority.

Factors Used in Allocation:

Reimbursement of one-half cost of maintaining each child but not more than $80 per month per child. Youth Authority prescribes standards counties must meet. (Effective July 1, 1954, maximum will increase to $95.)

Reports, etc.:

Monthly billing by counties, verified and consolidated by Youth Authority. Consolidated claim forwarded twice yearly to Controller for payment.

APPENDIX 28

LOCAL INSPECTION OF HOMES AND AGENCIES—
AGED AND NEEDY CARE—$766,812

Purpose:

Payments to local agencies for inspection as stated above.

Citation:

Welfare and Institutions Code, Sections 1622 and 2302, and Budget Act.

To Whom Made:
Cities and counties.

By Whom Made:
Department of Social Welfare.

Factors Used in Allocation:

Reimbursement of expenses of cities and counties incurred in maintaining approved services for licensing and inspection of homes and agencies, above-mentioned, not to exceed an amount averaging four dollars per month per license. (Effective July 1, 1954, maximum to be $5.)

Reports, etc.:

Claims for reimbursement shall be filed with the Department of Social Welfare at the time and in the manner specified by the department.

APPENDIX 29

ASSISTANCE TO LOCAL AGENCIES FOR MOSQUITO
AND/OR GNAT CONTROL—$700,000

Purpose:

As stated.

Citation:

Health and Safety Code, Sections 2425 and 2426, and Budget Act.

To Whom Made:

To local agencies engaged in mosquito and gnat control.

By Whom Made:

State Department of Public Health.

Factors Used in Allocation:

Department may enter into a cooperative agreement with the local agency under such terms, conditions, and specifications as the State Board of Health may prescribe. Financial assistance provided by the State shall not exceed 50 percent of the total cost of any acceptable plan. Prior to the 1950-51 Fiscal Year assistance was granted for mosquito control only.

Reports, etc:

As specified by board.

APPENDIX 30

LOCAL SCHOOL DISTRICTS—CEREBRAL PALSID CHILDREN—$463,702

Purpose:

To provide the services of physical and occupational therapists for cerebral palsied children.

Citation:

(Health and Safety Code 249-271), and Budget Act.

To Whom Made:

Counties.

By Whom Made:

Department of Public Health.

Factors Used in Allocation:

Salaries of physical and occupational therapists are reimbursed to the counties on the basis of a contractual relationship, which contract reflects the number of therapists employed in the area. The county claims reimbursement under the contract either monthly or quarterly. Physical therapists are furnished initially when the class enrollment is 10. When the enrollment reaches 25 to 30, consideration is given to adding a second physical therapist. Occupational therapists are furnished on the basis of one to a class of at least 20 children. "Out-patients" are included in these counts, as well as those regularly enrolled in the special classes.

Reports, etc:

As required by the department.

APPENDIX 31

MOTOR VEHICLE FUEL TAX FOR COUNTY AIRPORTS—$417,210

Purpose:

Capital outlay for aviation or airport purposes.

Citation:

Revenue and Taxation Code, Sections 8352 and 8357.

To Whom Made:

Counties.

By Whom Made:

State Controller.

Basis of Apportionment:

Total available is unrefunded gasoline tax collected on motor vehicle fuel used or usable in an airplane. Each county first receives $2,500 per year and the remainder is apportioned one-half on the basis of population and one-half on the basis of area.

APPENDIX 32

AID TO PARTIALLY SELF-SUPPORTING BLIND—$408,100

Purpose:

As stated.

Citation:

Welfare and Institutions Code, Sections 3400-3482, and Article XXVII, State Constitution.

To Whom Made:

Counties.

By Whom Made:

Department of Social Welfare.

Factors Used in Allocation:

Number of eligible applicants; maximum amount per person set by Section 3472.1, Welfare and Institutions Code. In addition counties receive reimbursement for institutional care of needy blind. In determining eligibility of applicant combined amount of real and personal property (at assessed value), together with other personal property owned by applicant, as well as his age (16 or over), residence and citizenship, are factors. In determining amount of aid per person, the income of the applicant (including contributions of responsible relatives) must be considered.

Reports, etc.:

As required under Welfare and Institutions Code, Sections 3078.5, 3085, 3481, and 3482. Welfare and Institutions Code 3482 requires audit by Controller and Department of Social Welfare.

APPENDIX 33

VOCATIONAL EDUCATION—REIMBURSEMENTS TO SCHOOL DISTRICTS—$361,725

Purpose:

To cooperate with the Federal Government on promoting vocational education in California.

Citation:

Education Code, Sections 5705, 5726, and Budget Act.

To Whom Made:

School districts through counties (secondary schools).

By Whom Made:

State Board of Education.

Factors Used in Allocation:

Reimbursement to school districts is based on repayment to the districts, insofar as availability of funds permits, of the salaries of the teachers of vocational courses.

Reports, etc.:

Under Education Code 5726 the State Board of Education is required to set up the rules and regulations governing the expenditure of this money.

APPENDIX 34

COUNTY VETERANS SERVICE OFFICERS—$350,000

Purpose:

Payment of portion of "compensation and expenses" of county service officer.

Citation:

Military and Veterans Code, Sections 970-973, and Budget Act.

To Whom Made:

County.

By Whom Made:

Veterans Welfare Board.

Factors Used in Allocation:

Contribution toward the salary of each county service officer shall not be more than $75 per month. The Veterans Welfare Board sets standards and regulations which must be observed. The board has set up the following schedule of contributions, in amplification of the statute:

Service officer—

95 percent of salary or $75 per month, whichever is less;

First assistant—

Not less than 50 percent nor more than 80 percent of salary;

All other employees—

50 percent of salary;

Operating expenses—

95 percent or $150 per quarter, whichever is less.

Reports, etc.:

As required by Veterans Welfare Board.

APPENDIX 35

GRADE CROSSING PROTECTION WORKS—$150,000

Purpose:

Assist cities and counties in the financing of the cost of constructing grade crossing protection works.

Citation:

Chapter 1739, Statutes of 1953, and Public Utilities Code.

To Whom Made:

Local agencies.

By Whom Made:

Public Utilities Commission.

Factors Used in Allocation:

Chapter 1739, of the Statutes of 1953 appropriated $500,000 from the State Highway Fund for allocation to local agencies by the Public Utilities Commission on the basis of need as determined by the commission. Allocation of state funds is limited to a maximum not to exceed 50 percent sharing of cost to a local agency.

Audit:

Claims to be preaudited or postaudited by the State Controller.

APPENDIX 36

CONTRIBUTION TO JUDGES' RETIREMENT FUND—$143,000

Purpose:

Contribution to the Judges' Retirement Fund for judges of the Supreme Court, District Courts of Appeal, superior and municipal courts.

Citation:

Government Code, Sections 75100-75108.

To Whom Made:

Judges' Retirement Fund.

By Whom Made:

State Controller.

Factors Used in Allocation:

Each month the Controller computes the aggregate annual salaries of all the judges enumerated above. He then transfers from the General Fund to the Judges' Retirement Fund  $2\frac{1}{12}$  percent of  $\frac{1}{12}$  of such computed aggregate.

APPENDIX 37

COUNTY AGRICULTURAL COMMISSIONERS—$131,274

Purpose:

To increase salary of county agricultural commissioner in order to secure more uniform and adequate enforcement of provisions of Agricultural Code.

Citation:

Agricultural Code, Section 63.5 and Budget Act.

To Whom Made:

Counties.

By Whom Made:

Director, State Department of Agriculture.

Factors Used in Allocation:

Director may enter into agreement to pay up to $3,000 toward salary of county agricultural commissioner, but in no case more than two-thirds of his salary.

Reports, Etc.:

Commissioner must make such reports as the director requires (Agricultural Code 65).

APPENDIX 38

STORM AND FLOOD DAMAGE REPAIR—$34,179

Purpose:

Aid to local governmental units in storm and flood damage repair.

Citation:

Chapter 609, 1949, Chapter 13, 1951, Chapters 6, 1953 and 1480, 1953.

To Whom Made:

Local jurisdictions, districts or agencies including agencies of the Federal Government.

By Whom Made:

Department of Public Works.

Factors Used in Allocation:

Local agency must match state funds. Department of Public Works must investigate project and file a report with the Department of Finance. Director of Finance must approve both the purpose of the expenditure and the expenditure. The Department of Public Works may perform all or any portion of the work or may contract with the local agency.

APPENDIX 39

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION FOR DISASTER SERVICE

As stated.

Citation:

Division 4, Part 1, Labor Code, and Budget Act.

To Whom Paid:

State Compensation Insurance Fund.

By Whom Paid:

Controller.

Factors Used in Allocation:

Expenditures in payment of claims for workmen's compensation and adjusting services are made by the Fund from a cash revolving fund. These expenditures are exempt from the provisions of Government Code 16003 which relate to audit. Reimbursement of the revolving fund for such expenditures is made upon the presentation to the Controller of an abstract or statement of such expenditures. This abstract or statement is in such form as may be required by the Controller.

Reports, Etc.:

Covered in preceding paragraph.

APPENDIX 40

TRANSPORTATION OF NEEDY CHILDREN—$2,500

See Appendix 6

APPENDIX 41

VETERANS HOUSING—$2,129,802

Purpose:

To cooperate with the Federal Government in a concerted effort to alleviate an acute shortage of housing for war veterans and servicemen which existed at the time the program was initiated.

Citation:

Chapters 29, 1946, 46, 1946, and 391, 1947.

Factors Used in Allocation:

Chapter 29, Statutes of 1946, appropriated $7,500,000 for the purpose of cooperating with the Federal Government and local agencies in a program furnishing temporary emergency housing, locally administered, for war veterans and servicemen's families. State assistance to local agencies was limited to not more than 90 percent of nonfederal costs. The Federal Government withdrew from participation in the financing of the program in the latter part of December, 1946, and, while the shortage of housing remained, the State assumed the responsibility of carrying on the program and appropriated an additional $4,500,000 to enable the local agencies to complete projects in existing contracts. The State was to meet the full cost to the local agency for completion of suspended projects. However, it was the intent of provisions in the acts that the State was to be reimbursed in the fullest extent deemed possible through the operations and/or sales of the projects. The State's interest in the housing projects is gradually being liquidated.

APPENDIX 42

STATE SCHOOL BUILDING CONSTRUCTION—$172,491

Purpose:

As stated.

Citation:

Chapter 1575, 1947, Chapter 24, 1948, Chapter 1308, 1949 (Education Code, Chapter 1.5).

To Whom Made:

County for district.

By Whom Made:

State Allocation Board.

Factors Used in Allocation:

Tax rate and bond factors determine eligibility of district. (Bond factor depends directly, and tax rate factor indirectly upon assessed valuation of district.) Amount of allocation related to project cost and availability of district funds.

Reports, Etc.:

Audit by Controller (Education Code 5031). State Allocation Board may establish rules (Education Code 5025). Appropriation exempt from provisions of Government Code 16304 (Education Code 5033).

Note:

Present law provides that applications may be received up to 12-31-53 and apportionments made until 12-31-54. Balances of allotments on completed projects being returned by the school districts are in excess of new allotments.

EDUCATION CODE 5026

Bond Factor:

District must be bonded to 95 percent of maximum permissible under Education Code 7431.

Tax Factor:

District tax rate must be within one-half cent of the maximum fixed Education Code 6357.

APPENDIX 43

REDONDO BEACH SEA WALL—$10,000

Purpose:

Assist City of Redondo Beach.

Citation:

Chapter 4, Statutes of 1953.

Factors Used in Allocation:

Chapter 4, Statutes of 1953, appropriated $50,000 from the General Fund as a loan to the City of Redondo Beach to assist the city in meeting the cost of repair to the sea wall which was damaged by heavy seas. Allocations were made by the State Allocation Board. Repayment of loan to the State is accomplished through deductions from the city's share of revenue derived from liquor license fees which are levied and collected by the State and apportioned to the cities and counties.

Study of Costs of Cooperative Personnel Services State Personnel Board

Prepared by the Legislative Auditor
September 10, 1954

The first of a series of statutory provisions specifically authorizing local jurisdictions to contract for the performance of personnel services was adopted by the State Legislature in 1935. Chapter 48, Statutes of 1935, encouraged cities to adopt merit systems and authorized them to contract with each other, or with any state department, for the performance of personnel services. In 1939 a similar statute was enacted authorizing counties to establish personnel systems under substantially the same arrangement as previously authorized for municipalities.

In order to establish clearly the legal authority of the State Personnel Board to enter into contracts with local agencies for the performance of personnel services, the general revision of the Civil Service Act adopted in 1937 included the following provision:

“The State Personnel Board may enter into agreements to make available its services and facilities upon request to political subdivisions of the State and to state agencies excepted from the state civil service.”

Following this legislative authorization the Personnel Board provided personnel services to local agencies of government on an informal basis for a few years, but the program was discontinued in 1940. Local groups, particularly in the southern part of the State, began urging that the service be re-established, and the function was formalized with the establishment of a Division of Cooperative Personnel Services in the State Personnel Board. This was accomplished by administrative action, based upon the legislative authority cited above.

This division experienced its most rapid expansion soon after the end of World War II, which is apparent from the following table:

Year	No. of personnel	Expenditures
1945-46 -----	6	$28,037
1946-47 -----	14	49,384
1947-48 -----	12.8	61,734
1948-49 -----	14.5	81,342
1949-50 -----	14.5	71,322
1950-51 -----	14.8	77,576
1951-52 -----	14.6	81,483
1952-53 -----	16.8	92,006
1953-54 (estimated) -----	16.7	100,124
1954-55 (estimated) -----	18.7	110,309

Most of the work performed by Cooperative Personnel Services falls within one of three categories: (1) preparation of written examinations; (2) preparation of classification and pay plans; and (3) conduct of an examination program for the welfare departments of the 47 non-civil service counties. In addition, certain other personnel services, such as publicizing examinations, supplying application forms, arranging for and conducting oral boards, preparation of recommended merit system rules and regulations, etc., are also available upon request.

Practically all of the services rendered by Cooperative Personnel Services are designed to benefit cities, counties, and local public districts. Examination services are currently being provided to over 60 local government agencies in the State. A list of the local jurisdictions for whom the division has conducted classification and pay surveys is appended as Exhibit I to this report. Some personnel surveys have been conducted for state agencies, including the Board of Equalization, the Department of Public Health, the Recreation Commission and the Department of Finance (county school service fund survey now in progress). The surveys that are conducted for state agencies, however, are concerned generally with personnel practices at the local level, and the survey findings are of considerable value to local jurisdictions as well as to the state agencies contracting for the work.

At present the agency's work load is divided approximately equally among three activities:

1. MERIT SYSTEM

Federal law requires that federal aid funds be distributed by personnel working under a merit system. In order to meet this requirement the State Department of Social Welfare operates a separate merit system for those county welfare departments that are not subject to a county civil service system. The Department of Social Welfare contracts with Cooperative Personnel Services for the preparation, administration, and scoring of examinations for this merit system. Thus, all of the work in connection with recruitment and examination of these personnel is performed by Cooperative Personnel Services, including the preparation of an eligible list. Although this service is provided for 47 counties, it covers only about 1,500 positions, or 20 percent of the total county welfare jobs in the State. The remaining 80 percent are in some of the more populous counties, which have their own civil service systems.

2. EXAMINATIONS FOR LOCAL JURISDICTIONS

Cooperative Personnel Services prepares examinations upon request for cities, counties, school districts, and other local units of government. Form tests are used in about 25 percent of the cases. For example, it is not necessary to prepare a new examination every time one is requested for policemen, firemen, or other standardized classes. Another 50 percent of the examinations are segmented tests. This refers to a method of test classification by which all examination questions are classified into small subject matter units. These test segments are homogeneous insofar as subject matter and level of difficulty can make them. In preparing an examination the technician selects those segments that are pertinent to the subject matter being tested. The remaining 25 percent of the examinations prepared by the agency require research into existing source material and writing new test material as required. In addition to the preparation of written examinations, the division handles oral interviews for local agencies of government upon request.

3. CLASSIFICATION AND PAY SURVEYS

A number of these surveys have been conducted for cities, counties, and public districts. At the present time the largest contract of this kind is with the State Department of Finance providing for a state-wide classification and salary survey of positions in the county superintendents of schools offices, for which reimbursement is received from the State.

The total staff of the division to handle this work load (merit system, examinations for local jurisdictions, and classification and pay surveys) consists of six technical and nine clerical positions assigned to Sacramento and two technical and one clerical position assigned to the Los Angeles branch office. Part-time help is used to meet peak loads. Provision was made in the 1954-55 Budget for the addition of one technician and one clerk. Approximately 25 percent of the time of the technical staff is spent in the field.

The division does not maintain on its staff a "sales" force or position engaged in promoting the use of its services. However, through the field operations of the division, through professional associations, and other Personnel Board staff it is in a position to follow the work and the needs of local governments related to personnel services. Chief reliance, apparently, in acquainting local governments with the facilities of the division, is placed upon wide distribution of a pamphlet entitled "Announcing Testing Services for Local Government Jurisdictions in California." A copy of this publication is attached as Exhibit II to this report. This is a statement of the kinds of examinations available and their cost. A publication entitled "Cooperative Personnel Services," which presents a general statement of the division's activities, is distributed upon request.

Inasmuch as this agency was established as a self-supporting activity and is in competition with private firms performing similar work, it seems reasonable to raise the question whether the program is being subsidized by the State. The chief of the division maintains that it is not subsidized. Annual appropriations are made for its support and the billing rate is supposed to be sufficient to recover fully the cost of the services performed. The division has the advantage of being able to exchange salary data, examination materials, and technical advice with the State Personnel Board, but the Chief of the Division of Cooperative Personnel Services contends that this is offset to some extent by certain control factors with which private firms need not concern themselves, such as operating in conformity with state civil service laws, rules, and regulations, being subject to fiscal control and review by administrative and legislative agencies, participating in staff conferences of the Personnel Board, etc.

Chapter 925, Statutes of 1953, was enacted in an effort to ensure that all costs connected with services rendered by state agencies on a reimbursable basis are recovered. The act is quoted below:

"The people of the State of California do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. Section 11010 of the Government Code is amended to read:

11010. When a state agency, supported from the General Fund, is required to collect from any person, firm, or corporation a proportionate share of the cost of providing any service, inspection, or audit, such share shall include:

(a) A proration of the cost to the State, as determined by the Department of Finance, of janitor service for the agency and of the charge for rent actually made for space occupied by the agency in a state-owned building or that would be charged such agency were it required to pay rent for such occupancy.

(b) A proration of the administrative costs of the agency, as defined in Section 11270.

(c) The pro-rata share of the cost of insuring motor vehicles belonging to the state agency against liability for damages resulting from the negligent operation of motor vehicles and arising under Section 400 of the Vehicle Code or, in the discretion of the Director of Finance, an amount which he considers equivalent to such pro-rata share to be expended by him in accordance with law in paying claims under that section and for their investigation, adjustment, defense and administration.

(d) The pro-rata cost of workmen's compensation insurance and bonds covering officers and employees of the state agency.

(e) A proration of the State's retirement contribution for the employees engaged in providing such services, inspection or audit.

(f) A proration of the cost of Attorney General's services rendered the agency.

(g) A proration of any other costs to the State for providing such service, inspection or audit."

Prior to enactment of this law the Division of Cooperative Personnel Services did not pay a rental charge on the space it occupied in the State Building in Los Angeles, nor did it pay a pro-rata share of the cost of janitorial service in either Sacramento or Los Angeles. We have been advised by the accounting officer of the State Personnel Board that the division is now charged a pro-rata share of the cost of janitorial services and rent for all the space that it occupies.

Certain administrative functions are performed by the accounting office of the State Personnel Board for Cooperative Personnel Services. One clerk spends four days a month maintaining the books and account records for the division, and another clerical day is devoted to sending out bills. In addition, several hours per month are required to prepare a monthly report for use of the division in maintaining a running account of the extent to which reimbursements are keeping pace with expenditures. The accounting officer places a monetary value of $75 per month on the time which his staff spends on these activities. The State Personnel Board makes a monthly charge of $42.20 against the division, which is based upon an amount established by the Department of Finance as the pro-rata share of the administrative cost of operating the board. While this pro-rata charge does not cover the entire cost of servicing this activity, it is felt that the differential between cost and charge is offset by services rendered for the Personnel Board by Cooperative Personnel Services.

No charge is made against Cooperative Personnel Services to cover the cost of insuring motor vehicles, since the agency meets its automotive requirements by renting cars from the Finance pool. The $0.05 per mile charge is supposed to be sufficient to provide for insurance.

The agency does not pay for workmen's compensation, and no attempt has been made to determine what a proper charge would be for the coverage afforded by the State through the claims process. The chief of the division is bonded, and the cost of this is borne by Cooperative Personnel Services.

The billing rate includes an amount sufficient to cover the cost of retirement. This amount was increased on October 1, 1953, from 8.11 percent to 8.17 percent of the total retirement pay roll.

Although one of the deputies in the Attorney General's office is assigned to handle the legal work of the State Personnel Board, we are advised that Cooperative Personnel Services has not required his services in the past, and for this reason no charge has been made against the division for legal work.

The agency has not been charged a pro-rata share of the cost of the annual audit, since state agencies generally do not pay for this. However, the Department of Finance intends to study the possibility of making such a charge.

Total expenditures for Cooperative Personnel Services, including retirement contributions, exceeded reimbursements by $3,750 in 1951-52 and by $1,098 in 1952-53. When it became apparent last year that reimbursements were insufficient to cover the cost of the services, steps were taken to increase the billing rate, and the division returned a profit of $4,070 to the General Fund during the 1953-54 Fiscal Year.

From our review of the Division of Cooperative Personnel Services we have concluded that the State is being reimbursed for practically all of the costs connected with its activities. Although this agency enjoys certain advantages by virtue of its being a division of the State Personnel Board, these tend to be offset by services rendered for the board by Cooperative Personnel Services. Moreover, being a state agency its power to act independently is limited to some degree in comparison with private firms performing similar work. It is our conclusion, therefore, that the division is functioning at the present time on a self-supporting basis.

EXHIBIT II
CALIFORNIA STATE PERSONNEL BOARD
COOPERATIVE PERSONNEL SERVICES
ANNOUNCING TESTING SERVICES FOR

LOCAL GOVERNMENT JURISDICTIONS IN CALIFORNIA

It is the responsibility of every public agency to make its services known to those whom it is intended to serve. This bulletin, then, is presented as a brief summary of one phase of the activities of Cooperative Personnel Services—the testing services available for the Fiscal Year 1954 to 1955.

Since 1942, Cooperative Personnel Services has been a self-supporting division of the California State Personnel Board and has been providing consulting services in the field of personnel administration. The authority of the State Personnel Board to provide such services was first established by the State Legislature in 1937. In the past few years we have prepared literally thousands of examinations for job classifications in almost 100 separate jurisdictions—examinations representing virtually every type and all levels of local governmental jobs.

All services provided by CPS are subject to reimbursement by the local jurisdictions for the actual costs of providing the services. In other words, CPS is a non-profit organization. The increasing growth of our examination service activities has made possible substantial improvement of services and quality of tests concurrent with substantial reductions in unit costs. The more tests we prepare for more agencies, the lower the cost for each test for each agency.

A testing service must stress quality of work, however, above other considerations. There is no advantage in using an inexpensive examination that does not distinguish between the better and the poorer candidates. Further, not only must the examination select candidates for public jobs, it must be constructed of questions that candidates and the public in general accept as reasonable and proper for ranking candidates and predicting future job success. Such tests are not easily developed, they must be continuously refined and revised, and replaced. CPS has striven not only to provide the highest quality of tests, but to provide tests at the lowest possible cost consistent with high quality; to provide the tests with maximum convenience to the local jurisdiction with regard to speed of preparation, and delivery and scoring, and priced to facilitate necessary fiscal planning and budgeting.

In 1951, as a result of greater number of examination requests and operational improvements, CPS made available a new price basis for test services with considerable economies to customers. In 1952 and 1953 the basic services were continued with some further price reductions. For the fiscal year, effective July 1, 1954, we announce further improvements in test services and further test price reductions.

The various test services and charges are described on the following pages.

SCHEDULE I
GENERAL SERVICE CONTRACTS

Type of Service

A general service contract is an agreement wherein the local agency lists the classes of positions for which it believes it may be necessary to recruit or promote by examination in the forthcoming year. For each class so listed there is an annual charge of $12. Each examination subsequently requested for a listed class is provided at a charge of $20, irrespective of the number of candidates. This means that for the first examination, for a given class in a year, the total cost would be $32. For each subsequent and usually different examination for the same class in that year, the cost would be $20.

For the local jurisdiction using written examinations in a personnel program of merit recruitment and promotion, a general service contract normally offers maximum service at lowest annual cost, at the same time making it possible to predict very closely annual costs for examination services. Under this type of contract, CPS provides the booklets, answer sheets, and instructions for local administration in sufficient numbers for all candidates. Immediately upon return of the materials, CPS scores the test and prepares a tabulation of results with a recommendation for the minimum qualifying score, based upon consideration of previous experience with the test material and evaluation of other factors such as local recruitment conditions.

Requests by jurisdictions under this type of contract for tests or other services not specifically listed under the terms of the general service contract are charged for on the basis of actual cost, which includes direct labor and overhead charges allocable to the examination (see Schedule III).

Local jurisdictions with established personnel departments may, by special arrangement, score tests locally at a reduced scheduling rate ($10 less for classes listed under general service contract). Except for the larger organizations with trained personnel staff, local scoring of tests is not recommended. The advantages of test scoring by CPS are:

- (a) Experience and objectivity in interpretation of test results, application of general performance standards, and recommendations for minimum qualifying scores based on consideration of these factors.
- (b) Central scoring free of local criticism and suspicion regarding possible bias or inaccuracy in scoring of tests.
- (c) Scoring by trained staff requiring less working time than would be required of local staff assigned this work in addition to other duties.

General Service Charges (Summary)

Annual charge for each class for which an examination might be required-----	$12 each class
Plus 1, 2, or 3 below:
1. Scheduling charge for each test required for a class included in annual charge list (includes scoring and tabulation of tests by CPS) -----	$20 each test
or
2. Scheduling charge for each test the same as (1) above, except tests are scored and tabulated by local personnel department staff -----	$10 each test
and/or
3. Tests provided approved jurisdictions for classes included in annual charge list, to be retained locally for use in continuous recruitment and test administration-----	$10 per test each month used (without regard to number of uses or candidates)

SCHEDULE II FORM TESTS

Tests have been developed for a number of public jobs which are generally comparable for all jurisdictions. As these examinations have already been duplicated and are stocked in both our Sacramento and Los Angeles offices, they may be obtained upon short notice. For convenience, we refer to these tests as "form tests."

Form tests currently available are listed below. In addition, a number of new form tests are planned for development. Form tests for special classes may be developed on request of local jurisdictions.

FORM TESTS AVAILABLE

Junior clericals	Entrance police (deputy sheriff)
Intermediate clericals	Jailers
Senior clericals	Police (sheriff's) sergeant
Account clerks	Equipment operators
Telephone operators	Custodians (janitors)
Cafeteria (kitchen) workers	Laborers
Entrance firemen (hosemen)	Groundsmen-gardeners

FORM TEST PRICES

(Do not apply to agencies with classes listed under general service contracts)

Number of candidates	Price per candidate
	Regular service (CPS scored and tabulated)*	Special service (Scored by local jurisdiction)
1 to 7-----	$15.00 minimum charge	$10.00 minimum charge
8 to 20-----	2.00 per candidate	1.30 per candidate
21 to 35-----	1.75 per candidate	1.10 per candidate
36 to 50-----	1.50 per candidate	1.00 per candidate
51 to 80-----	1.25 per candidate	.90 per candidate
81 or more-----	1.10 per candidate	.80 per candidate

* Additional charge of 50 cents per candidate for scoring of stenography or typing performance tests.

CONTINUOUS TEST ADMINISTRATION SERVICE

Many agencies have found the technique of providing for the continuous receipt of applications and continuous testing of accepted candidates to be an effective solution to filling certain high-turnover or difficult-to-recruit jobs. CPS form tests are especially appropriate for such use. They may be kept and used continuously by the local jurisdiction so that eligibility may be determined within minutes after test administration.

CPS form tests, including answer sheets, instructions, and scoring key, are offered at the prices listed under Special Service (preceding page) to local jurisdictions with established personnel departments employing persons trained in personnel work. In most cases charges are made for the total number of candidates taking the test each month. When available, form tests will be replaced with alternate forms from time to time at no additional charge.

SCHEDULE III COST SERVICE CONTRACTS

A cost service provides for reimbursement of actual labor and overhead incurred in performance of personnel services requested by the local jurisdiction.

Unless otherwise specified, the basic CPS testing service includes providing a sufficient supply of test booklets and answer sheets, and the scoring and interpretation of test results. Full instructions for local administration of the written examination are provided. Stenography and/or typing performance tests are included in all tests where such skills are indicated in the class specification, or when requested by the agency.

Other services which may be rendered on a cost service basis include preparation of examination announcements and other publicity, administration of performance tests, conduct of oral examining boards, and administration of tests in other locations (as, for example, recruitment on a state-wide or national scale).

Since it is our purpose to be of maximum service to all local jurisdictions, we would be pleased to discuss any modification of existing service and schedules to suit particular local needs. You are invited to contact either our Los Angeles or Sacramento office for further information about CPS. Estimates of cost for full or partial examination services will be submitted at your request.

State of California Real Property Operations

Prepared by the Legislative Auditor
September 10, 1954

INTRODUCTION

This report on procedural aspects of state real property operations is an outgrowth of the investigation conducted by this office into the lease and subsequent purchase by the State of the building at 838 Santee Street, Los Angeles, California, for use by the Department of Education as an industrial workshop for the blind, and is designed to provide an analysis of the over-all problem of state space utilization particularly as this relates to the hiring of privately owned space.

The study has included an examination of materials submitted by the Department of Finance; discussions with officers and employees of the Division of Buildings and Grounds of the Department of Finance; an examination of the records of the Department of Finance concerning certain transactions entered into during recent years; field investigations of a number of these transactions; and discussions with officials of the General Services Administration, the agency which is responsible for the management of real property for the federal government.

From this study we have attempted to determine how real property acquisition and utilization has been handled for the State of California; what, if anything, are defects in the system; and what, if anything, should be done to improve the procedure and organization.

FINDINGS

Our findings are as follows:

1. Existing legislation is adequate for efficient and economical performance of the function.
2. There has not been an adequate administrative policy to serve as a guide for the officials and employees charged with the responsibility for performing the function.
3. There has not been a system of standard procedures designed to insure
  - a. Control of the function by the administration, and
  - b. Uniform application of policy to the transactions entered into.
4. The internal organization of the Department of Finance and the Division of Buildings and Grounds has been defective in that there has not been clear-cut lines of authority, responsibility, and function.
5. Most of the leasing of property by the State is performed by agencies other than the Department of Finance.
6. Losses to the State from the manner in which the function has been handled are undoubtedly large. To attempt to estimate this loss would involve the examination of all leases on a "what might have been if" basis. Those transactions which have been scrutinized however have shown avoidable losses running into hundreds of thousands of dollars, and every indication points to the fact that these transactions are typical.

RECOMMENDATIONS

1. We recommend that all real property functions related to the acquisition and utilization of space for state government operations be performed by a single state agency charged with the responsibility to, (a) insure proper utilization through the assembling of information on available space and on the State's present and probable future space requirements; and (b) to acquire, assign, manage, and dispose of all space used for state government operations.
2. The proposed real property agency should maintain up-to-date pertinent information on all space currently being utilized or under the control of the State, and available for its use.
3. Requests for increases in space allocation should be written and originate with the agency desiring the increase. Such requests should be made on a standard form setting forth the pertinent data including the amount, kind, proposed use, facilities needed, special requirements, if any, occupancy date and duration, and justification, and be forwarded to the real property agency. Reference is made to the Federal Government's Standard Form 81, "Request for Space," as a guide to form and content.

4. Upon receipt of an agency request for space the real property agency should proceed to make the space available in conformity with prescribed standards of space utilization by, first: reviewing current utilization to insure maximum conformance with the established standards; second, assigning space from currently controlled but unutilized space; third, acquiring space by lease or purchase, and assigning the same. Reference is made to the Federal Government's G. S. A. Form 65 as a suggestion for the form and content of a space assignment record.

5. Termination of the need for space should be reported to the real property agency for reassignment or other disposal.

6. The real property agency should establish standard procedures to govern the purchase, lease, operation, maintenance, and disposition of real property.

7. Standard leasing procedure should provide for the systematic continuous assembling of information concerning property available for lease. A permanent listing of all property offered to the State should be maintained and be supplemented by listing known vacancies.

8. When space is required to be leased offerings should be solicited by circulation of an "invitation to offer" to all offerers and owners or agents of vacancies on the listing noted in Paragraph 7, and to a comprehensive list of real estate agents, building owners, and managers. Supplemental newspaper advertising should be used if necessary to secure a sufficient number of offers.

9. Such invitation to offer should include a standard offer form. Reference is made to the Federal Government's G. S. A. Space Offering Invitation form as a suggested guide to form and content.

10. The representations of the offerer contained in the standard offer form mentioned in Paragraph 9 should be verified by independent investigation provided the offer conforms to established state leasing policy. In addition, the previous rental cost and rental history of the subject properties, if any, and the rental cost and rental history of comparable properties should be ascertained.

11. All verified offers and investigation reports should be reviewed by a competent leasing officer who will decide which offer, if any, will be accepted. He should keep a permanent file of records of his decisions giving the reasons for acceptance of any offer and the reasons for rejection of all offers considered but not accepted.

12. The lease document should be a standard form adaptable to any circumstances which conform to established leasing policy. Reference is made to U. S. Standard Form No. 2 (Revised) "Lease" as a suggested guide to form and content.

13. The proposed state real property agency should establish a state leasing policy embodying at least the following:

- a. The conditions under which leases should be made in lieu of state ownership should be defined as a matter of policy and given legislative approval.
- b. Rentals paid by the State should not exceed a certain maximum ratio to the fair market value of the property at the time the lease is entered into.
- c. To as great an extent as practicable, the State should not perform, or agree to reimburse for, alterations, improvements or repairs to any leased premises. If in the best interest of the State it becomes necessary for the State to perform, or reimburse for such alterations, improvements, or repairs, the maximum cost to the State during the term of the lease should not exceed 25 percent of the amount of the rent for the first year of the lease or of the entire rental, if the term is less than one year.

- d. Every lease entered into by the State should be negotiated on a fair open competitive basis.
- e. No lease made on behalf of the State should provide for the subsequent purchase of the property by the State, except where the Legislature specifically authorizes this method of acquisition.
- f. The occupying agency should not sublet any leased property. Transfers of space between state agencies or the disposition of surplus space should be accomplished only by the real property agency.
- g. Final responsibility for the provision of space for state operations should rest with the real property agency. Concomitant with this responsibility the real property agency should have the right of assignment and reassignment of space.
- h. Rent should not be paid on any property until actual physical occupancy is achieved. In the case of partial occupancy rental paid should be proportionate.

Budgetary and fiscal control policies for state operation are not intended to be affected by the foregoing recommendations, except that the proposed real property agency would process all payments for space. Occupying agencies would budget space costs and transfer the amounts allocated to the real property agency.

THE SPACE PROBLEM OF CALIFORNIA GOVERNMENT

A significant item in the California State Budget is the cost of hiring the use of real property on a large scale for various governmental functions. Particularly during and after World War II, with its moratorium on nondefense connected building, the State found it necessary to rent large amounts of space to house employees engaged in a wide variety of governmental activities. The rapid expansion of government services has also contributed to the increase in the use of leased facilities. The wartime difficulty of securing the necessary materials and manpower to enable the State to build its own buildings as well as the size of the capital outlay required both influenced an expansion of state leasing activities.

The question of the relative advantages to the State of building its own buildings compared with leasing space has not been thoroughly explored, and no state policy established. Under these circumstances the immediacy of the need to house expanding government activity has encouraged leasing. More recently, particularly since actual building has become possible, more attention has been paid to this problem, and in 1953 the Department of Finance received a report on the subject from a firm of economic consultants, recommending that the State should largely own its own facilities.

A recent survey by the Department of Finance of the real property leased by the State shows that on July 1, 1953, the State had a total of 3,383,948 square feet of space in privately owned buildings under lease costing a total annual rental of $4,583,955.12 (the State owns approximately 4,000,000 square feet). Of the leased space, 615,954 square feet were under lease in Los Angeles at a monthly cost of $93,344.15 with 514,633 square feet at $58,207.56 in Sacramento, and 462,302 square feet at $71,439.63 in San Francisco. This report showed 804 separate leases in 172 cities, towns, and other separate locations, but did not include fish hatcheries, fire control stations, quarantine stations, radio transmitter sites, acreages, or leases where the State is the lessor. The 804 leases are confined largely to office space type leases. The total number of state leases is estimated at approximately 1,400.

The following table gives the departments or agencies which lease privately owned space and the number of separate leases affecting each agency as shown by the Finance Department Report.

Of the total, 63 leases were written on a month-to-month basis; 243 were scheduled to expire during the Fiscal Year 1953-54; 190 during 1954-55; 107 during 1955-56; 84 during 1956-57; 53 during 1957-58; 59 had more than five years to run, and 5 more than 10 years.

From the above it seems reasonable to estimate an annual lease negotiation workload of more than 300 leases. The Department of Finance states that 90 percent of all requests for leased space made to it by agencies result in the agency affected negotiating the lease for such space, with only 10 percent of such leases being negotiated by the Division of Buildings and Grounds. This 10 percent is for small agencies, areas occupied by more than one agency, and "special cases."

Rental rates vary between locations in the State as well as between locations within a given community and are affected by the age, condition, and functional purpose of the space, the degree or quantity of services included, and the terms and conditions of the lease agreement, itself.

While it is true that each agreement reflects the desires of the respective parties as to duration, cancellation, services, and rental rate, all of which will be based on each party's needs and resources at the time the agreement is made, the entire group of leases in effect on July 1, 1953, does not reveal the application of any consistent state policy.

For example with regard to cancellation privileges, 425 leases are outright noncancellable; 239 have 30 days cancellation provisions; 64 have 60-day clauses; 49, 90 days; 4, 120 days; 3, 180 days; 3, 1 year; and 3 by mutual consent; while 3 provide only 10 days; 3, 15 days; and 1 has a 20-day provision.

It is true that each separate lease covers a separate situation with different conditions prevailing in each transaction. However, it is equally true that from the standpoint of negotiation it is good State general policy either to write non-cancellable leases or to apply a consistent policy of cancellable provisions. The Department of Finance report referred to above states that it is a State policy to discourage long term non-cancellable leases, but 53 percent of these leases are non-cancellable and 62 percent had more than one year to run from July 1, 1953. No single lease serving the Department of Social Welfare contained a cancellation provision while only three of the Adjutant General's leases were non-cancellable. Other departments with large numbers of leases show no definite trend either toward cancellable or non-cancellable provisions.

Services furnished under the leases vary greatly. The cost of services is a component part of the cost of space whether such services are furnished as a part of the lease consideration or secured independently of the lease. It would seem to be extremely difficult to set standards for such services, or to insure that such standards are met in the case of services furnished under the lease, where 90 percent of the leases are effectuated by individual agencies. In these cases the question of services is entirely an agency concern. The necessity for careful consideration of the services factor is emphasized by the fact that in many instances the cost of such services is as much or more than the rental payment.

Only within the current fiscal year have adequate cost records been instituted on the cost of services in state owned buildings. Such information would seem to be indispensable, in negotiating leases with services furnished, as a yardstick of the value of such services.

This office, in recent studies of leased space utilization in Los Angeles, (now under way in connection with proposals for new state-owned office building construction in Los Angeles), has done some exploratory work toward the establishment of strictly comparable unit measurement factors for the purposes of analyzing and comparing space utilization. Such factors would seem to be indispensable in any comprehensive management of the utilization of space. However, consistent and strictly comparable factors or measurement formulae have not thus far been developed or used by the State.

The usual method of expressing the cost of leased space is by a price per square foot per month or year, and this method is generally employed in the Department of Finance. However, this is valid to express comparisons as between different spaces, or to express the value of a particular lease in relation to other leases, only if the spaces involved are completely comparable. For example, different buildings have different net usable areas. The relationship between net usable area and gross area will influence the meaning of cost per unit. Likewise, the number of employees in relation to the area used will be a vital factor in an appraisal of the value of the lease. Consequently to be able to make valid comparisons it is necessary that the terms and conditions of the comparison be defined to express only comparable factors.

The study referred to, while not directly concerned with existing state leasing procedures, has disclosed extremely wide variations in actual space costs and utilization practice; the first of these has been hidden to some extent by the use of an unqualified square foot per month or year formula to describe lease costs; and the second has not been an active factor in lease negotiation or space assignments. The study again emphasizes the urgent necessity for the standardization of space utilization definitions and standards as an administrative device to assist in efficient space management.

LEGAL AUTHORITY

State operations relating to the acquisition and utilization of space for government functions should ideally be conducted according to standard established procedures. These procedures in turn should be designed to achieve the objectives of a comprehensive policy, and the policy should be expressed so as to achieve the objectives of efficiency and economy within the framework of the organizational structure, grants of authority, and limitations set out by the Legislature.

In practice it is necessary to begin with the legislative expression, and determine from it the general policy, the specific grants of authority and areas of responsibility and the limitations on freedom of administrative action, if any. From this determination it is then possible to express a specific policy which will serve as a practical guide to the formulation of procedures and to the day-to-day administrative decisions needed in the actual operations.

Sec. 11005 of the Government Code provides that "Unless the Legislature specifically provides that approval by the Director of Finance is not required . . . every contract for the acquisition or hiring of real property in fee or any lesser estate or interest entered into by or on behalf of the State, shall be approved by the Director of Finance."

The section exempts the acquisition or hiring of real property by the Department of Public Works for highway purposes but not for office space and fully exempts the State Compensation Insurance Fund. In addition it would appear that the provisions of the constitution establishing the University of California's powers respecting real property transactions do not require that the Director of Finance approve its leases.

With these exceptions all other leases for the State will be void unless approved by the Director of Finance. Thus, the ultimate authority and responsibility for state leases, with the exceptions noted, rests with that office. Some departments and agencies have statutory authority to hire the use of real property subject to Department of Finance approval. Sec. 13108 of the Government Code gives the Director the power to hire or lease any real or personal property for the use of any state agency. It seems clear that as to an agency with the power to lease real property, with the exceptions noted above, the Director of Finance will have the authority to approve leases consummated by such agencies, and such leases will not bind the State unless approved by him. With regard to agencies which are not specifically given authority to lease real property the Director will execute such leases.

Much the same situation prevails with regard to the sale of real property owned by the State. Sec. 13103 of the Government Code authorizes the Director of Finance to execute grants of real property belonging to the State whenever the sale or exchange of such property is authorized or contemplated by law, provided no other state agency is specifically authorized and directed to execute such grants.

Purchases may be made by the Director of Finance who acquires title to real property in the name of the State whenever such acquisition is authorized or contemplated by law, provided no other state agency is specifically authorized and directed to acquire it. The director also has the authority to exercise the power of eminent domain for the State in such cases.

POLICY ESTABLISHED BY DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE

Until recently there has not been any formal policy expression of the policies which have been established to implement the Director of Finance's authority and responsibility in the field. Such policy as has evolved has arisen largely from the application of administrative decisions to specific transactions which have subsequently been considered as a guide to future actions. Policy direction seems to have consisted of the vague generality that each transaction should be in the best interests of the State. No specific policy with regard to the organizational, procedural, and substantive aspects of handling large numbers of space acquisition transactions appears from the particular transactions which have been examined. Some of these transactions are described in detail later in this report.

Perhaps the most striking deficiency from the policy standpoint has been the failure of the Department of Finance to recognize the necessity for a comprehensive, organized operational approach to the problem. With the responsibility for approximately 800 leases covering 3½ million square feet of building space, no positive action has been taken to secure space utilization information on which to base decisions as to additional space requirements; no action has been taken to concentrate the negotiation and supervision of all leases in one operating unit, so as to insure a uniformly efficient and fully responsible operation; no action has been taken to standardize procedures either within the Division of Buildings and Grounds or in its relations with the other agencies.

The problem of whether to concentrate the real property function in one unit with adequate authority to do an efficient job, or whether to continue to permit individual agencies to negotiate their own leases is perhaps the most basic policy decision needed. The Division of Buildings and Grounds has been aware of this deficiency for some time and has in fact pointed out the desirability of concentrating the leasing operation while at the same time admitting the inadequacy of the operation as it has been organized.

In 1951 the Division requested an additional position of rental property manager, justifying the request with a summary of the magnitude of the operation and with the following statement:

"The limited time available in checking and negotiating certain of the new leases submitted has convinced us that it would be advantageous for the State to have a more extensive check made of the space requirements submitted to this office as our experience has developed that in those cases where we have had the time to check in the field on these proposed new leases we have effected considerable savings to the State representing several thousands of dollars, and we have specific instances where this saving can be shown."

In 1952 the Division renewed its request, reiterating its previous justification and further explaining:

"It was our proposal that the program of negotiating for leased space should be gradually developed with the idea that lease negotiations should be centralized in the Buildings and Grounds Division. This proposed position was deleted from the request of this Division after a hearing with the budget staff. However, we feel that this program is sound and deserves consideration on a policy basis to determine whether or not we shall present this matter to the Legislature for their consideration as a budget proposal in the 1953-54 Fiscal Year." (Emphasis added.)

Whether or not this request received consideration on a policy basis we do not know, but the fact remains that the position request was denied.

The Division of Buildings and Grounds again in 1953 reopened the question with its request for four positions. The letter of justification said:

"Although not a major increase in the cost of our support budget for the 1954-55 Fiscal Year, there is included a major item of policy which is reflected in our request for four additional rental property managers in the administrative function. The determination to be made with respect to this budget request is essentially one of determining where the responsibility should lie in connection with the negotiating of leases for office space for all state agencies. It is our firm belief that until this responsibility is clearly and without question settled in the Buildings and Grounds Division, and until sufficient staff is provided to properly investigate and negotiate all leases concerning office areas no sound uniform standards on which such negotiations should be based will be developed. It is our feeling that with this augmentation in staff we can properly develop sound standards and make full investigations and properly analyze space needs through methods devised by our architectural property analyst and his staff and present for final approval leases for office space which have been thoroughly investigated, analyzed, and presented on the basis of sound standards of requirements."

This position request was denied and the previous organizational policy for leasing is still in effect.

PROCEDURES ESTABLISHED

The law grants to the Director of Finance absolute authority over most state real estate transactions. It may be presumed that the intent of the Legislature in granting such authority was to create a focal point of responsibility. A study of procedures followed indicates that the result has been almost diametrically opposite.

The Department of Finance states that in 90 percent of the transactions negotiations are initiated and carried out by the operating agencies often by persons who have no special knowledge of leasing practices. The proposed transaction which the operating agency considers to be the best both from a functional and a fiscal standpoint is then submitted to the Department of Finance for approval as required by law.

In the absence of clear-cut policy, procedure and centralized control of this practice has resulted in transactions which must have been excessively expensive to the State.

There is no evidence that the Department of Finance in its direct leasing and approval functions has maintained an accurate, complete, and up-to-date inventory of all space leased or owned by the State. There is no evidence that the Department has a program for periodical checks with operating agencies to determine their future or even presently contemplated needs for space. Nor is there evidence as to checks made with regard to changes requiring more or less space. There is no limitation or yardstick as to ratio of alterations to rental rate, or rental to value of building; no minimum or maximum standards of occupancy; no "square foot per employee" standard set or followed; no check-up for bad utilization of space; no continuing program of combing sources of available space. The department does not follow a practice of considering all offers made up to the time of the actual signing of the lease; and there is no certification to the Controller that the space is actually occupied or available for occupancy.

ORGANIZATION STRUCTURE

The organizational structure for leasing within the Department of Finance, together with the specifications covering the respective positions, indicate a formal line of responsibility for the establishment and operation of a program for leasing or acquiring property in accordance with state needs.

The chain of command together with pertinent excerpts from the specifications of the respective positions is as follows:

Assistant Director of Finance:

"* * * assists in the planning, organizing, and directing of the administrative services of the department including * * * building and grounds, and the entering into of contracts by the State; * * *."

Administrative Adviser:

"* * * interprets and analyzes contracts, agreements, and other documents requiring the approval of the Director of the Department of Finance; * * *."

Chief, Division of Buildings and Grounds:

"* * * Makes studies of the anticipated office building needs throughout the State and the relative costs of meeting these needs by leasing or by building; supervises the work of an assistant engaged in negotiating the rental or lease of privately owned property for State use; assists the state departments and the Division of Architecture in planning major repair and remodeling of state offices; supervises the preparation of estimates of cost and the minor construction and repair work on state buildings, * * *." (Emphasis added.)

Deputy Chief, Division of Buildings and Grounds:

"* * * Assists the Chief, Division of Buildings and Grounds, in planning and directing the program of maintenance, repair, and protection of state-owned buildings and grounds; assists in planning for future state office building needs; personally directs the work of negotiating for rental or lease of privately owned property for state use; assists other state departments and cooperates with the Division of Architecture in studying anticipated office building needs, relative costs of meeting these needs, and in planning for major repair or remodeling of offices now occupied; * * *." (Emphasis added.)

Architectural Property Analyst:

"* * * Acts as architectural adviser to the Department of Finance and other state agencies in connection with building acquisition, lease, alteration, and repair; inspects and analyzes buildings under consideration as to their suitability for intended use; determines their adaptability for alteration, additions, or repair, and the feasibility for conversion to other uses of buildings now in use; makes surveys to determine proper space utilization of buildings occupied by various state agencies; conducts surveys and prepares reports and recommendations on proper functional use of space now under lease, to promote the most efficient and economical use of space; studies building requirements of state agencies and creates designs and plan layouts, and supervises the preparation of working drawings; makes surveys and estimates present and future expansion requirements of buildings for state agencies; negotiates with lessors in procuring suitable quarters and preparing necessary technical data and exhibits in the preparation of leases; confers and corresponds with representatives of other state agencies * * *." (Emphasis added.)

Rental Property Manager:

The Personnel Board specifications for this position would appear to limit the duties to transactions in which the State is the lessor.

Administrative Service Officer II:

"* * * negotiates leases * * *."

Public Works and Acquisition Coordinator, Department of Finance:

"* * * Assists the Director of Finance with the administrative details in planning and directing the purchase of new sites and buildings by the State Public Works Board; investigates and recommends sites and buildings for State purchase; assists in the administration of the program of management, maintenance, and care of properties purchased, pending their use in furtherance of the postwar construction program; * * *."

A study of the procedures followed by the Division of Buildings and Grounds in several typical transactions indicates that the actual practices followed differ considerably from the specified duties of the positions as set forth above.

In the case of the 838 Santee Street lease and purchase, testimony from the several responsible officers of the Department of Finance is conflicting as to the way in which each participated in the formal procedure. For example, the Director of Finance denied any knowledge of the details of terms or provisions to be included in the lease or purchase of the particular building selected until after an attempt had been made to locate space generally through advertising. To have established such terms in advance, he stated, would have been bad procedure. However, another responsible official states that from the beginning he negotiated for space, including the Santee Street property, on terms and provisions in accordance with the director's instructions, particularly with reference to the inclusion of an option to purchase, and most particularly that the inclusion in the advertising of the information that the lease would contain such an option was on instructions from the director.

Another example relates to the matter of the amount of the fee paid to appraisers at the time the question of purchasing the Santee Street Building was under consideration. The official who was arranging for the appraisals under instructions from his immediate superior states that he had no authority to agree to the amount of the fees, and had the arrangements approved by his superior. This official, however, denies having approved the amount of the fees, and insists his only connection with the transaction was to relay the Director of Finance's requests for appraisals on to his subordinate. In any case, why were the appraisals not secured by the Public Works Board, since they were purchase information, rather than by the people whose normal duties are confined to leasing?

The Department of Finance states that all agencies must submit requests for space justifying the need and setting forth the type, area, and location of space desired upon which the "requests are critically reviewed by the Building and Grounds Division" before "the requesting agencies are instructed to proceed with lease negotiations." An examination of lease files indicate that, in a number of instances, negotiations are well along before any formal request (Form 6) is submitted by the agency, while some files indicate that leases have been actually approved and executed without this formal request ever having been submitted, while in some cases the Division of Buildings and Grounds has had to actually request a Form 6 from the agency when the lease was ready to execute.

Chapter III, Paragraph 5 of the Bulletin of the Department of Finance pertaining to controls exercised in leasing property sets forth that:

"Leases are reviewed by the Division of Budgets and Accounts to determine the business soundness or merits of the transaction * * *."

This review by the Division of Budgets and Accounts centers on the questions of whether the proposed lease is authorized by the Legislature as a part of an approved program; whether there is an appropriation with which to pay the rent; and whether the proposal is administratively sound from the standpoint that the requested space is of a kind and quantity necessary for the function to be accomplished. It does not necessarily go into the question of the soundness of the rental value in relation to the property value of the premises to be leased. This is to some extent a duplication of the work of the Division of Buildings and Grounds, but more important leaves an area of the transaction in some doubt; i.e., as to which division is ultimately responsible for the "business soundness" of the transaction.

It is of interest to note the following specifications of the positions concerned as set forth by the Personnel Board under the heading "Typical Tasks":

Chief, Division of Buildings and Grounds:

"Makes studies of the anticipated office building needs throughout the State * * *."

Deputy Chief, Division of Buildings and Grounds:

"Assists in planning for future state office building needs."

Architectural Property Analyst:

"Makes studies and estimates present and future expansion requirements of buildings for state agencies * * *."

There is no evidence that any comprehensive, detailed study and report has been made in accordance with the "typical tasks" as set forth above. There are no estimated periodic reports requested from the state agencies similar to the semi-annual reports required by the General Services Administration of federal agencies and described elsewhere in this report.

In order to determine the actual procedure followed by the Department of Finance in negotiating leases, investigation was made of a number of transactions. For the purpose of illustrating the procedures, and their effective organization for leasing, we have included in this report summaries of several of these transactions.

965 MISSION STREET BUILDING

The building at 965 Mission Street, San Francisco, is a typical lease transaction involving amortized alteration costs.

The State entered into a 10-year lease of this building on July 8, 1946. The lease was to run for 10 years commencing December 1, 1946. The rental as set out in the lease was $11,660 per month. On January 1, 1951, the amount was raised to $11,805.90 by agreement between the parties. The lease further provided that the lessor would provide alterations up to a total cost of $350,000 and the State agreed to pay for any excess cost of altering the building. The cost of alterations for which the State was obligated under the lease came to $233,725, for a total alteration cost of $583,725. Thus the total cost to the State under the lease amounts to $1,632,925 for 10 years' occupancy. Under the terms of the lease the lessor furnishes all utilities and services.

Apart from the question of whether the lease was a good or a bad business deal for the State, there are several aspects of the negotiation of the lease which deserve consideration:

The first of these is the matter of the open end agreement on the part of the State to pay the excess cost of alterations above the \$350,000 to be provided by the lessor. This latter amount was based on preliminary estimates. The State thus entered into an agreement based on estimates which were exceeded by \$233,725 or 66 $\frac{2}{3}$  percent. While it is true that it took two years to complete the alterations and building costs increased during that time, only a very small part of the increase can be attributed to that factor. It should also be noted that the original agreement provided for occupancy on December 1, 1946, with the lease having been signed on July 8, 1946. It was provided that if the alterations were not completed by April 30, 1947, the State had the right to cancel the lease.

By the seventeenth of December, 1946, it was apparent that the December 1st deadline had not been met and that the April 30th deadline would not be, so the State waived its right to cancel and extended the time for completion to August 31, 1947.

The original lease had provided that the excess cost of alterations to be paid by the State would be added to the rent and prorated with the rent payments over the 10-year period. On February 24, 1947, another amendment to the lease was made providing for the State to pay the excess cost on completion. Apparently it had become evident by that date that the excess cost was going to amount to a sizeable sum.

On March 3, 1947, it was found necessary again to amend the lease. This amendment defined some allowable items of costs of alterations; provided that the State could collect $300 for each day's delay, as liquidated damages, in the event the alterations were not completed by the previously established deadline of August 1, 1947, and extended the deadline for securing the then necessary Civilian Production Administration authorization from November 1, 1946, to February 25, 1947, in apparent recognition of the fact that the authorization had not been secured by the November 1, 1946, date and that the State had not exercised its right to cancel for that failure. This amendment also changed the term of the lease to run for 10 years from September 1, 1947.

Further delay was encountered and it was necessary to extend the time for final completion to June 1, 1948, although this latter extension only involved certain elevator work and substantial occupancy was achieved in September, 1947.

The record of the occupancy of this building since that time is a long history of the dissatisfaction of the Department of Industrial Relations with the premises. Additional heating, ventilating, and air conditioning have been added. The elevator service is said to be inadequate. Windows have been weatherstripped. Entrance changes had to be made to prevent drafts. The lighting was inadequate, and even prior to occupancy, it was determined that there was not enough room, so that space in the basement which had been intended for automobile parking was converted to offices, and parking must be rented in the neighborhood.

This example illustrates the need for a firm policy with respect to improvements.

The Federal Government has established the policy that the government will not expend an amount equal to more than 25 percent of the first year's rent on alterations and improvements during the entire term of the lease. Had such a policy been in effect for the State: (1) the State could not have initially gone into a lease with an open end alteration cost provisions, or (2) the lessor would have had to provide the alterations at his own expense. Such a policy coupled with the provision that rent may not exceed a certain fixed ratio to the established market value of the property would have insured the State's interest.

It is difficult to judge the business aspects of this transaction since there is no record, in the files submitted to this office, of any other buildings which were considered as alternate propositions at the time the lease was entered into. The Division of Buildings and Grounds has stated that other buildings considered at the time were unsuitable. However, since there is a serious question as to the suitability of this building, there is reason to believe that inadequate investigation was made of the entire transaction. The absence of records tends to support this.

Procedures for the orderly assembling of information on available space and for the arrival at decisions through the comparison of the benefits and disadvantages to the State of an adequate number of proposals, and the maintenance of complete records of each transaction would permit the subsequent evaluation of any questioned transaction, and protect the division from unwarranted criticism.

CAPLAN LOWE BUILDING

A transaction having to do with the cancellation of a lease involves the Caplan Lowe Building in Fresno.

This building located at 1715 Fulton Street in Fresno was leased by the Department of Social Welfare for a five-year term from January 1, 1950 to December 31, 1954, with an option to renew for an additional five-year period. Subsequent to the execution of the lease but prior to the commencement of the term, the use for which the space was intended was obviated by the passage of Proposition 2 at the Special Election of that year. Thereafter, on July 1, 1950, the General Services Administration of the Federal Government leased the building for the Bureau of Reclamation on a sublease from the State with a year's term and option to renew from year to year. The sublease also provided for cancellation by the Federal Government on 30 days' notice. The sublease was extended in 1952 to June 30, 1953. An agreement was then entered into whereby the Federal Government agreed to extend the term to June 30, 1954, with an option to extend to December 31, 1954 and an option to extend to December 31, 1959. A right to cancel on 30 days' notice was retained for the two extensions which carried the term to December 31, 1954.

The Federal Government exercised this right to cancel as of November 1, 1953, whereupon the State immediately sought to cancel its own lease, effective the same date, and was able to do so without penalty.

Information was developed at that time showing that the lessors were willing to cancel without penalty because they were negotiating with a private corporation for a more advantageous lease, and in fact it is possible they might have paid a premium for the cancellation. The corporation was alternatively willing to sublease from the State for a one-year period if the State did not cancel.

At the time the agreement was made with the federal government giving them options on the space through 1959, the State was faced with the possibility that the Bureau of Reclamation would move on June 30, 1953, unless these options were given, leaving the State with a noncancellable lease running for an additional 18 months at a cost of $3,040 per month. Nothing in the file indicates whether or not the State could have canceled at that time without penalty as it did four months later, or even whether that possibility was considered.

At that time the State was leasing almost 70,000 square feet of space in various locations in Fresno, exclusive of the 16,000 square feet in the Caplan Lowe Building. Of the 70,000 square feet, 10,214 square feet were on 30- to 90-day cancellable leases. Agencies using 17,963 square feet of space had leases which would expire within one year after the termination of the lease on December 31, 1954.

Had these requirements been consolidated into the Caplan Lowe Building, the space could have been completely utilized by June 1, 1954, and could have been partially utilized from July 1, 1953, on, starting at about 65 percent of capacity.

The data on how the State could utilize the space in the event of cancellation by the Federal Government was available at the time the decision to cancel was made. The differential in rents for the scattered quarters and for the Caplan Lowe Building was negligible. However, savings for the item of parking cars alone would have been considerable, since more than adequate parking was included with the Caplan Lowe Building. It has also developed that a number of these smaller agencies in Fresno require more space than they now occupy.

The desirability of consolidating these small leases into one location is evident. Moreover, after summarily canceling the Caplan Lowe Building lease on November 1, 1953, the Division of Buildings and Ground is currently, and has been for several months, looking for space for these agencies in Fresno, to consolidate them into one building.

Thus, the State gave up the approximately one-year remaining of the original term of the Caplan Lowe Building lease, together with its option for an additional five years, at a time when the space could have been used advantageously at the same cost, and five months later was looking for approximately the same amount of space to achieve consolidation that had suggested itself at the time the cancellation was under consideration. It is now extremely doubtful that space can be leased in Fresno which will be as desirable for state purposes or as cheap as the Caplan Lowe Building. The best proposal so far considered is for 20 cents a square foot a month with very limited parking facilities, (i.e., 18 cars as against 80), as compared to 19 cents per square foot under the original Caplan Lowe lease.

LOS ANGELES WORKSHOP FOR THE BLIND

An example of a lease transaction resulting in a purchase is the building at 838 Santee Street, Los Angeles, which is utilized by the Department of Education as a work shop for the blind.

Deficiency of procedural control may be partially responsible for the fact that when this transaction was started late in 1948 it was with persons who had no valid interest in the building. They secured an option to purchase in January of 1949 apparently after they became satisfied that they could dispose of the building to the State. This option had been renewed for 30 days before the negotiations with the State culminated in signing the lease on June 22, 1949. The State negotiators failed to ascertain whether the persons with whom they were dealing actually had an option and were therefore able to effect a lease with the State. By not knowing the terms of the option they were unable to know that they could, during the period of negotiations, have dealt directly with the actual owners of the building, which in this case would unquestionably have been to the advantage of the State.

Failure to exercise procedural control may also partially account for the fact that the decision to lease and purchase the 838 Santee building had apparently been made before any general solicitation of offered of space for the intended purpose was made. Advertising appeared in Los Angeles newspapers on March 24, 1949 some months subsequent to the start of negotiations. No specific canvass or solicitation of building owners, managers, or industrial realtors, other than the newspaper ad, appears to have been made.

The processing of the offers resulting from the above-mentioned advertising was apparently so casual that Department of Finance employees did not become aware that one of these offers was for the very building for which they had been negotiating for months, and was being made on behalf of the actual owners. In fact, the offer on behalf of the actual owners was never formally acknowledged.

The price at which the building was listed, together with the ultimate cost of alterations, would have made a total cost to the State of $712,000 and there is every indication that the price could have been negotiated downward about $100,000. This should be compared with the total cost of the transaction to the State of approximately $1,300,000. This latter figure does include three years' rental before the purchase was consummated the value of which should not have exceeded $160,000.

The examination of the Santee building transaction does not reveal any clear pattern for systematically arriving at administrative decisions. Much of the evidence seems to indicate that such decisions were made before information developed by the staff was assembled and submitted. In fact, it might be inferred that the staff was assigned to secure information to support the decisions already made. There is no record to show that the officials who made these decisions ever examined the basic information available. This basic information was apparently evaluated by the same persons who assembled it.

The examination of competing buildings was apparently completed in the space of a day or so, and the selection of buildings to be examined from among those offered, seems to have centered on those with obvious disabilities such as inadequate structural quality or poor location. Each of these buildings was apparently rejected individually since there is no record of an orderly comprehensive comparison of the comparable merits and demerits of the entire group. There is no indication that any consideration was given to such important factors as cost of maintenance and services or of vacancy factor during the term of the lease.

It appears that the failure to exercise reasonable procedural control and apply sound business practice to the negotiation and consummation of this lease and purchase was in large measure responsible for the excess cost to the State noted above.

FASHION LEAGUE BUILDING

In 1948 the Department of Finance was faced with the problem of finding additional office space in the Los Angeles area and as a major step toward the solution of this problem set about acquiring the Fashion League Building.

This building, located in Los Angeles at Second and Hill Streets, was acquired by the State on September 16, 1949. The method of acquisition was by eminent domain proceedings with a jury award in the amount of $450,000 being paid as compensation to the prior owners. The acquisition was handled by the Right of Way Section of the Division of Highways. The purpose of the acquisition was to provide office space for state use in the Los Angeles area.

Prior to acquisition the Architectural Property Analyst of the Division of Buildings and Grounds inspected the building for the Division of Buildings and Grounds of the Department of Finance "to determine its nature for possible use as office quarters for the State," and in a report dated April 8, 1948, recommended that purchase be considered because of its location adjacent to the proposed site of a future state office building and because: "Its construction and plan layout make it readily usable for state office purposes and would justify whatever expenditures that may be necessary to improve it up to accepted modern standards." The Architectural Property Analyst further notes that "The building would provide badly needed office space relatively soon."

In delineating the work necessary to improve the building, he notes that "additional fire escapes may be required. Structural analysis and detailed inspection of mechanical equipment may require additional work." There is nothing in the report, however, to indicate that this additional work would go beyond the scope of the previous statement that the "construction and plan layout make it readily usable for State office purposes and would justify whatever expenditures that may be necessary to improve it up to accepted modern standards." (Emphasis added.)

It should be noted that while the Architectural Property Analyst states that the purchase of the building would provide badly needed office space relatively soon, he also attached a list of the then tenants with the expiration dates of their leases, which clearly showed that the majority of the leases did not expire for approximately two more years.

Some time between the date of this report, April 8, 1948, and August 23, 1948, when the Public Works Board authorized the purchase of the building, the decision to so purchase was made. No other record of opinion with regard to the suitability of the building or the advisability of the State's purchasing the building appear in the files submitted to this office, and it appears reasonable to assume that the decision was based primarily on this report of the Department's Architectural Property Analyst. Appraisals of the property by the Division of Highways were authorized on April 20, 1948 and forwarded to the Department of Finance on July 27, 1948.

Following the acquisition in 1949, the Architectural Property Analyst did the preliminary work necessary to be able to report on December 30th that the estimated cost of the renovation and modernization to bring it up to modern standards with respect to fire prevention and safety as well as comfort and health would be $996,800. If air conditioning were added the sum of $342,000 would have to be added.

The last of the private tenancies in the building was terminated on February 28, 1951, at which time only the County of Los Angeles still occupied any space. Several proposals for rehabilitating the building were considered during 1951 with the Architectural Property Analyst recommending on December 12, 1951 that work to cost approximately $500,000 be done at that time and the remainder of the work consisting of installation of partitions, floor covering, acoustic treatment, lighting and interior finish for the occupying agencies be done as required for these agencies.

The Budget Act of 1952, Item 361, appropriated $600,000 to renovate the Fashion League Building, and the Budget Act of 1953, Item 342, appropriated an additional $565,000 for a like purpose. In addition, $227,000 was appropriated in Item 361 in the 1952 Budget Act for replacement of elevators. The total appropriation available in 1952 was $827,000, and by 1953 had reached $1,392,000.

On October 14, 1953, the Chief of the Buildings and Grounds Division of the Department of Finance asked for the approval of the Director of the Department of Finance to transfer the appropriation to the Division of Architecture so that the work could commence.

No answer to this request is available from the files. However, on February 10, 1954, the Division of Architecture transmitted to the Director of Finance a report on rehabilitation studies of the building, which set forth certain structural deficiencies not previously mentioned. It now estimated the entire cost of rehabilitation and remodeling for State office use to be $1,708,000 or an increase over previous estimates of about $316,000 due to the structural defects.

The pertinent questions to be asked are:

1. Why was the building purchased to alleviate a current need for office space in 1948 and 1949 when rehabilitation could not be started before 1951 at the earliest, and occupancy not until some time later than that?

2. Why were the plans for remodeling not completed until December, 1951?

3. Why was the work not started after the Legislature made its first appropriation in 1952?

4. Why did the Division of Architecture come in with an estimate including structural rehabilitation costs of an additional $300,000 in 1954 after the Division of Buildings and Grounds had formally requested authorization to commence the work—a request that apparently went unanswered?

5. Why was this building scheduled for purchase by the State without first developing at least approximate estimates of the ultimate entire cost of the building including alterations, rather than consummating the transaction on the vague premise that it would justify any amount of alterations necessary to make it acceptable for State use?

It should be noted that the latest estimate of the cost of rehabilitation is $17.58 per foot, to which should be added $4.68, the original cost per square foot, for a total of $22.26 per square foot. For this figure the State would get almost 100,000 square feet of modernized office space in an excellent Los Angeles location for state purposes. The building would comply with the Riley Act structurally.

Senate Bill No. 70 (1951) contained a provision to permit the sale of the building. However, this section was deleted. In the 1954 Regular Session Senate Bill No. 4 provided authorization for the sale of the building. The bill was amended in the Senate to provide that the sale price could not be below 90 percent of the average of three appraisals, and to allow the building to be leased for not more than 20 years. This bill died in the Assembly. At this same session, the Budget Act provided that the prior appropriations for alterations would revert to the General Fund.

A preliminary conclusion is that the State should not have purchased the building in the first instance without more detailed information as to the cost of rehabilitation than was apparently available. Failure to adequately investigate the structural condition of the building was indicative of inadequate procedural control of state real property acquisition activity.

The original mistakes have been compounded for a period of almost five years by failure to take effective action regarding the building. It is now and has been vacant and unused since 1951, while the State has been paying out rent for equivalent space in Los Angeles at a rate of almost $200,000 a year.

This transaction, among other things, points up the need for thorough preliminary examination with proper comparisons between the cost of a new building and remodeling old structures.

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT REAL PROPERTY ACTIVITIES

A study of the procedures followed by the federal General Services Administration shows numerous ways in which the State's procedures could be revised to result in more efficient utilization of space, with attendant economies.

The essence of the program of the Real Estate Division of General Services Administration is stated to be long-range planning. At regular intervals, General Services Administration requires a report from the field agent in charge of each operating agency in the various cities involved. This report sets forth his best judgment as to space needs of his agency for the next five years. The agency has several programs to augment and supplement this long-range planning. One is a space availability program, the other a space utilization program.

In the space availability program, complete and continuing records are kept of all available space in the respective areas. Data for these records are obtained by daily scrutiny of newspaper ads, especially Sunday papers, from canvassing real estate boards, building owners' associations, and all industrial realtors. In addition, field men in the course of their travels note for these records all properties posted as available for rental or purchase.

In connection with the space utilization program, each agency on June 30th and December 31st of each year executes and submits a form which sets forth the total area they occupy, describes the space and the area being used for respective functions such as office, live or dead storage, garage, warehouse, laboratory, et cetera. It also enumerates the employees by grades. These reports help to establish a utilization pattern and also to determine which agency premises should be first inspected.

This inspection consists of checking the number of actual employees as against the number previously reported, watches for areas of bad utilization, for both the overcrowding as well as the assigning of too much area per employee. The analyst will template the space if, in his opinion, the potential savings from arrangements justifies it.

The field men check at least once a year on all agency occupancies to determine that the lease is still in force and that it has not been amended in any way. This is done by field operations men or by a building superintendent if the building has one. Agencies are required to notify the Real Estate Division of General Services Administration of any vacancy or contemplated cut-back in space or of lease terminations. The State Division of Buildings and Grounds has stated that, under present procedures, they are not always notified of lease terminations.

Under General Services Administration procedures, when an agency desires new or additional space, it files a formal request by executing Standard Form 81. This differs from the State Form 6 in two rather important respects. The General Services Administration form contains all information necessary for a proper determination of the agency's needs and it is filled out and filed before any negotiations are entered into.

This request is then routed to the Assignment Branch of the General Services Administration's Real Estate Division where it is analyzed and reviewed. If it is determined that need for the space is justified, a check is made of all available space in the area that is owned or under lease by the government. If suitable space is available, it is called to the attention of the agency. It does not necessarily have to be "ideal" space. If it conforms to "normal" standards, the Real Estate Division can insist that it be occupied on the grounds that it is not justified in acquiring additional space when suitable "normal" space is available, nor is it justified in renting more expensive space if "normal" space is available at a cheaper rental.

Under the Economy Act of 1932, as amended, the Federal Government is restricted as to the rental which may be paid for any building and the amount that may be expended by the government for alterations. Under this act, no lease may be entered into which provides for an annual rental in excess of 15 percent of the established market value of the building. Owners are responsible for supplying appraisals as a guide to the contracting agency. In addition, the government makes a detailed estimate of the "material and time" costs of the subject building. Both sets of figures are then cross-checked with comparable buildings in the area.

Under the statutory limitations on alterations expenditures, the government may not expend for alterations during the entire term of the lease a sum in excess of 25 percent of the first year's rental.

Were these limitations in effect in State Government, substantial savings could have been effected by the State in recent years. Under the 15 percent rental limitation, the State would have saved approximately $23,000 per year in rental on the 838 Santee Street lease in Los Angeles alone. In the case of the 965 Mission Street lease in San Francisco, the State would have been limited to an annual rental of $80,000 for a saving of $60,000 per year for the ten-year term of the lease. Under the terms of this lease, the State expended approximately $233,000 for alterations in addition to the $350,000 expended by the building owner. Had there been a 25 percent alteration expenditure limitation in effect, the State would have been limited to a $35,000 alteration expenditure on the actual rental terms, or a saving of $198,000.

Under established administrative policy, General Services Administration sets no "closing" date for the acceptance of proposals to lease or sell properties to the government. All offers are considered up to the date of the actual signing of the necessary papers.

The record, in the investigation of the 838 Santee lease, shows that offers of other properties during April were refused consideration in the grounds that a deal for 838 Santee had been "practically closed", despite the fact that the actual lease was not signed with the optionees of the building until June 22, 1949, two months later.

It is highly significant to note that one of these "declined offers" was being made by the actual owners of the 838 Santee property at a figure substantially lower than the figure at which the State was simultaneously negotiating with the optionees and lower than the figure at which the lease was ultimately negotiated.

Had the State followed the Federal Government policy, the cost to the State for this property would have been approximately fifty percent of what it ultimately cost the State, or a saving of $635,000.

Analysis of Effects of Proposed Ballot Propositions Upon State's Finances

MEASURES TO BE VOTED UPON AT THE NOVEMBER, 1954 ELECTION

Prepared by the Legislative Auditor
September, 1954

Proposition No. 1

Senate Bill No. 26, (Ch. 28) 1954, 1st Ex. Session

Veterans Bond Act of 1954

Senate Bill No. 26 proposes for ratification by the voters an amendment to the Military and Veterans Code by adding Article 5e to Chapter 6 of Division 4, providing for a state bond issue of $175,000,000 for the purpose of supplying additional funds to carry on the California Veterans Farm and Home Purchase Plan. Proceeds from the sale of such bonds are to be used by the State Department of Veterans Affairs in its plan for assisting California war veterans to acquire suitable farm or home property at low financing cost.

Although the bonds constitute general obligations of the State, they would be self-liquidating in that money advanced from the proceeds of bond sales for the purchase of a farm or home is to be repaid by the veteran at a low rate of interest through uniform monthly payments over a period of years. The monthly payments are to cover the cost of bond issuance, redemption and interest, and of administrative overhead so that the operation of the plan is self-supported.

A summary of the history of the plan for financing farms and homes for California veterans points out briefly the purpose, benefits, and operation of the plan as follows:

The California Veterans Farm and Home Purchase Plan was originally adopted by the Legislature in 1921 for the purpose of assisting qualified California veterans of any war to acquire suitable farms or homes at low financing cost.

The financing of the plan has since been accomplished through several issues of state general obligation bonds. As pointed out previously, although the bonds represent general obligations of the State, they are self-liquidating and, as such, are not a burden to the taxpayer so long as the Veterans Farm and Home Building Fund remains solvent.

A veteran eligible to participate in the plan may presently obtain an advance up to $8,500 for the purchase of a home provided the total valuation of the home does not exceed $12,500. In the case of farm purchases advances are made up to $15,000 with a total valuation not exceeding $18,500. The present rate of interest on advance is 3 percent.

This rate, however, is subject to periodic determination within a range of 2½ to 4 percent in accordance with provisions of the code and economic conditions.

From 1921 to date there has been a total of $460,000,000 in state bonds authorized and sold benefiting more than 75,000 California veterans. Of this total in bonds sold, $344,295,000 were outstanding as of May 31, 1954. The various issues, effective rates of interest, and totals of issues outstanding as of May 31, 1954, are shown in the following table.

Bond issue	Amount authorized	Effective interest rate	Amount outstanding
Veterans Bonds of 1921.....	$10,000,000	4.38%
Veterans Bonds of 1925.....	20,000,000	4.06
Veterans Bonds of 1929.....	20,000,000	4.12
Veterans Bonds of 1933.....	30,000,000	2.52	$445,000
Veterans Bonds of 1943.....	30,000,000	1.08	19,000,000
Veterans Bonds of 1946.....	100,000,000	1.82	81,350,000
Veterans Bonds of 1949.....	100,000,000	1.74	93,500,000
Veterans Bonds of 1951.....	150,000,000	2.25	150,000,000

The need for additional funds for financing the California Veterans Farm and Home Purchase Plan is predicated upon demand for financing and the rate of investment of funds in property. The rate of investment in property is presently averaging between 6.5 and 7 millions of dollars per month whereas three years ago the rate averaged approximately 4.5 millions of dollars per month.

Proposition No. 2

Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 3, (Ch. 11) 1954 1st Ex. Session

State School Building Aid Bonds

Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 3 proposes to add Section 17 to Article XVI of the Constitution calling for ratification by the voters authorization for issuance and sale of state general obligation bonds in amount of $100,000,000 for the purpose of providing loans and grants to school districts of the State for school building construction.

The adoption of this proposal will constitute the third authorization for issuance and sale of state bonds for public school building aid. In 1949 a total of $250,000,000 was authorized for this purpose and the full amount has been sold. In 1952 a total of $185,000,000 was authorized. However, a restriction as to the issuance and sale of $20,000,000 of the 1952 authorization was imposed due to an advance of a like amount from the General Fund for school building aid. Seventy-five million dollars of this authorization has been sold, thus making a total of $325,000,000 in state school bonds sold to date. If this amendment is adopted it will mean that the voters will have authorized state bond issues totaling more than one-half billion of dollars since 1949 to assist school districts in financing school building construction.

In looking at the State's bonded debt position, as of June 30, 1954, the schedule which follows presents a summary statement of the general purposes for which current issues of state general obligation bonds have been authorized, amounts unsold, amounts outstanding, and the sources of funding.

State Bonded Debt Position—June 30, 1954

Purpose	Amount unsold	Amount outstanding	Funded from
State highways -----	----	$18,575,000	As due— Motor Vehicle "in lieu" tax
State and university buildings-----	----	6,430,000)	Sinking funds
State parks -----	----	750,000)
Tenth Olympiad -----	----	425,000)
Public school building aid --	$110,000,000*	311,400,000	In part, from Bond Retirement Fund and repayment of loans. Balance from General Fund.
San Francisco Harbor improvement	1,197,000	22,558,000	Self-liquidating
Veterans farm and home purchases	-	344,295,000	Self-liquidating
Totals -----	$111,197,000	$704,433,000

* Includes the $20,000,000 restriction as previously mentioned.

NOTE: As of June 30, 1954, there were assets in sinking funds totaling approximately $12,410,000 for bond redemption. In addition, there was a total of approximately $47,900,000 in reserve for school bond retirement. This sum represented the balance of $50,000,000 of General Fund money set aside by the 1952 Legislature to fund, in part, the school bond issues. However, legislative action on the 1954 Budget Act provided for the return of $27,369,821 of this reserve to the General Fund in order to meet demands on the General Fund in the 1954-55 Fiscal Year. This action left a balance of approximately $20,500,000 in reserve toward future redemption of the school bonds.

Although the state bond issues represent general obligations of the State, statutory provisions provide for debt service from specific revenues and special funds, as shown in the preceding schedule. However, the school building bond issues are funded to the extent of a $20,500,000 balance in a school bond retirement fund with further redemption to be accomplished through repayment of advances from those school districts which have borrowed and which are able to repay. The exact amount to be expected in repayment from the school districts cannot be determined. However, estimates that have been projected for the current loans indicate that a substantial sum will have to be met from general tax revenues, although the Legislature has provided for redemption of the bonds, in part.

It is significant to note that in addition to these outstanding obligations, Proposition No. 1 on the 1954 ballot calls for authorization of an additional $175,000,000 in veterans' issues, and Proposition No. 2 calls for authorization of an additional $100,000,000 in school bonds.

Proposition No. 3

Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 4, (Ch. 33) 1954 1st Ex. Session

Alcoholic Beverage Control

Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 4 proposes to separate alcoholic beverage control from the State Board of Equalization and to establish the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control headed by a director appointed by the Governor with approval of the Senate and to serve at the Governor's pleasure. The director may also be removed by a majority vote of each house of the Legislature.

The amendment also establishes an Alcoholic Beverage Control Appeals Board of three members to be appointed by the Governor with consent of the Senate and removable in the same manner as the director. The board reviews appeals from department decisions ordering any penalty assessment, or concerning the issuing, denying, transferring, suspending or revoking of any license for the manufacture, importation, or sale of intoxicating liquor.

The assessing and collecting excise taxes imposed on the manufacture, importation and sale of alcoholic beverages remains with the Board of Equalization.

The amendment becomes operative January 1, 1955.

State Cost. Because the amendment creates a separate department of government, there will be some apparent costs in salaries and expenses for the members of the Appeals Board, the director, other top staff positions and clerical help related to these. These should cost no more than approximately $100,000 during the first six months of operation (January 1-June 30, 1955).

In the main, existing staff positions, equipment, etc., in the Alcoholic Beverage Control Division of the Board of Equalization will be transferred to the new department representing no new cost. Substantially the same laws will be administered. Whether this is greater or less than the present level of expenditure for the Alcoholic Beverage Control Division will depend upon policy as reflected in the budget submitted by the new director and as approved by the Legislature.

Proposition No. 4

Proposed Initiative—Social Welfare—Aid to Needy Aged

The initiative constitutional amendment regarding aid to needy aged to be submitted directly to the electorate provides for increasing the present $80 statutory maximum for individual assistance grants to $100. The state grant will be made after deducting all other income of the recipient except casual or inconsequential amounts. If the "actual need" of an applicant for aid is determined to exceed $100 a month total income, including private sources, the Department of Social Welfare may allow him a grant in excess of the $100, although the state assistance cannot exceed that amount.

Section II of the initiative measure empowers the Legislature to raise the state grant above $100 but prevents it from making any reductions below that figure. The third section of the measure appropriates funds each month for the payment of benefits to those persons eligible for aid under terms of the Welfare and Institutions Code. Deductions of federal money or any other state funds going to the applicant are to be made from the grant. Section III also empowers the Legislature to determine the extent of county contribution to the cost of aid to the aged. The amendment is to become effective on the first day of the fourth month following the month it is adopted, or March 1, 1955.

Additional cost of the program under the provisions of this initiative amendment to the State Constitution, if adopted, is estimated by the State Department of Social Welfare to be approximately $74,200,000 on a twelve month basis. This additional cost, rounded out, would be distributed: $55,550,000 state cost, and $9,250,000 county cost, while federal participation would increase by approximately $9,400,000.

These estimates are derived by applying the average grant of $69.22 per month paid to 271,641 old age recipients in December 1953, and assuming that the average grant would increase by $20 per month. The estimates assume also that at least 15,000 additional applicants might be attracted to the program, but due to other income, contributions of relatives, et cetera, the new applicants would perhaps receive an average old age security grant of around $50 per month. With the application of these assumptions, the increase in the cost of the program would, then, be approximately as follows:

Present caseload (December 1953) -----	271,641 x 12 x $20=	$65,200,000 (rounded)
Estimated additional caseload -----	15,000 x 12 x $50=	9,000,000
Total -----		$74,201,000

There are unpredictable factors which may affect these estimates substantially such as (1) the number of additional persons who might be attracted to the program may be greater or smaller than the estimate, (2) the final interpretation that would be made of "actual need" by law or by rule and regulation, and (3) a possible change in the general economy of the nation which could either increase or decrease the number of recipients by reducing, eliminating or adding other means of support.

Other factors which might also affect the estimates of additional cost of the initiative if it is adopted, would be (1) the provision that "All money paid to a recipient of aid under this article is intended to help him meet his individual needs and is not paid for the benefit of, or to be construed as income to, any other person." It appears that this provision would affect those counties which consider the amount of aged assistance which is available to a family as deductible income for the purpose of computing the amount of general relief for which other members of the family are eligible. Secondly, the 1952 increase in federal participation in the old age security grant was due to expire October 1, 1954, but was extended by Congress for an additional two years. Although it would seem unlikely that the federal statute would be allowed to expire in 1956 without some substitute provided, under the provisions of this initiative, the State would be obligated to pick up the bill for added costs resulting from failure of the Congress to continue the present Federal Old Age Security payments made pursuant to the 1952 act. Presently existing state statutes, on the other hand, would enable the State to reduce old age security grants in proportion to the decrease in federal payments, in the event that federal payments were reduced for the reason cited above, or for the reason that living costs should decline, or for other reasons.

Proposition No. 5

Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 23, (Ch. 156) 1953

Tax Exemption—Vessels

Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 23 amends Section 4 of Article XIII, whereby the existing provision exempting from local property tax California registered freight and passenger ships of more than 50 tons burden is extended indefinitely. Otherwise, this exemption would expire on January 1, 1955.

This exemption has been in existence since 1914, at which time Section 4 of Article XIII was added to the Constitution providing a duration of the exemption through January 1, 1935. The section was amended in 1932 whereby the duration of the exemption was extended through January 1, 1955. The proposed amendment would eliminate the time limitation, thereby providing an indefinite exemption.

It is noted that Proposition No. 8, Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 32, proposes to add a provision, Section 4 (a), to Article XIII, whereby the exemption from local property taxation for such vessels would continue, but would include vessels engaged in deep-sea fishing outside California waters, and the tax exemption would be limited to vessels of more than 100 tons burden.

Proposition No. 6

Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 13, (Ch. 13) 1954, 1st Ex. Session

Salary of Members of Legislature

Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 13 amends subsection (b) of Section 2 of Article IV whereby each member of the Legislature shall receive $500 for each month of the term for which he is elected.

This provision would increase the present salary of members of the Legislature from $3,600 to $6,000 annually.

Additional annual cost to the State would be $288,000 plus some additional cost of the State's contribution to the Legislators' Retirement System.

Proposition No. 7

Assembly Bill No. 39, (Ch. 58) 1954, 1st. Ex. Session

Land Titles—Torrens Act

Assembly Bill No. 39 adds Section 116 to an initiative act commonly known as the Torrens Land Title Registration Law or Torrens Act which was originally enacted by the Legislature in 1897 and was extensively amended by the initiative in 1914.

The present act does not provide authorization to the Legislature to make any changes in the act. The proposed Section 116 will permit the Legislature to amend or repeal all or any part of the act at any time.

The provisions of this act do not appear to involve any cost to the State.

Proposition No. 8

Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 32, (Ch. 157) 1953

Tax Exemption—Vessels

Proposes to exempt from local property taxes those vessels of more than 100 tons burden which are registered in the State and are engaged in the transportation of freight or passengers or in commercial deep-sea fishing operations outside the territorial waters of the State.

This represents an enlargement of present provisions by raising the exemption from vessels over 50 tons to vessels over 100 tons and would include commercial deep-sea fishing vessels. While more complete figures are not available at this time, as an indication of tax loss to local governments, Los Angeles County estimates that the amendment would exempt from tax in the county vessels of the assessed value of $1,000,000 which are presently taxed.

Proposition No. 9Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 54, (Ch. 203) 1953Tax Exemption—Church Property

Proposes to exempt from local property taxation the land upon which a building to be used exclusively for religious worship is in the course of construction. Proposes, also, to exempt equipment connected with the said building.

Additional loss of tax revenue that may accrue through the adoption of this amendment is not available. Whether this would constitute an additional loss would depend upon county interpretation of the present provisions of the Constitution, and the extent to which exemption is presently granted as a matter of custom.

Proposition No. 10Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 1, (Ch. 223) 1953Terms of Office—State Officers

Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 1 amends Section 3, 4 and 5 of Article IV and Section 2 of Article V, relating to the term of office of state officers.

Section 3, Article IV, is amended whereby the terms of office of Members of the Assembly will be increased from two to four years, and half of the Members of the Assembly are to be elected every two years. Members elected in 1956 and thereafter would be chosen for a term of four years, but the seats of 40 members elected from the even-numbered districts in 1956 would be vacated at the end of 1958. Thereafter Members of the Assembly would be elected for a term of four years.

Section 4 and 5 of Article IV are amended whereby the terms of office of Members of the Senate will be increased from four to six years, and approximately one-third of the Members of the Senate are to be elected every two years. Of the 20 Senators from even-numbered districts to be elected in 1954, the seats of 13 Senators from Districts 2-26, inclusive, would be vacated at the end of 1958 and the seats of the remaining seven Senators (Districts 28-40) would be vacated at the end of 1960. Of the 20 Senators from odd-numbered districts to be elected in 1956, the seats of six Senators from Districts 1-11, inclusive, would be vacated at the end of 1960 and the seats of the remaining 14 Senators (District 13-39) would be vacated at the end of 1962. Thereafter the terms of all Senators would be six years.

Section 2 of Article V, is amended whereby no person except the incumbent of the Office of Governor at the time this provision takes effect will be eligible for Office of Governor for more than two successive terms.

Additional cost to the State, if any, would be negligible.

Proposition No. 11Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 2, (Ch. 162) 1953Tax Exemption—Disabled Veterans

Proposes to authorize the Legislature to exempt from property taxes, in an amount not to exceed $5,000, the home of a veteran with a permanent and total service-connected disability where the veteran, because of said disability, has received federal assistance in acquiring said property.

The provisions of this amendment represent a new exemption. By way of indicating an appraisal of possible tax loss, Los Angeles County estimates that there are approximately 400 individuals in the county who would qualify for this exemption and that it would remove from the tax base an assessed valuation of approximately $2,000,000.

Proposition No. 12

Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 28, (Ch. 187) 1953

Voting Eligibility

Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 28 amends Section 1 of Article II relative to the right to vote, whereby the provision which denies a person convicted of any infamous crime to ever exercise the privileges of an elector, unless pardoned. This will amend the Constitution to state, in effect, that a person convicted of any infamous crime is denied the rights of an elector while paying the penalties imposed by law for such conviction.

This means that such person is denied the right to vote and the right to hold public office until the period during which he is paying such penalties has ended, at which time the restrictions would no longer hold.

The provisions of Section 21, of Article 22 of the Constitution concerning restrictions on the rights of persons convicted of embezzlement or misappropriation of public funds would not be affected by adoption of this amendment.

No apparent state cost.

Proposition No. 13

Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 20, (Ch. 99) 1953

Adoption of Charter—City of Vernon

Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 20 adds Section 8.1 to Article XI of the State Constitution authorizing the City of Vernon, in the County of Los Angeles to adopt a charter.

Provides method for amending charter. Authorizes charter to prescribe the manner, method, times, terms and eligibility in respect to election of members to the legislative body, the incurring of indebtedness or liability, and the exercitation of the powers of initiative and referendum.

No cost to the State.

Proposition No. 14

Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 53, (Ch. 185) 1953

Tax Exemption—College Buildings

Proposes to exempt from local property taxation the land upon which a building to be used exclusively for educational purposes is in the course of construction on the assessment date.

This represents an enlargement of the present exemption and, while the amount of revenue loss to local governments is not available, the County of Los Angeles reports that this measure would exempt from taxation property of an assessed valuation of around $50,000 in that county.

Proposition No. 15Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 22, (Ch. 146) 1953Property Tax Exemption—Welfare Purposes

Proposes to exempt from property taxes buildings and equipment, together with the lands upon which located, in the course of construction on the assessment date when said property is to be used exclusively for religious, hospital or charitable purposes.

This is an enlargement of the present exemption and, while the amount of revenue loss to local governments is not available, Los Angeles County estimates that each year the amount of exempt property would be increased by $500,000 assessed value in that county.

Proposition No. 16Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 30, (Ch. 191) 1953Water Rights—Government Agencies

Adds Section 4 to Article XIV relating to water and water rights. Requires local, state, or federal agencies acquiring any interest in real property in California to conform to state law concerning the acquisition, control, use, and distribution of water with respect to the land so acquired.

No ascertainable cost.

Proposition No. 17Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 32, (Ch. 224) 1953Highway Users Taxes for Vehicle Parking

At present, under Article XXVI of the Constitution, money derived from highway users taxes, that is, gasoline tax, diesel tax, truck tax, and motor vehicle registration and weight fees, can be used only for construction and maintenance of public streets and highways.

This measure adds Section 2.5 to Article XXVI of the Constitution to permit the use of such money for the planning and construction of facilities for vehicle parking.

The amendment specifies no amount or formula for determining the amount which could be so used, merely stating that it shall be in such manner as the Legislature may provide.

To the extent that funds might be diverted to such usage the amounts available for construction and maintenance of highways, including county roads and city streets, would be reduced.

It is impossible to determine what additional cost might be involved as a result of this amendment until specific legislation is enacted to implement the provision, although it is probable that all necessary planning and construction could be handled by the existing staff of the Department of Public Works.

Proposition No. 18Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 10, (Ch. 83) 1953Property Rights—Resident Aliens

Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 10 amends Section 17 of Article I relating to rights of aliens.

This amendment will broaden the guarantee of equality of rights with respect to acquisition, possession, enjoyment, transmission, and inheritance of property other than real estate, whereby all resident aliens who are eligible to become citizens of the United States under the naturalization laws would be extended the guarantee of rights the same as native born citizens. At present only foreigners of the white race and of African descent who are eligible to become citizens enjoy this constitutional guarantee, although Section 671 of the Civil Code presently provides such rights.

No cost to the State.

Proposition No. 19

Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 57, (Ch. 225) 1953

Judges—Inferior Courts

Section 23 of Article VI of the Constitution presently requires a municipal court judge to have been admitted to practice law before the State Supreme Court for at least five years immediately preceding his election or appointment to such office. However, an exception to this requirement was approved by the voters November 7, 1950, at which time the voters approved the plan for reorganization of the inferior courts. The exception was made whereby an elected judge or justice who had served for five years immediately prior to that date, although not admitted to practice law, was made eligible to become the judge of any municipal court which superseded the then-existing court of which he was judge.

The proposed Constitutional Amendment would amend Section 23 of Article VI, whereby a judge who has served five years prior to November 7, 1950, and who has served continuously since November 7, 1950, as judge of a superseding justice court, is eligible to become the judge of a municipal court whenever such a court supersedes his justice court without having been admitted to practice law.

No cost to the State.

Proposition No. 20

Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 27, (Ch. 174) 1953

County Charters

Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 27 amends Section 7½ of Article XI relative to county charters by deleting a provision that board of freeholders to draft a new charter be nominated by petition and providing instead for nomination to be in the same manner as candidates for county offices. The time for preparation of such charter is extended from 120 days after declaration of election results to six months.

No cost to the State.

Partial Report on a Study of the California Department of Motor Vehicles

Prepared by the Legislative Auditor
September 10, 1954

A study of the operations and procedures of the Department of Motor Vehicles is being conducted by the staff of the Legislative Budget Committee. The need for this study arises from the growth of the State and the necessity of the department to keep abreast of that growth as it affects vehicle registration and driver licensing.

REASONS FOR STUDY

Motor vehicle registrations have grown from approximately 6,400 in 1906 to nearly 6,000,000 in 1953. At present there are over 6,000,000 drivers' licenses outstanding and the department issues almost 200,000 drivers' licenses per month.

In 1948 the department installed the mechanized system of handling registrations. During the first year of mechanization, approximately 4,234,000 vehicles were registered. Since 1948 vehicle registrations have increased approximately 1,766,000 or 41 percent. This increase has been absorbed by the punch-card system with a minimum amount of difficulty.

The conversion from the manual to the machine method of handling registrations was a very difficult period for the department. However, after some experience the operation became smooth and efficient. The mechanized system has not only proved capable of handling the huge increase in the number of registrations but it has processed the registrations more quickly than the manual system.

The pressure during the change to the punch-card system and the continued sharp increase in the volume of registrations has not permitted the department the time to review its procedures since mechanization. Other changes and improvements have been made, such as the establishment of the Division of Field Office Operations in 1951. But no over-all look at the whole procedure and the relationships between divisions has been made since the mechanized system was installed. It was our feeling that the time had come for a thorough review of the procedures of the entire department.

COOPERATION RECEIVED

The project was discussed with the Director of the Department of Motor Vehicles and his staff to obtain their views so that the most thorough and effective study possible could be made. An agreement was reached with the director that the study would be cooperative. While the Budget Committee staff has actually made the study, it was possible only through the excellent cooperation that has been provided by the administrative officials of the department and all levels of employees. The task of analyzing the operations and procedures of the department has been made immeasurably easier by the assistance of the department staff. In addition to assistance, the employees of the department have made many suggestions, some of which are incorporated in our recommendations.

One phase of the survey has been a records management study. This portion of the study has been done through the cooperation and efforts of staff of the Secretary of State. Many hours of work and technical advice have been contributed by the records management specialists of the Secretary of State's office.

PHASES OF THE STUDY

The study of the operations and procedures of the department has been divided into four phases. This report is a partial report embracing the findings and recommendations of two phases. They are:

1. Processing Registration Applications Received by Local Offices.

The area of activities covered by this phase begins with the receipt of applications in the local offices and continues through the preparation of the monthly accounting reports by the tabulating section.

2. Records Management Study. This phase covers a file reference study of all registration files and a count and computation of the number of files and total square feet of floor space occupied by the files.

The other phases of the study, which are not complete and will follow in later reports, are as follows:

3. Driver Licensing. This will consist of a review of the procedures of licensing drivers and processing the applications.
4. Processing Applications by the Bureaus, and Mail Processing Procedures. The procedures followed by the processing bureaus and the method of handling mail applications will be covered by this phase of the study.

A fifth phase of the study as it was originally outlined, included a review of all forms aimed toward revision and consolidation. This phase, however, will not be completed this year.

In addition to Phases 1 and 2 of our study, this partial report contains:

1. A statement of a proposed registration procedure by the department.
2. A comparison by the Budget Committee staff of its recommended procedure with that proposed by the department.

Many meetings were held with the department's staff to discuss our recommendations and secure their opinions and, if possible, agreement. The statement of the department's proposed registration procedure enclosed in this report gives the department's official position with respect to some of our recommendations and outlines other changes the department considers desirable.

REGISTRATION PROCEDURES

Processing Registration Applications Received by Local Offices

The area of activities covered by this preliminary report on registration procedures begins with the receipt of applications in the local office through the preparation of the monthly accounting reports by the tabulating section. All procedures covered by the survey were reviewed both from the standpoint of the Manual of Accounting and the actual practice by the operating personnel.

The activities of the local offices were observed primarily at the Sacramento local office. Visits were made to the San Leandro, Oakland, Jackson, Placerville, and Santa Cruz local offices. A few hours at each of these offices indicated that the practices are uniform and that local offices follow the procedural instructions of the Accounting Manual very closely.

In addition to a thorough study of the activities and procedures of the Sacramento Area Control Office, a detailed review of the procedures of the Oakland Area Control Office was made. The operating procedures of these two area control offices were found to be uniform as required by the Accounting Manual.

The processing of normal, potential, and typing items was studied from the receipt of the item in the local office through the preparation of the monthly accounting reports. Miscellaneous items were examined from the receipt at the local office to their disposition by the Division of Registration. However, this report covers the processing of miscellaneous items only to their receipt by the departmental cashier in the Bureau of Accounting.

Summary of Recommendations

1. A thorough inspection of all applications should be made by an inspection clerk immediately following the rating of the applications by the rate clerks in the local office. The inspection now being made in the area control offices should be made only on a limited sample basis before the documents are processed by the tabulating section.
2. Typing certificates for nonresident vehicles and some original registrations in California in the local offices should be discontinued; these items should be processed as normal work.
3. Suspense receipts should be issued only to identify miscellaneous items for control purposes but not when the application is incomplete.
4. Forms 173, 173M, and 344 should be simplified and Form 386 should be discontinued.
5. The Sacramento area control office should be separated from the Bureau of Accounting and transferred to the Division of Field Office Operations.
6. The serial numbering of tabs should be discontinued and the tab should be issued bearing only the year number for which issued.
7. A duplicate account card should be reproduced to establish a reference file of current year registrations.
8. The present monthly accounting Reports No. 263, Number of Vehicles Registered by County, and No. 340, Statement of Transactions and Fees Collected as shown on Chart BB, should be prepared mechanically by the Tabulating Section as shown in Chart B.
9. The present registration processing shown on Chart AA should be streamlined. A recommended revision of the procedure is shown on Chart A.

The above summary of recommendations are discussed in detail and referred to by number in the following text.

Possible Savings

A firm estimate of potential savings is not available. The department has offered to make an estimate but has not yet been able to complete it.

Generally, the nature of the procedural recommendations contained in this report will not result in direct dollar savings through reduction in staff or equipment. However, we believe the recommendations will permit an increase in work load without an increase in the budget. The recommendation concerning typing will eliminate the need for typing approximately 200,000 certificates a year and the time to proofread the certificates. While the clerical time required to type and proofread these certificates is dispersed among most of the 97 local offices, three area offices, and the Sacramento headquarters, considerable man-hours will be saved which can be diverted to other activities, such as absorbing increased work load.

The recommendations concerning suspense receipts, forms revisions, elimination of tab number, and the establishment of an account card reference file, will reduce error and the quantity of work now being done throughout the department. This will permit greater accuracy and the ability to absorb more work load. The simplification of cashiering forms and establishment of an account card reference file should definitely result in lower costs for temporary help during the renewal period. Heretofore, the department's copy of the automobile renewal certificate has been filed manually. With the conversion to a punched card potential and the use of an account card reference file, this job will be done primarily by machines. Elimination of hand filing of the automobile potentials should remove the need for approximately 60 junior clerks hired as temporary help during the renewal period. These clerks would work three and one half months to file all the potentials. Approximately $42,000 in temporary help will not be required if the department maintains a punched card reference file.

The proposed daily processing shown on Chart A will save many clerical hours annually in the three area control offices and could result in fewer budgeted positions. There is no way at present to compute the number, but by using a punched summary card to prepare control registers mechanically and eliminate "smooth" tabulations and the related individual clearance certification, savings would accrue. Other minor changes are included in the proposal.

In the Revenue Analysis Unit where the accounting reports are presently prepared manually, we feel two of the three clerical positions could be eliminated by processing the reports and related control registers mechanically as shown on Charts A and B.

INSPECTION OF APPLICATIONS

1. Recommendation

A thorough inspection of all applications should be made by an inspection clerk immediately following the rating of the applications by the rate clerks in the local office. The inspection now being made in the area offices should be made only on a limited sample basis before the documents are processed by the tabulating section.

Findings

1. The percentage of errors found after the application is accepted by a local office is generally low and appears to be reasonable.
2. Before an application is accepted by a local office it is reviewed for correctness and completeness and rated for fees by a rate clerk. In most offices inspection and rating is performed by the same clerk.
3. The present procedure provides for an inspection or review for correctness and completeness of all applications in the area offices after the fees have been collected.
4. Errors or omissions on applications are found at various points in the processing of applications. Errors may be found in the local office after the application is accepted, in the area office during the regular inspection and in the tabulating section where the documents are prepared.

5. An error discovered after the applicant leaves the office usually causes the transaction to be held out from the normal processing of other applications.
6. An item held out from the normal flow of work (a holdout) must then go through a more complicated and expensive administrative process to correct the error. Processing holdouts includes the typing of a holdout form, Form 369, establishing accounting controls, filing of uncleared holdouts, purging the file of cleared holdouts and adjusting the accounting controls.
7. Holdouts disrupt the normal processing of applications in that each time a holdout is made Forms 173 and 344, on which all cash and applications are listed and summarized, and the related block face cards must be changed.
8. The following table shows the number of local offices handled by each area control office and the number of employees in the local offices.

Area control office	One employee offices	Two employee offices	Three employee offices	Total offices three or less employees	Offices with four or more employees	Total offices
Los Angeles -----	3	4	2	9	26	35
Oakland -----	2	3	5	10	16	26
Sacramento -----	13	7	4	24	12	36
Totals -----	18	14	11	43	54	97

Not included in above figures:

- (1) Five offices operated by California Highway Patrol or county sheriffs
- (2) Local operations for drivers licensing only.

Reasons for Recommendations

1. Inspection following the rating, but prior to the collection of fees, will eliminate many holdouts now discovered in the area office and the tabulating section.
2. Reliance on the local offices to check documents thoroughly and keep holdouts to an absolute minimum is now in practice by the Oakland area office. The work of the larger local offices is not regularly inspected by the Oakland area, merely an occasional spot check.
3. The flow of documents from the local office through area to Sacramento will be speeded up.
4. Public will be better served by receiving documents at an earlier date.

Explanation of Recommendation

In every office where the personnel permits, every application should be completely inspected by an inspection clerk to establish its completeness and correctness before the applicant pays his fees. If an application is incomplete and cannot be completed immediately by the applicant, the application and all documents should be returned to the applicant and held by the applicant until completed. The inspection clerk should review all documents and applications after the rate clerk determines the fees. If an application is incomplete, the applicant will be requested to retain the documents and complete the application. To avoid penalties or to indicate that the department has taken notice of the application, the clerk may stamp the application or documents with an official stamp to the effect "Not subject to penalties if completed in _____ days—date." In one-man offices the inspection will continue to be performed by the area office. A sample inspection of the other offices will also be conducted.

TYPING*2. Recommendation

Typing certificates for nonresident vehicles and certain original registrations in California in the local offices should be discontinued; these items should be processed as normal work.

Findings

1. Certificates for nonresident vehicles and the original registrations in California are currently being typed in local offices.
2. All other applications (except specials) are processed by the area control offices and the certificates produced on tabulating machines in Sacramento.
3. This immediate and special service for two classes of vehicle registrations, nonresident and some original registrations in California, which comprise less than 10 percent of all registrations exclusive of potentials, is in effect because of two policies:
  - a. In prior years it was necessary to type new registrations, nonresident and original registrations in California certificates in the local offices to lessen the volume of work processed by the tabulating section. Conversion from a manual method to punched cards created unforeseen problems which resulted in a backlog in the tabulating section.
  - b. New vehicle registrations have been processed by the tabulating section since the backlog of work was eliminated, and the typing of these certificates in the local offices was discontinued. Typing the comparatively small volume of nonresidents and original registration in California certificates was continued because these groups could be processed by the typing method with available clerical man-hours. It was also felt that typing nonresident certificates would provide better service to the public.
4. Special and urgent requests for certificates are now handled by an existing procedure wherein the processing time is considerably less than the normal procedure and somewhat longer than the typing procedure. The certificates are sent into Sacramento from the local office without going through the area offices and are produced on tabulating machines. This procedure has satisfied the public.
5. The separation of certain applications for typing diverts those items from the normal flow of work. This diversion requires special and separate procedures which result in a more complicated and expensive administrative process.

Reasons for Recommendations

1. The tabulating section is now capable of processing all certificates.
2. Since there is a special procedure for rush applications, there is no justification for handling an entire category of applications by a special procedure.
3. Elimination of typing certificates in local offices will release clerical man-hours for other activities such as the proposed inspection prior to collection of fees on applications.
4. The process will be simplified and work reduced throughout the entire procedure by combining the typing applications with normal applications and the preparing of certificates on tabulating machines.

The following sections will be affected: receiving local office, area office, and the accounting office.

5. Elimination of typing will establish a uniform procedure for all applications except specials and potentials.

SUSPENSE RECEIPTS

3. Recommendation

Suspense receipts should be issued only to identify miscellaneous items for control purposes, but not when the application is incomplete.

Findings

1. Suspense receipts are presently issued in local offices for two general types of transactions:
  - a. The applicant has not completed the application but deposits the required fees to avoid penalties; this is the RDF transaction.
  - b. The applicant submits a completed application with fees to a local office and the application is sent to Sacramento headquarters for subsequent verification and processing.
2. Suspense receipts are issued in three copies: the original is an accounting document from which controls are established, the duplicate is a temporary receipt to operate and the triplicate is a receipt which the applicant must return with the completed documents.
3. Accounting controls of cash are established with the original copy of the suspense receipt by the Bureau of Accounting. The original is then filed resulting in a record of the disposition of the item. When the applicant returns the triplicate copy with the completed documents, it is considered as money, and is accounted for as such on the Form 173 under scrip. The Bureau of Accounting matches the triplicate to the original suspense receipt and pulls the original receipt from the file and reduces the accounting controls.
4. Considerable man-hours are consumed in preparation of the suspense receipts (there are fourteen entries to be made to fill out a suspense receipt), accounting for them, establishing accounting controls, filing and purging the files.
5. The present procedure for processing suspense receipts is shown on Chart CC.

Reasons for Recommendations

1. Issuance of suspense receipts for Reports of Deposit of Fees (RDF) creates a complicated and expensive procedure to account for applications and money not processed through normal channels.
2. Discontinuance of RDF's would eliminate the need for accounting controls on the outstanding balance of the suspense receipt file as cash will not be accepted without a complete application.
3. Transactions wherein a receipt is issued for processing controls in headquarters can be handled by a more economical system.

Explanation of Recommendation

1. An application with documents and fees would not be accepted unless all documents were prepared and complete. This procedure of refusing applications until they are complete is presently being followed in handling transfers in all cases.

2. Where it is desirable to avoid the payment of penalties by an applicant who has to complete his application, the application would be stamped as follows: "Not subject to penalties if cleared in _____ days—date." The time limit to avoid penalties would be subject to the discretion of the director.
3. Where completed application requiring processing in the Sacramento headquarters is accepted in the local office, a suspense receipt will be issued. The purpose of the suspense receipt will be to control the application while it is being processed in headquarters.
4. The file process shown on Chart CC would still apply but all accounting controls of cash would be omitted.

FORMS REVISION

4. Recommendation

Forms 173, 173M and Form 344 should be simplified and Form 386 should be discontinued.

Findings

1. The purpose of these cashiering forms is to report the cash collected on the applications processed in the local office.
2. Completion of Form 173.
  - a. Entry requirements are as follows:

T/C Column	Type of Clearance
Column 1	cash
Column 2	scrip amount of suspense receipt used in lieu of cash
Column 3	refund order-entry of amount of refund
Column 4	record serially numbered receipt or refund order
Column 5-10	tab and/or license plate issued
Column 11	last license number
  - b. In order to compute the summary information of the total line it is necessary for the clerk to select and count the number of transactions and add the amounts of cash by type of transaction.
  - c. Based upon 1953 registrations, approximately 50 million numerical digits of reference numbers were entered on Forms 173 by all the cashiers in the department.
3. Form 173M serves to record registration items which cannot clear through the regular process, special permits and drivers licenses issued. This is a cashiering form exclusively.
4. Form 344 is a reporting form. It summarizes the work transacted by a local office for a day. Tear-off sections of the form on which is entered the number and value of applications for the types of work: normal, typing and potential, are used to route these types of applications to certain groups for processing.

Reasons for Recommendation

1. The cashiering forms are cumbersome and complicated to fill out:
  - a. Reference information and cashiering information are combined on forms which should be exclusively cashiering forms.
  - b. Procedures following in handling registrations and the collection of cash make the form complicated. Examples of these procedures are: typing documents in the field and issuing suspense receipts which are used later as scrip.

2. Other recommendations in this study will have the effect of simplifying the cashiering forms, e.g.:
  - a. Discontinuing typing in local offices.
  - b. Discontinuing use of suspense receipt as scrip.
  - c. Changes in the flow and processing of normal and potential work.
3. The reduction of information to be recorded on these forms through other recommendations in this study permits the elimination of many columns of information and the consolidation of the forms 173 and 386.
4. Form 173 is revised to eliminate columns 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, and 11.
  - a. Elimination of suspense receipts to be used as scrip will eliminate column 2.
  - b. Recording the refund number on the 173 will be meaningless with the revised form in that transactions will not be tied by line number to the 173. This eliminates the need for column 3.
  - c. Eliminating the use of suspense receipts as scrip and not recording refund orders will render column 4 unnecessary.
  - d. By establishing the account card reference file, it is unnecessary to record tab or license number issued or the last license number. Form 173 is therefore reduced to a listing of the amount of each transaction.

Since only amounts are recorded, the type of transaction e.g., normal or potential, may be separated for simplicity of recording. During the renewal period, the form may be used completely for potentials and or normal work; during the remainder of the year it may be used for normal work.

Certain necessary elements of Form 386 are incorporated into the 173 so that a cashier's work for a day may be totaled on the 173.

- a. A cashier's transactions for a day including the miscellaneous work taken in may be totaled.
- b. Recording the cash turned in on Form 311 provides a total for all cash which must be balanced to the amount of applications handled.

In addition, space is provided for an inventory report of the number of tabs and plates issued and serial numbered receipts used by the cashier for the day.

5. Form 386 is incorporated into Form 173.
6. Form 173M is reduced to columns 1, 2, 3, 4, and 8. The remaining columns, 5, 6, 7, and 9 may be eliminated because of the recommendations affecting suspense receipts and refund orders.
7. Form 344 may be reduced in size and content by discontinuing typing in the local offices and altering the procedure for processing the flow of work from local offices to the tabulating section.

SACRAMENTO AREA CONTROL OFFICE

5. Recommendation

The Sacramento area control office should be separated from the Bureau of Accounting and transferred to the Division of Field Office Operations.

Findings

1. The State is divided into three geographical areas for administrative and procedural control of the field offices of the department. Each local office is in one of these geographical areas.

2. An area control office operates in each geographical area to coordinate and control the processing activities of the local offices. The area control offices are located in Los Angeles, Oakland and Sacramento.
3. The area control offices serve primarily as control centers for the purposes of:
  - a. Inspecting and coding the applications received by the local offices.
  - b. Certifying to the correctness of the balance between the amount of fees to be charged and to the amount of money collected in a local office.
4. The place in the organizational structure of these three area control offices is not consistent:
  - a. The Los Angeles and Oakland area offices are a part of the Division of Field Office operations and are directed by officials of that division.
  - b. The Sacramento area office which serves some 36 local offices in the Central Valley is a section of the Bureau of Accounting, and receives direction from the departmental accounting officer.
5. The activities of the local offices throughout the State are identical regardless of area. The activities of three area control offices are identical except that the Sacramento area control office performs an additional function of receiving and controlling all balanced area work.
6. The present organizational structure lends itself to confused lines of authority and unsatisfactory coordination between the Sacramento area control office and the office of Chief of the Division of Field Office Operations.
7. The original organization of the Sacramento area control office included the accounting activities of inventory control and preparation of departmental accounting reports in addition to the regular area activities. Inventory and accounting report activities have been separated from the Sacramento area control office and established as sections of the Bureau of Accounting.
8. The physical location of the Sacramento area control office in the headquarters building tends to distort the organizational position of that office.

Reasons for Recommendation

1. The activities of the Sacramento area control office are not accounting activities:
  - a. The area control offices serve as processing centers for local office work within the scope of field office responsibilities.
  - b. Area control offices merely review the rating, the collecting of fees and processing of the transactions received at the local offices.
  - c. Basic accounting controls do not rest with the area control offices. Bank deposit slips are sent directly to the Bureau of Accounting by the local offices. Cashier's daily statements are mailed directly from the local office to the Bureau of Accounting.
2. Transferring the Sacramento area control office to Field Office headquarters will correct the confusion in the lines of authority.
3. No evidence is available to indicate that accounting controls are weakened because the Los Angeles and Oakland area control offices are under the Division of Field Office Operations.

ELIMINATION OF SERIAL NUMBER ON TAB*6. Recommendation

The serial numbering of tabs should be discontinued and the tab should be issued bearing only the year number for which issued.

Findings

1. The tab is issued currently bearing an identification number in addition to the year number for which issued.
2. The identification number is currently used for the following purposes:
  - a. Accounting for the tabs
  - b. Cross reference between annual registration and license number
  - c. Reference to office and date of transaction
3. The widespread use of the tab number for the above purposes has led to the following conditions:
  - a. The tab number has tended to replace the license number in many instances as the basic registration number.
  - b. It has caused the establishment of special files for cross-reference from tab number to license number.
  - c. The public has experienced some confusion in distinguishing between the registration number and the tab number when dealing with the department.
  - d. The existence of the number has caused the department to go beyond normal and economical limits to satisfy, through reference and search of documents, the requests from the public.
  - e. Recording tab numbers by cashiers and other clerks in all phases of the registration process is expensive and cumbersome.
  - f. Mail procedure is costly and complicated by the necessity of matching the tab number on the documents, the envelope and the tab.
  - g. The daily posting to inventory records of the tabs issued as shown on Form 173 serves no necessary inventory function but rather makes the inventory records a reference file.

Reasons for Recommendation

1. Cashiers can concentrate only on receiving and recording the money and issuing tabs and plates. The necessity for posting approximately 12 million digits of tab numbers annually on the Form 173 will be eliminated.
2. Some special files may be discontinued.
  - a. Sacramento Tab File—Punched card file of approximately 500,000 or more cards annually.
  - b. Verification Pool 173 file.
3. Considerable reference to tab number to find other information will be automatically eliminated.
  - a. It will be unnecessary to go to accounting file of Form 173 to get office and date of transaction.
  - b. It will be unnecessary to search for tab number in the Verification Pool Form 173 file.
  - c. All matching of tab number to registration certificate will be unnecessary.
4. Daily postings by serial numbers to inventory records will be unnecessary.

5. Reference emphasis will be placed completely on license number.
6. Issuing the wrong tab number for the number stamped on the registration slip, which is a frequent error during renewal time, will be eliminated. Many man-hours required to correct these errors will not be used during the rest of the year.
7. The time spent in correcting the errors arising from transposition of tab numbers will be eliminated.

Proposed Procedure to Replace Use of Tab Number

1. Reference to current year registration will be made to account card reference file. A duplicate account card will be placed in file in license number order for reference.
  - a. The account card will show current year registration, date and place of registration.
  - b. The account card file will be available as rapidly as Form 173's are currently available to the verification pool. (See Page 24.)
2. Inventory control.
  - a. Accountability for tabs will be maintained by quantity control.
  - b. Number of tabs used by each cashier will be reported daily on Form 173.
  - c. The local office manager may maintain an inventory control for all cashiers.
  - d. The regular monthly physical inventory will be submitted to the inventory section in Sacramento.

REFERENCE ACCOUNT CARD FILE

7. Recommendation

A duplicate account card should be reproduced to establish a reference file of current year registrations.

Findings

1. The existing procedure used to verify current year registration when the basic documents are not in file is to refer to the tab number and find the record of the transaction on the Cashier's Daily Record of Applications Received and Plates Issued (Form 173).
2. It has been proposed that the serial numbering of tabs be discontinued; it therefore follows that an alternative method must be established to provide a ready reference to current year registration for transactions wherein the documents are not in file.
3. It is anticipated by the department that all potentials will be prepared on a pre-punched tabulating card with a tear-off stub.

Proposed Procedure for Establishing a Reference Account Card File

1. Reference to current year registration will be made to an account card reference file.
2. A duplicate account card will be reproduced from the stub potential and from the account card punched for all normal items. It will have the same information punched as at present, which includes: date and office of current year registration, license number, and fees paid.
3. A reference file of account cards in license number order will be set up as registrations are processed. See Chart "C" for details.

4. The account card file will be available as rapidly as the applications and potentials are received by the tabulating section. It is anticipated that the account card file will be available as rapidly as the Form 173's are currently available to the verification pool. The following time processing chart for the renewal period provides an estimate of the comparison of the maximum time to establish a reference file by the present system with the Form 173's as opposed to the proposed use of the duplicate account card.

PREPARATION OF PERIODIC ACCOUNTING REPORTS

8. Recommendations

The present monthly accounting reports No. 263, Number of Vehicles Registered by County, and No. 340, Statement of Transactions and Fees Collected, should be prepared mechanically by the Tabulating Section.

Findings

1. The basic information included in the final reports is currently punched in tabulating cards.
2. The present mechanically prepared accounting reports are not finished reports; merely posting media to be used by the Bureau of Accounting.
3. Manual postings are made to six different sets of working papers and adding machine tapes are prepared on each set. These forms include: (1) Breakdown of Transactions, Registrations, and Fees Collected; (2) Area Recap Sheet; (3) Work Sheet of Forms 340, and 263; and (4) final report on Forms 340 and 263. Due to the amount of manual work, posting errors are made and many hours are spent in isolating these errors.
4. The final reports 340 and 263 are typewritten on ditto masters and the required number of copies run off and distributed.
5. Reports for a given reporting period are not issued until three to four weeks after the closing of the reporting period.
6. Tabulating cards used to prepare the present reports are hand filed and kept by the Bureau of Accounting.
7. All control totals are prepared by adding machine tapes run from postings of the daily reports.
8. Due to limited counter capacity of the tabulators, major totals are established by the Tabulating Section by running the cards through the machines a second time. This does not assure the minor totals balancing to the major totals, so the Bureau of Accounting adds the fees manually to balance to the major totals. At least the "total fees" should have the major total printed on the original run to insure a balance when the cards are rerun.

9. The annual report entitled "Statistical Record on Motive Power, Body Type, and Weight Divisions" is also manually prepared and issued after many manual operations.

Reasons for Recommendations

1. The final reports can be mechanically prepared as easily as the intermediate reports now being prepared, by punching cards for the adjustments.
2. Control of the reports can also be on a mechanical basis. This would be achieved by preparing control summary cards during the preparation of the daily clearance.
3. The time spent in preparing these reports can be greatly reduced by mechanical processing. The final reports can be issued within a few days after the time the present intermediate reports are released from the tabulating section.

RECORDS MANAGEMENT STUDY

Proper filing procedures and records management is becoming increasingly important to government in view of the increasing need for records and the rate at which these records are produced. State agencies must be constantly aware of the growing costs of maintaining files and records. The National Records Management Council provides some examples of the extremely high cost of keeping records. The council reports that producing the average business letter ranges from 80 cents to $1.30. Carbon copies comprise about one-third of the 3,000 to 4,000 pieces of paper in the ordinary file drawer. The cost to create the contents of such a drawer is about $1,000 and the annual upkeep on fifty file cabinets is estimated at $12,000.

Microfilming of old records has been used to save space. However, the National Records Management Council finds that it may be much cheaper to store the original records. The cost of preparing, filming, inspecting, and indexing a four-drawer cabinet runs $80 or more. In low cost storage space this four-drawer file cabinet could be stored for many years.

Records are the backbone of the Department of Motor Vehicles. Registration and licensing cannot be done without files and records. With the increasing number of automobiles being registered and drivers being licensed, the records of the department continue to expand. With these considerations in mind a records study of the department was undertaken by this office. The study was undertaken to determine:

1. The number of records housed by the department (a) in office and (b) in warehouse.
2. The number of inactive records now being housed in office space which could be transferred to a low-cost records center.
3. Establishment of a records center for inactive records.
4. Retention schedules established for all record groups.

Findings

1. A physical inventory of the records of the Division of Registration and the department accounting section was made. This inventory showed that these two groups have 18,816.72 cubic feet of records in the Motor Vehicles Building at 24th and Broadway. Another 6,457 cubic feet were in storage at 1122 R Street. Thus 75 percent of the records are in the office and 25 percent in the warehouse.
2. A reference study disclosed that the preponderance of records presently maintained in the office building were too active to be placed in a records center; the following record groups, however, on the basis of activity at the time the study was conducted, had a reference ratio of 10 references per cubic foot of records stored per year or less.

3. The records center now being operated by the department is located at 1122 R Street, and houses about 6,457 cubic feet of records, having a floor area of 3,600 square feet with a ceiling height of 12 feet, giving a ratio of almost seven cubic feet of records stored to one square foot of floor area occupied. This building is all wood with tar paper roof structure which is unsuitable for a records center. It was discovered that during the reference reporting period the following records groups which comprise 830.78 cubic feet of records center space had no reference made to them.

- a. Director's office files;
- b. Departmental personnel files;
- c. Departmental teletype files;
- d. Bureau of Accounting files;

- e. Division of Drivers License copy files;
- f. California Highway Patrol accident report files.

The above categories with the exception of the "personnel files and director's files" all have retention schedules and will be disposed of at the expiration date. The bulk of the reference requests are made to the three years of "Master application files," which constitutes about 99 percent of the entire work load of the employees at this location.

Requests for information from the Motor Vehicle storage center come from four general sources. They are: Department of Motor Vehicles units, listing services licensed by the department, other state departments, and law enforcement agencies. Most of the requests are via telephone and may be answered within a few minutes. In cases where records must be transmitted to the department, the center has an automobile and one messenger at its disposal. The delivery of a record from the center to the department building usually takes about thirty minutes, and at the most not more than two hours. By this means the record center is presently able to deliver information about as quickly as it might be gained from within the office building. This operation, although presently occupying undesirable quarters and being a considerable fire hazard, is providing the department with a limited low-cost records center.

4. Retention schedules for records were established in 1951 with the appointment of a records officer for the department. At that time an inventory of record groups was made by the records officer in cooperation with personnel of the Central Records Depository. Since then 786 tons of records have been systematically disposed of. When this study was begun it was recommended that these 1951 retention schedules be reviewed and if possible the categories marked "Indefinite" be given a retention period. This review has been completed and 24 more record groups previously marked "Indefinite" have had a retention period assigned. Retention periods, with very few exceptions, have been established for all record groups.

RECOMMENDATIONS

1. In general, records in the Department of Motor Vehicles offices that have a reference activity of less than 10 per year per cubic foot should be transferred to a records center.

Reasons for Recommendation

The proportion of records housed in the office building is extremely high according to standards established by private enterprise. This factor may be justified however on the premise that the department's principal business is record keeping. In industry, records usually are a by-product of the manufacturing process, etc., and consequently a better distribution percentage is possible. It is important here to make every effort to weed out as many records as possible for storage and limited use in a more economical facility. Office space is currently valued at 15¢ per square foot and warehouse space at 4¢ per square foot, according to figures quoted by the Department of Finance, based on historic rates charged by the Division of Buildings and Grounds. These charges are considerably lower than current rentals charged the State. In the downtown Sacramento area the average cost of office space is approximately 24¢ per square foot, while warehouse facilities rent for about 10¢ per square foot.

The value of office space released through transfer of records is not always apparent to management. The DuPont Company found that five standard file cabinets occupied the amount of floor space required for one person. Obviously, storage of records in a warehouse facility offers substantial savings in office costs.

Assuming that the records listed in paragraph 2 of the "Findings" of this report could be transferred to a records center, the resulting estimated space savings amount to 300 square feet or the space required for twelve clerks.

In addition to savings in space, the equipment now in use in the office area to house these records could be released and re-used in many cases by other bureaus now seeking additional filing cabinets.

2. The present building housing the so-called warehouse records should be abandoned and the records be moved to the state warehouse at 1108 R Street, preferably to the second floor. This area is now being occupied by the Department of Education textbook warehouse, which office is expecting to move to new quarters about the beginning of 1955. If this space could be obtained by the Department of Motor Vehicles, very little remodeling would be required.

Reason for Recommendation

All records are stored in wooden or cardboard file cases and there is not proper heating, cooling, or lighting. Due to these and other undesirable working conditions, the turnover in personnel is considerable. The building housing these records is all wood with tar paper roof construction. The further use of these premises for records storage could mean the loss by fire of all documents stored there. As a matter of vital records protection the department should vacate these quarters as soon as possible.

The area recommended for occupancy is already equipped with heating, lighting, and all other necessary utilities. It should be pointed out that the building is a concrete and steel structure with an adequate fire protection system and is being used as a records center for more than 26 state agencies at the present time. The average temperature and humidity of the building have been tested and found to be almost ideal for records storage. The fire control system in use is a modern locator type which does not employ the use of automatic sprinklers. This is one of the most important features of a desirable records storage area. It has been the sad experience of many companies to discover after a fire that most of the damage to their records was caused by automatic sprinklers, other water damage, and salvage operations, rather than the blaze itself.

Furthermore, the center would be contiguous to the Central Records Depository of the Secretary of State. This agency has been operating a records center since 1928 for many state departments and would be in a position to offer help in records disposition and other problems of the department.

The filing equipment now in use consists of various types of cardboard and wooden containers which do not offer adequate protection and are hard to use and costly. It is recommended that for the three years of "Master application files" a metal transfer case be employed such as that being presently used in the Central Record Depository for the filing of checks. This would obviate the difficulty now being experienced in administering this active file and eliminate building the wooden trays now housing these records. It would thereby eliminate another item of special equipment and allow greater filing ease. This is easily justified by the activity of the records alone.

The balance of records in the center should be stored in standard records center cardboard cartons and placed on shelves. These cartons are so constructed that they will accommodate one cubic foot of records, either legal or letter size. They afford protection from water and dust and have been successfully used by many large corporations. Cartons may be purchased locally and range in price from 13 cents to 26 cents each.

The establishment of the records center in a building so far removed from the office may seem an inconvenience, but it is a practice rapidly gaining favor in industry and government. It will be necessary, of course, for records center personnel to be able to give rapid and accurate service via telephone. This is being done with success in large installations by equipping their centers with numerous telephone jacks and giving clerks head sets.

Consideration should be given to increasing the use of telephone reference in the department's records center. A sample of requests for information from the center showed that approximately 7 percent were telephone requests and 93 percent were by letter or memo. Considerable savings would result if these percentages were reversed. With the proper telephone installation at the records center and the training of bureau personnel in making requests, all interdepartmental requests could be handled by telephone. Training of records center personnel giving information to requestors via telephone should be encouraged, while transmitting documents to the office should be held to an absolute minimum.

The efficient operation of the records center will encourage transfer of additional record groups from the office and should, in time, eliminate costly additions to the present office structure.

DEPARTMENT'S PROPOSED REGISTRATION PROCEDURE

Since 1948, applications for the renewal of registrations have been produced from a master punch card deck on a two-part form which has been referred to as a "Potential Registration Card." The form is of conventional certificate size and is produced on IBM alphabetical accounting machines.

The plan is to produce the "Potential Registration Card" on a two-part conventional 80-column IBM punched card. The first part is to contain 51 columns, reflecting all information required by statute; the second part to contain 29 columns, reflecting all information required by statute with the exception of the name and address of the registered owner—instructions to the registered owner will appear on this part of the form that he is to print or type his name in the space provided.

When the punched card potential is presented with fees, the cashier will validate both parts, place assigned tab number on 51-column part and retain for transmittal to Sacramento, return to applicant the 29-column part with assigned tab.

There has been one obstacle to this plan to date. That has been our inability to process the 51-column card. However, the IBM people have guaranteed to have the required equipment in operation on a schedule satisfactory to us. We have been further assured that there is no speculation as to what results can be expected from the machines.

Attached is a flow chart showing the planned mechanical procedure to be followed. Also reflected is the plan of the so-called normal work (work other than potentials).

A complete revision in our field office accounting procedure, toward the end of simplification, is planned to be effective contemporaneously. This plan in detail is:

1. Use of Form 173M will be discontinued and all suspense receipt, caravan permit, one continuous trip permit, and driver's license items will be entered in sequence together with the normal items on the Form 173.
2. It is hoped that typing of ownership certificates in the field offices can be discontinued. Documents will be produced mechanically. Documents may be typed in field offices for hardship cases only in accordance with present regulations and controls. If typing of items must continue, they will be listed in sequence with the normal items on the Form 173, but will be segregated in the area offices where the typing will be done.
3. A new duplicate cashier's temporary receipt shall be used for each transaction other than potentials and Sacramento miscellaneous items. Upon these receipts will be indicated:
  - (a) Amount of money collected
  - (b) Whether collection is in the form of cash, check, or money order
  - (c) The number and value of scrip used in connection with the transaction
  - (d) The serial numbers of plates and/or tabs issued. (By numbering machine)
  - (e) Serial number and value of refund order involved
  - (f) Make of vehicle
  - (g) Last license plate number prior to transaction
  - (h) Engine number of vehicle
  - (i) Initials and number of cashier
4. Distribution of copies of cashier's temporary receipt.
  - (a) Original to applicant with instructions to type or print name and address of registered owner on face of receipt and to carry in certificate holder in the vehicle. Cashier will write name and address of registered owner on the face of all receipts, so as to appear on all copies, when the fees were accepted in the form of a personal check. In the case of mail items involving tab and/or plate issue, the name and address will be typed on all copies of the receipts, and the originals will be mailed to the registered owners.

- (b) The duplicates will be assembled, together with the control copies of the miscellaneous items, and forwarded with the duplicate copy of the Form 173, to the departmental cashier in Sacramento. Potential items will also be transmitted at the same time. These duplicates will eventually be routed to the inventory control unit where they will be filed numerically and will serve as a post audit media.
5. Transactions will be cashiered as at present, but with the following variations and exceptions:
- (a) All transactions, including those now shown on form 173M with the exception of potential items will be listed in sequence on the form 173. The last line on the 173 will be reserved for potential items and the last tab and plate numbers issued. "Thirteenth month" items will be listed on a special 173 as at present. The last license number column will be used to show suspense receipt, caravan permit, one continuous trip permit, and driver's license application numbers. Partitioned containers should be used and the applications should be placed in them face down so as to maintain their sequence continuity by transaction type.
  - (b) The duplicate cashier's receipts should be assembled so that at the end of the day they can be included with the various miscellaneous items, potential items and the duplicate copy of form 173 and forwarded to the departmental cashier in Sacramento.
  - (c) When a refund is due a refund order shall be prepared and stapled to the face of the application and the refund order number and value shall be noted on the application. If scrip is involved, the serial number of the scrip will be noted on the application, and the scrip serial number will be noted on the refund order if one is involved.
  - (d) In stamping the plate or tab issued number on the cashier's temporary receipt, since the form is designed as a one time snap out carbon form, it may be stamped on the original only and the impression will show adequately on the duplicate.
  - (e) The revised procedure contemplates no scrip or refund orders applying to potential clearances. Therefore, should a potential renewal transaction be submitted with scrip, both copies of the potential should be picked up, a cashier's temporary receipt issued, and the transaction handled as a normal item.
  - (f) In the case of a potential cashier during renewal period, the listing on the form 173 will merely show the beginning and ending tab numbers issued, number of items, and total amount collected.
6. The work of the control cashiers will follow the same pattern as at present, except that it will not be necessary to prepare a form 173M since all items will be listed on the 173. The different types of receipts will be bundled separately, and adding machine tapes run on each, for each 173. The totals of these bundles will be entered on the 173 in the space now labeled "typing." The proof on the 173 will therefore be potentials plus normals, plus miscellaneous (including caravan permits, OCT permits, and DL applications) will equal columns 1 plus 2 on the 173.

DEPARTMENT OF MOTOR VEHICLES

The normal items and the original 173 will go to the area office, while the duplicate 173, together with potentials, duplicate temporary receipts, and miscellaneous items will go to the departmental cashier in Sacramento.

COMPARISON OF THE RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE LEGISLATIVE AUDITOR AND THE PROPOSED PROCEDURE OF THE
DEPARTMENT OF MOTOR VEHICLES

1. Inspection of applications in local offices.

No comment was made on this recommendation in the Department of Motor Vehicles proposal; therefore it is assumed to be accepted.

2. Typing certificates in local offices.

The Department of Motor Vehicles proposal will allow typing of hardship cases rather than the use of their present procedure for processing "rush" items mechanically, as recommended by the Legislative Auditor. This special processing results in added costs to the department due to the limited volume and slows down the processing of all other normal work.

3. Suspense receipts issued for control purposes only.

No comment was made on this recommendation in the Department of Motor Vehicles proposal except the indication of its use on their revised forms. In verbal discussions it was indicated the use of this form could be lessened but not eliminated.

4. Revision of forms 173, 173M, and 344 and Elimination of form 386.

a. Form 173

(1) Legislative Auditor's staff proposes a form which greatly simplifies the work of a counter cashier. The only entries necessary for each regular transaction would be the amount of cash and a check mark if a tab was issued. In addition, it provides space for four times as many entries per form 173 than the present form. In the lower portion of the form, entries will be made when that particular form is filled, or at the end of the day's work, showing inventory data for control purposes.

(2) Department of Motor Vehicles proposes the same form 173 as used at present with the exception of a column for entering the last license number and substitutes a column for entering a receipt number.

The use of this form has been changed by entering all types of items (such as drivers licences, caravan permits etc., in addition to the normal items) on the form 173 which results in a complicated set of entries for subsequent processing. However, if the procedure proposed for potentials, i. e., to post daily to the form 173 the total of all potentials handled, were applied to all normal work, a more efficient cashiering form would result.

b. Form 173M

- (1) The Legislative Auditor proposes a simplified form for controlling miscellaneous items processed. It represents some savings to the Department of Motor Vehicles in posting the transactions, as some fields were eliminated by reducing the work on suspense receipts and refund orders.
- (2) Department of Motor Vehicles has eliminated form 173M but posts each transaction to the form 173 showing the receipt number and the related information. In our opinion, no savings has been achieved by eliminating the form 173M as it complicates the use of the form 173.

c. Form 344

It is assumed this revised form has been accepted as no comment was made in the Department of Motor Vehicles proposal. However, if typing of ownership certificates is continued, it would be necessary to revert to the form 344 presently used.

d. Form 386

- (1) The Legislative Auditor's recommendation eliminates Form 386 as it is a working paper to consolidate a days work for a cashier. The need no longer exists for this consolidation as the Form 173 we propose increases the number of entries on each form four times that of the present 173. This volume of space for entries will allow a cashier to enter a complete days work on a single form with very few exceptions.
- (2) Department of Motor Vehicles proposal includes the use of the present Form 386. It will be strictly a working paper as a cashier will use more Forms 173 than at the present time, thus more consolidations will be necessary at the end of the day.

5. Separation of Sacramento Area Control Office from Bureau of Accounting.

- a. The Legislative Auditor's staff proposes to place the Sacramento area control office in the Division of Field Office Operations. This standardizes all area control offices, as the Oakland and Los Angeles offices are currently a part of Field Office operations and are directed by officials of that division.
- b. Department of Motor Vehicles has not mentioned this recommendation in their proposal; however we assume from our discussions some change will take place in the organizational structure in the near future, but the acceptance of the above proposal appears unlikely.

6. Elimination of Serial Number on Tabs.

- a. Although the Legislative Auditor's staff recommends the elimination of the serial number on the tabs, the order for 1955 tabs has already been placed and production started with a serial number. The department has verbally agreed to hold all tab number references to a minimum, although their proposal states they will stamp this number on the departmental copy of the potential registration card and on the temporary cashier's receipt if a tab is issued. The registrant's copy of the potential registration card will not have the tab number stamped as in former years. This change should eliminate many intermediate references to a tab number reference file as the registrant should submit the license number when requesting information from the department.

In our opinion stamping the tab number on any registration form is unnecessary and serves no particular purpose. It is only an intermediate reference to obtain information for checking another file (e.g., License Number).

7. Reference Account Card File

- a. The Legislative Auditor proposes a duplicate set of account cards be prepared daily and maintained in license number sequence by mechanical means. All references for payment of fees would be referred to this file instead of the Verification Pool 173 file which is maintained manually.
- b. Department of Motor Vehicles proposes a 51-column tab card reference file on which the registrant's name and address appear, all information describing the vehicle and the name and address of the legal owner if other than the registered owner. This document is part of an 80-column card potential mailed to each registrant at the renewal period and has certain information prepunched for subsequent mechanical processing. When the registrant renews his vehicle, the small 29-column stub would be validated and returned to the registrant; the large part retained by the department for reproducing a single account card and the establishing of the reference file.

This procedure has one main advantage over our proposal; it is an original savings of nearly 4,500,000 tabulating cards or approximately $6,000. However there are also disadvantages. If the money is saved at this point, it will mean the preparation of 2,500,000 51-column cards for all normal items processed during the year in order to have a single reference file on the same size form. This will reduce the above savings by approximately $3,500 and also result in two different types of processing for potential and normal items.

If the above cards are not prepared for normal items, 2,500,000 pieces of paper of a different size than the card file will have to be handfiled to have a single reference file. This combined file would not be as satisfactory for clerks trying to obtain information. Also no further mechanical processing could be performed once the paper forms had been interfiled.

8. Preparation of Periodic Accounting Reports.

It has been agreed verbally that in the future the accounting reports will be prepared mechanically.

9. Duplicate Temporary Cashier's Receipt.

- a. This subject was not included in the Legislative Auditor's proposal.
- b. The Department of Motor Vehicles proposes the preparation and issuance of a two part temporary cashier's receipt for all money received for a normal item. The original copy would be given to the registrant and the duplicate retained by the department. This receipt has spaces for entering all information relating to a vehicle including name and address of registered owner if a personal check was accepted in payment of fees and on all mail requests for tabs and/or plates.

This proposal has the following disadvantages:

- (1) Approximately $7,500 annually would be spent for postage to mail this receipt to the registered owner. At the present time, no receipt is mailed to the registered owner when his application is received in the mail as it is only a few days until the applicant receives his final papers for the transaction.
- (2) Additional time of cashiers in filling in the added information on the receipt will reduce the volume of work completed daily.
- (3) The proposal establishes a file of duplicate\* receipts filed numerically as post audit media. This file would consist of approximately  $2\frac{1}{2}$  million receipts per year. It is our opinion that the receipts should be held in blocks as received from the local offices. No expensive filing equipment would be necessary if the sole purpose is for post audit. In our discussions with Department of Motor Vehicles personnel it was pointed out that these receipts would be used for some verification. Because of the amount of information on the receipt it could establish a reference file 15 to 20 times as large as the present Verification Pool 173 file, if the sequence of the receipts was changed to license or tab number. In our proposal, the present Verification Pool 173 file would be eliminated and the verification information obtained from a mechanically processed tabulating card file.
- (4) This proposed duplicate cashier's temporary receipt, which is a one time snap out carbon form, will approximately double the form cost over the present one part form and would be more costly than having a clerk insert carbon paper in a pad of receipts as she uses them. In our opinion, the duplicate copy of the receipt is unnecessary for reference purposes as the information contained can be secured from other sources.

Financial Condition of the State With Particular Reference to the General Fund

Prepared by Legislative Auditor, September, 1954

Estimates of income and outgo from the General Fund for the next two Fiscal Years, 1955-56 and 1956-57, show that new sources of revenue must be found or drastic economies effected by the Legislature if the State is not to end this two-year period seriously in the red. While estimates are necessarily subject to change at a later date when fiscal trends may be more accurately determined, the basic financial problem has been apparent for more than a year, and only by using all available reserves can the possibility of deficit be avoided even at the end of the next fiscal year. Balanced budgets have been possible for the last several years only because of the availability of accumulated reserves. With these reserves exhausted at the end of 1955-56, the State will be faced with deficit budgets after that date. A deficit of 192 million dollars by June 30, 1957, is entirely possible.

To illustrate the assumptions presented herein, a schedule, with supplemental data, which is attached, contains preliminary assumptions as to the condition of the General Fund for the fiscal periods ending 1955, 1956, and 1957. The 1954-55 Fiscal Year figures are shown in the schedule to indicate the bases for assumptions.

Revenues

As shown in this schedule, the total revenue for the General Fund is assumed at 798 million dollars annually for both 1955-56 and 1956-57. This figure is approximately the same as that shown in the Controller's preliminary report on the General Fund at the close of the 1953-54 Fiscal Year. It is significant to note here that this figure is 14 million dollars short of the latest budget estimate of General Fund revenue for 1953-54. It is further pointed out that, although the preliminary report of the Controller presents revenue collections on a cash basis rather than an accrual basis, it is unlikely that there will be any substantial change from the 798 million dollars figure when adjusted for year-end accruals.

Expenditures

In projecting expenditures, or General Fund outgo, it is assumed that outgo for 1955-56 and 1956-57 would be based on the same level of service as that authorized for the 1954-55 Fiscal Year, allowing for the effect of population growth on state institutions with 30 million dollars in each of the two years to meet additional cost of average daily attendance apportionments reflecting enrollments in the public schools, and 30 million dollars per year from the General Fund for capital outlay.

In applying these assumptions, it would appear, then, that the General Fund outgo for 1955-56 might rise as high as 937.5 million dollars, thereby creating a deficit of about 140 million dollars in the year. Projecting this assumed deficit into the 1956-57 Fiscal Year, with revenues estimated at 798 million dollars and outgo assumed to reach 980 million dollars, the 1956-57 fiscal period would end with an assumed deficit of around 310 million dollars. These assumptions, however, do not consider any other means for financing the General Fund. By way of meeting the assumed deficit of 140 million dollars in 1955-56, it is estimated in the schedule attached hereto that there will be approximately 133 million dollars in reserve money that might be made available to take care of the deficit in 1955-56. There may also be some savings available from current appropriations. By applying the reserve money, then, the assumed deficit at the end of 1955-56 would be 10 million dollars and the assumed deficit at the end of 1956-57 would be reduced to 182 million dollars, while the reserves would be depleted. Thus, with these assumptions, it is conceivable that the General Fund may be balanced for 1955-56 only by using up the reserves or by making drastic budget reductions, but could not be balanced beyond that time without new or additional taxes. The alternative would be to adopt legislation either reducing fixed charges to the General Fund, or transferring money from other funds to the General Fund.

It is noted that the preliminary assumptions do not refer to any possible effect on the General Fund if certain ballot measures are adopted by the voters at the 1954 general election. The measure which would be most costly to the General Fund, if adopted, is Proposition No. 4, the social welfare aid to needy aged initiative. According to estimates, if the initiative is adopted, the General Fund could be called upon to finance perhaps as much as 20 million dollars in additional grants-in-aid in the current (1954-55) Fiscal Year, as the provisions of the act would become operative March 1, 1955, while the schedule of assumptions already indicates an assumed deficit of around 3 million dollars for 1954-55. The next year's cost of this initiative would approximate 60 million dollars so that if it were adopted the State's prospective deficit would be 90 million dollars, even if all available reserves are used. Under the same conditions, the prospective deficit at the end of the Fiscal Year 1956-57 would be 332 million dollars.

Proposition No. 2, calling for ratification of a 100 million dollars state school building aid bond authorization, if adopted, will also place additional burden upon the General Fund. The additional cost to the General Fund for the school bond issues would be on an amortizing basis over a period of years, during which time the General Fund would be reimbursed to a considerable extent by the school districts of the State which borrow.

Some of the remaining 18 propositions might affect additional General Fund costs, but only to a comparatively minor degree and are, therefore, not discussed here.

Interim Report on Study of Space Utilization and Costs in State-owned and Leased Office Space

Prepared By Legislative Auditor, September 10, 1954

The purpose of this study is to provide, first, a comparative cost study of representative rental properties of the State of California. Since this cost study indicates wide variations in both space costs and space utilization, the report will also attempt to develop a standard of measurement which is designed to facilitate analysis of space costs and space utilization and which could be used administratively to secure greater uniformity in state leases.

The development of a comparative cost study pointed up immediately one notable deficiency in the existing state leasing procedure. This is the lack of uniformity or standardization in the methods of describing or accounting for usable office space. In order to make possible valid comparison of various leased spaces, an attempt has been made to convert all such space to a common denominator which takes into account both unit costs and unit space utilization. The General Services Administration of the Federal Government, in its attempts to procure leased space, uses a form entitled "Space Offering Invitation," numbered R9-147. In this form, on page 2, Section 1-A, the term net usable square footage is defined as "to exclude such areas as corridors, elevators, stairways, mechanical equipment rooms, custodial space, janitor closets, rest rooms, sanitary facilities, et cetera." We have used this measure, as defined, as the common denominator for assaying the various spaces considered in this study.

As a consequence of the use of this common denominator, individual rentals on an annual cost-per-square-foot basis quoted in this report may be at variance with the figures provided by the State Department of Finance. However, as quoted in this study they will be reasonably accurate comparisons with each other in that they will reflect costs for identical or identically described spaces.

This progress report covers the first of a series of surveys to be made. This initial survey was made in the City of Los Angeles, including adjacent Long Beach. Unfortunately, the only large state-owned office space in this city, which is the State Building on First Street between Broadway and Spring Streets, is currently in the process of undergoing extensive internal alterations and repartitioning. It is not presently known what personnel and agencies will occupy the altered space, nor is it possible to operate at present under normal arrangements. This makes it impossible to evaluate the cost of the net usable area or to determine the ultimate occupancy factor of the area. However, comparisons have been made between the costs of leased private space and state-owned space on the basis of the state-owned Division of Highways Building on Spring Street. A future progress report covering the City of Sacramento will, we hope, enable us to make broader and better comparisons.

While the common practice in comparing one leased space with another is to use the annual cost per square foot of net usable area, upon examination it becomes immediately apparent that this basis is an extremely unreliable one. The reason for this is that the shape of a building or the already existing space layout within the building, and the type of space, such as open loft or highly partitioned, are important influences on the number of personnel that may be housed adequately in any given number of net usable square feet. As a consequence, space which appears to be priced at a relatively low cost per square foot may, because of its poor utilization factor, actually be more costly to lease than space which appears to be relatively high in cost per square foot, but which has a very good utilization factor.

In view of the inadequacy of using cost per square foot as a means of comparison, an attempt has been to establish some other factor which would provide a more accurate basis for comparing one rental space with another, or rental space with state-owned space. For this purpose the rental cost per employee per month was established as a unit of measurement. This figure includes not only the cost per square foot but also the space utilization efficiency of the area as measured by the number of square feet required to house each employee in each of the different leases considered. In Table A the cost per employee per month is shown in the next to the last column.

Table A is tabulated on the basis of indicating not only the total of spaces rented within one building, which is necessary to compare the space utilization on the several buildings, but also the individual agency space allocations in each building. This makes possible comparisons of the utilization of space between agencies within the one building, as indicated by the differences in areas required per employee and the cost per employee per month. The following paragraphs explain each column in Table A.

Column "1" headed "net square feet" indicates the net usable square footage used by each agency in accordance with the definition given at the beginning of this report. The figure in any one case may be at considerable variance with the figure shown in the actual lease, for a number of reasons: the lease may be based on gross square footage, or the space in the lease may be based on the owner's historical net usable square footage, which may have been altered physically by the removal of partitions, but never changed on his records, or the State may actually be using, as net usable space, certain areas which the owner has always designated as nonrentable. Nevertheless, the State is making routine office use of the space and it is, therefore, included within the definition mentioned earlier.

Column "2" headed "rental per month" shows the total rental paid by the agency for the space used, regardless of the method used for computing the space used. In most cases in the table, the rental is the actual amount paid by the agency to the owner of the building. In some cases where the State Department of Finance leases an entire building and then apportions space within that building to the various agencies, the rental shown is the pro-rata amount determined by the Department of Finance. This column represents the total paid by the agency, regardless of the method used for determining the amount of space.

Column "3" headed "maintenance cost per month" represents one-twelfth of the total yearly cost of maintaining and operating the building based upon figures supplied by the Division of Buildings and Grounds of the Department of Finance. The figures were derived from the last completed Fiscal Year, 1953-54. As such they may not represent the average yearly cost during the tenure of the lease since, in some years, the cost may be higher because of unusual maintenance factors such as extensive paint work or extensive repartitioning at state expense. However, we believe that for purposes of this study the figure will be adequate to demonstrate the situations that exist. Most of the space leased by the State includes all services furnished by the landlord. In the instances where the State leases an entire building the State usually provides its own maintenance and upkeep rather than have the landlord include it in his rental rate. Where more than one agency occupies a building which is completely under lease by the State, no attempt has been made to break down the monthly maintenance cost proportionately for each agency; instead it is shown for the entire building.

Column "4" headed "total cost per square foot per month" results from the total of the second and third columns divided by the square footage shown in the first column.

Column "5" headed "area for public use" indicates the number of square feet set aside for general public use within the total net usable area occupied by the agency. This is space which normally does not house personnel, but which may be used by the public as a waiting room or as a room in which to fill out papers or forms, or as a room within which the public may be interviewed by personnel which has regularly assigned space in another part of the office, or as a hearing room. The purpose of showing this public use area and deducting it from the total of net usable area is to prevent distortions in comparisons between space utilizations of any two agencies. For instance, if one agency was charged with a considerable amount of area dedicated to public use because of the nature of its relationship with the general public, and another agency had little or no area dedicated to this purpose because it is not required by its relationship to the public, the comparison between these two agencies for purposes of determining the number of square feet occupied by each employee would be unfairly distorted if the area devoted to public use were not subtracted before the comparison was made.

Column "6" headed "net area used by employees" represents the total net usable area assigned to the agency, less any area dedicated for public use, as has been described in the previous paragraph.

Column "7" headed "number of employees housed" indicates the total number of employees authorized as of the current fiscal year. This number is divided into two categories labeled "executive" and "clerical." We have defined "executive" as all those positions having a title which does not include the words secretary, stenographer, typist, or clerk. Clerical positions are obviously any which contain any or all of the four words previously mentioned.

Column "8" headed "area per employee" results from the division of the "net area used by employees" by the total number of positions shown in the prior column. It will be noted that these figures run from a low of approximately 71 square feet per employee in the Department of Social Welfare office in the Cairns Building at Sixth and Main Streets in Los Angeles, to a high of approximately 1,631 square feet in the Office of Civil Defense housed in the old radio and television broadcasting studios on top of Mt. Lee. Actually, we do not consider the latter a proper example of the utilization of office space, since it is primarily standby specialized functional space which would be manned by volunteer personnel only in event of a disaster. A more proper figure for the upper extreme would be the 372 square feet shown for the office of Industrial Relations in the Jergins Trust Building in Long Beach.

Column "9" headed "cost per employee per month" is simply the multiplication of the average number of square feet per employee by the cost per square foot per month.

This is the figure which we have previously stated is the one which more nearly makes an accurate comparison among various types of space for the purpose of determining that which is the most economical for the State to use.

The final column headed "annual cost per square foot" is self-explanatory and was included so that comparisons could be made among various leased spaces on what is currently the common basis for comparison.

Cost Comparisons

This section discusses two categories of cost comparison. First is the comparison between (a) space leased with all services furnished, and (b) space leased with no services furnished, but services to be furnished by the State at its own expense; and second is a tentative comparison between (a) costs of the State owning and servicing space and (b) leasing space with all services furnished.

The office building at Eleventh and Grand Streets in Los Angeles, which is leased in its entirety by the State, is occupied on the basis of no services whatever being furnished by the landlord. All services of whatever type, which would include cleaning, repairs, operation and maintenance, are furnished by the State. For a ten-month period from July 1, 1953 to April 30, 1954, the State expended in this building approximately $58,393 for all maintenance services. Of this amount, only a few thousand dollars was expended for painting, decorating, alterations, and repairs of machinery and equipment. Since this is a new building in the sense that it was completely rehabilitated before the State's occupancy about one year ago, it may well be expected that the cost of repairs, painting, alterations, and other types of non-service maintenance will grow year by year. On the basis of the first year's experience, the cost to the State of providing the services and maintenance for this building has been at the annual rate of approximately $1.10 per net usable square foot of area. This figure, however, represents only the direct charges involved in the operation. It is estimated that the overhead costs occasioned by the Division of Buildings and Grounds, including the State's contribution to the retirement fund for janitorial and other regularly employed positions, would add at least 20 percent to that cost, making it approximately $1.32 per square foot annually.

The Black Building in Los Angeles, which is also leased on the basis of the State supplying all services and maintenance, experienced a cost of $104,929 during the 10-month period from July 1, 1953 to April 30, 1954, the bulk of which was for regular cleaning and other service types of maintenance work. A comparatively small portion of it was devoted to alterations, repairs, and non-service types of maintenance. These were direct costs only, which resulted in a cost of approximately $2.10 per square foot of net usable space annually. To this must be added the 20 percent overhead, making a total of $2.52. In addition, there has been expended for this building, since 1946, over $336,000 in capital outlay for repairs, alterations and improvements to the space in this building as part of the State's obligation under the lease. Since the lease period is 10 years, amortizing this investment over a 10-year period would add another 56 cents per square foot annually, making a total of $3.08 per net square foot of usable area annually for maintenance, repairs, and upkeep, exclusive of rental costs.

Neither of these two buildings can be compared in quality of construction and finish, nor quality of available service, with the Times-Mirror Building in Los Angeles, where the State pays an average rate of $3.33 per net square foot of usable space annually, which includes mechanically refrigerated air conditioning. In the Tishman Building, which is more or less comparable to the Times-Mirror Building in quality, the cost to the State is $3.56 per net square foot annually. Turning to comparisons with buildings which are more nearly of the quality of the Eleventh and Grand Building and the Black Building, it will be observed that in the Spring Arcade Building the State is paying an average of $2.95 per net square foot of usable area annually, which includes all services, and in the Cairns Building the State is paying $2.04 per net square foot of usable area annually. We believe that these comparisons are fairly strong indications that it may be uneconomical for the State to provide its own maintenance and other services in space which it leases, and that it may be desirable to negotiate all its leases, whether for partial space in a building or for the entire building, on the basis of the landlord providing all services.

Determining whether it is economical for the State to own and operate its office space, as against leasing privately owned space for the bulk of its needs, involves many difficult research problems. For instance, when the State owns the space it does not pay taxes on the property, nor does it pay for the various types of insurance which the average private owner considers it necessary to carry. Furthermore, in providing its own janitorial and other types of maintenance service, the State tends to set an artificially high standard of service which appears to be at considerable variance with standard commercial practice in private office buildings.

In order to compare the relative cost to the State to own and operate office space, the Department of Public Works Building at 120 South Spring Street in Los Angeles can be used as an example. This building has 141,718 square feet of gross area, and 91,180 square feet of net usable area, or a utilization factor of approximately 65 percent. For the 1953-54 Fiscal Year, the cost of light, heat, power, water, miscellaneous building supplies, janitor supplies, elevator service, salaries of janitors and other building maintenance people, and State Police service, was a total of $187,615. This does not include any repairs, alterations, repainting, et cetera, which may have taken place either during the 1953-54 Fiscal Year or in the period between the time the building was completed and occupied and the present, since these figures were not readily available. Nevertheless, these determinable expenditures result in a cost per net usable square foot of $2.06 annually. To this must be added 20 percent overhead, as previously described, which brings the cost to approximately $2.47 per net usable square foot of area annually, for maintenance and operation alone.

Let us assume, very conservatively, that a building of this type has a hundred year life expectancy and, disregarding the actual cost of constructing this building, let us also assume that it is possible to produce an equivalent gross area at $16 per gross square foot for the completed project. This would be a cost of $2,267,488, to which should be added $200,000 as the cost of the land, making a total of $2,467,488 to be invested. The surplus funds of the Teachers' Retirement and the State Retirement Fund are invested with an average return of 3 percent per annum. Applying the same percentage for interest purposes on the investment cost of this hypothetical building would bring a yield of $74,024 annually. A 2 percent yield would be $49,349.

The annual depreciation cost of the building, on the basis of a 100-year life expectancy for the building, would be $22,674. This represents, on the basis of 91,180 square feet of net usable area, an annual cost of $1.06 per net usable square foot using a 3 percent interest cost. The latter figure, when added to the cost of maintenance, makes a total of $3.53 per net usable square foot annually, which does not include taxes on the real estate and building, insurance costs, and a number of other intangibles. If, for purposes of illustration, a 2 percent interest cost is used, the annual net usable per square foot figure is $3.26.

Among the intangible factors which appear to make ownership less economical is the fact that, when the State builds and owns an office building, there is a tendency to include in it many types of spaces which receive comparatively intermittent use and which normally it would not lease. This factor tends to increase the cost per month per employee housed. Another intangible is the tendency, when building and owning, to provide excessively large spaces for certain categories of employees. This, too, results in a higher cost per month per employee. It may be that in building and owning, the agencies affected are not as acutely cognizant of the annual costs of such practices as they are when they see these costs set forth as monthly or annual rental of leased private space.

On the other hand, a building which is designed for a specific state purpose may be more economically arranged for the work of the agency, although in a general office type building this is not a major factor. The need for flexibility ordinarily will demand a standard loft type building whether state-owned or leased.

When the cost of $3.53 per net usable square foot shown above is compared with leased space, such as in the Times Mirror Building, where the rate which the State pays includes taxes and insurance premiums, it becomes questionable that state ownership and operation of normal, typical office space is an economical practice. The fact should be stressed, however, that the example given above and the conclusions drawn therefrom are tentative and subject to further revision as additional examples are studied.

Interim Conclusions

A detailed perusal of Table A, together with its pertinent footnotes, clearly indicates that there is a very wide variation in both the average area provided per employee and the cost per month of housing each employee among the various agencies and leases in the Los Angeles area. In order to avoid the distortions which might be occasioned by the inclusion of small office units in the tabulation, agency areas under 1,000 square feet have been deliberately eliminated from this table. The exceptions occur as the result of small agency offices which occupy space in buildings which are completely under lease by the State. Actually, the Black Building is the only one in which this situation occurs.

It will be noted that the average area occupied by each employee in the Los Angeles area is approximately 139 square feet of net usable space, which excludes space dedicated to public use. It will also be noted that the lowest space occupied per employee is in the Department of Social Welfare in the Cairns Building at approximately 72 square feet. We suggest that an average of between 100 and 110 square feet of net usable space per employee would provide adequate and comfortable accommodations in which the employee should be able to function with a reasonable degree of efficiency. We would like to point out that the actual space occupied by a desk and chair is not over 50 square feet. The balance of the space would allow for circulation area, file cabinets, bookcase and office machine area, and a proportionate share of conference rooms and other spaces not used on a full-time basis.

It will also be noted that there is a very wide variation among annual costs per square foot, which run from a low of 70 cents per square foot in the Department of Employment office at 1100 South Flower Street, to a high of $5.74 in the Black Building. Furthermore, there is a wide variation in the cost per employee per month, running from a low of $8.95 per month in the employment office at Huntington Park, to a high of $92.87 per month for the Department of Corrections in the Black Building. Although there are valid factors which account in part for the differences, these wide variations suggest serious shortcomings, both in the method of procuring space and the method of utilizing such space to the fullest possible advantage. Furthermore, these comparisons demonstrate that the annual cost per square foot is in itself an inadequate criterion for judging the actual value of space. For instance, the Times Mirror Building is thought of as a top-quality building which includes air conditioning. The cost of space in this building is $3.50 per square foot annually. By the proper utilization of the space and by taking advantage of space which the landlord does not ordinarily consider rentable, the cost per employee, in the case of Professional and Vocational Standards, is $36.67 per month, whereas in the Spring Arcade Building, at $2.79 per square foot, the cost in the Department of Mental Hygiene office is $51.92 per month per employee. By the same token, the average cost per month per employee for all agencies in the Times Mirror Building is $46.36, which compares with $53.16 in the Spring Arcade Building, $53.34 in the Black Building, and $75.73 in the Eleventh and Grand Building, the latter three not including air conditioning in the services offered.

It appears from the foregoing that in a number of cases the State is "over-paying" for some of its leased space and is under-using some of its leased space. The indications are, therefore, that the procedures and methods by which the State acquires the use of office space by lease should be improved so as to insure that the State will get space at the most reasonable cost possible and that it will use such space to its maximum practical capacity. In making a determination of the comparative cost of rental properties the use of the "cost per employee per month" as a unit of measurement is extremely valuable and to the extent that standards of utilization can be developed this type of analysis may provide a basis for significant improvement in state rental practices.

Footnotes for Preceding Table

- <sup>1</sup> The space shown for the Division of Architecture includes 3,080 square feet of net usable space which is actually unoccupied. In addition, the agency could give up approximately 2,600 square feet of space which is being occupied too loosely without in any way overcrowding the remaining space. This would reduce the area per employee and the cost per employee per month by approximately 15 percent.
- <sup>2</sup> The Fire Marshal's office has a comparatively small number of employees, but a rather high space per employee. In addition, five of their employees are out of the office entirely at least three days out of each week. This further increases the appearance of excess area in this agency.
- <sup>3</sup> Colorado River Board, which shows a very high area per employee and a comparatively high cost per employee per month, despite one of the lowest costs per square foot, can be explained partly by the fact that a very large area is set aside as a law library, which is also used as a board hearing room. If this room were eliminated from the calculations, both of the figures mentioned would be reduced to a considerable extent.
- <sup>4</sup> The Department of Mental Hygiene offices in the Homer Laughlin Building provide space for employees which is somewhat in excess of the amount hereafter mentioned. Nevertheless, they appear to be somewhat crowded because of the poor layout of the area which is available. Actually, offices for this agency could be in a comparatively tight space, since most of the executive positions are psychiatric social workers who are out of the office from one third to one half of the time.
- <sup>5</sup> The offices of the Board of Equalization in the Black Building appear to indicate a rather tight situation, with an average of approximately 83 square feet per employee. However, about half of their positions work outside of the office about 50 percent of the time, and use a "squad room" setup in the office as required. As a consequence, space is not as tight as it appears to be.
- <sup>6</sup> The office of Industrial Relations in the Black Building appears to indicate a rather tight space situation with approximately 73 square feet per employee and consequently, a low cost per month per employee, despite the highest square foot cost of any space which the State has under lease in Los Angeles. However, 55 of the 75 executive positions shown are safety engineers who work mostly in the field and share desk space in the office on a rigid rotational system by which the 75 engineers use only 21 desks. On this basis the space is actually not crowded, and it might be said by deducting 34 positions from the total of 106, which represents the difference between the 75 engineers and the 21 desks, there results an average of over 100 square feet per employee in the office at any one time.
- <sup>7</sup> The total maintenance cost shown for the Black Building is composed of $10,192.02 as an average monthly cost for ordinary maintenance during the 1952-53 Fiscal Year, and $2,806.06 as an average monthly cost of repairs and alterations. The Department of Finance has expended approximately $336,000 from 1945 through 1953 for various capital improvements, such as alterations of partitions, improvements to heating and ventilating, major paint jobs, etcetera. This figure, divided by 120 months which represents the period of the lease, gives $2,806.06 as a monthly average cost for the capital improvements. These factors, together with the comparatively high rental rate, result in the unusually high cost of $5.71 per net square foot of usable space per year.
- <sup>8</sup> The offices of the Department of Investment in the Times Mirror Building appear to indicate a fairly high area per employee of approximately 172 square feet. It should be pointed out that this department has a very large filing section which occupies approximately 20 percent of the total available net usable area. However, even allowing for this unusual need for file space, the area per employee is still too high. To some extent this is the result of excess area being provided for some of the executive positions.
- <sup>9</sup> The offices of the Department of Professional and Vocational Standards on the seventh floor of the Times Mirror Building appear to indicate a reasonable area per employee. However, actually the area per employee is considerably greater because of the fact that, of the total number of 54 employees, 35 positions are not normally housed in these offices, but are in the field over 65 percent of their time, and when they are required to be in the office, they generally use the table in the conference room. As a consequence, there is an excessive amount of space for the people who are regularly housed in this office. Essentially, it should be pointed out that the total footage shown for this agency exceeds the standard amount of 13,200 because of the fact that use is being made of area which the owner normally considered nonrentable, and for which no extra charge was made. This results in the lower figure of $3 per square foot annually. Instead of $3.20.
- <sup>10</sup> The offices of the Horse Racing Board, also on the seventh floor of the Times Mirror Building, represent a further utilization of space for which the State does not pay specific rental. The apparently high area per employee actually results in a fairly crowded condition because of the fact that an unusual number of tile cabinets are required for the records of the board.
- <sup>11</sup> The offices of the Department of Agriculture on the ninth floor of the Times Mirror Building have the lowest area per employee of any of the agencies housed in this building. While the average area per employee appears to be in line with the amount recommended previously in this report, there are times when the area appears to be excessive because of the fact that the 70 "executive" positions are out of the office 50 percent of the time.
- <sup>12</sup> The offices of the Water Pollution Control Board in the Spring Avenue Building indicate a fairly good utilization factor in that the area per employee is approximately 122 square feet, and the cost per employee per month is $3.05. The nature of the work of this organization requires a hearing room, which accounts for the fact that only somewhat more than half the total space occupied by the agency is actually given over to employee use, the balance of it being used for a board hearing room and other public space.
- <sup>13</sup> The offices of the Controller in the Siring Arcade Building indicate what appears to be a very high area per employee of 208 square feet. However, two-thirds of the total floor space is devoted to I. E. M. equipment, the cabinets and storage space, within which only four of the employees are actually assigned on a full time basis. Consequently, the actual utilization of the balance of the office area is quite good.
- <sup>14</sup> The offices of the Department of Social Welfare in the Carver Building at Sixth and Main Street, into which the agency recently moved, indicate the best utilization of space of all those shown in the table, being approximately 72 square feet per employee. While this may seem comparatively tight, 65 people out of a total of 218 spend 10 to 50 per-ent of their time in the field. Nevertheless, each of these persons is assigned a desk. According to a statement made by the management of this office, as well as by the statements of various individuals in the office, the employees using this space do not consider themselves crowded and are, in fact, quite satisfied with the situation. Furthermore, the layout of the space is such that a very ample corridor is included, for which the State does not specifically pay, but which could be readily utilized for housing additional employees. This is possible because the State rents the entire floor, and the corridor is under control by reason of doors which separate it from the elevator lobby. It will be seen that this particular space enjoys one of the lowest rates paid by the State for typical office space. Even though the building does not have air conditioning and may not be considered quite as modern as many other buildings, the space is functionally efficient and, as has been stated, appeared to be extremely satisfactory to the personnel using it.

<sup>16</sup> The offices of the Department of Natural Resources, which is, in this case, entirely the Division of Oil and Gas, are in an old four "flat" building which was converted to office use. We have not been able to obtain the actual net usable area. The gross area of the building is 6,000 feet, with an additional 280 feet in a small "out" building. Assuming 70 percent net usable area as an average, approximately 4,200 square feet would be net usable area. Deducting from this 150 square feet for public area leaves 4,050 square feet to be utilized by 22 people. This produces an average of 184 square feet per person. In view of the fact that most of the employees in this office are in an engineering category who require both desks and drafting tables, as well as extensive storage area for maps and plans, the number of square feet per employee is probably justifiable. However, as a matter apart from utilization of the space it should be pointed out that the rental rate for a building of this type appears to be extremely high in relation to the quality of the space.

<sup>18</sup> The offices of the Department of Public Health, 1026 Beverly Boulevard, show an unusually high area per employee, primarily because of the fact that about 40 percent of the net usable area is in laboratory space which is not practical to calculate on an average area per employee. It is interesting to note in passing that no janitorial service is provided for this building, and that the laboratory assistants and others do all the janitorial work, either by taking time off from their regular jobs, which tends to hamper the laboratory work, or by doing the work on their own time. Further, it is interesting to note that the rate for the building is really quite low, since included in the cost is approximately 2,500 square feet of garage space, which is not shown on the table.

<sup>17</sup> The offices of the Department of Public Works in the Tishman Building are of recent occupancy. The interesting factor in connection with them is the fact that despite a fairly high cost of $3.56 per square foot of net usable space, the high degree of utilization resulting in approximately 112 square feet per employee produces a fairly reasonable monthly cost per employee of $33.32. This is possible largely as a result of the fact that the area was wide open, loft type of space, which was partially partitioned to suit the needs of the agency. This is a good example of the point we have made previously, that the cost per square foot alone is not a decisive factor.

<sup>18</sup> The offices of the Board of Equalization, at 4335 Atlantic Boulevard, indicate a rather high area per employee of approximately 280 square feet. However, there are 21 auditors attached to this office who are not shown on this table, but who come into the office possibly 30 percent of their time, and nine desk spaces are provided for them. In addition, there are five Liquor Control officers who are not shown on the table and who are provided with some space during the time that they are in the office, which is somewhat less than 20 percent of their total available time.

Taking these things into consideration, the area per employee is considerably less excessive than appears to be the case. Also, the cost per employee is deceptive for the same reasons.

<sup>19</sup> The offices of the Department of Education, at 972 North Vermont, and Civil Defense, on top of Mt. Lee, were excluded from the averages arrived at in the tabulation because it was felt that they are not representative office space and, therefore, would improperly distort the purpose for which this table was compiled.

Survey of Status of Research and Programs Concerned With Alcoholism

Prepared by the Legislative Auditor September, 1954

INTRODUCTION

Scope of the Study

At the 1953 General Session of the Legislature the Assembly Ways and Means Committee requested the Legislative Auditor to make a study of alcoholism and to render a report thereon to the Legislature at the 1955 General Session.

The Legislative Auditor was also instructed to make this report available, at the earliest possible date, to the State Alcoholic Rehabilitation Commission created by Act of the Legislature in the 1954 Session for the Commission's use in establishing a proposed program.

This study has sought to determine from authoritative sources answers to the following questions. What is alcoholism? What are the characteristics of the alcoholic population? How can alcoholism be treated? What is being done about alcoholism by government and private organizations throughout the United States? What has and is being done about alcoholism in California? What should be done hereafter?

The material in this report was gathered by: (a) a study of the mass of scientific, semi-scientific and popular literature on alcoholism, (b) staff consultations at the Yale Center of Alcohol Studies and at alcoholic clinics in Massachusetts, New York and Connecticut; (c) contacts by mail with many of the other state programs on alcoholism, (d) study of the various public and private reports on alcoholism in California, (e) personal interviews throughout California with many officials of public (State, county and city) and private programs on alcoholism and private citizens interested in and concerned with the problems of alcoholism.

A list of persons and organizations contacted is contained in Appendix II.

FINDINGS

Our examination of alcoholism in California and throughout the United States has resulted in several determinations that may be summarized as follows:

1. There appears to be no single definition for alcoholism that is acceptable to both medical men and informed laymen.
2. The typical alcoholic does not exist. Alcoholics come from all levels of society, intelligence, economic background, occupation, and age. Excessive drinking is their common characteristic.
3. The causes of alcoholism are largely unknown. Because of this, any treatment program could reasonably pursue several possible therapies.
4. At present there is no positive cure for alcoholism nor is there general agreement on the criteria for recovery.
5. Until, for some reason, the alcoholic has a desire to stop drinking, little can be done for him.
6. Alcoholism is a form of pleasure addiction not entirely unlike gluttony, sex perversion, and the use of narcotics.
7. The usual alcoholic stereotype, the destitute individual associated with skid row, probably accounts for no more than 20 percent of the total number of alcoholics, the remaining 80 percent being by and large, persons with financial assets.
8. Reliable statistics are lacking regarding the cost of alcoholism and the numbers of alcoholics in California and throughout the United States.
9. Some type of governmental program concerned with alcoholism has been activated in 38 states, and many studies are being conducted which bear generally on the problem in all states.
10. Many professional, industrial and voluntary organizations throughout the United States are attacking the problems of alcoholism with varying degrees of effort and success.
11. Several methods of constraining or ministering to alcoholics are used by government in California:
  - (a) The courts commit alcoholics to state mental hospitals. Most persons consulted agreed that this costly type of treatment is unsatisfactory for nonpsychotic alcoholics.
  - (b) An alcoholic out-patient clinic is operated by the City and County of San Francisco, another by San Mateo County.
  - (c) Alameda County's sheriff operates an alcoholic rehabilitation program in cooperation with the county jail farm.
  - (d) Similar farms, with varying treatment programs, are operating in Los Angeles City and County.

- (e) Otherwise, on the local level, excessive drinkers apparently are processed through a minimal detention program, e.g., "drunk tank," and released.
12. Among private programs, Alcoholics Anonymous appears to have enjoyed a significant success, although many alcoholics do not respond to this type of approach.
  13. No treatment program that has been attempted in California has had a follow-up sufficient to establish an acceptable statistical basis by which to measure the program's accomplishment.
  14. There has been no effective coordination of the existing alcoholic programs in California, and no apparent agreement as to the best way to attack the problem.
  15. Alcoholism has not received specific and significant emphasis in California's medical schools. Medical school graduates and the medical profession as a whole, therefore, have shown little productive interest in or concern with alcoholism. Only recently does it appear that alcoholism has gained status as an independent medical problem, rather than being merely identified as the causative agent for other medical problems, e.g., cirrhosis of the liver.
  16. Private and public hospitals in California have been reluctant to treat alcoholics and it is questionable whether significant results are being obtained in most private sanitoriums.
  17. Although specific industrial programs do exist, industry as a whole in California has not shown great interest in establishing special programs concerned with the problems created for it by alcoholism.
  18. Under existing state law, the teaching of any specific material on alcoholism at any specified grade is not required in California's schools, although "instruction upon the nature of alcohol * * * shall be included in the curriculum of all elementary and secondary schools."
  19. There was no consensus among those contacted as to what role, if any, the State should play in an alcoholic program.

CONCLUSIONS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

By creating the Alcoholic Rehabilitation Commission at the 1954 Extraordinary Session (see Appendix I) the California Legislature has established the State's responsibility with regard to alcoholism, and this commission, therefore, becomes the agency to examine in detail the problems of alcoholism and to propose a coordinated program directed toward solution of the problem. Although the act creating this commission authorizes it to "engage in all phases of the treatment and rehabilitation of alcoholics * * *" assurances were given to the legislative committees considering this proposed legislation in the 1954 Session that no actual program of treatment would be undertaken by the commission prior to the 1955 Session of the Legislature. At this session proposals for implementing the duties outlined in the legislation would be incorporated in the Budget Bill or other proposed legislation with statements of justification and need supplied by the commission.

Because of the unknowns that characterize alcoholism and the lack of coordination and cooperation among the existing alcoholic programs in California, we believe that the Alcoholic Rehabilitation Commission can be of material assistance in securing a greater degree of coordination in the activities of those public and private bodies working in the field of alcoholism. This state-initiated action by the commission should contemplate a close cooperative relationship with other state agencies concerned—Public Health, Mental Hygiene, Corrections, Social Welfare, Education, etc.—city and county governments, local law enforcement agencies, private organizations such as Alcoholics Anonymous and the National Committee for Alcoholism, interested civic groups, hospitals, sanitoriums, industries, the legal and medical professions, and the clergy.

Since there is no single, accepted prevention and treatment program, the State must not only necessarily adopt a trial and error approach to the problem, but should give very careful study to various proposals before recommending specific programs. It is our opinion that any state program directed to the best interests of both the alcoholic and the public should consider the advisability of:

- A. Reviewing basic research studies made by other agencies or institutions throughout the country to approach systematically a determination of the major causes of alcoholism.
- B. Added attention in medical and nursing schools to the treatment and prevention of alcoholism.
- C. An educational program designed to bring public recognition and understanding of the nature and effect of alcoholism.
- D. A treatment program designed to provide immediate (even though experimental) therapy for alcoholics.
- E. Out-patient clinics to serve as screening centers, treatment units, social service units and training units for workers in the field of alcoholism.
- F. Limited hospital facilities for those alcoholics who require hospitalization.
- G. Continued and expanded state mental hospital treatment for psychotic alcoholics, with reduced mental hospital admissions of non-psychotic alcoholics.
- H. Convalescent centers for those patients needing some institutional care before returning to their home environment.
- I. Custodial units, such as farms or camps, for alcoholics requiring incarceration in a minimum security facility.

The experimental nature of any alcoholic program embarked upon by the State justifies extreme caution. Since alcoholism may be considered a local as well as a state responsibility, and since potential program costs are great, local facilities might be utilized through state-local matching arrangements. However, if the State should establish a matching fund program, it should also establish rigid standards for record keeping and patient follow-up. As has been noted, a principal characteristic of treatment programs in California is the lack of statistical information adequate for program evaluation.

As has been indicated elsewhere in this report, the establishment of clinics has been one of the principal means employed throughout the country for the treatment of alcoholics. The responsibility for financing any clinic program is one which might fall either to the State or to local government. To date, some clinics in other states have been established as part of city or county government. On the other hand, some states have established state-sponsored clinic programs. The treatment of alcoholism by means of clinics is closely related to the establishment of a system of clinics for the early treatment of mental illness.

In some respects the treatment of alcoholism may be properly regarded as an adjunct of the mental hygiene program, since psychiatric factors are generally present in alcoholism. For a number of years the State of California has operated several mental hygiene clinics. There has been great pressure to increase the number of clinics and considerable study has been and is currently being made of the proper relationship between the State and local government for the purpose of financing these clinics. Legislation has been introduced providing for abandonment of the existing policy of complete state support and the substitution of a joint state-local responsibility. It is expected that the 1955 Session of the Legislature will consider bills providing for a state subvention to local governments for the establishment and maintenance of such clinics on a basis similar to that recently established in New York.

Basically, the alcoholic clinic, or the mental hygiene clinic, can be regarded, from the standpoint of fiscal responsibility, in one of two ways. First, it can be regarded as an extension of the public health function, which in California is financed by both state and local funds, the State in this case assuming responsibility for providing consultative and certain central services and a subvention to local health departments. Secondly, the clinic can be regarded as an early treatment phase of an integrated mental hygiene program which is almost exclusively a state responsibility.

To the extent that it may be legislative policy to establish alcoholic clinics, it is our recommendation that the question of the State's responsibility for financing such clinics should be directly related to the establishment of legislative policy as to the financing of mental hygiene clinics. There is no reason why a similar policy should not exist in the case of both types of clinics.

PROBLEMS OF ALCOHOLISM

At least since the beginning of recorded time, alcohol and fermented beverages have been used by human beings in one form or another and have served a variety of purposes in nearly all societies. Despite both moral and legal pressures, alcohol consumption has persisted and has increased.

Alcoholism has been called one of the major public health problems in the United States.<sup>1</sup> The following estimates indicate the magnitude of the problems raised by overindulgence. Out of a population of 110 million people 15 years of age and over in the United States, there are an estimated 60 to 70 million drinkers, of which approximately four million are alcoholics. Among these four million are some 750,000 who, in consequence of prolonged excessive drinking, have developed a bodily disease or severe mental disorder. These are chronic alcoholic addicts.<sup>2</sup>

<sup>2</sup> E. M. Jellinek and Mark Keller, "Rates of Alcoholism in the United States of America, 1940-48," Quarterly Journal of Studies on Alcohol, (March, 1952), pp. 52-53.

Although recent estimates are not available, as long ago as 1944 the estimated economic loss in this country resulting from alcoholism—institutional care, support, accidents, loss in wages—was one billion dollars.<sup>3</sup> Added to this is the unmeasurable but staggering social loss from broken homes, effects on children, increased crime and the like.

Definition of Alcoholism. What is an alcoholic? There is no complete and concise answer to this question. The alcoholism subcommittee of the World Health Organization supplies the broadest, and probably most useful definition—alcoholism is any form of drinking which in its extent goes beyond the traditional and customary “dietary” use and which exceeds the social drinking customs of the community.<sup>4</sup> In other words, an alcoholic is anyone whose drinking interferes with an adjusted life.<sup>5</sup>

In recent years alcoholism has gained status as a “disease”. Dr. E. M. Jellinek, one of the foremost authorities on alcoholism, points out that the disease concept of alcoholism can be extended only to excessive drinking in which there is physical or psychological pathology in the drinking behavior. Two categories of alcoholics are distinguished by Jellinek, “alcohol addicts” and “habitual symptomatic excessive drinkers” (or non-addictive alcoholics). In both groups excessive drinking is regarded as symptomatic of underlying social or psychological pathology. For the “alcohol addicts” loss of control over the alcohol intake occurs after several years of excessive drinking, while this phenomenon never occurs in the other group.

The disease conception of alcohol addiction applies not to the excessive drinking, but to the “loss of control” which occurs among “alcohol addicts,” whereby the uncontrolled drinking is superimposed upon those abnormal psychological conditions of which excessive drinking is a symptom.<sup>6</sup>

As yet no exact single cause for alcoholism has been discovered, although the possible causes probably lie within four major fields: (1) physiological malfunction, with emphasis upon endocrine and metabolic imbalances; (2) psychological deviations, with emphasis on the field of early personality development; (3) a combination of socio-cultural and psychological factors; (4) a combination of all these phases.<sup>7</sup>

Most experts agree that at least two or more of the above fields are involved, and many feel that all of these factors are involved in a total personality disorder called “alcoholism.”

Types of Drinkers.<sup>8</sup> Although alcoholism is a complex phenomenon about which much is unknown, there is general agreement that (1) alcoholism develops in a progressive manner, (2) alcoholism involves different factors in different persons, and (3) there is no such thing as a typical alcoholic.

Dr. Selden D. Bacon, Director of the Yale Center of Alcohol Studies, has derived an informative, though admittedly arbitrary, classification of chronic problem drinkers. He concludes that 32 percent of the total number of alcoholics are alcohol addicts, while an additional 20 percent are alcohol addicts with complications and are, therefore, chronic alcohol addicts. The remaining 48 percent, which Bacon calls non-addicted chronic problem drinkers, include social misfit drinkers, symptomatic drinkers and pre-addicts.

According to Bacon, drinkers become alcoholics in three ways. Firstly, symptomatic drinkers are psycho-neurotic; the individual concerned is obviously maladjusted on an emotional level prior to his chronic, heavy drinking. Although the problems are not created by drinking or by drinking behaviour, drinking has become a major means for coping with them. Eventually, excessive drinking, while not solving the original problems, will cause new ones. When alcohol is used as the major technique for adjusting to these problems caused by alcohol, then the stage called alcohol addiction has been reached.

The second path to alcoholism is taken by individuals who had few if any obvious characteristics of emotional maladjustment during early adulthood. Over a long period of time, this person drinks both for pleasure and to obtain some relief from tension, fears, shyness, etc. It becomes progressively easier to cover up personality weaknesses through the use of alcohol. Finally, slight added strain will topple his personality—new problems cause greater alcoholic intake, and the alcoholic cycle is underway.

The third path to alcoholism results from the impact of a crisis on an adult whose personality cannot stand the blow. The death of a loved one, economic loss or war disasters may set off a rapidly developing alcoholism.

Bacon calls certain other excessive drinkers "quasi-alcoholics" to distinguish them from the groups described above. For example, non-alcoholics who become drunk, e.g. drunken drivers, while posing serious problems for society, are not properly included within the classification "alcoholic." In the same way, morons, psychotics and feeble-minded persons who drink to excess should not be considered true alcoholics.

Traditionally, the public has considered the problem of alcoholism to be manifest almost solely in the skid row bum. Recent evidence tends to change that picture. The skid row habitué, besides accounting for only about 20 percent of the excessive drinkers in the United States, presents a basically different problem from other alcoholics.

A study of homeless men on skid row by Straus and McCarthy shows that although most of them are chronic excessive drinkers, a substantial portion are not alcoholic addicts. Rather than seek the maximum effect from alcohol, they are instead more interested in obtaining a constant plane of relief or escape. Most of these men have experienced early family disorganization, lack of marital or religious ties and absence of close personal associations. In other words, the under-socialized homeless man has no particular stake in society and, therefore, has no great incentive to stop drinking. Obviously, his situation differs from that of the alcoholic who has or had skills, a job, a home and a family.<sup>9</sup>

Characteristics of the Alcoholic Population. The common alcoholic stereotypes, derived from very limited segments of the overall alcoholic population, are misleading. Since there is no "typical" alcoholic, it is impossible to construct a hypothetical age, sex, occupation and family background which will characterize all alcoholics. In the past, the alcoholic was manifestly the skid row derelict or the psychotic mental patient. Recent scientific work in the field, as indicated earlier, shows that the derelict, the psychotic, the feeble-minded and the severe neurotic are on the extreme fringe of alcoholism, and probably should not be called alcoholics.

It must be borne in mind that no long-range studies of the characteristics of alcoholics have yet been made. Perhaps, however, the following data on excessive drinkers treated in public clinics and skid row homeless men, as shown in three isolated studies, will serve to indicate the differences between the groups and the danger in generalizing about "alcoholics."

The clinic patients displayed a relatively high degree of social and occupational participation. Over half of these patients were married and living with their wives when first seen in the clinics. The percentage who had never married was no greater than normal expectancy. Three-fourths of them were living in an established household. Nine out of 10 had lived in their present town of residence for at least two years.

On the contrary, of the homeless men about 55 percent had never married while the other 45 percent were either widowed, divorced or separated from their wives. Among men of similar age in the general population roughly three-quarters would be married and living with their wives and only about 10 percent would have broken marriages.

Nearly a fourth of the clinic patients were under 35 and nearly two-thirds were under 45 years of age, while fewer than 20 percent were aged 50 or over. The greatest concentration of men was found between the ages of 39 and 40. Among the homeless men, however, only one out of five was under 40 while half were 50 or over.

Among the clinic patients 62 percent were steadily employed when first seen in the clinics. Of these, three out of five reported steady employment for at least the last three years, and a fourth for 10 years or more. Eighty percent of this group had held jobs requiring definite skills or responsibilities. The recent jobs of two-thirds of these men were classified as skilled work or above; 20 percent were professional, managerial or proprietary personnel; and only 17 percent were in the category of unskilled labor.

In contrast, the skid row men were all without any kind of steady employment; at least half of them had never held any type of work above the level of unskilled labor; and only 10 percent had ever been employed in white collar, managerial or professional jobs.<sup>10</sup>

In regard to the sex of alcoholics, most estimates give a ratio of about five and one-half men to one woman.<sup>11</sup> One authority believes, however, that there are at least as many women as men alcoholics. For one thing, women have easier access to alcohol while at home alone. Because the social stigma against women alcoholics is so severe, her trouble is kept secret even from her physician by the woman, her husband and family.<sup>12</sup> It is true that although men patients now far outnumber women in alcoholic clinics, the number of female alcoholic patients appearing for treatment in hospitals and clinics is steadily increasing.

Alcoholism is found throughout the country but is noticeably greater in incidence in urban areas. The strain of city life or the breakdown of social organization in urban areas may result in more individual maladjustment than in rural society. Or the city may attract a high proportion of variant personalities from rural sections. No direct significance can be attached to this situation nor does it detract from the alcoholism problem present in rural areas.<sup>13</sup>

Rates of alcoholic addiction differ greatly among groups with different cultural backgrounds. Irish, Poles and so-called native white Americans have high rates. Greeks and Italians have low rates, while alcoholism is rare among Jews. As assimilation to American culture increases, the varying rates of addiction tend to approach the average American rate.<sup>14</sup>

Studies show that alcoholics come from all levels of the population insofar as family background, wealth, education and age are concerned. Although many of them are regularly employed in industry, they are not steady workers. Alcoholics have high rates of absenteeism, high accident and spoilage rates with a resultant poor effect on morale. Therefore, even if the alcoholic is married, educated, intelligent, living with his family and employed—and many are—his excessive drinking is causing problems for him, his family, and his associates and employer.<sup>15</sup>

TREATMENT OF ALCOHOLISM

Some general observations must be made when considering the treatment and rehabilitation of alcoholics. Since society insists upon the use of alcoholic beverages and since no single cause for alcoholism has been discovered, a simple panacea for the problems of excessive drinking does not exist, and no one treatment program has gained general acceptance. Until such time as research may be able to determine the actual cause or causes, the primary prevention of alcoholism leans heavily upon new educational material for the schools and the general public.

Alcoholism does respond in many cases to the techniques of secondary prevention—that is, arresting the course of an existing illness through the avoidance of progressive deterioration and complications. The concept, “rehabilitation of alcoholics,” is based on the theory that although no known cure for compulsive drinking exists, many alcoholics can abstain and become again useful members of society. Ordinarily, this means that an alcoholic, if he is to recover completely, must completely forswear alcohol.

The Importance of Diagnosis.<sup>16</sup> Proper diagnosis is generally considered the key to the successful treatment of an alcoholic. The greatest number of patients are lost at the diagnostic interview. If diagnosis is too brusque and formal, sentimental or preaching, it will be of little value.

If treatment is to have a reasonable chance of success, diagnosis must establish (a) if the patient actually is an alcoholic, and (b) which one of several possible categories the patient belongs in. The treatment unit may, after all, receive diabetics or persons with head injuries whose symptoms resemble those of alcoholism, but who obviously are not alcoholics.

Any treatment facility for alcoholics must provide, as far as possible, proper categorization of patients. Feeble-minded, psychotic and severely neurotic alcoholics present special problems. Such patients must receive treatment for their underlying mental illnesses of which excessive drinking is but a surface manifestation. They are properly cared for in mental institutions.

The social misfit, skid row drinker, also presents a unique problem calling for specialized techniques. Most skid row drinkers will not respond to the same kind of treatment which is often effective with those excessive drinkers possessing special skills, jobs, families and education. Many think that the social misfits are best handled in some kind of institutionalized setting, such as rehabilitation farms.

Again it must be emphasized that each alcoholic is an individual problem; no one treatment is satisfactory for all. The problem involves medical, psychological, psychiatric, financial, religious, social, private and public help. In any alcoholism program, proper diagnosis will play an important part.

Acute Intoxication.<sup>17</sup> Episodes of acute intoxication usually can and should be handled according to orthodox rules of medicine and nursing. Many clinics and hospitals, however, will not even accept intoxicated persons. Where such patients are accepted and given medical treatment, it is difficult to evaluate the impact on the patient of the physicians or nurses who treat him while he is inebriated. In any event, the condition of acute alcoholic intoxication is seldom in itself threatening to life.

Hang-over.<sup>18</sup> Usually the alcoholic patient will come to the attention of the doctor, not during acute intoxication, but while suffering a hang-over. The hang-over (when alcohol has disappeared from the blood) in contrast to acute intoxication (which is characterized by intense pleasure) represents that phase of alcohol addiction highlighted by unadulterated physical and mental pain. Consequently, the hang-over presents both a medical and psychological problem.

Walcott, and Robert Straus, “Use of a Hospital Facility in Conjunction with Outpatient Clinics in the Treatment of Alcoholics,” Quarterly Journal of Studies on Alcohol (March, 1952), pp. 60-67; Yvelin Gardner, “Modern Advances in the Field of Alcoholism,” Southern Medical Journal (May, 1953), pp. 418-422.

<sup>18</sup> Giorgio Lolli, “The Treatment of Alcohol Addiction,” Quarterly Journal of Studies on Alcohol (September, 1952), p. 466.

At the hang-over stage when the defenses of the patient are lowest, he is most susceptible to therapeutic approaches, either medical or psychological. It is believed that the psychological approaches which are most successful in the treatment of alcohol addiction are begun at the hang-over phase.

Temporary Sobriety. When the patient is temporarily sober, he needs professional, medical, psychological and social help to avoid repetition of drinking.

Medical Treatment.<sup>19</sup> Medication is important in the treatment of alcoholism, both in its intrinsic value and for its added psychological effects. Physicians have found that, by and large, the diseases that accompany chronic alcoholism come primarily from malnutrition. Unfortunately, while the high calory content of alcohol satisfies the hunger pangs of the excessive drinker, alcohol contains none of the essential proteins, vitamins and other nutrients. The treatment of the accompanying diseases, therefore, requires careful use of diet and vitamins, together with good general medical and psychiatric nursing care.

Conditioned-reflex Therapy.<sup>20</sup> One of the oldest methods of treating alcoholism is the so-called conditioned-reflex therapy in which alcohol and nausea are closely associated, so as to create an aversion to drinking. In repeated sessions, the patient is given a dose of emetine or apomorphine, and immediately thereafter either smells, sees or drinks an alcoholic beverage. Although the nausea and vomiting which follow are caused by the emetine or apomorphine, the nausea becomes associated in the patient's mind with the beverage and an aversion is developed. This treatment must be repeated from time to time to keep the aversion alive. Many persons in the field feel that if this method is not combined with psychological approaches, the aversion will be overcome by the overwhelming pressure of the addictive urge to drink.

Antabuse<sup>21</sup> (Disulfam). Antabuse is a drug that taken internally will, by itself, generally cause no ill effects. If, however, after antabuse is taken over a period of days, the patient drinks even a small amount of alcohol, serious and dangerous bodily reactions of a shock-like nature will ensue. To demonstrate the power of the drug, patients are given antabuse and then moderate amounts of alcohol in a test situation. The repulsive experience they then endure is designed to convince them of the necessity for abstinence. In usage for only a few years, this method of treatment has received both favorable and unfavorable reports.

Certain limitations to the use of antabuse are as follows. (1) If used improperly antabuse is a dangerous drug. For example, home treatment may result in overdosage with tragic results. (2) The drug cannot be used on individuals suffering from cardiovascular or liver disorders. (3) Sudden acute flare-ups of psychotic complications may occur, possibly due to the toxic action of the drug.

It is entirely possible for the patient to stop taking antabuse for a few days after which time he may commence drinking again with no reactions from the drug. Authorities believe, therefore, that it should be used only in selected and carefully screened cases as an auxiliary to psychological approaches.

Psychological Approaches.<sup>22</sup> A variety of psychological approaches may be used in the treatment of alcohol addiction. These approaches rest on two principles: (1) therapy should aim at total and permanent abstinence, and (2) the alcohol addict can remain abstinent only if there are favorable readjustments in his personality.

Some addictive drinkers can reach the desired goal of abstinence only through psychotherapy. The psychiatric approach stresses the need for dealing with neurotic or psychotic complications unrelated or only indirectly related to alcohol addiction. Deeply probing psychoanalytic techniques are uneconomical and usually impossible to apply because of the instability and low tolerance to stress of the addictive drinker. Whenever painful experiences are brought to consciousness, the alcoholic will usually relapse into drinking.

Psychiatrists and psychiatrically trained social workers are commonly used to apply psychological approaches to the addictive drinker.

Permanent sobriety and helpful personality changes in the alcoholic often result from psychological approaches which do not make use of trained psychiatrists or psychologists. These methods will be discussed below.

Religious Approaches.<sup>23</sup> The number of alcoholics helped to abstinence through religious approaches is unknown, although it is probably greater than generally believed.

In the past, religious approaches such as the Salvation Army and the various missions have accounted for almost all of the successes achieved among skid row alcoholics. Alcoholics Anonymous, employing partly religious (though nonsectarian) and partly psychological methods, has been quite successful among both skid row drinkers and those who have not yet "hit bottom."

Alcoholics Anonymous.<sup>24</sup> Alcoholics Anonymous conducts a program for the treatment of excessive drinking that has been singularly successful.

If an alcoholic calls A. A. and asks for help, one or two members will call on him, tell him of their own bouts with drinking, and show him some pamphlets outlining the A. A. program. He will then be invited to the next meeting. A. A., he will find, has no membership dues, no complicated organization. The alcoholic will learn that the A. A. program has only two requirements: (1) the alcoholic, by admitting that he is helpless where alcohol is concerned, must turn to a power greater than himself for help, and (2) he must undertake to remake his life as well as he can with the help of the A. A. members.

At the A. A. meeting, the alcoholic will find intelligent, well-dressed people speaking humbly about how they learned to live without alcohol. He will develop new friendships on a nondrinking basis. Soon—if he is the type of alcoholic to whom A. A. appeals, and there are many of these—the satisfactions he gets from not drinking will increase, and complete rehabilitation very frequently results. Eventually, as part of the A. A. plan of treatment, he will tell other newcomers about A. A.

The Role of the Outpatient Clinic.<sup>28</sup> Many, though not all, workers in the field of alcoholism consider the outpatient clinic to be the basic unit of a rehabilitation service for alcoholics. The reasoning behind this conclusion lies in the nature of alcoholism itself. Although no specific cause for alcoholism has yet been found, it is obvious that psychological and social problems are deeply involved.

Rehabilitation is directed to these problems. This may involve prolonged psychological treatment, it may call for psychological and social reorientation of the individual's family, or it may involve a change of environment. In other words, rehabilitation may start anywhere, but it must continue in and be oriented to the individual's ordinary life situation. The alcoholic may have to be hospitalized for a period or held in some other type of institution, but if rehabilitation is ever to succeed, the individual must be "followed-up" with help in his own environment. This becomes the work of the outpatient clinic.

The success of the outpatient clinic and the entire rehabilitation program will depend on at least three important factors, (a) the coordination of all available agencies, (b) the establishment of an effective diagnostic and referral center, and (c) the training of qualified personnel to undertake these duties.

Alcoholism Programs in the United States<sup>29</sup>

A number of programs, both governmental and private, have been initiated within the past few years in an attempt to understand and provide remedies for alcoholism and its related problems. Government programs are characteristically most significant at the state level although several local governments as well as the Federal Government have instituted projects directed toward problems of alcoholism. The number of studies being made in the many states which have programs indicates the fruitfulness of a state program undertaking to concentrate on a review and analyses of the results of these studies, rather than possibly duplicating them.

State Alcoholism Programs

In the brief period since the close of World War II many states have taken specific actions directed at alcoholism. With the pioneering efforts of the Connecticut Commission on Alcoholism as a precedent, 38 states and the District of Columbia have statutory expressions pertaining to alcoholism. Programs that have been initiated by such state legislation generally fall into four classifications, (1) study group activities, (2) state hospital program activities, (3) special agency activities, and (4) integrated agency activities. These program types and activities of selected states participating in each are described briefly hereafter.

Shepherd, "State Programs on Alcoholism," State Government, (October, 1950).

(1) Study Group Activities

Ten states—Arizona, California, Colorado, Florida, Illinois, Kentucky, Minnesota, Montana, Ohio and South Carolina—are preparing or have recently completed studies on alcoholism. The groups responsible for these studies were appointed by the states' legislatures, governors, or by both, usually on a limited term basis, and generally were directed to examine the problem of alcoholism and to prepare a report and make recommendations. Four of these states—California, Illinois, Minnesota, and Montana—also have state hospital program activities related to alcoholism. That many states have approached the alcoholism program through study groups is shown by the fact that eight additional states—Maine, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, Rhode Island, Vermont and Virginia—had study groups prior to the establishment of permanent state alcoholic programs.

Selected state study groups are described briefly hereafter.

Kentucky: Alcoholism Study Commission.<sup>27</sup> The commission was created in June, 1952 by the state legislature. The 11 members, appointed by the governor, were leaders in industrial medicine, psychiatry, social work, mental health, law, religion, alcoholic beverage industry and government. The staff of the Legislative Research Commission performed the necessary research and clerical work for the commission, and recommendations were formulated by the commission on the basis of the staff report.

The study was financed by $10,000 from the general fund. In October, 1953, the Alcoholic Study Commission submitted its report and recommendations.

New Hampshire: Liquor Research Commission.<sup>28</sup> During 1945-47 the New Hampshire Liquor Research Commission collected information on the problem of alcoholism in New Hampshire and submitted its report and recommendations to the 1947 legislature.

The original seven-member commission, appointed by the governor with the consent of the legislature, included a state legislator, the state hospital superintendent, the chairman of the State Liquor Commission, a pastor, a college president, a newspaperman and a retired mail carrier. The commission hired investigators from the universities to help with the staff work. As a result of the commission's findings, the New Hampshire Commission on Alcoholism was established in 1947 and subsequently was incorporated within the State Department of Health. Funds are appropriated from the General Fund.

New Jersey: Commission on Alcoholism and Promotion of Temperance. This commission was established by statute in 1945. For three years, operating under an appropriation of approximately $25,000 a year from the state's General Fund, the commission served essentially as a study and investigating group drawing heavily upon the technical services of Rutgers University and also upon out-of-state programs and professional persons.

As a result of the commission's studies, the legislature, in 1948, replaced it with a Bureau of Alcoholism in the State Department of Health which is charged with the conduct of a broad research, treatment and education program.

Virginia.<sup>29</sup> In 1948 Virginia established a precedent by creating the first alcoholism research and treatment program within a state health agency. Since its inception, the Division of Alcohol Studies and Rehabilitation in the State Department of Health has served as a model for many other states.

The 1948 action was preceded by legislation in 1947 which had assigned study of the alcohol problem in Virginia to the State Advisory Legislative Council. The 1948 legislation was the outgrowth of recommendations of this group.

(2) State Hospital Program Activities

Ten states—Arkansas, California, Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Mississippi, Montana, Nebraska, and Texas—have special statutes authorizing or directing the acceptance of alcoholic patients, including non-psychotic alcoholics, at state mental hospitals. Among these ten states, California, Illinois, Minnesota and Montana are at present studying the problem of alcoholism with a view toward broadening or revising the state alcoholic program. California, Minnesota and Mississippi have limited special treatment programs for alcoholics within the mental institutions.

(3) Special Agency Activities

Eleven states have created new and independent permanent agencies of government charged with one or more of the following: study of the problems of alcoholism; establishment or operation of facilities for the treatment, care and rehabilitation of alcoholics; conducting research into the problems of alcoholism; and development of programs of public information, education and prevention. These eleven states are: Alabama, Connecticut, Georgia, Louisiana, Maine, Michigan, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oregon, Utah and Vermont. Prior to the establishment of permanent special agencies, commissions had been created in New Mexico and Vermont to study the problem of alcoholism.

Selected state special agencies are described briefly hereafter.

Connecticut: Connecticut Commission on Alcoholism.<sup>30</sup> In 1945 the Connecticut Legislature established the Board of Trustees of the State Fund for Inebriates. Two years later legislative action changed the board into a five-member Commission on Alcoholism appointed by the governor. Funds are derived from 9 percent of the revenue collected by the State Liquor Control Commission from liquor permit fees. The annual budget for 1951-52 was $300,000.

The commission has focused its attention on rehabilitation (not, however, to the exclusion of research and education), feeling that the recovered alcoholic and his family provide the best public information, education and propaganda on alcoholism as a sickness. The so-called "middle group" of alcoholics—those beyond the incipient stage and not quite in the late chronic stage—has received the major share of the commission's attention.

A 50-bed hospital, built and operated by the commission, is reserved exclusively to the treatment of male and female alcoholic patients. Outpatient facilities include five full-time community clinics operated in the major population centers of the state. There are approximately 1,000 in-patient admissions and approximately 1,200 new out-patient cases per year.

The state program is administered by an executive director employed by the commission. The clinics are staffed with psychiatrists, psychiatric social workers and consulting psychologists. In the field of education, the commission distributes literature, sends speakers to various parts of the state and holds public meetings and conferences. Educational material is developed in cooperation with the State Education Department. Medical, psychiatric and sociological research has been carried out by staff members of the commission in cooperation with the Yale Center of Alcoholic Studies. The commission also renders a consulting and advisory service to other public agencies such as the State Tuberculosis Commission, the State Motor Vehicle Commission, the New Haven County Jail and the Connecticut State Farm for Women.

New Mexico: Commission on Alcoholism.<sup>31</sup> This commission was established by the New Mexico Legislature in 1949. It consists of five members and must include two physicians and two recovered alcoholics. The biennial budget of $5,000 for 1949-50 was appropriated from the general fund. In 1951 a special additional tax was imposed on all alcoholic beverages. From June, 1951, to April, 1952, over $150,000 which was paid into the commission's fund was tied up by an injunction based on a suit challenging constitutionality of the legislation. The State Supreme Court has upheld the constitutionality of the law, thereby freeing the impounded funds for the use of the commission.

The commission is operating two in-patient rehabilitation centers and two information offices for counseling and out-patient services. During the first 11 months of operation, approximately 800 patients received treatment at the rehabilitation centers, while about 200 persons received counsel and medical services on an out-patient basis. Educational activities of the commission include public meetings throughout the state; preparation of press and radio releases and the use of motion pictures; and the issuance of a monthly bulletin to over 2,500 persons.

Oregon: Oregon Alcohol Education Committee: This committee, created in 1943, is a division of the Liquor Control Commission but operates independently. The work of the five-man committee appointed by the governor is carried out by a director of activities, education director and medical director. The 1951-52 biennial budget of $120,000 comes from Liquor Control Commission revenues.

After three years of educational activities, the committee made a study of the medical problems and needs of problem drinkers and submitted its report and recommendations to the Legislature. In 1947 the committee was authorized to establish treatment facilities for alcoholics.

Since 1947 the committee has operated the Oregon State Alcoholic Rehabilitation Clinic in Portland, an out-patient treatment service.

When necessary, arrangements are made through the clinic for hospitalization of patients in general hospitals. For the year ending February 29, 1952, 12 cases were hospitalized for an average of three days each, while 249 new cases and 42 reopened cases were handled by the clinic. The clinic operates on an out-patient basis utilizing therapeutic and counseling methods. Clinic personnel include a psychiatrist who acts as medical director, a psychologist, and a social worker.

An education program is carried out in close cooperation with the Oregon school system, and a newsletter published monthly by the committee is circulated widely throughout the state.

Utah: Utah State Board on Alcoholism.<sup>32</sup> This five-member board, appointed by the governor, was established in 1947 within the State Welfare Commission. By action of the state legislature in 1949, however, the board was made a separate agency of the government. The biennial budget of $50,000 (1951-52) was appropriated from general funds.

The purpose of the present program is education, research, and limited diagnostic treatment services, with major efforts of the Utah Board in the fields of public education directed toward the prevention of alcoholism. This has been carried out by conducting public meetings, institutes, and forums; by distributing large quantities of popular scientific literature; by establishing an information center; and by working closely with Alcoholics Anonymous, the high schools, women's clubs, health, welfare, and educational agencies throughout the state. An out-patient clinic in Salt Lake City provides some psychiatric counseling and diagnosis, and limited research has been undertaken in cooperation with the University of Utah Schools of Medicine and Social Studies.

(4) Integrated Agency Activities

Alcoholism programs in 11 states—including research, education, rehabilitation, and treatment—have been placed within existing agencies of government, such as health, mental hygiene, welfare, or the hospitals, thus avoiding the creation of additional separate state agencies. These 11 states are: Delaware, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Virginia, and Wisconsin. In New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Rhode Island, and Virginia, commissions to study the problem of alcoholism preceded the establishment of the permanent program. Massachusetts and New Hampshire, which began with separate commissions, integrated the commissions into their state health departments.

Selected examples of the integrated agency program are described hereafter.

Massachusetts: Division on Alcoholism, Department of Public Health.<sup>33</sup> In 1950, the Massachusetts Legislature authorized the Department of Public Health to develop a program on alcoholism. The legislation was supported by the Massachusetts Commission on Alcoholism (which had been created by the Legislature in 1948 to study the problem), and by other interested organizations and individuals. For the Fiscal Year 1953-54, $93,125 was made available for the work of the division in the Public Health Department budget.

The alcoholic program in Massachusetts consists mainly of the establishment and maintenance of out-patient clinics for alcoholism within cooperating general hospitals. In-patient facilities are available at participating hospitals on a supplementary basis. The Department of Health sets the standards for the clinics, supervises their activities, and subsidizes, almost entirely, their cost of operation. Clinics are presently operating at six different hospitals under the sponsorship of the department. The number of persons served during 1951 was approximately 425.

The division's educational activities have consisted primarily of cooperation with various organizations and institutions directly or indirectly concerned with problems of alcoholism.

A clinical research study is being carried on to evaluate A. C. E. (adrenal cortex extract) and A. C. T. H. (adrenocorticotrophic hormone) in the treatment of various acute toxic conditions and as follow-up therapy.

New Jersey: Alcoholism Control Program, Division of Preventable Diseases, State Department of Health. As the result of a three-year study by a Commission on Alcoholism established by legislative action in 1945, the 1948 Legislature created the Alcoholism Control Program within the State Department of Health. The Alcoholic Division is charged with the conduct of a broad research, treatment, and education program. The annual budget of approximately $20,000 is part of the Health Department appropriations.

Two out-patient clinics located in general hospitals have been established. These are study clinics for selected patients. The number of persons served during the first year of operation of the first of these two clinics was 80. Clinic out-patients are admitted to hospital wards for specific therapy where needed. Acutely intoxicated patients are not admitted.

Educational literature is provided to schools, libraries, and other institutions, and an intensive professional educational program is conducted for county medical societies. Liaison has been established between the alcoholism program and municipal private welfare agencies, industrial personnel, Alcoholics Anonymous, and other agencies.

New York: New York State Program on Alcoholism.<sup>34</sup> An act of the New York Legislature (March, 1952) authorized the New York State Mental Health Commission to formulate a program for the diagnosis, treatment and rehabilitation of alcoholics. The commission was created within the Department of Mental Hygiene in 1949 and is composed of the Commissioner of Mental Hygiene (chairman) and Commissioners of Health, Social Welfare, Correction and Education.

A sum of $145,000 from general funds has been appropriated for the work of the commission in the field of alcoholism. Of this amount, $100,000 is being used for the establishment of outpatient clinic services with the stipulations that (1) clinics shall conform to standards approved by the commission and (2) state funds shall be matched by nonstate funds. The six clinics presently operating under contract with the Mental Health Commission are regarded as the beginning of a state-wide program for meeting the problem of alcoholism in New York. In addition, $45,000 has been made available for research activities at medical and teaching hospitals.

North Carolina: Alcoholic Rehabilitation Program, State Hospital Board of Controls.<sup>35</sup> The Legislature appropriated $300,000 from general funds for the biennium 1949-51 to the Hospital Board of Control for the establishment of an alcoholic rehabilitation program.

The board operates a 50-bed hospital facility at Butner for male white patients. A social and medical history is requested of each patient before admittance. The 28 days of treatment, costing $72, consists of group discussions, educational films, individual consultations, vocational therapy, recreation and rest, good food, and any prescribed medications. On discharge, patients are referred to their family doctor, a mental hygiene clinic and Alcoholics Anonymous. Outpatient treatment is available at two other localities in the state.

Educational activities of the board include the distribution of a bi-monthly journal and special pamphlets, preparation of news releases and radio announcements, the providing of lecturers, and sponsorship of summer studies on alcohol at the University of North Carolina. By contract with the Institute of Research in Social Sciences at the University of North Carolina, research studies are underway relating to (1) institutional and private care for alcoholics available in the State, (2) social and environmental factors bearing upon alcoholism, and (3) industrial absenteeism.

Virginia: Division of Alcohol Studies and Rehabilitation, Virginia Department of Health.<sup>36</sup> The Virginia Legislature in 1948 created the Division of Alcohol Studies and Rehabilitation within the Department of Health and provided for the study of the problems of alcoholism, the treatment and rehabilitation of persons addicted to excessive drinking, and the promotion of preventive and educational programs aimed at control of alcoholism.

The division has a full-time director; a ten-member medical advisory committee and a nine-member advisory committee representing the fields of education, religion, social service and business. Appropriations from the general fund amounted to $134,000 for 1953-54.

A 12-bed inpatient unit is operating in the Medical College of Virginia Hospital and outpatient clinic facilities are available in Richmond and Roanoke. During the year ending June 30, 1951, inpatient facilities served 437 persons and outpatient facilities served 670.

Research projects include study in biochemistry and pharmacology in connection with acute intoxication and extensive tests with antabuse and other drugs for the treatment of alcoholism.

In the education field, films have been made available to high schools, reference texts have been approved for purchase by public school libraries, and an annual symposium on problems of alcoholism is held.

Notable Features of the Special and Integrated Agency Type of State Governmental Programs on Alcoholism

(1) Administration: Of the 11 integrated agencies, six are within the Department of Health; three are within the Department of Mental Hygiene (or a corresponding department); two are within the Department of Social Welfare (or a corresponding department). Nine of the alcoholic divisions within existing departments have single administrators.

Of the 11 special agencies, 10 have single administrators (variously called directors, executive secretary, or executive director); one has a chairman of the commission. All 11 have five to seven-member commissions or boards.

(2) Funds. Of the 11 alcoholic divisions within existing departments, 10 receive appropriations from general funds. In the case of Wisconsin, 70 percent of the funds are charged against alcoholic beverage taxes. Seven of the 11 separate alcoholic agencies are funded from taxes on alcoholic beverages and four receive general funds.

No general pattern concerning the amount of funds appropriated can be discerned. The figures run from a nominal amount (a program just getting underway) to approximately $650,000 a year. More money has been appropriated by those states with broad treatment and research programs.

(3) Treatment Facilities. The 22 states with permanent alcoholic programs, either separate or integrated, have a wide variety of treatment facilities. Seven states have no facilities (at least four hope to open clinics in the near future). Most of the others have combined facilities. Four states have inpatient rehabilitation centers for alcoholics; two of the four are in conjunction with outpatient clinics. Ten other states operate outpatient clinics. Of the 10, three have clinics in general hospitals, and two of the 10 also operate hospitals for alcoholics. Two states treat patients in the state mental hospitals, and one state provides in-patient facilities at the hospital of the state medical college.

(4) Educational Activities. All 22 states have provided for educational activities by their alcoholic agencies. Programs range from cooperation with the department of education and other agencies to publication of periodicals and pamphlets, furnishing materials for libraries, providing speakers, and sponsoring public forums and summer schools.

(5) Research. Ten of the 22 states have no research programs although at least three of these intend to conduct research in the future. Of the other 12, five states have contracted or cooperated with universities or medical schools for research projects. The staffs of the alcoholic agencies in the other seven carry on limited alcoholic research projects.

(6) Cooperation with Other Agencies. Virtually all of the states have provided for close cooperation between the state alcoholic agencies and other interested agencies of state and local government, private organizations and interested individuals.

County and Municipal Governmental Programs

Government interest in the problems of alcoholism in the United States has not been limited to the state level. Several local units of government, both county and municipal, have established alcoholic programs dealing with one or more phases of the problem. Some of these local programs are noted hereafter.

Boston, Massachusetts. A rehabilitation clinic for alcoholics within the Long Island Hospital for the chronically ill has been in operation since January, 1952. The clinic was established upon the recommendation of the mayor. In addition to psychotherapy and occupational therapy, attempts are made to help patients solve their immediate economic problems. 145 persons were served during the first six months of the program.

Detroit, Michigan. The Mayor's Skid Row Committee on Alcoholism maintains a facility for homeless male alcoholics wherein limited physical rehabilitation, referral and lay counseling are available.

Minneapolis, Minnesota.<sup>37</sup> In 1948 the Division of Public Assistance, Board of Public Welfare of the City of Minneapolis, established "Pioneer House," a rest and counseling inpatient facility, for the purpose of rehabilitating maladjusted persons who have become problem drinkers. "Pioneer House" serves approximately 250 men per year.

The city entered the field of alcoholic rehabilitation because of the large amounts of city relief funds expended on the families of alcoholics. Therefore, preference is given to persons whose condition will probably lead to the need for public assistance. Referrals are made through Alcoholics Anonymous, the Division of Public Relief, the probation office, the municipal court and other agencies.

New York City, New York: The Hart Island Program for Alcoholics.<sup>38</sup> In 1948 a Project Committee on Homeless Men was established by the New York City Welfare Council. As the result of a two-year study by this committee, the Hart Island Shelter was established under the Department of Welfare. The objective at Hart Island is to restore skid row habitués to health and self-maintenance. In the first two years of its existence, the Hart Island Shelter admitted about 2,320 men. The capacity of the shelter approximates 350 and the average length of stay is 10 days. Of the total number of men admitted, only about 30 percent later reapplied for assistance.

Men are referred either through the Department of Welfare's shelters for homeless men or through the magistrates' courts. Long-term plans provide for the establishment of a more comprehensive rehabilitation program to include therapy for alcoholism as part of the effort to achieve total readjustment in society. The department also has under its jurisdiction "Bridge House," a small facility providing rest, information and lay therapy for alcoholics.

Rowan County, North Carolina. This program is operated by the Department of Education of the Rowan County Alcoholic Beverage Control Board. Established in 1950, the program is the only activity of its kind carried out by a local Alcoholic Beverage Control Board. Alcoholics receive information, guidance and referral services. Referrals are made to the State Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center, to Alcoholics Anonymous and to mental hygiene clinics. A wide variety of education services are provided for the community.

Seattle, Washington.<sup>39</sup> At the suggestion of the Seattle Police Department, Seattle's City Council, in 1947, appropriated $175,000 with which a rehabilitation farm was constructed and opened with a capacity for 50 patients. Patients are selected by the police department from among those in jail. No voluntary admissions or court commitments are accepted. In addition to enforced sobriety, the program attempts to establish regularity in living habits, with referral to a job upon discharge. Experience indicates that those patients for whom employment is available do not return for successive sentences. Patients for whom no steady employment can be found, however, have returned rather frequently.

Toledo, Ohio. Since 1948 the Toledo District Board of Health has operated an outpatient clinic service offering diagnosis, referral and treatment services to both court-committed and voluntary patients.

It will be noted that almost all of these local programs on alcoholism (including those in California to be discussed later) deal primarily with the skid row drinker, the "homeless man," the "social misfit." Many authorities have pointed out that whereas skid row is the eyesore blighting a town or city—a circumstance which pressures local governments into attempting to clean up the area—the greatest alcoholic problem for society lies with the large "middle" group of excessive drinkers who still have jobs, families and a stake in society but are drinking to excess. The need, therefore, for a broad attack on alcoholism coordinated at the state level becomes more clear.

Activities of the Federal Government

Public Health Service. The U. S. Public Health Service has entered the field of alcoholism because of its concern with all kinds of addiction. Three units of the Health Service are interested in particular aspects of the alcoholic problem—the National Institute of Mental Health, the Division of Occupational Health of the Bureau of States Services, and the Division of Hospitals in the Bureau of Medical Services.

The National Institute of Mental Health, through its community services activities, attempts to make clear the symptomatic nature of alcoholism and to encourage more adequate methods of rehabilitation and prevention. To accomplish these objectives, the National Institute works closely with local agencies. The Public Health Service will support basic or applied research in the field of alcoholism. Research grants may be made to hospitals, universities, laboratories, other private or public institutions and to individuals in accordance with the provisions of the National Mental Health Act.

The District of Columbia.<sup>40</sup> Among state and municipal programs for the rehabilitation of alcoholics, one of the first was initiated by the Health Department of the District of Columbia. As early as July, 1945, a part-time clinic for the treatment of alcoholics was opened under the jurisdiction of the newly established Bureau of Mental Hygiene in the District Health Department. In 1947, Congress passed an "Act for the Rehabilitation of Alcoholics in the District of Columbia."

Finally, the alcoholic rehabilitation program went into effect with the opening of a full-time outpatient clinic in February, 1950.

The annual budget of $100,000 (1952) is financed by a 10 percent increase in retail liquor license fees. There are no inpatient facilities. The large outpatient clinic is located in a renovated school building which includes facilities for occupational and recreational therapy. Between February, 1950, and October, 1952, a total of 1,455 patients were treated, including 1,075 voluntary and 380 court-referred patients.

The clinic staff allots a considerable amount of time to educational activities such as lecturers, radio and newspaper publicity and open houses for civic groups. Staff members also engage in alcoholic research projects. Active cooperation is maintained with Alcoholics Anonymous, the Salvation Army and church groups.

Alcoholics Anonymous.<sup>41</sup> Formed in 1934 by two recovered alcoholics, Alcoholics Anonymous now numbers about 150,000 men and women who were once addicted to alcohol. A. A. has helped people of every kind of background and circumstance. It is a loosely-knit voluntary fellowship of recovered alcoholics and alcoholics who join together solely to help themselves and others become sober or stay sober.

Alcoholics Anonymous is not a crusading temperance society. The members have large community meetings once a week. Small groups of 10 to 14 persons also meet weekly. The essentials of the A. A. program include many sociological and psychological elements of known therapeutic value. The fellowship is strongly opposed to both commercialization of A. A. activities and entangling alliances with other organizations or programs. Nevertheless, A. A. has cooperated closely with and contributed greatly to the success of most state alcoholic programs.

Among A. A. publications are the book, Alcoholics Anonymous, a monthly magazine, The Grapevine, and pamphlet materials. The A. A. national service office in New York City offers guidance services to local groups, distributes materials and acts as a referral center and national clearing house.

Yale Center of Alcohol Studies, Laboratory of Applied Physiology, Yale University.<sup>42</sup> The leading research and educational organization in the United States in the field of alcoholism is the Yale Center of Alcohol Studies. Employing a rounded approach to the problem of alcohol, the work of the Yale Center is organized in five major activities:

1. Research. The core of the Yale program is research. Part of this research is concerned with scientific problems—physiological, psychological, cultural, legal, and the like—while another part centers around the application of these scientific findings to the solution of immediate practical problems. Among recent research projects are the following: drinking patterns of American Jews; analysis of the histories of patients of alcoholism clinics; a study of the characteristics of alcoholics sentenced to a metropolitan shelter; a college drinking survey.

2. Publications. The Yale Center initiated its special program of publication in 1940 with the founding of the Quarterly Journal of

Studies on Alcohol. This periodical publishes original research reports from all the scientific institutions and laboratories in the world as well as from the Yale Center itself. The Journal carries regular reports on treatment and rehabilitation facilities. The Publications Division issues technical, nontechnical and popular books and pamphlets dealing with many topics of interest connected with alcohol problems. Educational materials, including posters and leaflets, are also produced. Packets of literature are made up and distributed on behalf of state commissions to schools and libraries. For the medical and allied professions the Alcoholism Treatment Digest is published bimonthly.

3. Education. The best known educational project of the center is the Yale Summer School of Alcohol Studies. Since 1943 the summer school has met each year for approximately four weeks. About 150 qualified students—educators, physicians, clergymen, nurses, and others—attend this intensive course of lectures and seminars on the problems of alcohol. Other educational activities include the preparation and distribution of special materials, participation by staff members in institutes and conferences throughout the country, and advisory services in the planning of educational curriculums.

4. Therapy. In 1944, the Yale Center, long interested in research on alcoholism, tried a new approach. It set up two public clinics in Connecticut to guide alcoholics and to bring various resources into their treatment. An alcoholic comes to the clinic of his own volition, or is referred by relatives, church, court or social agency. The clinic gives him help and guidance, or sends him to a private physician, hospital or suitable institution or agency for the treatment recommended in his case.

The Yale Plan Clinic has now become a model for clinics elsewhere. The Connecticut Commission on Alcoholism has taken over the Hartford Clinic and has set up others throughout the state. The Yale Center still operates a clinic in New Haven which chooses its patients mainly for the purpose of studying particular phases of alcoholism.

5. Special Services. Government agencies and departments, institutions of education, welfare organizations, legislative committees, professional and industrial groups and individuals often turn for help to the Division of Special Services of the Yale Center. This division conducts surveys to determine the facts about problems relating to alcohol in selected localities and provides information and consultation to groups considering activity in the field of alcohol problems.

National Committee on Alcoholism, Inc.<sup>43</sup> Founded in 1944, the activities of this independent national voluntary health agency are based on three concepts:

- (1) Alcoholism is a disease, and alcoholics are sick people.
- (2) Alcoholics can be helped and are worth helping.
- (3) Alcoholism is a public health problem and therefore a public responsibility.

The committee does not take part in conflicts between group or organizations concerned with the promotion or prohibition of sale or consumption of alcoholic beverages.

<sup>43</sup> National Committee on Alcoholism, Inc., Three Approaches to One Goal, Annual Report, 1951 (New York, 1952).

The committee distributes literature, maintains a free lecture service and provides general and specific information on alcoholism and the facilities for treatment of alcoholics. Local branches have been organized by the committee in over 50 communities in 27 states and Canada. Local committees are given a five-point plan of action by the National Committee: (1) an intensive educational campaign in their own communities, (2) the establishment of information centers, (3) the securing of beds in general hospitals for the emergency care of acute cases, (4) the establishment of diagnostic and treatment clinics, and (5) the establishment of small "rest hospitals," modest institutions of the sanatorium type, where treatment may be made available for alcoholic patients of moderate means.

Programs of Industrial Organizations

Estimates show that at least 2,000,000 of the Nation's alcoholics are employed industrially. These problem drinkers in industry cost their companies over a billion dollars every year in absenteeism, slow-downs, scrapped materials, faulty decisions, as well as the permanent loss of otherwise capable workers. The alcoholic in industry loses an average of 22 working days annually from the acute effects of alcohol alone. Over 36,000,000 working days are thus lost each year.

During the past five years several important industrial concerns—Consolidated Edison of New York, Dupont, Allis Chalmers, Eastman Kodak, Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, Metropolitan Life Insurance, the New York Telephone Company and the International Harvester Company—have issued significant policy statements and inaugurated positive programs of prevention and treatment of alcoholism. The trend has been toward close cooperation with such groups as Alcoholics Anonymous, the National Medical Council of the Yale Center of Alcohol Studies, and the Industrial Medical Association.

Programs of Religious Organizations

In the past, various religious organizations have largely borne the brunt of attempts to rehabilitate alcoholics. Religious programs have been limited primarily to working with the skid row derelict. The Salvation Army and the Volunteers of America, together with many local missionary societies, have been active in this field. Although the purpose of these organizations is primarily spiritual and religious, their accomplishments among skid row drinkers, largely ignored by other elements of society, have been significant.

The Salvation Army has 105 social service centers for men located in cities throughout the country, 14 skid row area programs, programs for unmarried women, prison work and family aid services. The Salvation Army Harbor Light Corps, found in many skid row areas, provides a program of religious conversion together with attention to immediate basic needs. Attempts are made to re-establish individuals with satisfactory job, family, and community relationships. The Volunteers of America (headquarters, New York City) provides salvage and rehabilitation programs in 63 cities.

In addition to the programs noted above, other organizations (American Medical Association, the American Psychiatric Association, the National States' Conference on Alcoholism and the National Committee on Alcohol Hygiene, Inc.) and voluntary health groups in many communities (Boston, Buffalo, Dallas, Pittsburgh, Rochester, Salt Lake City) are carrying on active and important programs dealing with the problems of alcoholism.

PROBLEMS AND PROGRAMS IN CALIFORNIA

Alcoholism in California presents problems not markedly different from those found in other sections of the country. Statistics as to incidence and cost are sketchy or lacking while methods of treatment and prevention follow the national trend. Governmental and private programs have lagged behind other states, however. The following material attempts to indicate, insofar as it is possible, the extent and cost of the problem and the programs presently in effect in California.

Number of Alcoholics

Although it would be useful and informative to know the number of true alcoholics in California, where they live, what they do, and how old they are, such is not possible. The only alternative is to cite certain educated guesses, while recognizing that these may create a fallacious, over-all impression.

Noting that "most of the data * * * consists of inferences based on inferences," California's Department of Mental Hygiene estimates that in 1953 there were 500,000 alcoholics in California as contrasted with 340,000 in 1945. These figures include an increase of chronic alcoholics from 85,000 in 1945 to 125,000 in 1953. The data are derived from formulas developed by E. M. Jellinek which utilize the death rate from cirrhosis of the liver.<sup>44</sup>

The Department of Mental Hygiene also notes that California's prevalence of alcoholics is about 50 percent higher than the national average and has increased steadily over the last 10 years. Commitments of alcoholics to state mental hospitals increased from 1,333 in 1941 to 3,409 in 1953, and the rate of commitment per 100,000 civilian population increased from 26 to 46 during this same period.<sup>45</sup>

The Cost

Figures purporting to show the cost of alcoholism in California are no more reliable than statistics covering other phases of the problem. The Department of Mental Hygiene estimates that, in terms of wage losses, public welfare services, jail sentences, and so on, the cost of alcoholism would range from $120,000,000 to $300,000,000 for 1953.<sup>46</sup>

The Department states that support costs alone for alcoholic commitments to state mental hospitals during 1953 totaled $1,300,000. In addition, these patients tied up hospital beds representing a capital outlay of $8,000,000.<sup>47</sup>

Treatment Programs

State Programs

On the state level, the major responsibility for the care of alcoholics lies with the Department of Mental Hygiene. Under the provisions of Section 5404 of the Welfare and Institutions Code, superior court judges may commit excessive drinkers to the department "for placement in a hospital for the care and treatment of the mentally ill * * *."

"Before a person is committed to a state hospital, however, satisfactory evidence shall be submitted to the trial judge showing that the person to be committed is not of bad repute or bad character, apart from his habit for which commitment is made, and that there is reasonable ground for believing that the person, if committed, will be permanently benefited by treatment."<sup>48</sup>

In sending alcoholics to state hospitals there is no pattern or rule to guide the judges. Some judges believe that treatment will aid the alcoholics, while others apparently look upon state hospital commitment as punishment for incorrigible and troublesome drinkers. In Los Angeles County, judges apparently commit only those alcoholics who will sign their own commitment papers.

The large numbers of alcoholics committed to the hospitals contribute significantly to the total patient population. During the year ending June 30, 1953, there were 3,409 alcoholics admitted, representing 21.1 percent of all admissions to state hospitals. Of these, 2,425 were first admissions and 984 were re-admissions. As of June 30, 1953, 1,228 alcoholics were occupying beds accounting for 3.5 percent of the total resident population. Most of the remainder were on leave.<sup>49</sup> The strain upon the admission procedure, inpatient facilities and the leave program is obvious.

In the early spring of 1953, the headquarters office of the Department of Mental Hygiene circulated among the hospitals a proposed treatment program for alcoholics which was to be considered standard departmental practice. The program included a diagnostic check-up, medical procedures for physical rehabilitation—vitamins, high calory diet, hydrotherapy and physiotherapy—re-education treatment, including Alcoholics Anonymous contacts and group psychotherapy, in conjunction with supportive therapies such as conditioned reflex treatment, antabuse, A. C. E. and carbon dioxide.

In discussing the problem of alcoholism with officials at four state hospitals, it was found that the prescribed program is not carried out in full. During the usual three-month stay of the alcoholic, the hospitals have considerable success with physical rehabilitation, but psychological and psychiatric approaches are relatively neglected.

The alcoholic programs at the various hospitals are spotty and offer little in the way of specific treatment of alcoholics beyond physical-custodial benefits. Mendocino offers conditioned reflex treatment; Agnews has experimented with A. C. E. and A. C. T. H. (hormone) and is presently using carbon dioxide therapy on a highly selective basis; Camarillo and Langley Porter formerly conducted tests with antabuse; and all the hospitals utilize Alcoholics Anonymous. It was found that such active alcoholic programs as there are in the hospitals depend largely upon the initiative and interest of staff personnel.

Although the use of alcohol is a factor in about two-thirds of the cases coming to the Department of Corrections, there is no special program for alcoholics within the state correctional system. Excessive drinking in a prisoner's background is taken into account in classification and parole, but no statistics are kept on the number of alcoholics in the prisons. The department does not consider drinking as a basic cause of crime, but rather as symptomatic of some more serious defect.

Within the prisons, alcoholic prisoners are exposed to the same program of psychotherapy available for all prisoners. Excessive drinkers may also participate in the meetings of Alcoholics Anonymous, established at each prison with the encouragement and approval of the department.

The California Medical Facility, a prison hospital at Terminal Island operated by the Department of Corrections, provides a full treatment program built around group psychotherapy for the various deviates—alcoholics, drug addicts, sex deviates and mental cases. Alcoholics Anonymous, however, is the only service specifically for alcoholics.

Based on Section 210 of the Health and Safety Code, the Department of Public Health examines and reports to the Legislature on the problem of alcoholism. In actual practice, however, nothing substantial along these lines has been done, and no money for this specific purpose has been appropriated. In 1947, the department prepared a statement on alcoholism for the Governor's Conference on Mental Health. Later, in 1950, department staff members participated in the California Medical Association Report on Alcoholism. From time to time, the department discusses the problem with interested local groups.

Many of the staff members of the Department of Public Health are interested in the problem of alcoholism and have valuable suggestions to contribute to the solution of the problem. It is to be hoped that any state alcoholic rehabilitation program will take advantage of the resources available within this department.

City and County Programs

Since the spring of 1951, a voluntary outpatient clinic for the treatment of alcoholics—the Adult Guidance Center—has been in operation under the jurisdiction of the City and County of San Francisco Department of Public Health. Staffed by four psychiatrists (two full-time and two half-time) and three psychiatric social workers, the clinic is open to any San Francisco resident who has a drinking problem and who has not had a drink for 24 hours. During the past three years the clinic has handled some 3,500 cases, averaging about 100 per month.

This project grew out of an earlier study of the skid row problem conducted by the San Francisco District Attorney's office. Resulting from the recommendation contained in that report, a small inpatient facility was opened in the San Bruno jail to treat inmates arrested for drunkenness. Although the results were encouraging, San Francisco officials felt that a voluntary outpatient clinic would reach a group of alcoholics more likely to be helped by treatment.

Patients are referred to the Guidance Center clinic from many sources, ranging from self-referrals to those made by family, friends, A. A. social agencies, private physicians, courts and police. Based on the theory that alcoholism is a symptom of some deeper emotional disturbance, the clinic treats patients for physical ailments with vitamins and hormones, and mental disturbances with individual and group psychotherapy. Supportive therapies such as antabuse, conditioned reflex and carbon dioxide are not used.

Subject to availability of funds the clinic proposes ultimately to provide: (1) inpatient facilities where men and women in the acute stages of alcoholism may be treated; (2) additional follow-up; (3) more doctors and psychiatric social workers; and (4) a convalescent center for those who do not need hospitalization but have not yet found jobs.

Within recent months, an adult psychiatric clinic—primarily for alcoholics—has been opened in San Mateo under the supervision of the Director of the San Mateo County Public Health and Welfare Department. Although detailed information is not presently available, apparently this facility is similar in scope and purpose to the San Francisco clinic.

Santa Rita Rehabilitation Center, a facility of the Alameda County Sheriff's Office, has operated as the main unit of the Alameda County Jail System since 1947. Located on the site of a large World War II navy establishment near Pleasanton, the center provides its inmates with pleasant outdoor surroundings, adequate food, regular work, time for recreation, weekly moving pictures, adult education courses, hobby shops, religious supervision, and medical, dental and psychiatric care.

In 1949 an alcoholic clinic providing specialized medical and psychiatric services for alcoholics was added to the rehabilitation center. The institution's alcoholics—forming a large percentage of the inmate population of over 900—are treated by a clinic staff consisting of a psychiatrist, four mental health therapists and one clinic psychologist.

There are two forms of admission to the center: (1) the majority are under criminal sentence by superior and municipal courts; and (2) civil commitments. About 25 percent are committed through the superior courts following a five-day stay at a local county hospital. In addition, about 25 persons are committed each month on a purely voluntary basis. A recent survey showed that alcoholics admitted either voluntarily or on a civil commitment achieved a higher rate of improvement than those sentenced to Santa Rita through a police court.

Besides the regular program of the center, the alcoholics receive special physical and mental treatment. After the recording of a detailed personal and alcoholic history, the physical ailments of the inmates are cared for. Psychiatric treatment comes next: individual or group psychotherapy, simple counseling and vocational guidance, supportive therapies such as antabuse and carbon dioxide. Psychoanalysis and conditioned reflex therapy are not practiced at Santa Rita.

Santa Rita officials feel that some type of inpatient institution—not a hospital—is mandatory for the treatment of alcoholics. After patients are released from the institution, outpatient clinic follow-up is important. Lack of such follow-up constitutes a serious weakness of the Santa Rita program at present.

At the request of the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors, the section on Alcohol Studies of Yale University in 1950 conducted a survey of alcoholism in Los Angeles County. The Yale staff recommended that the county undertake an extensive alcoholic program, costing around $130,000 in the first year.

Although several alternative plans have been considered, including an alcoholic information and treatment center, there is as yet no official county sponsored program. The apparent reasons for the failure to initiate a program are (1) the inability of interested groups to cooperate on an effective basis and (2) the feeling that alcoholism is primarily the responsibility of the State.

Regarding penal offenders, many alcoholics in Los Angeles County are confined at Wayside Honor Rancho, a 2,800-acre farm housing 1,250 inmates. Officials in charge of Wayside express awareness that decent housing and recreation are not the total answer to rehabilitation. The alcoholic program consists of Alcoholics Anonymous meetings and an alcohol problems round table participated in by inmates on a voluntary basis. In addition to regular work assignments, some men undertake individual study in high school subjects.

Besides Wayside, the sheriff's office operates six honor road camps, each containing about 80 men, many of whom are alcoholics. The men perform heavy physical work and apparently thrive under the regular routine of the camps and the substantial meals.

About 3,000 prisoners are housed in the county jail, of whom approximately one-fourth are alcoholics. Experiments with antabuse on alcoholic prisoners have been discontinued because of discouraging results.

The Mental Health Department of the Los Angeles Superior Court arranges the legal commitment of mental cases and voluntary petitions for hospital care of alcoholics. Court sessions are held at the psychiatric ward of the Los Angeles County General Hospital with A. A. representatives present. In Los Angeles County, the Mental Health Department will not recommend, nor will the judges permit commitment of alcoholics to state hospitals, unless the alcoholic himself signs the commitment papers. Because the alcoholic must come in voluntarily and sober, the superior court generally does not get the skid row element.

The City of Los Angeles has recently opened a $2,000,000, 581-acre alcoholic rehabilitation farm, with an initial capacity of 600, under the jurisdiction of the police department. By arrangement with the courts, prisoners are sent to the center for 180 days under suspended sentence.

At the farm, Alcoholics Anonymous is available as well as a high school level educational program and vocational training. The farm authorities attempt to locate jobs for the inmates on their release.

The judges cooperate by sending only those alcoholics who look like they can be helped. Men for whom nothing apparently can be done—the great bulk of individuals on skid row—will still be untouched by the new alcoholic rehabilitation program of Los Angeles City.

Throughout California within the jurisdiction of local law enforcement, the general practice is to arrest "drunks," put them in "drunk tanks," release most of them the following day without preferring charges, and sentence the remainder to jail or road camps. It is easy to condemn these costly and wasteful practices, but difficult to suggest satisfactory and workable alternatives.

Private Programs

The treatment program of Alcoholics Anonymous has been described briefly elsewhere in this report. Here it is necessary to say only that A. A. in California, as in other parts of the nation, cooperates with many projects that help to rehabilitate alcoholics. A. A. groups are working in California's state mental hospitals, within state prisons and local jails, and in almost every community in the State.

A key to the drive and enthusiasm of A. A. lies in the responsibility given to or assumed by individual members in the rehabilitation of other alcoholics. In effect, by being their brothers' keeper, they themselves have a compelling reason to remain sober.

Consequently, A. A., while willing to cooperate with other treatment programs, will accept no outside aid of any kind for its own organization. Expenses are paid by the members themselves and work is performed on a voluntary basis.

Two points about A. A. should be emphasized: (1) A. A. is no cure-all for the problem of alcoholism. Although most informed persons will readily agree that A. A. has had more success in the rehabilitation of alcoholics than any other single approach, it is also true that many alcoholics will not accept the A. A. approach; and (2) A. A. lacks reliable statistics—as do other treatment programs—to show its degree of success. Because the lines of organization are so vague, it is impossible to state accurately the number of A. A. members in an "active" status at any given time, and there is no follow-up system to determine the number of former A. A. members who resume drinking.

Although A. A. as an organization does not sponsor other types of alcoholic programs, individual members are often active. One such outside activity has been the establishment of Twelfth Step Houses in San Francisco, Los Angeles and Sacramento.

The Twelfth Step House might be called a convalescent center for alcoholics who want help with their problem, who have been dry for 12 to 24 hours, who will help pay the expenses of the house, and who are employable persons.

Members of A. A. are also active in local affiliates of the National Committee of Alcoholism which is, however, a voluntary health agency containing both recovered alcoholic and non-alcoholic members. The Santa Barbara branch, the most active in California, has established an alcoholic information center and clinic, produced and distributed educational materials and held periodical public forums on the problem of alcoholism.

Other groups in California directly or indirectly interested in alcoholism are available to the State Alcoholic Rehabilitation Commission for consultation. In Los Angeles, for example, there is the Southern California Mental Hygiene Society, the California Medical Association, the Council on Alcoholism and at least two private alcoholic convalescent centers similar to Twelfth Step House. In the Bay Area the Salvation Army and several missions as well as the Northern California Service League are active.

Herrick Hospital in Berkeley and Queen of the Angels in Los Angeles are the only private hospitals in California with an organized program for alcoholics. In Herrick Hospital the alcoholics are placed in a separate area and are cared for by a special staff on a short term basis.

Privately operated sanitariums specializing in the treatment of alcoholism are numerous in California, particularly in the Los Angeles area. Among these sanitariums are those offering medical treatment in the acute stages of intoxication, those providing supportive treatment such as conditioned reflex therapy or antabuse, those emphasizing A. A. techniques and those offering psychiatric treatment. However, the costs of treatment programs in these sanitariums are often beyond the means of many alcoholics.

There are few industrially supported alcoholic rehabilitation programs in California. Traditionally in industry the alcoholic has been threatened and then discharged. There are recent indications that industry is taking a somewhat changed attitude toward excessive drinking. Realizing that many excellent employees are involved, several large corporations in California—notably in the oil and aircraft industries—have undertaken special programs for excessive drinkers. For example, during the past four years one large aircraft manufacturer has operated an experimental program for alcoholic employees. An employee counselor within the industrial relations division of the company is available for consultation with any employee. The counseling approach is to assist the employees in understanding the reasons why they drink to excess. The company estimates that perhaps half of the employees who drank to excess have again become good producers.

CHAPTER 22, 1ST EXTRA SESSION, STATUTES OF 1954

An act to amend Sections 23320 and 25761 of, and to add Chapter 18 to Division 9 of, the Business and Professions Code, relating to alcoholic beverages, and making an appropriation.

The people of the State of California do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. Chapter 18 is added to Division 9 of the Business and Professions Code, to read:

CHAPTER 18. ALCOHOLIC REHABILITATION

26000. There is in the State Government the Alcoholic Rehabilitation Commission which shall consist of nine members, at least three of whom shall be physicians and surgeons licensed under the provisions of Division 2, Chapter 5, of the Business and Professions Code, and six qualified members of the public, at least one of whom shall be a woman, appointed by the Governor and serving at his pleasure.

26001. The members of the commission shall serve without compensation, but shall be reimbursed for their necessary expenses incurred in the performance of their duties as members of the commission.

26002. The commission shall annually elect a chairman from the public members of the commission. The commission shall select a secretary whose duties shall be specified by the commission and who shall be paid such compensation for his services as the commission may determine, in accordance with law, and may employ and appoint such other officers and employees as may be required, in accordance with law.

26003. The commission shall meet at least once every three months and at such other times as they are called by the chairman.

26004. The commission shall investigate, study, and engage in all phases of the treatment and rehabilitation of alcoholics, and shall investigate and study other factors necessary to the reduction and prevention of chronic alcoholism and other excessive uses of alcohol, and shall periodically report its findings thereon to the Governor and to the Legislature together with its recommendations, and shall make its final report to the Governor and to the Legislature not later than October 15, 1956. The commission shall cease to exist on September 30, 1957.

SEC. 2. Out of any money in the State Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) is hereby appropriated to the Alcoholic Rehabilitation Commission for the purposes of this act.

SEC. 3. Section 23320 of the Business and Professions Code is amended to read: 23320. The following are the types of licenses to be issued under this division and the annual fees to be charged therefor:

(1)	Beer manufacturer's license.....	$825.00 per year
(2)	Wine grower's license (to be computed only on the gallage produced), 5,000 gallons or less.....	22.00 per year
	Over 5,000 gallons to 20,000 gallons per year.....	44.00 per year
	Over 20,000 to 100,000 gallons per year.....	82.50 per year
	Over 100,000 to 200,000 gallons per year.....	110.00 per year
	Over 200,000 gallons to 1,000,000 gallons per year.....	165.00 per year
	For each 1,000,000 gallons or fraction thereof over 1,000,000 gallons an additional.....	110.00 per year
(3)	Brandy manufacturer's license.....	165.00 per year
(4)	Distilled spirits manufacturer's license.....	275.00 per year
(5)	Distilled spirits manufacturer's agent's license.....	275.00 per year
(6)	Still license.....	11.00 per year
(7)	Rectifier's license.....	275.00 per year
(8)	Wine rectifier's license.....	275.00 per year
(9)	Beer bottling or packaging license.....	550.00 per year
(10)	Beer and wine importer's license.....	No fee
(11)	Brandy importer's license.....	No fee
(12)	Distilled spirits importer's license.....	No fee
(13)	Public warehouse license.....	11.00 per year
(14)	Customs broker's license.....	55.00 per year
(15)	Wine broker's license.....	55.00 per year
(16)	Beer and wine wholesaler's license.....	55.00 per year
(17)	Distilled spirits wholesaler's license.....	275.00 per year
(18)	Industrial alcohol dealer's license.....	55.00 per year
(19)	Retail package off-sale beer and wine license.....	11.00 per year
(20)	Retail package off-sale general license for the first $10,000 retail sales of distilled spirits per year.....	121.00 per year
	For each $1,000 or fraction thereof of retail sales of distilled spirits over $10,000 per year.....	11.00 per year
	But not exceeding in all the maximum of.....	825.00 per year
(21)	On-sale beer license.....	27.50 per year
(22)	On-sale beer and wine license.....	82.50 per year
(23)	On-sale beer and wine license for trains (per train).....	16.50 per year
(24)	On-sale beer and wine license for boats (per boat).....	55.00 per year
(25)	On-sale general license.....	82.50 per year
	plus an additional fee as set by the board for the distilled spirits privileges.....
(26)	On-sale general license for seasonal business.....	20.62 per 1/4-year plus an additional fee as set by the board for the distilled spirits privileges.....

Every fee imposed with respect to a license by any other provision of this division shall be increased to an amount equal to 10 percent (10%) of the amount of such fee.

The increase in fees made by this amendment shall not be affected by the limitation placed by Section 26004 upon the existence of the Alcoholic Rehabilitation Commission.

SEC. 4. Section 25761 of the Business and Professions Code is amended to read: 25761. All money collected as license fees and under the excise tax provisions of this division shall be deposited in the State Treasury to the credit of the Alcohol Beverage Control Fund, which fund is continued in existence.

The money in the Alcohol Beverage Control Fund is appropriated as follows:

(a) All money collected from fees, except the additional revenue produced by the 10 percent increase in fees made by the act amending this section, shall be paid semiannually to the counties, cities and counties, and cities of this State in the proportion that the amount of the fees collected in the particular county, city and county, or city bears to the total amount collected throughout the State. The Controller shall, during the months of April and October of the year, draw his warrants upon the fund in favor of the treasurer of each county, city and county, and city for the amount to which each is entitled under this section.

(b) Such amount as is necessary for the allowance of the refunds provided for in this division.

(c) Any remaining balance shall be transferred to the General Fund on the order of the Controller.

Use of Stock Plans and Portable Units by Selected School Districts, State of California

Prepared by the Legislative Auditor October 20, 1954

In a report by the Legislative Auditor under date of February 17, 1954, there was presented to the Joint Legislative Budget Committee an analysis of school building costs as well as policies and procedures of the Los Angeles city school district in using standard movable units to meet school building needs.

The report demonstrated that Los Angeles was not only able to hasten the construction of school facilities and take advantage of the flexibility afforded by these portable school units, but her experience also indicated a very favorable unit cost in comparison with school districts which have borrowed under the state school building construction program. This report is for the purpose of describing the experience of certain other school districts, particularly San Diego, Stockton, and Sacramento, which have had apparent success in the using of similar procedures and policies for stock plans and portable units.

These school districts were found to be following procedures somewhat similar to the Los Angeles city school district, although to a modified degree, since they are not only smaller but have not had population pressures and dislocations to the degree experienced by the Los Angeles district. However, it would appear that the results experienced by these districts are comparable in that they have saved both money in the cost of construction and time in the effort to provide facilities in areas of suddenly developed pressures.

USE OF STOCK PLANS

The San Diego and Sacramento city school districts do not make use of stock plans, as such, for permanent construction. However, San Diego does employ a full-time staff architect who guides the work of the private architects engaged for the design of permanent structures so that there is a degree of uniformity in the types of spaces provided and the utilization of them, and a general tendency towards standardization of the facilities. Sacramento engages the services of a private architect to act as a supervising architect for all its construction. The supervising architect takes care of the very early preliminary design, for which he receives 1 percent, and the job is then turned over for completion to another private architect under contract, who receives 7 percent, making a total of 8 percent for each permanent school plant.

On the other hand, the Stockton city school district makes use of a regular stock plan for a school plant consisting of 15 classrooms, two kindergartens, administration area, multiuse room measuring 50 by 90 feet, with kitchen, toilet areas, and open covered corridors. This stock plan contains approximately 32,000 square feet and is unitized so that the number of classrooms may be reduced if the initial plant is not required to be so large. In the last several years the Stockton district has built five complete school plants using these stock plans, in which three of them used the entire size of the plan, one reduced the plan by five classrooms and two kindergartens, and one reduced the plans by five classrooms only. Construction costs varied from $9.51 to $10.62 per square foot for a complete school plant. The plans were reused in every detail, with the exception of those changes which were required to be made to accommodate the plan to the particular site. It is significant to note that in fairly close proximity another school district received bids on an new school plant of approximately the same size to be built under the state-aid program, at $13.61 per square foot, or approximately $3 per square foot more than the Stockton district.

Even in the Sacramento and San Diego districts where actual stock plans were not used, but where design was under the control of a supervising architect, costs have appeared to be somewhat less than experienced in districts in the immediate vicinity of the two mentioned, which were constructing school plants under the state-aid program. This experience reasonably parallels that of the Los Angeles city district, which was described in the February report.

Portable Units

All three of the districts surveyed in this report are using portable classrooms, administrative and sanitary units to some degree. San Diego began using portable units as far back as 1947; Stockton started using them in 1953, and Sacramento in 1952. In San Diego the cost per square foot in 1947 for portable buildings was $7.14. This dropped to a low of $6.03 in the middle of 1949, which was at the low point in the construction cost index. Subsequently, it began to rise steadily with the advent of the Korean War to a high of $8.82 in the middle of 1951, and then gradually fell. In November of 1953, it stood at $6.78. Since the inception of the program of portable units, San Diego has constructed approximately 330 classrooms, plus 34 other types of rooms such as toilets, administration, et cetera. Sacramento has constructed approximately 100 classrooms, and Stockton approximately 65 classrooms.

The physical characteristics of the portable unit show a remarkable uniformity of quality and detail among the three school districts in this report. All have acoustical ceilings, asphalt tile floors, built-in sinks, adequate cupboard space, artificial lighting facilities equivalent to any found in permanent types of classrooms, gas-fired, forced-air heat, and a general interior and exterior quality of construction and finish which would indicate that the buildings should have a minimum life of not less than 25 years, and with reasonable maintenance, possibly 50 years. However, it should be recognized that each time a portable unit is moved from one site to another some racking and twisting will take place, which may tend to either shorten the life of the building or require increased maintenance to keep the building in a good state of repair. It is interesting to note, however, that the maintenance engineer on the staff of the San Diego district stated that from his experience the portable buildings are actually less expensive to maintain than the permanent classrooms.

Architects' Fees

While the matter of architects' fees is an important element of cost the fact should be stressed that the use and reuse of stock plans and the use of portable types of buildings results usually in far greater savings in construction costs, percentage-wise, than could ever be realized from any special arrangement that might be made with architects for reduced fees.

The San Diego City School District, when planning a permanent type of school plant, engages an architect on the standard fee basis of eight percent of the construction cost. However, when planning additional portable buildings, an architect is engaged to lay out the site, and engineer the utilities that are necessary, both for the portable buildings and for the permanent plant that will follow, if a new site is involved. In addition, he provides the necessary plans, indicating how the portable buildings will be accommodated to the site. For this work he receives  $3\frac{1}{2}$  percent of the contract cost, which covers utilities, fencing, grading, paving, and any other work required to make the site adequate and satisfactory for the portable buildings.

The Sacramento City School District, in planning permanent plants, uses a somewhat different approach. Since it employs a supervising architect who does the general design work for a 1 percent fee, the detailed working drawings and specifications are then contracted to another architect who receives a 7 percent fee, which makes a total of 8 percent for architectural fees for the entire planning job. In this case, the rate of architectural fees is the same as for most other school districts. However, because of the continuity of design afforded by the use of a supervising architect, there is probably a substantial savings made by the standardization which results. In using portable types of buildings, the district originally paid 8 percent for the plans of the first portable buildings which were constructed. Subsequent reuse of these plans for the construction of additional portable buildings involved a payment of 1 percent to the original architect, who also provided the necessary services to accommodate the buildings to the site, as well as inspection during construction, clearance through the State Division of Architecture, handling of bids, et cetera.

The Stockton City School District, on the other hand, in planning permanent plants, uses the so-called stock plans, which are the property of the district. The architect employed to accommodate these plans to the site, and to provide the necessary architectural services in providing utilities, grading, fencing, et cetera, receives  $3\frac{1}{2}$  percent of the total cost of the project. On this basis alone the district saves  $4\frac{1}{2}$  percent in architectural fees by the use of stock plans, not to mention the reduced construction costs that result by virtue of the fact that all interested contractors are thoroughly familiar with the design and all its details. As mentioned earlier in this report, there appears to be a difference of approximately \$3 per square foot in the cost of construction between the Stockton district and areas immediately surrounding, which represent a saving of over 20 percent. In constructing its portable classrooms, the Stockton district has used an approach that is somewhat different than any of the others. The architect was paid a flat fee of \$800 for the original plans of the first classroom, which resulted in approximately a 10 percent fee. For all subsequent classrooms, he received a flat fee of \$350 each which, on the basis of the cost of construction, amounted to roughly 4½ percent. However, it might be pointed out that the Stockton portable buildings appear to have enjoyed the lowest cost per square foot of the three districts in this report.

Portable Classroom Construction Under the State-Aided Program

The Norwalk city school district, in Los Angeles County, applied for state aid in the building of a total of 20 portable classrooms to be added to five of their existing permanent school plants. The classroom space was urgently required at the earliest possible time, which resulted in the decision to use the portable type of classroom. In addition, it was thought that there might be population shifts within this large district, which might make the portability useful in the future. The State Allocation Board approved the application on an estimated cost of $7 a square foot, as of April 21, 1954. On June 15, 1954, bids were opened, which resulted in a square foot cost of $5.82. This results in the accommodation of 660 pupils at less than one-half of the cost and in much less time than would have been the case if standard permanent construction had been attempted.

USE OF STOCK PLAN PROCEDURES BY OTHER SCHOOL DISTRICTS

While the San Diego and Sacramento school districts do not use stock plans as such, the extremely favorable experience by the Stockton city school district in the use of stock plans, and the favorable experience by the Los Angeles city school district in the use of stock plans, indicate that there are few, if any, valid reasons why the same procedure cannot be used by many other school districts in the State. By using the unitized method of either the Los Angeles or the Stockton districts, it is, in our opinion, unlikely that any school district would experience difficulties, except in the comparatively infrequent event of an unusually difficult site. We recommend the development of a series of stock plans, possibly by the State Department of Education, along the lines of either the Stockton or Los Angeles method. While this should moderately reduce fees we again stress that architects' fees are of comparatively small moment as compared to the substantial construction savings which could be made by the use and reuse of flexible stock plans. We see no reason why stock plans of either the Los Angeles district or Stockton district cannot be reused by any other districts, and have been assured, at least by the Los Angeles district, that these plans are available for the asking at merely the cost of reproduction. There are comparatively few sites to which these plans could not be readily accommodated by a competent architect for a reasonable fee.

Institutional Licensing Program of the Department of Social Welfare

Prepared by Legislative Auditor, Oct. 21, 1954

PURPOSE OF THE STUDY

The licensing of child care facilities and aged homes and institutions by the Social Welfare Department is a function which cost the State of California $416,718 in the calendar year 1953. There are less than 1,200 of these homes, which means the State spends approximately $350 annually for each license. In addition to this expense, the State, by means of subvention, pays substantial sums to the counties for licensing homes with less than 15 inhabitants. Those the State has delegated to county jurisdiction. For the Fiscal Year 1954-55 it is estimated that this will cost the State $969,750 for the licensing of an estimated 17,800 homes. While the maximum subvention rate is $5 per month per home, it is estimated that only $4.54 per month, or $54.48 per year will be expended. The total annual cost to the State for licensing is approximately $1,386,000. More than half of the homes licensed by counties have only one or two children with only a small fraction of them having more than four. Obviously, county licensing is a much simpler operation than licensing the larger homes and institutions served directly by the State, and counties are able to carry much higher work loads. This study is limited to an examination of the licensing programs conducted by the State. Both the basic policies of the licensing function and their administration have been examined.

The state program for licensing of facilities serving the young and the old is not operated as an automatic function of checking individual homes and institutions with fixed standards. It actually serves more as a consulting, advisory, and observing program for the dual purposes of aiding the operators and safeguarding those persons who by choice, necessity, or circumstances beyond their control must rely upon others for care traditionally associated with a family.

Should the activity of the State be limited to the single function of licensing with a once-a-year inspection of premises to determine if fixed standards had been met, the cost of the function could, of course, be greatly reduced. On the other hand, should the activity be concentrated upon constant work with the licensed institutions to advise on every aspect of institutional management and related welfare policies, there is practically no limit to the staff which could be utilized nor the expenditure required for this purpose. It is assumed, on the basis of existing statutes and legislative policy, that the State's appropriate responsibility lies somewhere within these two extremes, and that the development of consistent and reasonable administrative policies and the enforcement of definite standards will not only result in controllable expenditures but will fully meet the State's responsibility.

Legal Basis and Departmental Policy for the Licensing Program

Sections 1620-1631 and 2300-2311 of the Welfare and Institutions Code authorize the licensing of childrens' and aged homes and institutions respectively. The substantive procedures for both sections of the code are essentially the same. The laws stipulate that licenses are issued annually with the burden of renewal upon the applicant who must file a request 10 days before expiration of the current license. The Department of Social Welfare is authorized to inspect any of the institutions at any time. The whole licensing program may be delegated to lesser units of government if they meet certain requirements (this is done for all homes with less than 15 persons and for nurseries caring for less than 10). Licenses are nontransferable and subject to revocation for cause after notice and hearing. It is a misdemeanor to operate without a license. Licenses are issued without charge to the operator although the code does not specifically require it.

The most significant provision of these laws is that virtually unlimited delegation of authority to devise standards is made to the Department of Social Welfare. As a result, the department has written separate standards for aged homes, aged institutions, day nurseries, children's institutions, foster homes, maternity homes, child placing agencies, child-parent institutions, and established camps in California. Standards for all of these various activities are promulgated by the Social Welfare Board after they have been devised by committees consisting of representatives of the department, operators of the institutions to be regulated, and other persons.

Few of the standards used at the present time are concrete or subject to rigid interpretation, although the department has made commendable improvements in its day nursery standards and is presently engaged in revising standards for other types of licensed operations. Generalized standards are purposely used since it leaves the social worker latitude to encourage the improvement of substandard homes and to continue to improve good or excellent ones. There is a question involved, however, in using indefinite and generalized standards as a basis of enforcing the licensing laws. For example, if the department discovers a home or an institution which appears to be offering substandard service or an unhealthy atmosphere to its clientele, the person in the department charged with inspecting the home is faced with the responsibility of specifically setting forth the standards which have been violated in order to have a cause for revocation of the license. Since the indefinite standards allow for such a wide range of subjective judgment on the part of the individual licensing inspectors if a beligerent owner were not supplied with specific charges, it would appear to be relatively easy for him to prove arbitrary action on the part of the State. According to some persons in the department, such problems as this have actually arisen and the department has shied from enforcement because it had little basis for positive proof of violation of standards. It is suggested that as the standards are revised, the Department of Social Welfare should adopt specific standards for all of the homes and institutions licensed. These minimum standards should also be uniformly enforced by all social workers in all areas so that the possibility of proving arbitrary action by operators of substandard homes would be reduced to a minimum. The development of standards also affords increased protection to the owner against possible arbitrary acts.

Regarding the license itself, consideration should be given to the policy of issuing licenses without charge to the operator. The so-called "commercial" boarding home for both aged and children and most day nurseries are businesses conducted for profit. Personnel in the department maintain that the profits enjoyed by many of the operators is small and that a license fee would be just another burden. This rationale, however, would apply to many licensed activities for which a charge is made. It would hardly be expected that fees approaching the present cost of issuing a license should be charged; however, a token fee should be levied that would be large enough to let the operator know that he has a responsibility to the State for permission to operate his business and for the services he receives from the social workers. Such fees could be waived for charitable non-profit institutions. While revenue from license fees would be nominal, it would defray some of the present administrative expense.

Summarizing, the department has complete discretion in determining how and to what extent it will regulate the institutions. Standards presently used for aged and children's homes tend to be of such a general nature that they are difficult to enforce. Issuing licenses without charge to the profit-making homes and institutions should be discontinued and an appropriate fee levied.

Licensing Inspectors

The persons inspecting licensed institutions in California are classified by the Personnel Board as Program Specialist I and Program Specialist II (both child welfare and public assistance specialists formerly referred to as social welfare agents). Preferential qualifications for these positions are the accumulation of a bachelors degree with one year of graduate study in social work. Departmental efforts to get trained personnel and professional pressure from social workers' organizations is toward making this an exclusive qualification, but as yet it has not been accomplished. The alternative requirement is social work experience. Since graduate degrees in social work require two years study, supervisory personnel in the department encourage those lacking proper credits to complete their degrees.

As a result of these factors workers in the licensing program are a group of professionalized people whose orientation is generally away from exercising police power and law enforcement. The standards used by these people reflect their thinking and workers admirably avoid asserting authority with unyielding rigidity. The zeal of the social workers to aid, advise and provide extensive services to the institutions which they license is commendable in its thoroughness and sincerity. There is also a very practical result from this type of approach since the department has encouraged enough operators to maintain homes and institutions so that the State has not had to undertake care of the well aged, maternity cases, and normal children in state institutions. Conversely, however, the lack of a firm and direct approach to people with whom they are dealing often causes confusion and dissatisfaction.

The licensing agents tend to spend a good deal of time on both their visits and their reports with superfluous and extraneous detail. They are given wide latitude on procedure with insufficient control exercised over the purview of their activities. As a result there is a good deal of variety, inconsistency and subjective evaluation evidenced in judging various institutions. In some cases, this goes so far as to have a new worker seriously question the judgment used by his predecessor in granting a home or institution a license. Such a program as now exists cannot be successful if it proceeds by purely objective standards but it is recommended that the restriction and limitations of the licensing program and the discretion granted to social workers be more firmly controlled. The program could be improved considerably through better management techniques.

Work Loads and Use of Working Time

The number of agents inspecting institutions is determined by distributing the total case load of each area to the agents on the basis of individual work loads. Two general categories for work loads have been established, one for day nurseries which is 44 "actions" per year, and the other for "24-hour care institutions" which is 21 "actions" per year. The responsibilities for licensing day nurseries are considered substantially less than that for 24-hour care homes. Actions are defined as (1) granting a new license, (2) renewing a license, (3) refusing to issue a license to an applicant, or (4) revoking a license. Obviously, the amount of work involved in an "action" can vary considerably. This study makes no attempt to define a better work load measure but it appears that some improvement should be possible. When asked how such work loads were derived, people responsible for them said they were the result of a study of actual operations of selected workers of average performance as well as general past experience. It should be made clear at this point that the work load standards resulting from the study made by the department in 1952 were geared to lower than average production of the workers observed. One worker had a load of 60-day nurseries and another 28 24-hour care institutions. The workers studied were in urban areas where travel time would ordinarily be less than in the outlying districts. In addition, it must be recognized that basing work loads upon existing practices did not contemplate any improvement in methods of procedures.

At present the inspecting personnel spend approximately 35 to 50 percent of their time in the field and the remaining time in the area office dictating and proofreading social reports (each of which takes from one-half to one and a half days to record) answering correspondence, preparing the next field trip, and numerous staff meetings and conferences aimed at improving their methods and exchanging information. All of the inspectors operate out of the area offices which involves extensive travel for those serving outlying districts.

This excessive office time could be reduced substantially without hindering the program as it exists if the following suggested administrative changes were effected:

1. Check sheets should be used to compile all essential basic factual data required by law and rules and regulations made thereunder.
2. "Social reports" should be organized in uniform topical sequence so that all pertinent information, including the subjective analysis by the social worker, is presented in a succinct and disciplined manner so that irrelevant material could be eliminated. This would enable comparisons of institutions and sharpen the focus on specific topics without requiring reading completely through lengthy reports organized in completely different manners.
3. A more clear definition should be made of the purview of the licensing program. This would include limiting regulation to those matters essential to licensing and curtail the apparent interference with certain aspects of the internal management of the institution which actually are not a responsibility of the State.

4. Staff conferences should be reviewed by supervisory personnel for a determination of necessity.

If the above suggestions become controlled procedure it should be possible for social workers to spend considerably less office time on each individual case in their work load.

Time actually spent in the field also could be used more effectively. The following are suggestions:

1. Agendas setting out points to be covered at each visit should be prepared.
2. Past social reports should be consulted to see if they cover current questions.
3. Correspondence should be utilized wherever possible to acquire factual information or answers to specific information.
4. Agents, or inspectors, should discuss and advocate only such social theories, methods of institutional administration, and treatment of persons as are declared policies of the State.
5. Visits to licensed institutions should be made only as often as essential rather than periodically. (Some institutions, of course, require more attention than others). Minor matters should be handled by correspondence or at the next scheduled visit.

These suggestions should enable the licensing agents to increase their effectiveness substantially.

By shortening the office time spent on individual cases and increasing the efficiency of field work, as suggested above, it should be feasible to increase work loads from 44 to 60 day nurseries, and from 21 to 30 in the case of 24-hour care institutions without in any way hindering the basic philosophy of the present program. The recommended work loads have been carried by the department in the past as the department's own study indicates. It also recommended that work loads be geared toward more productive workers rather than the least.

Case Files on Licensed Institutions

The Department of Social Welfare maintains elaborate case files on each institution licensed. Since departmental licenses are issued each year, there is at least one annual "social report" made of each institution. The department, however, generally visits each of these institutions much more often than once a year. For example, the San Francisco area office attempts to visit each licensed institution quarterly. After each of these visits a social report is dictated describing the results of the visit and this is added to the file. All of these dictated reports are lengthy and, combined with all of the correspondence, newspaper clippings, material put out by the institution, and other information pertinent to the case, the files achieve a substantial bulk.

This type of complete record is of value to the agency to check the past record of an institution and in instances where court action may be necessary; however, several marked shortcomings in the files were noted. The most serious failing of the case files is that there is no organized or uniform compilation of basic factual data pertinent to the institution located in a particular place. There is reluctance on the part of many of the social workers, particularly at the supervisory level, to make use of check sheets or other devices for the compilation of essential basic information regarding licensed operations. It is suggested that the department determine the basic factual data it desires to be contained in the files and see that it is uniformly presented in all of the files. This would be determined by the requirements of applicable laws and rules and regulations promulgated thereunder. For example, there is no reason why the layout and measurements of the physical plant and equipment, a description of the administration and staff, financial arrangements, health and fire clearances, daily operational programs, and other pertinent information cannot be compiled on a form and placed in the file ready for reference for review and for comparative or statistical information. The Los Angeles area office has such a form for day nurseries. Such a check sheet would reduce the bulk of the files substantially and save a great deal of typing and dictating which would free both social workers and typists for other duties.

A second shortcoming of the files is the lack of organization of the material which is now contained in them. The general revulsion against standardization of information carries over into the compilation of information from the "social report." One worker may begin her report with an elaborate discussion of menus, the next may take up finances, and still another may ignore one or both of these items and begin the report with another topic. In short, the individual social worker seems to be guided by her own interests and prepares reports within her own frame of reference. It would be advisable for the department to arrange the social reports in a series of topic headings (e.g. finances, administration, population, facilities, etc.) and number these topics so that each subject deemed necessary would be covered in standardized order. This would prove administratively valuable in that institutions could readily be compared and strengths and weaknesses detected. The "total picture" evaluation would in no way be compromised for it could be set apart as a separate item.

A third criticism of the case files is that they contain a good deal of superfluous information and opinion not pertinent to the issuance of a license. The individual social workers, as pointed out above, have wide latitude in what they wish to investigate. They also have a good deal of discretion in determining what particular methods should be adopted by the agency visited. Social workers are, of course, trained in various areas of social and psychological theories and methods. As in any field of the inexact social sciences, sharp arguments resulting in diametrically opposed viewpoints are not uncommon. This is especially true in areas such as the methods of raising and dealing with children and the effect of environmental atmosphere on the young and old. Very often state employed social workers are dealing with equally well qualified people administering institutions, and on occasion opinions clash. In such event the State should not find itself asserting a particular point of view. An example of this type of material found in reports, though no conclusions are found, appears in the file for an excellently administered children's home in San Francisco which is over 100 years old and has a staff of 31 people, four of them with masters degrees in social work, and a population of 80 children from 5 through 18 years although it is licensed for 120. The following quotation is from a Department of Social Welfare memorandum from the home economist of the state office to the San Francisco area office director:

"The cottages (where the children live) vary in actual food service. Some of them use cloth napkins occasionally, and we discussed how the food service can be a learning experience for the children and a teaching experience on the part of the staff. Dessert has been withheld and used as a reward for clean plates, and we discussed the use of food as a disciplinary weapon."

Even more redundant are the following statements from a large and well administered children's home:

"The kitchen. A large wooden mat has been placed over the cement for the cook's comfort; this extends over the area around the area around the stove and cook's work table.

"The Executive Office has been painted a light blue-grey color and there are new bright tomato colored drapes on the windows (the old cream colored ones dyed)."

Evidently the social worker covering this institution made a complete tour of the building and faithfully noted the new decorations and refurbishing, for the above are only two selected descriptions from a total of 15 in a social report.

The multitude of statements such as these raise a question of policy concerning the degree of responsibility and obligation which the State has in dictating or advocating theoretical practices for the institutions. It would appear that the method of administering dessert, the type of napkins used, color schemes, and consideration of the cook's comfort, should not be a determining factor or a major consideration for a license but rather a matter for the trained and competent administrative staffs to decide. These are only a few of many examples, but they raise the question of the scope of the State's role in issuing a license. Interfering with internal management and organization of an institution should be avoided when standards are not in question.

To conclude, the case files appear to (1) lack much necessary basic factual data arranged in standardized form, (2) are poorly organized, and (3) contain much extraneous material without intrinsic value to the licensing program.

Recommendations

Various changes in administering the institutional licensing program have been suggested above. The following is a summary of recommendations which could be readily effected and would result in a substantial reduction of expense:

1. Accumulation of basic factual data on licensed facilities should be compiled on forms and should be uniform in each area office of the department. Like information on all homes should be contained in each case file.
2. Social reports should be written with clearly defined topic headings which should be standard throughout the State. Material should be better organized and contain more incisive generalizations.

3. A token fee for licenses issued commercial homes, institutions, and day nurseries should be levied. Such fees could be either flat rate or be based upon the capacity of the licensed facility.
4. Workloads for individual works should be increased from 44 to 60 day nurseries and from 21 to 30 homes and institutions offering 24-hour care. These recommendations should in no way hinder or cause any change in the existing type of program. A rough estimate of savings which would result from these increased workloads is shown in the following table:

	Actions<sup>a</sup>	Present employed workers<sup>b</sup>	Recommended workers	Savings<sup>c</sup>
Sacramento area
Day nurseries -----	62	5 <sup>d</sup>	3	$10,650
24-hour care -----	41
San Francisco area
Day nurseries -----	170	6	3	14,610
24-hour care -----	89	6	3	17,340
Los Angeles area
Day nurseries -----	630	18	11	41,460
24-hour care -----	241	14	8 <sup>e</sup>	29,220
Totals -----	1,221	49	27	$113,280
Pro-rated travel reduction on 16 positions -----				3,108 <sup>f</sup>
Total estimated savings -----				$116,388

<sup>a</sup> Actions include unnumbered cases which have not progressed far enough to become a formal numbered application. They have always been considered in work loads previously devised.

<sup>d</sup> Sacramento does not segregate its case loads by day nurseries and 24-hour care homes. This reduction would be one program specialist I and one program specialist II. This reduction does not include a half-time position which licenses boarding homes in Butte County to which the State has not delegated licensing activities.

<sup>e</sup> The difference between numbered and unnumbered cases is enough in this instance that work loads slightly above those recommended could be carried.

<sup>f</sup> Since more field time involving some increased travel is being recommended, 75 percent of the departmental estimate for travel for worker is being used. Travel costs for workers are, by department estimate, $160 in Los Angeles, $236 in San Francisco, and $326 in Sacramento.

Generally the present program serves an admirable purpose. The assumption that it is necessary has been borne out in the course of this investigation, since it is the only protection afforded clientele of the institutions. Also, beginning July 1, 1953, such a program is required by the Federal Government in order to receive matching grants. It has, however, proven to be unnecessarily expensive. Work loads appear to be entirely too low and the use of the inspector's time seems to be more concentrated upon technique than on purpose. Personnel in the Department of Social Welfare contacted and observed in the course of this survey appear to be conscientious, sincere, and qualified. They have been cooperative and generous with information and have expressed an awareness of many of the problems raised in this report which they appear anxious to correct as soon as possible. It is suggested that any increase in workloads be made gradually over the course of a fiscal year so that no disruption of the program would occur.

The Investment of State Funds in Office Buildings

Prepared by the Legislative Auditor
October 29, 1954

During recent months this office has reported to the Joint Legislative Budget Committee, through separate reports, on various aspects of problems and state policy involved in providing state office building space. These have included: (a) an inventory of leases of privately owned space by agency and by location together with the characteristics of these leases; (b) an analysis of policies and procedures involved in the writing of leases and in the purchase of privately owned office space; and (c) suggested criteria for measuring unit costs and determining utilization of both privately owned and state owned space.

Over a period of years office space for certain agencies has also been provided by the device of authorizations for investments in state buildings on the part of selected state funds. As a part of the total picture of state practice in providing office building space, it is the purpose of this report to show the nature of the various authorizations for such investments and the extent to which these have been used.

Table 1 is a condensed summary of the status of all existing projects involving the investment of state funds in office buildings where the investment is to be amortized over a period of years, either with or without interest, out of rents provided by current support appropriations from state funds, or by federal grants.

A detailed description of each project or group of projects is given in the sections which follow under the heading for each of the seven funds involved.

As indicated in Table 1, the total authorized investment is in excess of $33,000,000. In the case of the Professional and Vocational Standards Fund and the Department of Employment Contingent Fund, the amounts shown in Table 1 are the actual expenditures to date, since these projects are completed or substantially so. In the case of the Department of Agriculture Building Fund, the amount shown is the estimated cost, since the enabling legislation does not specify any amount. In all other instances the total shown as authorized is the maximum specified in the enabling legislation.

In all instances except the investments of the Department of Employment Contingent Fund, specific legislation provides for the investment in buildings and covers in greater or lesser detail such things as the specific project, the total amount, the procedure for amortizing the investment on a rental basis, the management of the building, and the agencies having prior right to the use of space. In all these instances the buildings are constructed primarily for the use of a particular agency with provision for rental of excess space to other agencies.

In the case of the Department of Employment Contingent Fund, the projects were authorized by a series of budget item appropriations for capital outlay conditioned upon agreements with the Federal Government to amortize the investment by continued grants for rent. In all except one instance, that of the building in Riverside, the buildings are built for the exclusive use of the Department of Employment.

Table 1—Investment of State Funds in Office Buildings as of October 18, 1954

NOTES: All buildings are in Sacramento unless otherwise indicated. For location of Department of Employment branch offices see Table 3.

Complete information as to the status of these various projects is not available in convenient form at any central point. Certain summary information can be obtained from the Controller's records for the individual funds involved, but for detailed information of any value it was found necessary to go to the records of the individual agencies. Information in the printed budget is very incomplete.

PROFESSIONAL AND VOCATIONAL STANDARDS FUND

Chapters 288/1937, 909/1939, 715/1943, 1426/1949, and 1467/1953 added Sections 400-405 to the Business and Professions Code which authorize the Department of Professional and Vocational Standards, with the approval of the Department of Finance, to acquire real property and construct office buildings for the use of the department or other state agencies. These sections authorize the transfer to the Professional and Vocational Standards Fund, for this purpose, of any surplus money in the funds of any board or commission comprising the Department of Professional and Vocational Standards, at the discretion of the director of that department, or the transfer to the Professional and Vocational Standards Fund of any funds available to the Department of Finance or other agencies for housing facilities. The buildings are to be managed by the Department of Professional and Vocational Standards and the various funds advancing the money are to be reimbursed from rents charged for space in the buildings.

Pursuant to this legislation the Business and Professions Building at 1020 N Street, in Sacramento, was completed in 1940 and the adjoining annex at 1021 O Street in 1949. The original investment, amortization and net investment for each building at June 30, 1954, are shown in the following:

Building	Original investment	Amortization to 6/30/54	Net investment at 6/30/54
1020 N Street.....	$1,750,856	$1,251,012	$499,844
1021 O Street (annex)---	1,323,691	105,218	1,218,473
Totals .....	$3,074,547	$1,356,230	$1,718,317

All of the money for the annex was provided from funds of the various boards comprising the Department of Professional and Vocational Standards while for the original building, in addition to money advanced by these boards money was provided from other sources, including $425,000 by the General Fund Unified Construction Program.

At present about 75 percent of the rentals in the original building and about 80 percent of those in the annex are being paid by General Fund agencies while the Department of Professional and Vocational Standards occupies only about 15 percent of the space in the combined building. Rents are fixed by the Department of Professional and Vocational Standards and while the law was amended in 1949 to provide that interest may be paid on the advances in the manner and amount determined by the Department of Professional and Vocational Standards with the approval of the Director of Finance, none has ever been charged.

In addition to the space occupied by the buildings the Department of Professional and Vocational Standards and the Department of Finance own all of the vacant land in the block occupied by the annex, the state-owned land now being used as a parking lot for the state employees on a rental basis.

The law, in effect, places no limitations on the amount of money which may be invested in buildings through the Professional and Vocational Standards Fund except that of availability of funds. The annex was constructed as part of a structure which could ultimately be expanded to cover all remaining land in the block not covered by the original building, and presumably this will be done as funds become available and the need for additional office space warrants.

The unamortized investment in the buildings at June 30, 1954, by funds, that is, the amounts due from the Professional and Vocational Standards Fund to the investing agencies at June 30, 1954, is shown in Table 2.

DEPARTMENT OF EMPLOYMENT CONTINGENT FUND

The Department of Employment Contingent Fund was created on January 30, 1945, and receives all interest and penalties collected on contributions made under the California Unemployment Insurance Code. There are no provisions in that code covering investments by this fund in office buildings. Between 1948 and 1952, however, the following amounts were appropriated from this fund by the Budget Acts for acquisition of sites and construction of branch offices.

Budget Act	Item No.	Amount
1948 .....	142	$1,000,000

• Includes 2,100 square feet leased to Board of Equalization for $284 per month.

Proposed Item 340 of the Budget Act of 1953, which provided for an appropriation of $1,026,632 from the Contingent Fund for a like purpose, was deleted by the Legislature, and Section 2.1 of the Budget Act of 1954 provides for transfer to the General Fund of any balance in the Contingent Fund in excess of $1,000,000.

As a result of these various appropriations, the Department of Employment has constructed or is in the process of constructing 17 branch office buildings and a warehouse for its own use as detailed in Table 3.

The Federal Government, which finances all operations of the Department of Employment except the Disability and Hospital Benefits Program, has agreed to continue to pay rent for space in the new buildings as they are completed and occupied at the going rate for comparable locations until the Contingent Fund has been reimbursed for the entire cost, after which the buildings are to be occupied rent free. The Disability Fund pays its proportionate share of the rent in any of the buildings which house its operations and the Board of Equalization, which occupies 2,100 square feet of space in the Department of Employment building in Riverside, pays $294 a month rent for the space. There is no agreement as to any interest being paid the Contingent Fund.

All buildings shown in Table 3 have been completed and occupied except those in Vallejo and Inglewood. The latter is under construction and will be completed and occupied during the current fiscal year.

In Vallejo a site was acquired but the city refused permission to build at the proposed location and negotiations are now in progress for the disposition of this site and the acquisition of one acceptable to the city, after which construction will proceed.

SCHOOL LAND FUND

Chapters 11/1951, 12/1951, 1334/1951, and 1597/1951 added Sections 13115 to 13117 to the Government Code which provide that any state agency authorized to invest funds under its control, or the Director of Finance when authorized to invest the money in any special fund, may enter into agreements with certain specified state departments to invest not to exceed certain specified sums in the construction and equipment of office buildings in Sacramento or in Sacramento County. The agencies and amounts specified are as follows:

Department of Motor Vehicles-----	$5,500,000
Department of Highway Patrol (Headquarters)-----	700,000
Department of Highway Patrol (Academy)-----	625,000
Governor—Office of Civil Defense-----	300,000
Total -----	$7,125,000

The law provides that the agreements shall provide that the investments are to be liquidated, with interest at a rate agreed upon between the parties, out of rental charges to be paid by the agencies using the buildings or from such other funds as are available to the Department of Motor Vehicles, the Department of Highway Patrol or the Governor for this purpose.

Sections 13115.6 and 13117 of the Government Code provide for continuing appropriations from the Motor Vehicle Fund in the case of the first three loans listed and the General Fund in the case of the last, of such amounts as may be necessary to pay monthly the amount required to liquidate the investment with interest at the rate agreed upon between the parties. This appropriation is available only if the amounts needed have not been included in the Budget Act for any given fiscal year for support of the agencies involved.

Pursuant to this legislation the Director of Finance has entered into agreements with the agencies involved to make the investments out of the School Land Fund, which is one of the funds he is authorized to invest, with interest at  $2\frac{1}{2}$  percent from the date of the advances in the case of the first two loans and  $2\frac{3}{4}$  percent in the case of the last two, the loan to be repaid in each case in 240 equal monthly installments.

The buildings involved, according to information furnished by the Division of Architecture, were completed on the dates shown in Table 1 and occupied on about the same dates.

Repayments of the loans are to start on the second calendar month following date of completion. To date none have been made since a final accounting for all costs has not been rendered by the Division of Architecture in some instances, and in others it has been necessary to modify the original agreements as to certain technical details.

The costs shown in Table 1 for these buildings are those shown by the Controller's records as of October 18, 1954, which represents transfers to the Architecture Revolving Fund.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE BUILDING FUND

Chapter 11/1950, First Extraordinary Session, in effect July 15, 1950, added Sections 35 to 35.6 to the Agriculture Code, which provide that the department, with the approval of the Department of Finance, can acquire real property and construct and equip buildings. The Department of Agriculture Building Fund is created, to which may be transferred any amounts not needed in the Department of Agriculture Fund or other funds subject to the jurisdiction of the Director of Agriculture, as determined by the Director of Agriculture. Excess space in any buildings may be rented to other state agencies and rentals charged sufficient to provide a reasonable return to the Department of Agriculture Fund for amounts advanced, plus a reasonable rate of interest as determined by the Department of Agriculture with approval of the Director of Finance.

Money in the Department of Agriculture Building Fund is appropriated without regard to fiscal years for construction, operation and maintenance of buildings.

A summary of the Department of Agriculture Building Fund as of October 18, 1954, as shown by the State Controllers' records, is as follows:

Transferred from Department of Agriculture Fund.....	$1,161,168
Expenditures for land and construction.....	1,136,704
Balance 10/18/54 .....	$24,464

Expenditures were for purchase of land on O Street in Sacramento between 12th and 13th immediately south of the old Motor Vehicle Building at 1220 N Street and for construction costs to date. The new building is under construction and is expected to be ready for occupancy by July 1, 1955. The estimated cost, including the land, is $2,187,000, which is the amount shown in Table 1, Column 1.

The law places no limitation on the amount which may be invested in the building, the only limitation being the availability of funds. At present the only money available is the surplus in the Department of Agriculture Fund which supports 40 percent of the activities of the department, the remainder being supported by the General Fund. The Department of Agriculture Fund has had a surplus of about $3,000,000 for the last two years with annual revenues and expenditures of about $4,700,000 each.

The new building is being constructed as an annex to the old Motor Vehicle Building at 1220 N Street, which is being remodeled for the occupancy primarily of the Department of Agriculture. The cost of the remodeling is covered by an appropriation of $500,000 from the Capital Outlay and Savings Fund, Item 361 (i) of the Budget Act of 1952.

Chapter 12, Statutes of 1951, placed the management of the old Motor Vehicle Building at 1220 N Street with the Department of Finance at the time it was vacated by the Department of Motor Vehicles, and provided that the Department of Finance shall charge rent to agencies occupying the building until the appraised value of the building, as of the date vacated by the Department of Motor Vehicles, has been amortized, the proceeds from the rent to be paid into the Motor Vehicle Fund.

Present indications are that the Department of Agriculture will occupy most of the space in the old Motor Vehicle Building as well as in the new annex.

Section 35.3 of the Agricultural Code provides that space in the new building now under construction shall be allocated by the Director of Agriculture primarily to the units in the Department of Agriculture financed by special funds and that he shall charge rent for use of the space until such time as the advances made to the Department of Agriculture Building Fund have been repaid. Thereafter, the management of the building will be transferred to the Department of Finance, which under Section 35.4 of the Agricultural Code will apparently have authority to charge rent to any agency using the building, including all units of the Department of Agriculture.

During the period prior to repayment of the advances, the Department of Agriculture Fund will, in effect, be paying rent to itself for use of the building.

DISABILITY FUND

Sections 3125 to 3130 of the Unemployment Insurance Code, based on Chapters 1603/1951 and 1776/1953, provide that the Director of the Department of Employment, with the approval of the Department of Finance may invest the money in the Disability Fund for the construction and equipment of a building or buildings and appurtenant facilities for use of the Department of Employment as a central office in Sacramento, such investment not to exceed $10,450,000. The money is to be repaid from rentals at rates to be approved by the Department of Finance plus interest at a reasonable rate to be determined by the Director of the Department of Employment with the approval of the Department of Finance.

Any buildings acquired under these provisions may contain space in excess of the requirements of the Department of Employment and until needed may be leased by the Director at such rental and upon such terms and conditions as may be approved by the Department of Finance.

The building is now under construction on land owned by the State, consisting of the two blocks bounded by N, Capitol Avenue, Seventh and Ninth Streets on the Capitol Mall in Sacramento, and will be finished late in 1955 or early in 1956. To date, $1,671.217 has been advanced to cover construction costs. This amount includes $271,217 to cover the cost of a temporary one-story building on part of the property at Seventh and N Streets for use of the Department of Veterans Affairs, pending completion by that department of its own building at 13th and O Streets in Sacramento.

The Department of Veterans Affairs started paying rent for the space on May 1, 1954, at $3,960 per month, which includes 3 percent interest, or at the rate of $47,520 per year, including interest of $1,384. At this rate, the cost of the building will be completely amortized in slightly under six years.

The building was designed in such a way that it could be moved to another location if desired, when vacated by the Department of Veterans Affairs. Present desires of the Department of Employment appear to be to use the building as a local office in lieu of rented quarters, when available.

The Unemployment Insurance Code provides that, when the loan has been repaid, the management and control of the buildings will rest with the Department of Finance but that the Department of Employment shall have priority to occupancy at rental rates not exceeding the cost of providing maintenance and other services.

Chapter 16/1954, First Extraordinary Session, added Sections 3151 to 3156 to the Unemployment Insurance Code, authorizing the Disability Fund to invest not to exceed $2,750,000 in land and buildings for a branch office for the Department of Employment in Los Angeles. The provisions of these sections relating to rentals, interest, repayment, occupancy, etc., are essentially the same as those with respect to the headquarters office building in Sacramento except that the building shall be subject to the administration of the Department of Finance at all times, with priority given to the needs of the Department of Employment.

Early in October 1954, the Public Works Board approved the acquisition of a site for this building consisting of the entire block bounded by Broadway, Hill Street, Fifteenth Street and Venice Boulevard in Los Angeles, and the Attorney General will shortly start the necessary condemnation proceedings. The land is expected to cost about $250,000.

VETERANS AFFAIRS CONSTRUCTION FUND

Chapter 1413/1953, in effect June 27, 1953, added Sections 996.13 to 996.20 to the Military and Veterans Code, authorizing the Department of Veterans Affairs to construct and equip a building on property acquired for that purpose by the Public Works Board with approval of the Department of Finance and the California Veterans Board. The building is primarily for the department's own use and the total investment including land, cannot exceed $2,500,000.

The law provides for the transfer of surplus money available in the Veterans Farm and Home Building Fund of 1943 to the Veterans Affairs Construction Fund on request of the California Veterans Board and continuously appropriates all money in the latter fund for acquisition and maintenance of the building.

All agencies using the building, including the Department of Veterans Affairs, will pay rent until the entire cost of the building, plus interest, has been amortized. The rental rates are to be set by the Department of Veterans Affairs and the interest rate by the Director of Veterans Affairs with approval of the California Veterans Board.

Negotiations are nearing completion for the acquisition of a site for the building on the east side of O Street between the new Department of Agriculture Building and Thirteenth Street in Sacramento, and to date, $134,654 has been expended on the project. The building will probably not be completed before 1957.

STATE EMPLOYEES RETIREMENT FUND

Chapters 1734/1951 and 1649/1953 added Sections 20215 to 20228 to the Government Code, authorizing the State Employees' Retirement Fund to invest in real property provided such an investment is made for sale or lease to the State. No investment can be made until a lease agreement with the State has been entered into under which the State agrees to rent the property for not to exceed 40 years at a rental sufficient to return the amount of the investment with interest.

Chapter 1649/1953 authorized the State Employees' Retirement System to invest not to exceed $300,000 for acquisition of a site and preparation of preliminary plans for an office building for itself.

Nothing has been done to date to further this project since the Retirement System does not believe it can make the investment until the full amount has been authorized by the Legislature and the rental contract has been executed.

Status of Plans for Organization and Budget of New Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control

Prepared by Legislative Auditor
December 3, 1954

Action of the voters in approving Proposition No. 3 on November 2, 1954, has the effect of creating a new agency which will start to function as such on January 1, 1955, in the middle of a budget year. This creates unusual problems since no budget as such has been prepared specifically for the new agency for the first six months of its operation.

A budget will be prepared in the usual way for 1955-56 but its preparation will be delayed until the program of the new director has been developed.

Accordingly, we believe it appropriate to point out at this time the basic legislation and some of the problems involved in connection with the establishment of the new Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control.

SENATE CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT No. 4

Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 4, which was approved by the voters as Proposition No. 3 on November 2, 1954, provides for the creation of a Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control headed by a director, appointed by the Governor subject to confirmation by the Senate, and the transfer from the Board of Equalization to the new department of the power "to license the manufacture, importation and sale of intoxicating liquors in this State, and to collect license fees or occupation taxes on account thereof."

It provides that the director may appoint, exempt from civil service, three persons, in addition to the one he is entitled to under Section 4 of Article XXIV of the Constitution, or a total of four exempt employees.

It also provides for the creation of a three-member appeals board appointed by the Governor, subject to confirmation by the Senate, which board will be entitled to appoint one person exempt from civil service holding a confidential position to it under subdivision (a) (5) of Section 4 of Article XXIV of the Constitution.

It further provides that the power to assess and collect excise taxes on the manufacture, importation and sale of alcoholic beverages in California shall remain with the Board of Equalization.

The constitutional amendment by its terms becomes operative January 1, 1955.

SENATE BILL No. 28

Senate Bill No. 28, the enabling act, enacted as Chapter 20, Statutes of 1954, First Extraordinary Session, becomes operative January 1, 1955 and was conditional upon the approval of the voters of Proposition No. 3. It amends Sections 11554 and 11556 of the Government Code to provide an annual salary of $14,000 for the Director of Alcoholic Beverage Control and annual salaries of $12,000 for each member of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Appeals Board. It also adds Sections 23049 to 23091 to Division 9 of the Business and Professions Code, the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act, relating to the new department and the appeals board.

It provides in Section 23054 for the transfer to the new department of all civil service employees in the Board of Equalization, who are carrying out functions transferred to the new department on January 1, 1955, employees so transferred to retain their respective positions in the state civil service; such transfer to be subject to the power of the director "to reorganize the department, to discipline employees transferred for incompetency, inefficiency, inexcusable neglect of duty, prior or subsequent to the transfer, or for any other cause for discipline provided by law, and to lay off and demote employees for lack of funds," such actions to be subject to the provisions of Article XXIV of the Constitution and the State Civil Service Act.

It provides, in Section 23055 for the transfer to the new department on January 1, 1955, of the unencumbered balance of all money available to the Board of Equalization in carrying out the functions transferred, together with all related books, documents, records and property.

It provides, in Section 23076 that the director shall furnish the appeals board with the equipment, supplies and housing necessary to its operations and shall perform such other mechanics of administration as the board and the director may agree upon.

BUDGET, JANUARY 1 TO JUNE 30, 1955

During the period from January 1, 1955, to June 30, 1955, the new department will operate within the framework of that portion of Item 120 of the Budget Act of 1954 which relates to the alcoholic beverage control operations of the Board of Equalization.

This budget, however, contains no provision for the salaries and expenses of the members of the appeals board, the director, the five new exempt positions, in case they were to be added to the existing organization, or related clerical help, operating expenses and equipment, the cost of which may require an allocation from the emergency fund.

Our estimate, made September 3, 1954, is that these costs will not exceed $100,000 for this period, and no later estimate is available.

The amounts included in Item 120 of the Budget Act of 1954 which relate directly to alcoholic beverage control are those detailed on pages 425 and 426 of the printed budget under the heading Alcoholic Beverage Control Division, Headquarters and Alcoholic Beverage Control Division Districts, and total $2,386,626 for the Fiscal Year 1954-55, as adjusted by the Legislature. This amount includes salaries of $178,565 for services rendered by employees in other divisions of the Board of Equalization at district liquor control offices.

In addition there are other costs attributable to Alcoholic Beverage Control which are not included in the foregoing. These comprise services performed by the Division of General Administration, Division of Research and Statistics and the Service Division. They include general administrative supervision, accounting and budgeting, personnel, mailing, cashiering, supplies and the furnishing of office space in rented locations. An attempt is being made at present by the agency and the Department of Finance to identify these costs, but no detailed data are yet available.

Since the services represented by these two categories are closely integrated with other activities of the Board of Equalization and represent only a minor part of the total of such activities presently performed by the Board of Equalization it will take some time and study to work out the details involved in a separation. Accordingly it will probably be necessary for the new agency to contract with the Board of Equalization for performance of these services at least to June 30, 1955, and as to some of them, perhaps for a longer period.

BUDGET FOR 1955-56

The budget of the new agency for the first full fiscal year of its operation, i.e., 1955-56, will depend to a large extent on the policies and program of the new director, as to which nothing is known at this time. It is reasonable to assume, however, that these will differ radically in many respects from those of the Board of Equalization.

The budget will also depend as to certain items at least, on experience with operations under the new law for the balance of this fiscal year.

There is no way of determining, for example, except by experience, what the workload of the new appeals board will be, nor the size and character of staff which it will require for proper functioning.

All that can be done at this point, therefore, is to point out some of the areas which we feel are important from the standpoint of the budget of the new agency.

1. Off-Sale General License Fee Audits

Section 23320 of the Business and Professions Code provides for a fee for a retail package off-sale general license which is measured in part by volume of sales. This requires examination of the records of such licensees by auditors.

In our budget analysis for 1953-54, pages 197-8, we pointed out that by amending the law to change the basis for the fee to one comparable to that for the on-sale general license, substantial savings would result including the elimination of the necessity for field auditing. In that report we estimated the savings to be $176,560, which estimate was later revised to approximately $100,000, our current estimate of the savings.

The major part of the savings would represent field auditing, all of which is done by sales tax auditors or auditors attached to the Bureau of Tax Assessment of the ABC division which will remain with the Board of Equalization under the provisions of the new law.

We believe that if the law is amended to eliminate the necessity for audits, the budget of the Board of Equalization could be reduced to represent the cost of the auditing involved while if it is not eliminated the auditors doing the work should be transferred to the new department.

The cost of this auditing is included in the $178,565 previously mentioned.

2. Integrated Services Now Performed by the Board of Equalization

As previously indicated there are two groups of services now performed by the Board of Equalization for ABC which are not readily separable as follows:

Field services performed in district liquor control offices:

By Sales Tax Division-----	$90,577
By Bureau of Tax Assessment-----	87,988

Total -----	$178,565
Estimated overhead and housekeeping services--	250,000

Total -----	$428,565

The first two amounts consist entirely of salaries and represent the equivalent of at least 34 units of personnel. Most of the $87,988 by the Bureau of Tax Assessment consists of auditing off-sale general licensees while the $90,577 includes some such auditing as well as a substantial amount of the time of sales tax clerical personnel in small branch offices which do not have a full-time Alcoholic Beverage Control clerical employee. There are about 35 such offices.

It will not be possible to realize any overall savings with respect to these clerical personnel unless some of the small Board of Equalization branch offices are eliminated entirely, since those positions are justified on an attendance or "post assignment" basis without regard to workload.

The amount of $250,000 is a very rough estimate of the total overhead of the Board of Equalization which is attributable to ABC based on a formula comparable to that used for prorating such charges to special fund operations within the agency. A part of this represents costs which can be transferred to the budget of the new agency such as rents for specific quarters occupied exclusively by Alcoholic Beverage Control personnel, and personnel in certain units which are large enough that a satisfactory segregation can be made, such as the following:

Unit	Personnel
Accounting -----	31.5
Personnel -----	7
Mailing -----	22
Supply -----	8
Cashier -----	33
Addressograph -----	16
Tabulating -----	32

A part, on the other hand, represents costs which are properly attributable to ABC but which cannot be transferred, such as a share of rent for space in the smaller offices which are of minimum size in any event, a pro rata of the salaries of board members, the executive secretary, the departmental personnel officer and the assistant to secretary (budget officer) since these officials must remain in the Board of Equalization either because of legal requirements or because the major portion of their time is devoted to tax matters.

The problem involves a careful analysis of all such activities in the Board of Equalization in order to be sure that all separable functions are clearly identified and transferred with a corresponding reduction in the budget of the Board of Equalization.

Included in the division of general administration are four positions in the class deputy to member with total annual salaries budgeted at $32,306 for 1954-55. It is our understanding that these positions have been used almost exclusively for alcoholic beverage control administration in the past.

While these particular positions cannot be transferred since they are the deputies exempt from civil service to which each of the four board members is entitled under Section 4, (a), (6) of Art. XXIV of the Constitution we believe that an equivalent amount of money could very well be transferred since each board member now has two deputies, one exempt and one civil service, and one would appear to be sufficient without the alcoholic beverage control function.

3. Undercover Cars

While the problem of undercover cars is not directly involved in the changeover it would appear appropriate at this time to re-examine the entire policy and procedures of the State with respect to the use of state vehicles with undercover plates, since of the 337 such vehicles on April 7, 1953 the Board of Equalization had 127, more than any other agency, and most of these were assigned to alcoholic beverage control personnel.

4. Relationship to Local Enforcement Officers

Activities of the alcoholic beverage control division appear to fall into two general classes:

(1) Licensing, which is an exclusive state function and involves finger printing of applicants, processing applications, inspection of premises, collection of fees, and the like, and

(2) Enforcement, an activity which under Section 25619 of the Business and Professions Code is shared with local peace officers.

Section 25619 reads as follows:

"It is hereby made the duty of every peace officer and every district attorney in this State to enforce the provisions of this act, and to inform against and diligently prosecute persons whom they have reasonable cause to believe offenders against the provisions hereof. Every such officer refusing or neglecting to do so is guilty of a misdemeanor."

It would appear appropriate, in connection with the budget of the new agency, to re-examine this whole question of the proper relationship between state and local enforcement programs.

5. Organization

At present there are 412 authorized positions which are budgeted separately for alcoholic beverage control as such, as indicated on pages 425-6 of the printed budget. These were distributed on July 1, 1954, as follows:

Headquarters	-----	54
District offices	-----	358
		<hr/>
		412

The details of these positions by location and civil service class are shown in the attached exhibits.

Except for a small special investigation unit of five people, operating directly out of headquarters, all enforcement work is decentralized under 14 separate district liquor control administrators, each in charge of a more or less autonomous district in the State. These districts, which have the same boundaries as the districts into which the board has divided the State for purpose of tax administration, are all subdivisions of the four equalization districts into which the State was subdivided in 1923, when the Board of Equalization had a total staff of six, and total annual expenditures of $37,000.

In a state with the area and population of California some degree of decentralization and as a consequence some sort of a regional organization is probably necessary, and answers to these two problems would appear to be among the most important policy questions, at least from the budgetary standpoint, which the new agency will be required to make.

At present, as indicated in Exhibit 2, enforcement personnel are distributed among 55 branch offices throughout the State and are resident in four localities in which there is no branch office; Monterey, Hollister, Watsonville, and Weaverville.

The usefulness of personnel for enforcement purposes, who are permanent residents of small communities, would appear to be greatly reduced by reason of the fact that they become well known in the community.

On the other hand there is something to be said in favor of resident officers at certain key locations for liaison purposes with local peace officers.

One possible type of organization would be to divide the State into three regions, with headquarters at Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Sacramento with the bulk of the enforcement staff concentrated at these points and used largely on a flying squad basis. A four- or five-region breakdown, with perhaps Fresno and San Diego added, would be a modification of this plan.

Another question is the extent of the facilities needed locally throughout the State for processing license transfers.

At present, in addition to the 55 branch offices maintained by the ABC division of the Board of Equalization, applications are taken at five additional branch sales tax offices at which no liquor control officer is permanently assigned. Whether it is necessary to provide for this type of service at 60 locations in California is an important policy question, since it is not provided for any other type of business or professional activity licensed under state law.

In any event, if it is deemed necessary to provide for widely decentralized services of this character it would appear desirable to divorce them entirely from their connection with the Board of Equalization facilities as soon as possible, and in lieu of an extensive field office organization for the Department of ABC for this purpose consideration might be given to using the existing facilities of a law enforcement agency such as the Highway Patrol or one of the licensing agencies in the Department of Professional and Vocational Standards, on a part time basis.

Another matter of importance from the organizational standpoint is the use to be made of the four exempt positions to which the new director will be entitled, since the men filling these positions will probably be the key men in the new department, the success or failure of which will be governed to a considerable extent on the men selected and how they are used. Some, or all of them could be used as regional directors if the emphasis is to be placed on regional operations or they could be used as division chiefs or program specialists in headquarters if a functional type of organization is favored. Regardless of how used all should probably outrank existing civil service personnel.

How most effectively to use the existing top level technical and administrative civil service personnel will present problems of some magnitude. The 22 positions involved, with the maximum annual salaries of each are as follows:

No.	Class	Maximum annual salary
1	State liquor administrator-----	$12,600
1	Tax counsel-----	10,860
1	Associate state liquor administrator-----	9,852
1	District liquor control administrator IV (L.A.)-----	9,384
4	Hearing officers-----	8,940
2	District liquor control administrator III (S.F. & Oak.)-----	8,520
5	District liquor control administrator II-----	8,112
6	District liquor control administrator I-----	7,728
1	Deputy district liquor control administrator-----	6,672

The basic civil service law involved with respect to any reassignment of these positions is contained in Section 19256 of the Government Code, which reads as follows:

19256. Whenever a state agency succeeds to and is vested with the powers, duties and functions of another state agency, the civil service standing of each of the officers and employees taken over and re-employed by the agency shall be observed under such reclassifications as may be made by the board for the purpose of preserving such standing. A state agency is not required to retain in the public service any unnecessary officers or employees.

PART II

PROCEDURES FOR LICENSING OF OPERATORS

Prepared by the Legislative Auditor, December 3, 1954

The attached partial report is a continuation of the report presented to the Budget Committee on September 10, 1954, by the Legislative Auditor. The first part covered recommended revisions to forms, procedures, and organization of the department relating to vehicle registration. Part II presents the results of the study relating to the processing of driver's licenses in the various field offices throughout the State as well as headquarters operations in Sacramento.

Reasons for Study

At present there are over 6,000,000 driver's licenses outstanding and the department issues almost 200,000 driver's licenses per month. This volume includes new applications, renewals, duplicate applications, chauffeurs' licenses, et cetera. The department has a mechanical method for preparing registration documents of vehicles registered in the State and it was felt that a similar method might be used to prepare driver's license renewals. This, if possible, would have the effect of decreasing the number of people operating motor vehicles with expired licenses and would increase the revenue received from driver's license fees, as it would remind drivers that their licenses were expiring and renewal would be completed prior to the expiration date. It would economize on personnel costs and forms costs.

Phases of the Study

This report is a partial report embracing the findings and recommendations for processing driver's licenses. It consists of a review of the present procedures for licensing drivers in California and the subsequent processing of the applications.

DRIVER'S LICENSE PROCEDURES

Processing Driver's License Applications by Local Offices

The area of activities covered by this portion of the report on driver's license procedures starts with the receipt of a new or renewal application in the local office through the issuance of the completed driver's license headquarters in Sacramento. The procedures covered were reviewed from the standpoint of the Driver's License Manual as well as the actual practice by the operating personnel.

The processing of driver's license applications is mainly an operation completed by headquarters personnel at Sacramento, thus the activities observed were primarily at Sacramento. However, the receipt of all applications takes place in the various local offices throughout the State. When visits were made to the local offices mentioned in Part I of our report, we observed the registration processing and in addition the procedures and practices followed in processing driver's licenses. After the first portion of the report was submitted, additional visits were made to the Los Angeles area which included the offices in downtown Los Angeles, Long Beach, Hollywood, Compton, and Santa Ana to observe both the registration and driver's license processing. Again the practices were found to be uniform with few exceptions and the related manual was followed very closely.

Time did not permit a thorough study of the conversion costs and the additional annual recurring costs of processing driver's license applications mechanically. Also, all of the possible savings in manpower, operating expense and equipment and the increased efficiency throughout the entire function have not been determined at this date. Therefore, the following recommendations are contingent on a study of these factors and a finding that it is in the interest of the State on a cost basis to effect the changes in procedure herein proposed.

Summary of Recommendations

1. Renewal applications for operator's licenses should be prepared mechanically by the tabulating section in the form of a potential driver's license and mailed to the licensee prior to the expiration date of the existing license.
2. Address changes, suspensions, revocations, et cetera, should be processed mechanically prior to preparation of the potential license.
3. Statistical reports should be prepared by mechanical means rather than built up daily through manual postings.
4. All dextigraphing of operator's licenses should be discontinued.
5. Stuffing of potential driver's licenses for mailing should be done mechanically on stuffer machines.
6. At a later date when operator's license processing is functioning smoothly, a similar procedure should be established for processing renewal chauffeur's licenses.
7. Consideration should be given to establishing a differential in fees for an original driver's license and the renewal of a license, with a higher fee for the original license.

We believe that a license which has expired without being renewed should be considered an application for an original driver's license with respect to fees. Such a policy would provide an incentive to renew licenses on or before the expiration date.

These recommendations are discussed in detail in the following text.

Possible Savings

It is not possible to make a direct savings estimate at this time. However, we believe the procedure described in the following pages will result in savings of a relatively large amount of money through the following means:

1. At present all applications for driver's licenses, whether a new or a renewal application, are completely typewritten from the DL 44 (preliminary application form). This form would no longer be necessary for processing renewals but used only on original applications.

Each application has approximately 200 typewriter strokes, including spaces in the address and description portions of the application. In a four-year renewal period, approximately 6,000,000 applicants would not have to fill out DL 44's (thus a form savings) and the related number of applications would not have to be typewritten. This amounts to over one billion typewriter strokes and the placing of each license in two typewriters before being completed, as the expiration date and new license number are typewritten at headquarters on a typewriter with large size type. All of this typing and the second handling would be eliminated if the potential licenses were prepared mechanically on tabulating equipment. This would free the cashier-typist-clerks in the local offices for cashiering duties only and a single clerk could handle the work of an entire office and in addition help on the registration functions if additional time was available. These savings would far outweigh the additional time of the cashier necessary to validate the potential licenses as the fee was paid.

2. The original form cost would be reduced for renewals, as the receipt, instruction permit, and the interim license would no longer be necessary. The licensee would receive an actual valid license instead of an interim license and it would show the payment of the fees through the validation stamp; no instruction permit is ever issued for a renewal application, so it can be eliminated. Two copies not included at the present time would be added, the soundex file copy and the actual operator's license. Thus a savings on the form would be achieved through having one less piece of paper for each application. In cases where an applicant did not pass his required tests for a renewal license, a single sheet interim license could be prepared and issued and the potential license held in the field office.

3. All dextragraphing of driver's license applications would be eliminated under the proposed procedure by preparing the actual operator's license and the soundex file copy mechanically. This is one recommendation to which a monetary savings can be applied as $32,630 was the proposed budgeted amount for the Fiscal Year 1954-55 for photographic supplies alone. The major portion of this money was used for preparing two photos of each operator's license, one for the licensee and one for the soundex file. A small portion of the money was used for supplies to photostat other departmental work. The salaries for the personnel who operated the photographic equipment would amount to approximately $20,000 annually, most of which would be applied to the processing of operator's licenses.

4. All checking of renewals by the verification section against the suspension and revocation file would be eliminated as this check would be completed mechanically prior to the issuance of the potential operator's license.

5. A reduction of time spent by the dispatchers section and the elimination of checking by the scanners section would result on all renewals prior to their being routed to tabulating section for punching state account cards. All this checking would be completed mechanically through the address change and suspension file of tabulating cards prior to the issuance of potential driver's licenses. Additional time would be saved by having the statistical reports prepared mechanically by the tabulating section instead of manually in these sections.

Included in this report are a series of flow charts describing the present processing and in addition a proposed procedure for processing potential operator's licenses for renewals. At the present time, the procedure is basically the same whether the application is new or a renewal, and is described in Flow Chart AA.

The proposed procedure for preparing potential operator's licenses for renewals is described in the Flow Charts A through F. Each chart covers a specific portion of the process as follows:

Chart A—Establishing a punched card file from the operator's license number file.

Chart B—Establishing address change and suspension/revocation card files.

Chart C—Establishing punched card file for new applications.

Chart D—Preparation of potential operator's licenses.

Chart E—Processing of renewed potential operator's licenses.

Sample card forms to be used in the mechanical process and a proposed potential license are as follows:

Exhibit A—Description card. This card has all information punched describing the applicant and the necessary control fields.

Exhibit B—Address card. This card has name, address, and city punched in addition to the necessary control fields.

Exhibit C—Operator's license which will be validated when fees are paid and necessary examinations passed; then returned to the applicant as a driver's license. This is the original copy of a four-part form; therefore, it appears larger than the present form. However, it is perforated for tearing, so the actual license is the present wallet size.

Exhibit D—Operator's license file copy (duplicate).

Exhibit E—Soundex file copy (triplicate).

Exhibit F—Accounting copy (quadruplicate).

These exhibits are included for the sole purpose of illustrating the possibility of preparing the potential licenses mechanically. It is not intended that these forms be considered as the final product, as it is realized that further changes might be necessary when the proposal is reviewed by the department personnel in order to meet their needs.

[The charts referred to in this report have not been printed in the Journals. These are available, however, in the office of the Legislative Auditor]

LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

SENATE INTERIM COMMITTEE ON GOVERNMENTAL ORGANIZATION
SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, January 13, 1955

Hon. Harold J. Powers, President and Members of the Senate

GENTLEMEN: The Senate Interim Committee on Governmental Organization has prepared an Analysis of Proposals for Reorganization of California Water Resource Agencies. This analysis is transmitted herewith as a partial report pursuant to the provisions of Senate Resolution 131 of the 1953 Regular Session.

Many organizations and citizen groups are sincerely interested in improving the organization structure of the State for water resource administration. This committee was requested to analyze the various proposals for a Department of Water Resources from the standpoint of governmental organization. This analysis has been prepared in response to these requests.

Respectfully submitted,

HUGH P. DONNELLY, Chairman
LUTHER E. GIBSON, Vice Chairman

Letter of transmittal ordered printed in the Journal, and report ordered printed in the Appendix to the Journal.

Motion to Print Report

Senator Donnelly moved that 1,000 additional copies of the Analysis of Proposals for Reorganization of California Water Resource Agencies submitted by the Senate Interim Committee on Governmental Organization be printed for distribution.

Motion carried.

ADJOURNMENT

At 11.35 a.m., on motion of Senator Cobey, the President declared the Senate adjourned until 2 p.m., Monday, January 17, 1955.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, DEPARTMENT OF NATURAL RESOURCES
DIVISION OF BEACHES AND PARKS
SACRAMENTO 14, January 13, 1955

Mr. J. A. Beek, Secretary
State Senate, State Capitol
Sacramento, California

DEAR MR. BEEK: In sending you the enclosed copy of the Five-year Program submitted to the Legislature and the Governor by the California State Park Commission, I should like to summarize its main purposes as follows:

Purposes of the Five-year Program

1. To provide, over a five-year period, maintenance and operation of
  - (a) Existing beaches, parks and historical monuments—136;
  - (b) New areas to be established in the next five years—31 (estimated).
2. To develop for public use, over a five-year period
  - (a) Existing beaches, parks and historical monuments, many of which, owing to a lack of funds, have not been developed;
  - (b) New areas to be established.
3. To acquire over a five-year period lands needed to round out the California State Park System
  - (a) Completion of the beach master plans as approved by counties and the State;
  - (b) Essential additions to existing parks, beaches and historical monuments;
  - (c) New areas to be acquired over the next five years—31 (estimated).
4. To provide a system of roadside rests along California's state highways, as many states have done, and to further the riding and hiking trails program.
5. To assist in the solution of the problem of park preservation on the Redwood Highway in the state parks by acquiring as a parkway the present route if and when the proposed bypass highway is constructed.

Sincerely,

JOSEPH R. KNOWLAND, Chairman
California State Park Commission

Senate Resolution No. 42

Relative to the creation of Committee on Stream Erosion

WHEREAS, The streams in this State are of major importance to the citizens of this State, both for recreational and economic reasons; and

WHEREAS, The erosion of the banks of these streams and the accumulation of silt therein, which affects the flow of such streams, continue to be major threats to streams in various parts of the State; and

WHEREAS, It may be necessary to accelerate or expand the state program to control this erosion and siltation; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, As follows:

1. The Committee on Stream Erosion is hereby created and authorized and directed to ascertain, study, and analyze all facts relating to the erosion of the banks of streams in this State and siltation therein in order that these streams may be maintained and developed for the use of the citizens of this State, including but not limited to the operation, effect, administration, enforcement, and needed revision of any and all laws in any way bearing upon or relating to the subject of this resolution, and to report thereon to the Senate, including in the reports its recommendations for appropriate legislation.

2. The committee shall consist of five Members of the Senate appointed by the Committee on Rules thereof. Vacancies occurring in the membership of the committee shall be filled by the appointing power.

3. The committee is authorized to act during this session of the Legislature, including any recess, and after final adjournment until the commencement of the 1957 Regular Session, with authority to file its final report not later than the fifteenth legislative day of that session.

4. The committee and its members shall have and exercise all of the rights, duties and powers conferred upon investigating committees and their members by the provisions of the Rules of the Senate as they are adopted and amended from time to time at this session, which provisions are incorporated herein and made applicable to this committee and its members.

5. The committee has the following additional powers and duties:

(a) To contract with such other agencies, public or private, as it deems necessary for the rendition and affording of such services, facilities, studies and reports to the committee as will best assist it to carry out the purposes for which it is created.

(b) To cooperate with and secure the cooperation of county, city, city and county, and other local law enforcement agencies in investigating any matter within the scope of this resolution and to direct the sheriff of any county to serve subpoenas, orders and other process issued by the committee.

(c) To report its findings and recommendations to the Legislature and to the people from time to time and at any time, not later than herein provided.

(d) To do any and all other things necessary or convenient to enable it fully and adequately to exercise its powers, perform its duties, and accomplish the objects and purposes of this resolution.

6. The sum of twenty thousand dollars ($20,000) or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby made available from the Contingent Fund of the Senate for the expenses of the committee and its members and for any charges, expenses, or claims it may incur under this resolution, to be paid from the said contingent fund and disbursed, after certification by the chairman of the committee, upon warrants drawn by the State Controller upon the State Treasurer.

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolution was offered:

By Senator Teale:

Senate Resolution No. 46

Relative to the creation of the Senate Interim Committee on Narcotic Addiction

WHEREAS, The people of this State have been appalled by the recent revelations of large-scale traffic in narcotics and the tragic consequences resulting therefrom; and

WHEREAS, In addition to taking such action as is necessary to curb such traffic, it is important that efforts be made to salvage the lives of those who have already become addicted to the use of narcotics or may hereafter become so addicted, so that such people will again be useful, desirable citizens and so that they will not themselves turn to trafficking in drugs in order to obtain the means to satisfy their craving, all to the benefit of the people of this State at large; and

WHEREAS, The problem of determining the best approach to treatment of such people is not one easy of solution and is deserving of serious study by the Senate; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, As follows:

1. The Senate Committee on Narcotics Addiction is hereby created and authorized and directed to ascertain, study and analyze all facts relating to the treatment of narcotics addiction and the prevention thereof, and all matters, dealing with, relating to, or otherwise pertaining to the care and custody of persons actually or potentially addicted to the use of narcotics, including but not limited to the operation, effect, administration, enforcement and needed revision of any and all laws in any way bearing upon or relating to the subject of this resolution, and to report thereon to the Senate, including in the reports its recommendations for appropriate legislation.

2. The committee shall consist of ---- Members of the Senate appointed by the Committee on Rules thereof. Vacancies occurring in the membership of the committee shall be filled by the appointing power.

3. The committee is authorized to act during this session of the Legislature, including any recess, and after final adjournment until the commencement of the 1957 Regular Session, with authority to file its final report not later than the last legislative day of that session.

4. The committee and its members shall have and exercise all of the rights, duties and powers conferred upon investigating committees and their members by the provisions of the Joint Rules of the Senate as they are adopted and amended from time to time at this session, which provisions are incorporated herein and made applicable to this committee and its members.

5. The committee has the following additional powers and duties:

(a) To select a chairman and a vice chairman from its membership.

(b) To contract with such other agencies, public or private, as it deems necessary for the rendition and affording of such services, facilities, studies and reports to the committee as will best assist it to carry out the purposes for which it is created.

(c) To cooperate with and secure the cooperation of county, city, city and county, and other local law enforcement agencies in investigating any matter within the scope of this resolution and to direct the sheriff of any county to serve subpoenas, orders and other process issued by the committee.

(d) To report its findings and recommendations to the Legislature and to the people from time to time and at any time, not later than herein provided.

(e) To do any and all other things necessary or convenient to enable it fully and adequately to exercise its powers, perform its duties, and accomplish the objects and purposes of this resolution.

6. The sum of five thousand dollars ($5,000) or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby made available from the Contingent Fund of the Senate for the expenses of the committee and its members and for any charges, expenses or claims it may incur under this resolution, to be paid from the said contingent fund and disbursed, after certification by the chairman of the committee, upon warrants drawn by the State Controller upon the State Treasurer.

Resolution read, and referred to Committee on Rules.

SENATE, CALIFORNIA LEGISLATURE, January 18, 1955

To the Honorable Harold J. Powers

President of the Senate

Sacramento 14, California

DEAR MR. PRESIDENT: Submitted herewith is the report of the Committee on Rules of its investigation of the election contest of the Honorable Robert I. McCarthy.

Respectfully,

WARD, Chairman

Report of the Committee on Rules on the Election Contest

Donald J. Bruce, Contestant

vs.

Robert I. McCarthy, also known as

Robert Ignatius McCarthy, Contester

The Committee on Rules, consisting of Clarence C. Ward, President pro Tempore of the Senate and Chairman, Hugh M. Burns, Arthur H. Breed, Charles Brown, and Paul L. Byrne, to which was referred the contest of Donald J. Bruce of the election of Robert I. McCarthy to the office of Senator from the Fourteenth Senatorial District of the State of California, met pursuant to previous notice on January 17, 1955, with a full committee present. Mr. Donald J. Bruce, contestant, was present and was represented by Mr. George B. Curtis, as counsel. Mr. Robert I. McCarthy was present and was represented by Alex L. Arguello, as counsel. The committee proceeded to a hearing upon said contest pursuant to the Rules relative to contests as to the qualification, election, and returns of Members of the Senate (Senate Resolution No. 24, Senate Journal, January 10, 1955, p. 132) and received evidence both oral and documentary. Following the receipt of such evidence, the matter was submitted for decision by the committee.

The sole ground of contest presented by Donald J. Bruce, the contestant, was that Robert I. McCarthy had not been a citizen and inhabitant of the Fourteenth Senatorial District of the State of California for more than one year immediately preceding November 2, 1954, as required by Article IV, Section 4, of the Constitution of the State of California.

Your committee after giving careful consideration to the evidence, both documentary and oral, introduced in the matter before it, respectfully reports the following findings:

1. That Robert I. McCarthy received the highest number of votes cast for the office of Senator from the Fourteenth Senatorial District at the general election held November 2, 1954, and that the Honorable Frank M. Jordan, Secretary of State of California, issued to Robert I. McCarthy, a Certificate of Election, certifying that Robert I. McCarthy had been elected to the office of Senator for the Fourteenth Senatorial District.

2. That Robert I. McCarthy was a bona fide citizen and inhabitant of the State of California at all times during the three years immediately preceding November 2, 1954.

3. That Robert I. McCarthy was a bona fide citizen and inhabitant of the Fourteenth Senatorial District of the State of California for more than one year immediately preceding November 2, 1954, within the meaning of Article IV, Section 4 of the Constitution of the State of California.

In view of the foregoing, your committee is of the opinion that Robert I. McCarthy is qualified for the office of Senator of the Fourteenth Senatorial District and the contest should be dismissed.

Wherefore your committee respectfully submits this report.

January 18, 1955

CLARENCE C. WARD, Chairman
HUGH M. BURNS
ARTHUR H. BREED, JR.
CHARLES BROWN
PAUL L. BYRNE

Motion to Adopt Report of Rules Committee

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolution was offered:

By Senator Montgomery:

Senate Resolution No. 47

Relative to the passing of Laura Dickinson Prentice

WHEREAS, On June 11, 1954, the Senate lost one of the most faithful and competent members of its clerical staff in the death of Laura Dickinson Prentice, for 10 years head of the Engrossing and Enrolling Department of the Senate; and

WHEREAS, Laura Dickinson Prentice was a native of the State of Maine, daughter of John Wesley Dickinson, a sea captain who served many years in the fleet of windjammers which earned respect for the Stars and Stripes in the glorious days of sail, his daughter Laura accompanying him on many of his cruises around the Horn and to the Orient from the time she was a child until his retirement from the sea; and

WHEREAS, Laura Dickinson Prentice was a resident of Hanford, Kings County, where she raised her family and was active in civic and church work; and

WHEREAS, Laura Dickinson Prentice was a graduate of Kents Hill College in Maine, was a musician of note and served from 1918 to 1922 as an investigator for the State Board of Medical Examiners, and served the Senate in its Mailing

Department from 1929 to 1933, transferring to the Engrossing and Enrolling Department in 1935 where she served until her death; and

WHEREAS, The office of Engrossing and Enrolling Clerk is one which requires diligence, painstaking attention to detail and absolute reliability, all of which attributes were possessed in Laura Dickinson Prentice in a marked degree; and

WHEREAS, During her long tenure of office, Laura Dickinson Prentice so faithfully discharged the responsibilities entrusted to her that she earned for herself a most enviable reputation as a person of unusual competence and pride in her function in the legislative process; and

WHEREAS, In addition to and beyond the attributes of Laura Dickinson Prentice hereinabove referred to, she was known to her fellow workers as a person of generosity, patriotism and kindly affection; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate mourns the passing of this member of its staff who served so faithfully over many years and desires by this resolution to pay tribute to the excellent service she rendered, and to convey its sympathy to the members of her family; and be it further

Resolved, That when the Senate shall adjourn from its labors of this, the eighteenth day of January, 1955, it shall do so in honor of the memory of Laura Dickinson Prentice, and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate be and he is hereby directed to have prepared suitably engrossed copies of this resolution and forward the same to Mrs. Ernest Davies, daughter; L. M. Blakeley, son; and Vincent Dickinson, brother of the late Laura Dickinson Prentice.

Resolution read, and, on motion by Senator Montgomery, unanimously adopted.

LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

SENATE INTERIM COMMITTEE ON EDUCATION AND REHABILITATION OF PHYSICALLY HANDICAPPED CHILDREN AND ADULTS

January 18, 1955

Honorable Harold J. Powers

President of the Senate

State Capitol, Sacramento, California

MR. PRESIDENT: Pursuant to Senate Resolution No. 134, adopted June, 1953, the Senate Interim Committee on the Education and Rehabilitation of Handicapped Children and Adults herewith submits its report.

Due to the limitation of the funds made available, the committee has limited its study to specific problems within the scope of the resolution. As indicated in this report, many of the problems presented to the committee require further study, and many related problems were excluded from the committee's agenda.

The committee wishes to express its appreciation to the Department of Education and Department of Mental Hygiene and members of their staff for their cooperation.

Respectfully submitted,

JAMES J. McBRIDE, Chairman
JAMES E. CUNNINGHAM, Vice Chairman
STEPHEN P. TEALE

Letter of transmittal ordered printed in the Journal, and report ordered printed in the Appendix to the Journal.

Motion to Print Report

Senator McBride moved that 2,500 copies of the report submitted by the Senate Interim Committee on the Education and Rehabilitation of Handicapped Children and Adults be printed for distribution.

Motion carried.

CONSIDERATION OF SENATE RESOLUTION NO. 20, AS AMENDED

Senate Resolution No. 20

Relative to a cost analysis of plans for highway construction

WHEREAS, The construction or reconstruction of certain portions of State Highway Routes 1 and 56 in Humboldt and Mendocino Counties is contemplated; and

WHEREAS, Facts with respect to the estimated cost of the several projects contemplated are necessary in order that the appropriate state agencies may make the decisions required; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, That the Department of Public Works is hereby requested to submit to the Senate the estimated cost per mile for each of the following projects:

(a) Route 56 between Leggett Valley and a point near Hale's Grove and a point near Thorn and thence to Ferndale and Ferndale.

(b) Rerouting of Route 1 (U. S. 101) around state parks in Humboldt County.

(c) Retaining the existing route of Route 1 (U. S. 101) and straightening said highway and enlarging it to four lanes outside and between state park boundaries, and construction of sidings or turn outs and parking areas within state park boundaries; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Department of Public Works is requested to submit a report containing estimated mileage of each of said routes and the estimated cost per mile for construction of each of said routes, and said report to be submitted no later than December 31, 1955; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate be directed to transmit a copy of this resolution to Mr. Frank B. Durkee, Director of Public Works.

Resolution read, and, on motion by Senator Way, unanimously adopted.

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolution was offered:

By Senator Murdy:

Senate Resolution No. 48

Relative to the construction of state office buildings in local areas of the State

WHEREAS, Studies have shown that the construction of state office buildings in the major metropolitan areas of this State will permit the centralized grouping of state services in such communities so that such services are available at greater convenience to the public than when such services are scattered throughout such areas, and that such construction would provide an actual saving to the State over the cost of renting comparable office space for such services; and

WHEREAS, The need for suitable state office facilities exists in many other cities of the State, such as San Jose, Stockton, Santa Barbara, Bakersfield, Chico, Eureka, Long Beach, Modesto, Monterey, Pasadena, Redding, San Bernardino, San Luis Obispo, Santa Ana, Santa Rosa, Vallejo, and Ventura; and

WHEREAS, There are other rapidly growing communities where the need for the centralized grouping of state services may effect a real savings in state funds as well as provide a better public service to the community; and

WHEREAS, No comparable study has been made of whether similar advantages and savings could be realized by constructing suitable state buildings for state services in these larger cities of the State, other than the five major metropolitan areas; and

WHEREAS, It is of particular importance that it be determined by appropriate study whether the erection of state buildings in such areas can be justified from the standpoint of economy of investment, and in improving the efficiency of state services to the public; and

WHEREAS, It is imperative that such study be made at the earliest possible time in order that the Legislature may formulate its policies to adequately provide for the needs of the State; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, That the Director of Finance is directed to cause an immediate study to be undertaken of all phases of a program for the construction of state office buildings in such larger cities and communities including a recommended priority schedule for any such construction that is undertaken, and to report back to the Legislature on the results of such study not later than the 15th day of March, 1955; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate be and he is hereby directed to transmit a copy of this resolution to the Director of Finance.

Resolution read, and referred to Committee on Rules.

Chief Assistant Secretary Cleve V. Taylor at the Desk

COMMONWEALTH OF PUERTO RICO, LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY
CAPITOL, SAN JUAN, PUERTO RICO, January 15, 1955

*Honorable President of the Senate
Sacramento, California*

SIR: Pursuant to the provisions of the Concurrent Resolution approved by the Legislative Assembly of Commonwealth of Puerto Rico on January 14, 1955, condemning the aggression against democracy in Costa Rica, we have the honor of attaching a certified copy of the said resolution.

Respectfully yours,

ERNESTO RAMOS ANTONINI
Speaker, House of Representatives
SAMUEL R. QUIÑONES
President of the Senate

Incl.

COMMONWEALTH OF PUERTO RICO, LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY
CAPITOL, SAN JUAN, PUERTO RICO

We, Néstor Rigual Camacho and Julio C. Torres, Secretary of the House of Representatives and the Senate of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, respectively, certify:

That in sessions held by the House of Representatives and the Senate of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico the fourteenth of January, 1955, the following concurrent resolution was approved:

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

To condemn the aggression which is being inflicted to Democracy in Costa Rica, and for other purposes.

WHEREAS, Democracy is being attacked in one of its most prominent bastions in America, the Republic of Costa Rica;

WHEREAS, The people of Costa Rica being an exemplary expression of democratic reality, the aggression which is being perpetrated against it there must of necessity put on the alert all Americans who profess the conviction that it is on the democratic reality that the foundations of the freedom and the security of the peoples of the New World are settled;

WHEREAS, The people of Puerto Rico firmly believe in the great virtue of Democracy as well as in friendship and peace among peoples;

WHEREAS, The Costa Rican people and the Puerto Rican people are fully identified by their common belief in the principles of Democracy and by their mutual earnest desire that those principles be not impaired, so that they may contribute towards guaranteeing the subsistence and integrity of Democracy in America;

WHEREAS, Any attempt at destroying by violence a government established by the free will of the governed constitutes a menace which makes it imperative, for the preservation of Democracy in America, to mobilize, in a militant moral force, the conscience of the free peoples of the New World;

WHEREAS, We Puerto Ricans firmly believe that any aggression against the democratic institutions in this hemisphere constitutes a serious danger to the integrity of these institutions in America.

Be it resolved by the Legislative Assembly of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico:

1. To condemn, as it does hereby condemn, the aggression which is being inflicted to Democracy in Costa Rica;

2. To express the respect and admiration of the Puerto Rican people for the men who in Costa Rica uphold, with a high spirit and a profound devotion, the integrity of the democratic principles against the aggression of those who pretend to destroy by force of arms a government established by the strength of the popular will;

3. To ratify before the democratic peoples of the world its expression of solidarity with the people of Costa Rica, exhorting them to convey that same expression of solidarity, with their faith placed in the divine justice of Almighty God;

4. To send a copy of this resolution to the Congress of the United States, the Parliaments of all the Republics of Latin America, the Legislative Assemblies of all the States of the United States, the United Nations Organization, the Organization of American States and to the free press of America.

In order to certify this, we give this certificate signed by us in our offices at the Capitol, in San Juan, Puerto Rico, this fifteenth day of January, 1955.

(SEAL)

NESTOR RIGUAL CAMACHO
Secretary, House of Representatives
JULIO C. TORRES
Secretary, Senate of Puerto Rico

JOINT COMMITTEE ON WATER PROBLEMS
January 20, 1955

*To the President of the Senate,
The Speaker of the Assembly, and to Members of the Senate and Assembly*

The Joint Committee on Water Problems, created pursuant to Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 13, Resolutions Chapter 239, Statutes of 1953, submits herewith its Seventh Partial Report. It is a summary of the testimony and evidence presented to your committee in a series of meetings held in various sections of the State to obtain the points of view, suggestions, and recommendations of all interested parties in connection with proposals to create a State Department of Water Resources, on Water Problems of the Counties of Origin, and on Underground Water Problems. The report also covers certain other water matters affecting the public interest and welfare, including those of the Imperial and Palo Verde Valleys.

Your committee is of the opinion that the three major subjects of inquiry are of paramount concern to the people of the State of California.

Respectfully submitted,
 HAROLD K. LEVERING
 FRANCIS C. LINDSAY
 CARLEY V. PORTER
 J. HOWARD WILLIAMS

BEN HULSE

LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

SENATE COMMITTEE ON STATE AND LOCAL TAXATION
 SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA, January 20, 1955

*President of the Senate
 California Legislature
 Sacramento, California*

DEAR SIR: Pursuant to Senate Resolution No. 132, read and adopted June 10, 1953, by the Senate of California at the 1953 Regular Session of the Legislature, the Senate Interim Committee on State and Local Taxation herewith submits Part I of its report.

This part of the report is entitled "Local Government Finance in California, 1940-1953." It brings up to date an earlier report on local government finance submitted by this committee to the Legislature in 1947, and traces the developments which have occurred therein since the end of World War II. It further examines the effects which the State's continuous economic growth has had upon the finances of its local units of government.

The committee wishes to thank the many officials of state and local government, the County Supervisors' Association of California, and the League of California Cities for their splendid cooperation in the preparation of this report.

Respectfully submitted,

BEN HULSE, Chairman
 CLARENCE C. WARD, Vice Chairman
 HARRY L. PARKMAN
 HUGH M. BURNS
 JAMES J. McBRIDE

Letter of transmittal ordered printed in the Journal, and report ordered printed in the Appendix to the Journal.

LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

SENATE COMMITTEE ON STATE AND LOCAL TAXATION
SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA, January 20, 1955

President of the Senate
California Legislature
Sacramento, California

DEAR SIR: Pursuant to Senate Resolution No. 132, read and adopted June 10, 1953, by the Senate of California at the 1953 Regular Session of the Legislature, the Senate Interim Committee on State and Local Taxation herewith submits Part II of its report. This part of the report is entitled "The Taxation of Personal Property in California."

This report was undertaken in response to requests from various business and agricultural groups and associations that the committee inquire into the taxation of personal property in California and develop remedies for the inequities which allegedly characterize the present local ad valorem tax.

The committee wishes to thank the many representatives of business, agricultural and financial groups who appeared before it for the purpose of presenting their views with respect to this local tax problem. The cooperation of state and local government officials is also gratefully acknowledged.

Respectfully submitted,

BEN HULSE, Chairman
CLARENCE C. WARD, Vice Chairman
HARRY L. PARKMAN
HUGH M. BURNS
JAMES J. McBRIDE

LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

SENATE COMMITTEE ON STATE AND LOCAL TAXATION
SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA, January 20, 1955

President of the Senate
California Legislature
Sacramento, California

DEAR SIR: Pursuant to Senate Resolution No. 132 of the 1953 Regular Session of the Legislature, read and adopted by the Senate of the State of California on June 10, 1953, the Senate Interim Committee on State and Local Taxation herewith submits Part III of its report. This is the fourth and final division of previous reports entitled "A Legal History of Property Taxation in California."

The division is concerned with the levy and collection of the general county property tax. The first two divisions relating, respectively, to property subject to taxation and property exempt therefrom, were submitted to the Senate and published in 1951. The third division, which dealt with the assessment and equalization of property, was submitted to the Senate and published in 1953.

This report was prepared for the committee by the Legislative Counsel. The committee gratefully acknowledges the assistance and cooperation of the Legislative Counsel and wishes to express its appreciation to Mr. J. Gould and Mr. J. D. Strauss for their participation in the preparation of this report.

Respectfully submitted,

BEN HULSE, Chairman
CLARENCE C. WARD, Vice Chairman

RECESS

At 2.30 p.m., on motion of Senator Ward, the Senate recessed for the purpose of allowing Senator Coombs to introduce a distinguished guest.

The President appointed Senator Coombs as a committee to escort Mr. Robinson Koilpillai, Headmaster of a Seventh Day Adventist Secondary School in South India, to the rostrum.

Senator Coombs introduced Mr. Koilpillai, who then addressed the Senate briefly, extolling the virtues of foreign student education in times of world strife. He stated that Pacific Union College, of which he is a student, has 80 students of foreign citizenship and that his country of India has sent 1,008 students to schools in the United States this year.

REASSEMBLED

At 2.34 p.m., the Senate reconvened.

Hon. Harold J. Powers, President of the Senate, presiding.

Secretary J. A. Beek at the desk.

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolution was offered:

By Senators Thompson, Montgomery, Erhart, Dorsey, and John F. McCarthy:

Senate Resolution No. 51

Relating to overtime work done by the staff of the Division of Buildings and Grounds

WHEREAS, It has come to the attention of the Members of the Senate, that although additional help is added to the staff of janitors and elevator operators during the time the Legislature is in session, there are other employees of the Division of Buildings and Grounds under the State Capitol buildings custodian who are required to work overtime without extra compensation, and the policy of giving the time off in lieu of overtime pay is not satisfactory because many of them have more days off to their credit now than they can possibly use; and

WHEREAS, It is the belief of the Members of the Senate that employees required to put in extra time would be willing to serve for a few extra hours each day during the legislative rush period if they were compensated for their extra services; and

WHEREAS, In connection with the garage attendants, it has been noted that on Saturdays, Sundays, and evenings they operate with a smaller crew, sometimes one man, and he is obliged to attend to the parking of many cars during the unusual rush periods when there are night committee meetings and night sessions and Sunday sessions of the Legislature, and if compensated for additional time, they, too, would be willing to work extra hours during unusual rush periods; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California. That, during the time that the Legislature is in session, the Department of Finance make the necessary arrangements for payment for the occasional overtime work as is required of the employees in the State Capitol in connection with their duties as members of the staff under the supervision of the building custodian and those working as garage attendants under the supervision of the department of motor vehicle operations.

Resolution read, and referred to Committee on Rules.

Bill read third time.

RECOMMENDATION OF THE GOVERNOR

In accordance with Article IV, Section 34, of the Constitution, the Governor presented the following communication recommending the consideration of Senate Bill No. 1.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE
SACRAMENTO, January 6, 1955

*To the Honorable Members of the Senate
Sacramento, California*

GENTLEMEN:

Senate Bill No. 1, "An act relating to the holding of winter Olympic games in California, creating the California Olympic Commission, describing the powers and duties thereof, and making an appropriation therefor," in my opinion constitutes an emergency bill within the meaning of that term as used in Section 34 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California, the consideration of which should not await the final enactment of the Budget Bill.

This bill establishes the California Olympic Commission, describes its duties, and appropriates the sum of one million dollars from the State Park Fund which has recently been augmented by the release of impounded tideland royalty funds to carry out the purposes of the act. If the commission is to be successful in its efforts to bring Olympic games to California in 1960, it is essential that the commission be authorized as early as possible.

I therefore recommend consideration of Senate Bill No. 1 as an emergency measure.

Respectfully submitted,

GOODWIN J. KNIGHT, Governor

Bill read third time.

The roll was called, and the bill passed by the following vote:

AYES—Senators Alshire, Berry, Breed, Burns, Busch, Byrne, Cobey, Collier, Coombs, Cunningham, Desmond, Dilworth, Donnelly, Dorsey, Erhart, Gibson, Grunsky, Hulse, Ed. C. Johnson, Harold T. Johnson, Kraft, John F. McCarthy, Robert I. McCarthy, Miller, Montgomery, Murdy, Parkman, Richards, Short, Sutton, Teale, Thompson, Ward, Way, Dale C. Williams, and J. Howard Williams—36.
 NOES—None.

Bill ordered transmitted to the Assembly.

RESOLUTIONS

By Senator Murdy:

Senate Resolution No. 48

Relative to the construction of state office buildings in local areas of the State

WHEREAS, Studies have shown that the construction of state office buildings in the major metropolitan areas of this State will permit the centralized grouping of state services in such communities so that such services are available at greater convenience to the public than when such services are scattered throughout such areas, and that such construction would provide an actual saving to the State over the cost of renting comparable office space for such services; and

WHEREAS, The need for suitable state office facilities exists in many other cities of the State, such as San Jose, Stockton, Santa Barbara, Bakersfield, Chico, Eureka, Long Beach, Modesto, Monterey, Pasadena, Redding, San Bernardino, San Luis Obispo, Santa Ana, Santa Rosa, Vallejo, and Ventura; and

WHEREAS, There are other rapidly growing communities where the need for the centralized grouping of state services may effect a real savings in state funds as well as provide a better public service to the community; and

WHEREAS, No comparable study has been made of whether similar advantages and savings could be realized by constructing suitable state buildings for state services in these larger cities of the State, other than the five major metropolitan areas; and

WHEREAS, It is of particular importance that it be determined by appropriate study whether the erection of state buildings in such areas can be justified from the standpoint of economy or investment, and in improving the efficiency of state services to the public; and

WHEREAS, It is imperative that such study be made at the earliest possible time in order that the Legislature may formulate its policies to adequately provide for the needs of the State; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California. That the Director of Finance is directed to cause an immediate study to be undertaken of all phases of a program for the construction of state office buildings in such larger cities and communities including a recommended priority schedule for any such construction that is undertaken, and to report back to the Legislature on the results of such study not later than the 15th day of March, 1955; and be it further

Resolved. That the Secretary of the Senate be and he is hereby directed to transmit a copy of this resolution to the Director of Finance.

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolution was offered:

By Senator Kraft:

Senate Resolution No. 53 Relative to Taxation

WHEREAS, The great and continuing increase in population and industry within the County of San Diego in the last decade has created an urgent and immediate need for an equivalent expansion of local governmental operations; and

WHEREAS, These increases in large part are the direct result of the rapid enlargement of national defense activities in the County of San Diego not only in military installations but also in housing and defense manufacturing, all of which have required the full range of services provided by all local governmental agencies; and

WHEREAS, The enlargement of such national defense activities has resulted in the exemption and removal from local tax rolls of large amounts of property; and

WHEREAS, The property tax is the primary support of all local governmental agencies in California, and the removal of property acquired by national defense activities has not only resulted in the failure of these activities to bear their fair share of the cost of local government but has increased the burden of such government on the owners of taxable property by more than 22 percent; and

WHEREAS, The cost of providing local governmental services to national defense activities is properly a burden which should be borne by the entire country rather than by the property taxpayers in the immediate vicinity in which these activities are operated; now therefore be it.

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, That the Congress of the United States of America be respectfully requested to approve such measures as may be introduced during its current session to:

(a) Validate the payments of local taxes heretofore paid under protest by local defense manufacturers or inventories of materials held for use on defense contracts, and to clarify the obligations of defense manufacturers with respect to local taxation;

(b) Define and more clearly specify the existing statutory requirement that local taxes shall be paid or payments in lieu of local taxes shall be made by operators of Wherry Housing Projects;

(c) Establish a program for making of payments in lieu of taxes by the United States of America to state and/or local governmental agencies adversely affected by federal acquisition, ownership or use of defense production facilities and other property and installations required for national as distinguished from local purposes; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate be hereby directed to notify the Senators and Congressmen from California of this action.

Resolution read, and referred to Committee on Revenue and Taxation.

MESSAGES FROM THE ASSEMBLY

ASSEMBLY CHAMBER, SACRAMENTO, January 20, 1955

MR. PRESIDENT: I am directed to inform your honorable body that the Assembly amended, and on this day passed, as amended:

Senate Bill No. 27

And respectfully requests your honorable body to concur in said amendments.

ARTHUR A. OHNIMUS, Chief Clerk of the Assembly
By PAUL F. CRUM, Assistant Clerk

Request for Unanimous Consent

Senator Collier asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent to take up Senate Bill No. 27, at this time, for consideration of Assembly amendments.

Consideration of Assembly Amendments

Senate Bill No. 27—An act to amend Sections 7351 and 8651 of the Revenue and Taxation Code, Sections 370, 372, 372.1 (as added by Chapter 1200, Statutes of 1953) and 381 of the Vehicle Code, to provide tax levies for the financial support of public highways, and providing that this act shall take effect immediately.

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolutions were offered:

By Senator Way:

Senate Resolution No. 56

Relative to fish and game

WHEREAS, The State of California has not added to the staff of wildlife protection officers for many years; and

WHEREAS, The number of hunters and fishermen have doubled and redoubled during this period; and

WHEREAS, The work of patrol has increased to a point where it is impossible to perform the patrol work alone; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, That the Legislature of the State of California take prompt action to double the size of the patrol; and be it further

Resolved, That action be taken to bring the Wildlife Protection Branch under a single state-wide head, separate from the jurisdiction of regional offices; and be it further

Resolved, That the Legislature of the State of California make a complete investigation of the Department of Fish and Game.

Resolution read, and referred to Committee on Rules.

By Senator Dale C. Williams:

Senate Resolution No. 57

Relative to the creation of the Senate Interim Committee on Tax-exempt Organizations

WHEREAS, The privilege of exemption from taxation is a high one, costly to the State and not to be lightly bestowed; and

WHEREAS, Such privilege should be enjoyed only by such organizations as merit it, by reason of truly charitable or other plainly beneficial activities; and

WHEREAS, It is important to the State that it be known whether there are some organizations enjoying the privilege which, by reason of the nature of their activities, are undeserving thereof, and, on the other hand, whether there are organizations which do not enjoy the privilege but are deserving thereof; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, As follows:

1. The Senate Interim Committee on Tax-exempt Organizations is hereby created and authorized and directed to ascertain, study and analyze all facts relating to organizations devoted to, or purporting to be devoted to, charitable, educational or other socially beneficial purposes and which are, or are eligible to be, exempt from taxation, or which seek or desire such privilege, including but not limited to the operation, effect, administration, enforcement and needed revision of any and all laws in any way bearing upon or relating to the subject of this resolution, and to report thereon to the Senate, including in the reports its recommendations for appropriate legislation.

2. The committee shall consist of five members of the Senate appointed by the Committee on Rules thereof. Vacancies occurring in the membership of the committee shall be filled by the appointing power.

3. The committee is authorized to act during this session of the Legislature, including any recess, and after final adjournment until the commencement of the 1957 Regular Session, with authority to file its final report not later than the thirtieth legislative day of that session.

4. The committee and its members shall have and exercise all of the rights, duties and powers conferred upon investigating committees and their members by the provisions of the Joint Rules of the Senate and Assembly and of the Standing Rules of the Senate as they are adopted and amended from time to time at this session, which provisions are incorporated herein and made applicable to this committee and its members.

5. The committee has the following additional powers and duties:

(a) To select a chairman and a vice chairman from its membership.

(b) To contract with such other agencies, public or private, as it deems necessary for the rendition and affording of such services, facilities, studies and reports to the committee as will best assist it to carry out the purposes for which it is created.

(c) To cooperate with and secure the cooperation of county, city, city and county, and other local law enforcement agencies in investigating any matter within the scope of this resolution and to direct the sheriff of any county to serve subpoenas, orders and other process issued by the committee.

(d) To report its findings and recommendations to the Legislature and to the people from time to time and at any time, not later than herein provided.

(e) To do any and all other things necessary or convenient to enable it fully and adequately to exercise its powers, perform its duties, and accomplish the objects and purposes of this resolution.

6. The sum of fifteen thousand dollars ($15,000) or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby made available from the Contingent Fund of the Senate for the expenses of the committee and its members and for any charges, expenses or claims it may incur under this resolution, to be paid from the said contingent fund and disbursed, after certification by the chairman of the committee, upon warrants drawn by the State Controller upon the State Treasurer.

Resolution read, and referred to Committee on Rules.

Request for Unanimous Consent

Senator Kraft asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent to take up Senate Resolution No. 53, at this time, for consideration.

CONSIDERATION OF SENATE RESOLUTION NO. 53*Senate Resolution No. 53*Relative to taxation

WHEREAS, The great and continuing increase in population and industry within the County of San Diego in the last decade has created an urgent and immediate need for an equivalent expansion of local governmental operations; and

WHEREAS, These increases in large part are the direct result of the rapid enlargement of national defense activities in the County of San Diego not only in military installations but also in housing and defense manufacturing, all of which have required the full range of services provided by all local governmental agencies; and

WHEREAS, The enlargement of such national defense activities has resulted in the exemption and removal from local tax rolls of large amounts of property; and

WHEREAS, The property tax is the primary support of all local governmental agencies in California, and the removal of property acquired by national defense activities has not only resulted in the failure of these activities to bear their fair share of the cost of local government but has increased the burden of such government on the owners of taxable property by more than 22 percent; and

WHEREAS, The cost of providing local governmental services to national defense activities is properly a burden which should be borne by the entire Country rather than by the property taxpayers in the immediate vicinity in which these activities are operated; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, That the Congress of the United States of America be respectfully requested to approve such measures as may be introduced during its current session to:

(a) Validate the payments of local taxes heretofore paid under protest by local defense manufacturers or inventories of materials held for use on defense contracts, and to clarify the obligations of defense manufacturers with respect to local taxation;

(b) Define and more clearly specify the existing statutory requirement that local taxes shall be paid or payments in lieu of local taxes shall be made by operators of Wherry Housing Projects;

(c) Establish a program for making of payments in lieu of taxes by the United States of America to state and or local governmental agencies adversely affected by federal acquisition, ownership or use of defense production facilities and other property and installations required for national as distinguished from local purposes; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate be hereby directed to notify the Senators and Congressmen from California of this action.

Resolution read, and, on a motion by Senator Kraft, adopted.

LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

SENATE INTERIM COMMITTEE ON PUBLIC LANDS
SENATE CHAMBER, SACRAMENTO, January 21, 1955

Hon. Harold J. Powers, President and Members of the Senate

GENTLEMEN: Pursuant to Senate Resolution No. 166 of the 1953 Regular Session, your Interim Committee on Public Lands tenders herewith its report on California State Land Ownership and Land Use, this report representing one of a series on public land ownership in the State of California.

It is the first time in the history of the State that an inventory of state lands has been contained in one document and, in the instance of lands in some categories, the first time there has been any knowledge of state land ownership and use. This effort also represents the first time any attempt has been made to make a general analysis of state land management, and it is believed that the report proves the necessity for further appraisal of state land ownership, particularly in conjunction with an appraisal of federal land ownership. Your committee has found that almost 50 percent of the land area of California is now in the jurisdiction of some level of government, and a concerted effort should be made by the Senate of the State of California to determine the effect of such ownership on its citizens, both from a standpoint of land use and the effect of such ownership on the economy of the State.

Recommendations which in some measure will temporarily alleviate the burden of hardship areas have been included in the report pending conclusive findings to support general remedial legislation.

Respectfully submitted,

EDWIN J. REGAN, Chairman
JAMES E. CUNNINGHAM
HAROLD T. JOHNSON, Vice Chairman

Letter of transmittal ordered printed in the Journal, and report ordered printed in the Appendix to the Journal.

Motion to Print Report

Senator Regan moved that 5,000 copies of the report submitted by the Interim Committee on Public Lands be printed for distribution.

Motion carried.

LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

SENATE INTERIM COMMITTEE ON STATE-WIDE SYSTEM BEACHES, PARKS AND ROADSIDE STOPS
SACRAMENTO, January 21, 1955

*Hon. Harold J. Powers, President
and Members of the Senate*

GENTLEMEN: Your Senate Interim Committee on a State-wide System of Beaches and Parks, created by Senate Resolution 118 (Senate Journal 1953, page 4127), presents herewith a partial report of its activities, and the result of its study to date, together with its recommendations.

Respectfully submitted by,

LOUIS G. SUTTON, Chairman
A. A. ERHART, Vice chairman
STEPHEN P. TEALE

Letter of transmittal ordered printed in the Journal, and report ordered printed in the Appendix to the Journal.

Motion to Print Report

Senator Sutton moved that 3,000 additional copies of the partial report submitted by the Senate Interim Committee on a State-wide System of Beaches and Parks, be printed for distribution.

Motion carried.

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolution was offered:

By Senators Burns, Parkman, and Thompson:

Senate Resolution No. 58

Relative to congratulating Milton P. Duffy upon the completion of 40 years of service to the State

WHEREAS, On the ninth day of July, 1954, Milton P. Duffy, Chief of the State Department of Public Health's Bureau of Food and Drug Inspections, completed 40 years of faithful service to the State of California; and

WHEREAS, An internationally known expert in the field of food packing and processing, in 1947 and 1948 he served as a consultant to General Douglas MacArthur at Allied Headquarters in Japan; and

WHEREAS, He early gained great fame for his work in developing a cannery inspection service for the purpose of controlling botulism in commercial products. Since 1921, the year a separate bureau of food and drug inspections was set up in the State Department of Public Health with Mr. Duffy as its chief, there has not been a single outbreak of botulism in commercially canned food products; and

WHEREAS, A registered chemical engineer and a registered pharmacist in California, Mr. Duffy has been a member of the Food Standards Committee of the Federal Food and Drug Administration and the president of the Association of Food and Drug Officials of the United States. He is a charter member of the Institute of Food Technologists, a member of the National Association of Sanitarians and a fellow of the American Public Health Association; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, That the Members of the State of California do hereby congratulate and thank Mr. Milton P. Duffy upon the completion of 40 years of outstanding service to the people of the State of California; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate be hereby directed to prepare and transmit a suitable copy of this resolution to Mr. Milton P. Duffy.

Resolution read, and, on motion of Senator Burns, unanimously adopted.

Senator Byrne Presiding

At 2:40 p.m., Senator Paul Byrne of the Sixth Senatorial District, presiding.

Bill read third time.

Recommendation of the Governor

In accordance with Article IV, Section 34, of the Constitution, the Governor presented the following communication recommending the consideration of Assembly Bill No. 2943.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

SACRAMENTO, January 21, 1955

*To the Honorable Members of the Senate
Sacramento, California*

GENTLEMEN: Assembly Bill No. 2943, which is an act to appropriate $2,600 to the Rescue Union School District in El Dorado County for the emergency repair of a temporary school building, the amount to be repaid out of the bond issue for a new school building, in my opinion constitutes an emergency bill within the meaning of that term as used in Section 34 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California, the consideration of which should not await the final enactment of the Budget Bill.

I therefore recommend consideration of Assembly Bill 2943 as an emergency measure.

Respectfully submitted,

GOODWIN J. KNIGHT, Governor

The President ruled the point of order well taken.

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolutions were offered:

By Senators McCarthy, Way, Dorsey, Cunningham, and Busch:

Senate Resolution No. 62

Relative to the Special Senate Committee on Election Contests

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California,

1. Notwithstanding the provisions of Senate Resolution No. 24 relative to contests as to the qualifications, elections, and returns of members of the Senate, and notwithstanding the provisions of Senate Resolution No. 34 creating the Special Senate Committee on Election Contests, and assigning to that committee the contest filed by Vern W. Hoffman relative to the election of Alan Short, the powers of the Special Senate Committee on Election Contests are limited as hereinafter set forth.

2. The Special Senate Committee on Election Contests shall have no authority to conduct a recount in said election contest except as authorized by subsequent resolution of the Senate.

3. The Special Senate Committee on Election Contests shall complete the investigation commenced January 20, 1955, on the question whether a recount should be had in said election contest.

4. Upon the completion of said investigation, the Special Senate Committee on Election Contests shall report to the Senate its recommendations as to whether a recount should be had in said contest.

By Senators John F. McCarthy and Cunningham:

Senate Resolution No. 63

Relative to congratulating Joseph F. Nolan

WHEREAS, Members of the Senate have learned that since the adjournment of the 1954 Session of the Legislature, on September 6, 1954, Joseph F. Nolan, Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate, celebrated his seventy-fifth birthday; and

WHEREAS, Joseph F. Nolan is distinguished among legislative officers by his uninterrupted tenure of office, his dignified demeanor, and the capacity and dispatch with which he has performed the duties of his office; and

WHEREAS, During the 32 years Joseph F. Nolan has served the Senate in his official capacity, the dignity of this legislative body has been greatly enhanced and great respect engendered for this body on the part of the public in general; and

WHEREAS, Through his loyal service, his personal rectitude and friendly demeanor toward the members and officers of this body he has endeared himself to them in a high degree; and

WHEREAS, His "Quiet, please" has commanded respectful attention on the part of the members and has struck terror to the hearts of disorderly persons within the confines of the Senate Chamber for lo, these many years; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate congratulates its highly esteemed Sergeant-at-Arms, Joseph F. Nolan, upon the attainment of three-quarters of a century of conscientious living and desires by this resolution to express its hope that he may have many more happy years and numerous returns of his birthday; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate be, and he is hereby directed, to present a suitably prepared copy of this resolution to our distinguished Sergeant-at-Arms, Joseph F. Nolan.

Resolution read, and, on motion of Senator John F. McCarthy, unanimously adopted.

By Senator Brown:

Senate Resolution No. 64

Relative to expenses of the Secretary of the Senate

WHEREAS, In the performance of his official duties the Secretary of the Senate finds it necessary to be absent from his place of residence; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate in addition to his monthly salary shall be allowed a per diem of $14 for hotel expenses and cost of meals while absent from his place of residence, as certified monthly by the Committee on Rules or its authorized representative; and that the authorization previously made for such allowance on and after January 3, 1955, is hereby confirmed.
